Members present included: — Chairman George Olsen, Mrs. Dorothy Tugnette, Bruce Bishop, William Ironsides, Lyall Langabeer, Morley Lovelace, Don McKinney, J. Ritchie, F. Smith, William Townson, G. H. Trill, William VanTassell and J. Ward.

A delegation from the Belleville Kiwanis Club was heard seeking permission to conduct a traffic safety program in the public schools. The delegation consisted of club president Charles Lusk and Willy Mills, chairman of the boys' and girls' work committee. Board permission was granted to conduct the program.

Approval was also given to a request from the Belleville Association of Canadian Travellers to place safety booklets in the schools for distribution to pupils through school principals. Spokesman for the Association was Vernon Rump.

The resignation of kindergarten teacher Mrs. Helen Smith, Queen Victoria School, was accepted, while leave of absence was granted to Miss Annette Gaylord for one year's study at Queen's University. Miss Ruth Harris, now attending Queen's notified the board that she would be returning to the teaching staff in Belleville public schools following completion of her term.

The offer of the County of Hastings T. B. Association to donate 300 booklets on health to the schools was accepted.

Board member G. H. Trill will be the board representative on the city planning committee.

Mrs. N. Dunham Will Attend B.P.W. Rally

TWEED — Mrs. Norena Dunham was appointed to be the delegate to the regional conference in Port Hope on May 3-4, at the meeting on Wednesday night of last week of the Tweed Business and Professional Women's Club.

A nominating committee composed of Mrs. Irene Bateman, Mrs. Edna Barnett and Mrs. Jennie Garten will bring in the new slate of officers at the April meeting. Material was distributed to the members at this time to make blankets and diapers to be sent to the Unitarian Fund for distribution to those in need under United Nations supervision. Mrs. Veronica Cadwell, the president, was in the chair for the evening's business meeting. Miss Ann Rayburn donated a mixmaster to the club, on which tickets will be sold to raise funds for current expenses.

A very enjoyable and successful dance was held on Friday, March 14th, in the Hungerford Township Hall, in the village, sponsored by the Tweed Rebekah Lodge, and under the convenership of Mrs. Hilda Sexsmith and her committee of Marj. Blakely, Grace Walter and Mildred Frizzell. Rombough's orchestra of Foxboro was in attendance and coffee, sandwiches, and soft drinks were sold during the evening. Many visitors from out-of-town added to the good crowd and fun. They were from Shannonville, Madoc and Peterborough.

Wedding

WISE — MEIKLEJOHN

MARMORA — A quiet ceremony took place on Saturday afternoon, March 15th, in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, when Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Meiklejohn, and Elwin Lloyd Wise, son of Mrs. Wise of Cloyne, and the late William Wise were united in holy matrimony by the Reverend F. E. Madden.

The bride was lovely in a pale blue ballerina length dress of crystalette with white leaf head band and she wore a corsage of red roses and white carnations. Her only attendant was Mrs. Jas. Walker who wore pale pink crystalette in ballerina length with head band of white feathers and corsage of blue and white carnations. Mr. James Walker was groomsman.

A reception was held at the Northbrook hotel, where the bride's table was appointed in damask and centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

The young couple left for a trip to Wheeling, West Virginia, in the United States, the bride wearing a brown figured dress and brown coat with matching accessories.

On their return they will reside on Burstall St., Marmora, where the groom has completed a modern new home.

Hold Showers, Parties for Young Couple

TWEED — At the home of Mrs. Ena Wise of Cloyne, the friends and neighbors of her son Elwin, and his bride of March 15th., Mary Meiklejohn, of Marmora, gathered at the mother's home recently to wish the young couple bon voyage on the sea of matrimony. There were over 50 guests present, and the couple were the recipients of many lovely gifts, both in the line of linen and miscellaneous articles.

Miss Meiklejohn was also feted at a shower at the home of Mrs. James Walker of Marmora which was in the form of a miscellaneous shower with refreshments. A kitchen shower was tendered the bride-elect by Mrs. James Heath when the choir and Sunday School teachers of St. Andrew's Anglican Church in Marmora honored the March bride.

Incidentally, Mr. Wise is well-known in this district, and he has built a new home in Marmora where they will reside after the honeymoon, and where they also held a party for the groom-to-be and presented him with an attractive floor lamp.

Mrs. H. Mumby also played host to Miss Meiklejohn prior to her wedding. This was for the Springbrook friends of the bride-elect, where she also was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Nurses Hear Address on Surgical Care

"It seems appropriate that we deal with special problems arising in the nursing care of patients having abdominal surgery. The preparation of the patient mentally and physically for surgery is an important piece of team work in which the nurse plays a major role", said Dr. K. Douglas to graduate nurses of the district Tuesday evening in Ritchie Memorial Residence.

Dr. Douglas went on to explain the teamwork which was carried out by the doctor and nurse in the interest of good patient care. The nurse is responsible for the administration of pre-operative medication, preparation of the skin area, bowels and bladder and sometimes the passing of tubes into the stomach. He explained that the latter procedure was necessary for analysis of stomach juices, washing out the stomach and removing excessive contents, and sometimes post-operative feedings.

The new plastic tubes which are now being used are more comfortable for the patient and the passage of the tube is not unpleasant if performed with skill. The administration of fluids and chemicals intravenously is much better understood today, and has made possible the performance of successful surgery in persons who would have died in years gone by. The techniques and rationale were described and also the importance of accurate records of the intake and output of liquids was emphasized.

Some of the early signs of common complications were described and it is the nurse's duty to detect and notate these first signs and to take steps to prevent their onset.

Dr. Douglas appealed to the nurse to cultivate an atmosphere of cheerful confidence with the patient having surgery, avoiding both excessive confidence on the one hand, and the hushed silence, and grim seriousness on the other — neither of which are usually founded on fact, and both can be transmitted from the nurse to the patient like an infection. The successful nurse is the one who develops a broad and deep understanding of the range of personality types, and the pattern of social classes that characterize the society round about her; and who learns to play the sort of role that each of these expect of her when illness strikes them.

In conclusion Dr. Douglas quoted the words of a well known surgeon, Dr. C. D. Hagensen: "In my experience the best weapon against these fears of disease is truth. They must of course be told patiently and sympathetically. It has been my own practice to take as much time as is needed after I have completed my examination of the patient, to explain in simple terms the diagnostic problem, how we propose to solve it, and what are the possibilities in store. When these truths are presented sympathetically to patients it has been my experience that they almost always rise to the occasion and accept them with courage and dignity. Their fears are to some degree, overcome by facing them. To some extent no doubt, they transfer their burden to me."

Hospital Auxiliary Hears Talk on Opportunity Shop

Tuesday's meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary was a very special and gala one, celebrating the 10-year mark for the Opportunity Shop. It was well attended by a large group of faithful workers in that project, volunteers who have been busy over the years helping as well in the many other projects of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Gilbert Scott, president of the Auxiliary in 1948, gave a thumbnail history of the shop dating from the spring meeting 10 years ago when the need was recognized for a project with continuous revenue in order to carry on work for the benefit of the hospital and the patients. Enthusiasm surged forward from Mrs. A. Simpson's decription of a similar venture in Pembroke.

The problem of rent-free location, with heat and lighting provided, was solved by the co-operation of Mr. Harold Bateman, then city controller and the blessing of City Council in making space available in the market building. The discarded glass wall from the City treasurer's office, two discarded doors, a salvaged wash basin plus members' husbands donated carpentry skills, contributed to the successful opening day on Oct. 2nd, 1948, when the shop was swamped by buyers of merchandise contributed by members and merchants.

That was the year when the "new look" hit the fashion industry and the Opportunity Shop and its customers were the winners; $300 was cleared that first day and during the intervening years $16,000 has been netted for the hospital from this volunteer project. Two years later more space was required and through the co-operation of renters of stall space in the market building, more carpentry skills of husbands, painting and papering skills of wives, and assistance of city officials the shop was enlarged in two night's work with no business lost during the Christmas rush. It has continued to serve the public.

Originally, the administration of the shop was carried on by a series of committees in charge of the various aspects. In 1950 Mrs. S. Sillitoe became the first overall convener and she was followed by Mrs. L. Fonger, Mrs. W. Finkle and the present convener, Mrs. F. Beeby. A long list of volunteers has provided the daily sales personnel. Behind the scenes workers have included the pricing committee and the bookkeepers.

DISPLAY GOODS

Following the history a fashion show of Opportunity Shop merchandise was modelled. Mrs. M. Jones modelled a grey wool suit, hat fox fur and accessories totallying $20.15. Mrs. L. Irvine's complete outfit including fur jacket, silk suit, spring hat, jewelry and handbag represented $12.25. Mrs. W. C. Gault's ensemble of black and white wool dress, velvet hat, pearl jewelry, shoes and handbag came to $1.75.

The members then came forward and donated articles of wearing apparel and jewelry at the first of the "Strip Teas" to be held this year, thereby providing additional merchandise for the special spring outfit table being featured this month and next. Tea was served in the hospital cafeteria where a birthday cake was cut by Mrs. Scott, assisted by ten 10-year workers in the shop. Music was provided by the hi-fi donated by the Auxiliary to the hospital.

Another highlight of the afternoon was an address by Mr. K. Box, administrator, who outlined the real need at the hospital for volunteers to patrol each floor during visiting hours to ensure the carrying out of regulations regarding no more than two visitors to a patient at a time. These regulations are for the benefit of the patient. A one hour tour of duty for five volunteers each during the afternoon and evening visiting hours seven days a week are required. Smocks or uniforms marked volunteer will be provided and those willing to donate an hour a week to fill this very real need at the hospital are urged to contact Mrs. John Buchan.

The functions of an Auxiliary cover two spheres, that of community relations and service to and in the hospital. The raising of funds for equipment and providing services has long been among the projects of the Belleville Hospital Auxiliary and this new requirement for volunteer service within the hospital will certainly be met with the usual enthusiasm of the Auxiliary members and friends of the hospital.

209 BINDERS

The sewing committee reported 209 surgical binders made during the past month and the covering of cushions for the newly decorated nurses' lounge. This committee plans to make the drapes for the new chapel.

The fame of the puppet group has spread to San Francisco from where a letter of inquiry has been received. Last year 260 puppets were made and 100 have already been given this year to children in pediatrics. These gifts will now be labelled "Donated by the Hospital Auxiliary, Belleville," through the unsolicited kindness of J. & J. Cash Ltd. United States factory's gift of a thousand labels.

This regular monthly meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary will go down in history as one of the gayest, liveliest and most satisfyingly constructive reports on volunteer work in the interests of the hospital.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

The other morning we happened to be listening to a radio commentary about the state of foreign affairs in the United States. The professor who was talking made quite a statement when he said that salesmanship for soap had attained great success but the salesmanship of democracy as the so-called western countries understand it has been a dismal failure. Then we watched and listened to a TV program which was made up as a panel. One gentleman panelist made quite a dogmatic statement, too, when he deplored the horrible word "workshop." On the one hand we have salesmanship of soap compared with salesmanship of the free world's motives, and on the other an inoffensive word deplored. T & T wonders if the quiet, practical, profound labors performed in some of the workshops of international gatherings are not one of the reasons that some hope remains for the salesmanship of freedom and peace to catch up with soap. We know of a group of women which gathered in New York last spring from Asia and the key to all their deliberations was "workshop." The women who sponsored that gathering are preparing and have been preparing for over a year, another "workshop" this spring. In a few weeks women from all over Africa and the Middle East will gather to labor in the vineyard of peace by meeting as equals in a workshop. And you can take it for granted that "workshop" is to be interpreted literally. These women labor seriously, sincerely and devotedly to find mediums of understanding to improve the salesmanship of respect for man to man the world over.

T & T picks this sample at random but there are many workshops and certainly the workshop has come to mean an advance guard in the struggle for peace. Women's organizations the world over are resorting more and more to the practical accomplishments obtained from workshops. We have attended some of these workshops and the work accomplished in quiet sessions away from the fanfare and hubbub of large groups is unbelievable. We are all for the workshop and trust salesmanship of democracy and man's respect for man catches up with the success of soap sales in a world that needs soap and clean thinking.

Going Shopping?

In the general food and produce picture, it seems that there are great quantities of everything piled up. Never have we seen so many 'features' and "specials" on a variety of products; merchandise is massed in a pile to attract attention. Be sure to check on feature prices; often these articles are offered at their regular prices as "features" and are not on sale at all.

It was a joy to see some feminine gardening accoutrement in a window — pastel sponge-rubber shaped knee pads that stay on the wearer and move with her (or it could be him). Along with bulbs, small hand cultivators and daintily enamelled flower pot sprinklers, there was a definite suggestion of ushering in spring.

Combining hockey and the quick laundry problem, we learn that the Whitby Dunlops went to Europe each equipped with a white terylene shirt which even an undomesticated hockey player can wash and wear without ironing.

With shopping centres becoming more and more plentiful and parking lots becoming larger and larger, citizens of our community may sometime lose the family car in one of these lots. Some of the shopping centres are coming to the rescue of confused patrons by painting each section of the area in a different color and posting this color on signs. Then all the customer has to do is to remember the color.

They tell us that the days of lumpy brown sugar are nearly over. Recently it has been packaged in airtight polyethylene bags. With a snug plastic clip at the top to keep moisture in and dry air out, the sugar should stay soft indefinitely. Both the two-pound and five-pound bags will be used; the bag is easily re-fastened each time the sugar is used.

Good Shopping!

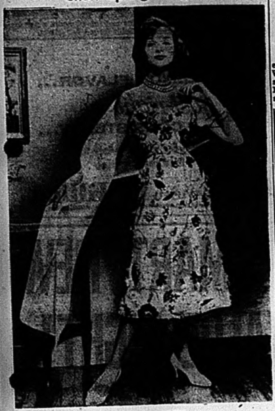
Short Spring Song



By ALICE ALDEN

When it comes to the short evening dress, it would be difficult to select anything more entrancing, more typical of the vernal season, than this model. Roxane chose imported French flowers—poppies, pansies, violets and lilies of the valley—for this Samuel Winston design. The flowers are appliqued all over the silk organdy dress to give it animation, color and dimension. The stole, attached under one arm, is also of silk organdy.

Chinese Contributions To Canadian Cookery

By Mary Moore

As you know, some of our readers were asking for the recipe for Wun Tuns which are basically stuffed dumplings when boiled Fried they are reminiscent of outsize potato chips.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Cheese Rice Souffles (see Tuesday) (if desired serve with Mushroom or Tomato Sauce); Candied Yams; Broccoli with Hollandaise or Mock Hollandaise Sauce; Shredded Green Salad with Italian French Dressing; Vanilla Ice Cream; Blueberry Muffins; Coffee.

WUN TUNS DOUGH:

Beat up five eggs lightly. Add a pinch of salt and sift in enough flour to make a soft dough. Roll very thin, thinner than pie crust. Dredge with flour to keep from sticking. Let it remain on the smooth table to dry for half an hour, then cut into 3-inch squares. When meat mixture (see below) is put into each square or piece, give it a twist on both ends, until it resembles a bow tie in shape. Brush with egg white to make dough stick together and to seal in meat mixture within the twist. Steam or boil or fry in deep fat. If boiled, when done the wun tuns will float.

MEAT MIXTURE:

Grind 1 pound fresh pork finely with 1 small onion. Mix in ½ to 1 teaspoon salt and generous shake of black pepper. The sauce for Wun Tuns is soup, usually homemade chicken. Make a rich chicken vegetable soup to pour over the stuffed cooked Wun Tuns, or you may use 1 of the excellent canned varieties.

When Wun Tuns are fried, they are usually served with a sauce which may be pineapple or apricot or plum.

PLUM SAUCE is popular: To 1 cup plum puree (obtained from forcing through sieve drained canned plums) add ½ cup each water and vinegar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ cup sugar (or a little more if desired) Simmer 5 or 10 minutes until of desired consistency. As each Wun Tun is eaten it is dipped into the sauce.

Two requests came from other readers: 1 for pork balls in Sweet Sour Sauce, and another for chicken balls in same. The following recipe for:

CHAN FAR YOOK YUN:

(Fried meat balls) may be used for pork or chicken. One pound of raw pork or chicken meat, ¼ pound water chestnuts, ½ cup crab meat (may be canned) 2 ounces (½ cup) mushrooms, ½ cup cornmeal, 1 egg, pepper, salt, sugar, and Chinese sauce (soy). Grind the pork or chicken, the mushrooms, and water chestnuts very fine and mix with the crab, seasoning with a little pepper, salt, and sugar. Roll into balls about 1 or 1½ inches in diameter. Roll balls in cornmeal then in beaten egg mixed with a little water. Fry in deep oil at 380 degs. Fahr. until golden brown. The Chinese use peanut oil. Drain and serve with Soy Sauce.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Sylvia M. — I have no privacy at all.

Mrs. L. M. — She is selfish, jealous and cranky.

Sylvia M. — I am a 15-year-old girl who is miserable at home because I have no privacy at all.

I have to share my room with my 12-year-old sister. I have finally trained her to stay out of my bureau and desk drawers, but she is constantly going through my books, hanging around when I have friends over and listening in on my telephone calls. She thinks that anything that isn't locked away in a drawer should be open for her inspection, so I can't even leave my nail polish on the dresser top without its being used up by her.

My mother calls me a crank and says Cecile can do no wrong. She's an angel with a halo, but everything I do is terrible.

Mrs. L. M. — I have always wanted the girls to be the best of friends and I have tried to train them to be willing to share. Cecile learned the lesson. She is completely free with her personal things. She would give Sylvia anything she owns, but Sylvia is exactly the opposite.

Not only does Sylvia lock and hide away all her things, but she has worked out tricks to catch her sister in missteps. She'll draw a light pencil line around a book or a bottle so that she can see if it has been misplaced.

It makes me miserable to see jealous and cranky traits at her Sylvia developing these selfish age. How can I teach her generosity?

The Council: It is somewhat unfair to label Sylvia's behavior as selfish and jealous. We doubt whether she is really ungenerous in the full sense of the word.

Sylvia is at the stage where she is beginning to have a strong sense of her own personality. She is trying to explore the boundaries of the girl, Sylvia, who is different from and separate from all the other girls. Her rapidly developing womanhood also seems terribly important to her and she naturally has a certain sense of secrecy about it.

These feelings of separation and secrecy must have some expression and her attitude toward personal possessions is a very natural form of expression.

Sylvia may seem cranky, but it is wrong to give her this label. She could very well take on the label for a real aspect of the personality she is striving to shape.

Cecile should be told that when she is a little older she may very well feel the way Sylvia does now. She will want her privacy respected and she should be taught to respect Sylvia's to the letter of the law. That goes for such apparent trifles as the nail polish. There is no reason why Cecile shouldn't have her own — and stick to it.

As the girls grow older, Mrs. L. M. will doubtless find that her teachings will bear fruit.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

ARE YOUR FRIENDS PROUD OF YOUR MANNERS?

Any good friend of yours, girl or boy, woman or man, wants to be proud of your manners. If your manners are good, it's a compliment to their good taste in choosing you as a friend

QUESTIONS CONCERNING THE WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister is to be married soon, and we have no idea how to go about having a reception after the cermony. The wedding is to be at 11 o'clock in the morning. Should we serve sandwiches with the wedding cake and punch? We are going to have about 45 guests. Since our family does not have a large house, is it proper to hold the reception at the groom's home? We would appreciate your advice very much. — J. J.

My first advice is that your sister, the bride-to-be, should not for a moment consider having the wedding reception held at the groom's house. This is considered the worst possible taste (except under most unusual circumstances, such as, for example, when a bride-to-be from overseas, who may be a stranger in this country and whose parents are foreign residents). But since your sister's family has a house, even though not a large one, the reception should, if possible, be held there. (Or perhaps in the Social Rooms of the church where the ceremony is to be performed.)

Only two items need be served: (1) the wedding cake, and (2) punch or other cold drink for the toasts. If convenient, serve coffee too, very welcome at that morning hour. Sandwiches too, if you wish, but not necessary. Have a receiving-line of course: bride and groom, bride's parents, groom's parents, bride's attendants.

PLAIN WHITE LETTER-PAPER OFTEN USED IN MOURNING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle a discussion we are having: Nowadays isn't it considered just as "correct" to use plain white letter-paper, even when one is in deep mourning, as it is to use black-bordered letter-paper? — Anne S.

Yes.

Case-Finding Topic at County T.B. Assoc.

A special meeting of the executive council and management committee of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association was held recently with the president, Mr. A. N. Hallam, presiding. Members were in attendance from Marmora, Trenton, Bancroft and Belleville, and a special guest of the evening was Mr. W. Anderson, health education consultant of the Ontario Tuberculosis Association.

The regular business meeting was conducted by the president and reports of chairmen were given. Mr. George Whitman, Welfare Administrator, gave a report of new regulations pertaining to the payment of allowances for post-sanatorium care, which will help greatly in keeping such allowances on a uniform basis.

At the end of the general business, the meeting was turned over to Mr. Anderson, who spoke to the association on case-finding, which is an important phase of their work. He stressed the increasing importance of tuberculin testing and drew attention to ways in which it could be used in a case-finding program. Mr. Anderson also pointed out that Hastings County is fortunate in having a provincial chest clinic located in Belleville.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

The March meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute convened at the home of Mrs. L. Roluf, 178 Bridge Street East, with 33 members and three visitors present.

The president, Mrs. K. Vivian, opened the meeting and extended a hearty welcome to the members and visitors, and also thanked the hostess for the use of her home for the meeting.

Correspondence was read and some items were tabled until the April meeting.

Mrs. J. Parrott gave a report on the wedding the Institute catered to at the Kiwanis Centre.

Mrs. W. D. Robertson and Mrs. S. Fitzgerald had charge of the program, with Mrs. Robertson giving a paper on the motto, "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

Community singing of Irish songs followed with Mrs. J. Parrott at the piano: "Peggy O'Neil," "Rosie O'Grady," and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Mrs. Robertson gave a paper on "Citizenship" and Mrs. S. Fitzgerald gave one on "Education," which she said should begin at an early age before the child starts to school. A paper on "To Be Our Best, We Must Be What We Are," was well prepared by Mrs. Robertson.

More community singing followed, of "Wild Irish Rose" and "Bells of St. Mary's," which brought a fine program to a close.

Mrs. Vivian again took charge and thanked the lunch conveners. Refreshments followed with a social half hour which was enjoyed by all present.

The next meeting, April 8, will be the annual business meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Leeming.

Women's Activities

Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Irene Roluf, Victoria Avenue, Belleville, the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mark's Lutheran Church held its March meeting.

The Scripture was read by Mrs. Wodzack, St. Matthew 26: 35-45.

A short story entitled "Bread Is Not Enough," was read by Miss Pukancik. It told of a certain man, who, after seeing what seemed an endless amount of food being delivered to the banquet kitchen where a banquet for 5000 was being prepared realized fully the overwhelming magnitude of the miracle performed by Jesus when He fed the 5000 with seven loaves and two small fishes.

The devotional theme was "Prayer" and was based on the Lord's Prayer, as given in St. Matthew from the sermon on the mount. Prayer is not just asking for things from God, but a means of communing personally with Him. "We grow to become as those we live with, do we live enough with God today to expect a life with Him after death?

"The model prayer given to us by our Saviour contains everything that we ever have need to ask for. But the majority pray it from memory with no thought of its petitions."

A beautiful poem of prayer, "Breath of God," was read by Mrs. Wodzack.

In the Bible there are many kinds of prayer. Many of the Psalms are prayers of adoration. Psalm 51, verses 9-11, is a prayer of confession. A petitional prayer is asking something for some one else and the prayer of supplication is an urgent prayer.

The prayer of intercession, a prayer for some one else is best shown in St. John, 17. Jesus intercession for man. The prayer of thanksgiving is one to be prayed more often. One is so busy asking God for His gifts, one forgets to thank Him for those received.

"Our churches and missionaries when asking us for aid place the value of our prayers above that of our material gifts. Our prayers should not be confined to oral mealtime, bedtime and church prayer, but should continue as silent prayer throughout our working day."

Mrs. Wodzack closed devotions with prayer and a group hymn, "Lord teach us how to pray aright."

The president welcomed a new member, Mrs. Hilda Fuller, to the group and the 14 members present answered roll call with a Bible verse.

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted.

After a short business meeting the meeting was closed with an Easter hymn.

The remainder of the evening was spent socially over the coffee and refreshments which Mrs. Roluf served her guests.

Mother's Helper

THE collector's urge seems to strike every youngster, even though what is to be collected may vary considerably. One good suggestion is a Penny Board. Object is to find pennies in sequence of dates, and glue them chronologically to a large sheet of cardboard.

480 Debutantes Are Presented To Queen

LONDON Reuters — At production line speed, but graced with regal pomp and circumstance, 480 debutantes were presented Tuesday to Queen Elizabeth.

One by one-at the rate of nine girls a minute-each deb curtsied to Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The Queen wore a dress of pale blue corded silk, embroidered with rhinestones, and a small matching feathered hat. Philip donned the uniform of an admiral of the fleet.

They sat on crimson chairs in the state ballroom in Buckingham Palace, a performance they have to repeat today and Thursday for 1,000 more debs.

These will be the last formal presentations to the court of Elizabeth II. The presentations were started by Elizabeth I in the 16th century.

The Queen wil replace the palace presentations with garden parties where she can entertain more people.

As the girls paraded to the Queen, an orchestra played light music, including "Ain't She Sweet," and "Lovely to Look At".

West Hastings District W.I. Holds Executive Meeting in Belleville

STIRLING — The spring executive meeting of West Hastings district Women's Institute was held in the board room of Leslie's Shoe Store, Belleville, with a full attendance.

The new president, Mrs. Harry Coulter, Foxboro, R. R. 1, presided.

Mrs. Harold Phillips gave a report of the meeting held in March, 1957, and a financial picture of the district since that date. There are 187 members in the district, and the new levy adopted last year was not sufficient to carry on the work. Each branch is to be asked for an additional ten cents per member to defray current expenses. The cheques should also provide the exchange fee at the bank.

There are 15 life members in the seven branches and through a misunderstanding the dues for these have not been received. The branches concerned will have this matter brought to their attention.

The district directors were given explicit directions of the various duties for them to carry out in their local branch.

District business was outlined and a few new motions of business were discussed and the votes carried, and this will be attended to in the future.

The district annual will be held at Wallbridge in June and the program was planned for that day.

The delegates who attend the Guelph conference will represent their branches for roll call, and the other branches will be asked for something entirely different. This is a new innovation and should prove of interest. There will be the usual box lunch provided at noon at 50 cents. It is hoped more women will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend these two sessions.

The correspondence included letters from FWIO The new address of Miss Helen M. McKercher, director home economics service, extension branch and Mrs. Y. Gordon Maynard, secretary - treasurer, will be 20 Spadina Road, Toronto 4. All letters should be mailed to that address.

Each branch has received letters re "The Caylon Flood Fund." The request per member for A.C.W.W. and the F.W.I.C., also the message from Mrs. Haggerty re the F.W.I.O. project for Ontario of layettes and children's clothing for Arab babies and Korean refugees.

The Federated Women's Institute of Canada will soon have their plans complete for a new national headquarters in Ottawa. This was authorized last October at the first national convention held in that city.

The convenership of community activities and public relations is being dispensed with at all levels, hence no appointments will be made at the annual meetings.

It was stressed that all bills should be paid before closing the books, then the treasurer's report should show a clear picture of the finances up to March 31st.

Mrs. James Haggerty, president of F.W.I.O. will have her same address, Box 101, Napanee.

TWO DISTRICT PROJECTS

All the branches are asked to support the two district projects. The first will be a home economic service on "Cultural Activities," to be held at Marsh Hill United Church all day on Tuesday, April 15th. Any member or non-member is welcome to attend and the course is free. Bring your own box lunch and Pinegrove W.I. will provide the tea. This course points to the enrichment of everyday living through a finer appreciation of literature, music and art, nature and people.

Each branch is asked to appoint an interested member to attend the "Tweedsmuir Workshop" in the early fall. This will give a concise picture of how to compile a "Tweedsmuir History" with instructions on what old records are valuable. This workshop will probably be sponsored by Pinegrove W.I.

The roll showed attendance as follows: Pinegrove W.I., Mrs. Harry Coulter and Mrs. M. Bartindale; Chatterton W.I., Mrs. E. B. Finkle; Wallbridge W.I., Mrs. Harold Phillips and Mrs. L. Ketcheson; Uniondale, Mrs. Milton Grills and Mrs. George Burkitt; Stirling, Mrs. R. Williams; River Valley, Mrs. Percy MacMullen; Bay of Quinte, Mrs. John Reid.

The group spent over two hours dispensing with the large amount of business and hopes that now all is in readiness for promoting the educational program of the Institute, based on the motto: "For Home and Country."

As has been stressed so many times, there is a wealth of sound thinking and capable leadership among the rural women of Ontario. It is hoped that by working together in branch, district, F.W.I.O., F.W.I.C. and A.C.W.W. a sound progressive program can be established and those at the top believe that there is unlimited scope for achievement.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Gerber (MOTHER OF 5)

It's easy enough to fall into the belief that the more food you stuff into baby, the better off he'll be. But pressure only serves to fix unpleasantness and distaste for a food in baby's mind. A few tried 'n true tricks that help invite an appetite:

1. Let baby get really hungry, so he'll be eager for food.
2. If baby turns "thumbs down" on a new food—skip it for a few days until he's had a chance to forget it.
3. Vary baby's menus—by color and kinds of food.

• • •

Varied menus are easy with the tempting array of Gerber Strained Foods. 11 luscious fruits. 19 flavor-fresh vegetables and vegetable-meat combinations • 7 special meat dinners • 4 dreamy desserts • 3 delicate juices. All are prepared by specialists who test every single product in 28 different ways to insure absolute purity, natural flavor, appealing colors, uniform texture and the highest possible nutritive value.

• • •

Brush-up lesson. You can't start brushing baby's silken tresses too soon. Even the merest down warrants smoothing with a soft brush —a luxurious mop rates good, brisk licks. Brushing stimulates scalp circulation, may well encourage hair growth and certainly lusterizes little locks. P. S. If baby is very young, don't worry about the "soft spot." Soft baby-brush bristles won't hurt it.

• • •

Something special for somebody special! Gerber's New Meat Dinners. A savory, flavor-y "main dish" that's especially nourishing for baby because there's 3 times as much meat as the regular vegetable meat combinations. Extra meat blended with selected vegetables gives baby extra proteins and other essential nutrients. Strained and Junior versions of Beef, Beef Noodle, Chicken, Chicken Rice, Veal, Turkey, Liver and Bacon—all with vegetables. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

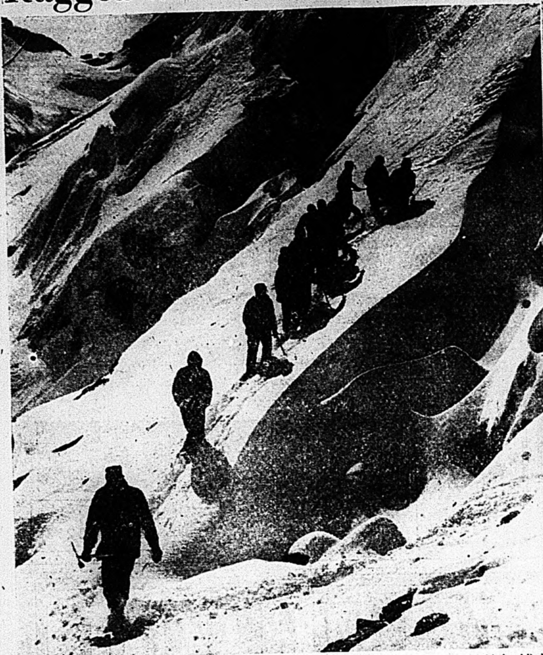
Canada's Mountain Search and Rescue School

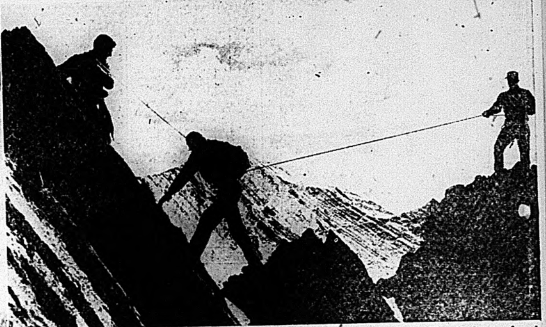
Rugged Workout in the Rockies



A column of Wardens and RCMP strike out for Mt. Victoria Glacier in the Lake Louise area of Banff National Park on the first leg of a rugged two weeks' course in the Mountain Search and Rescue School. This feature was instituted three years ago to make Canada's National Parks safer for mountain climbers and ski enthusiasts and to provide for quicker and more efficient rescue of those who become lost or trapped.

Two members of the class practice lowering an "injured" man down a sheer 200 foot cliff. The metal basket type stretcher is guided off the edge of the cliff by a rope fastened with pitons and belayed from above.

One of the grave hazards which stalks any mountain climbing expedition is the danger of falling into a crevasse. Above, two Park Wardens demonstrate the proper technique for helping a trapped climber reach the surface.



Canada's National Parks offer some of the best mountaineering country in the world regardless of whether the hiker is seeking a magnificent view or the most demanding of challenges. Park Wardens, who go to the rescue of the unsuccessful, must be thoroughly trained, as surefooted as goats, for when lives hang in the balance, there can be no margin for error.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Bruno Engler

The most rugged schools in Canada lie among the high peaks and mountain forests of Banff National Park. The men who attend them have to be as rugged. All are wardens from the seven national parks in the Rocky Mountain area—men chosen for mountain sense, keenness and stamina. To come out with a pass mark they have to be good.

The curriculum is threefold: mountain search and rescue, ski and winter rescue, and fire control.

Warden training schools are not new to the National Parks Service of the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources. It has been conducting them for years at different times and places. What is new is the enlarged scope of the program—the decision to base all the schools at Camp Cuthead in the Flint Park area of Banff National Park and to hold sessions three times a year.

The first Mountain Search and Rescue School of a regional character was held in Banff National Park in October 1955. The forty-two park wardens and four Royal Canadian Mounted Policemen who attended were representative of the group that met in February 1956 for two rugged weeks of winter rescue operations and again in late spring for an intensive refresher course in mountain fire patrol and tests of fire-fighting equipment.

The schools are organized by the Warden Service of Banff National Park under the direction of Chief Park Warden R. T. Hand and Assistant Chief Park Warden Bert Pittaway. The latter, who acts as co-ordinator and supervises training, is aided by Assistant Chief Park Warden, Walter Perren, a former Swiss mountain guide who brings to his adopted country a wealth of experience in advanced search and rescue work gained in the Alps. Co-operating with the Banff Warden Service are the chief and assistant chief park wardens of other mountain parks—Jasper, Yoho, Glacier, Mount Revelstoke, Waterton Lakes and Kooteny.

Flint Mountain and the Flint Park area were chosen as permanent training headquarters because the terrain poses almost every problem a warden is likely to meet at the hand of nature or of man. Mountains are sheer, rock ledges narrow; snow is heavy and ice formations can be treacherous; fertile country for study by the class in avalanche danger recognition. The lowland mountain slopes, tangled with thick forest growth and scarred by old fire patches, provide ideal settings for practising fire control, preparing mountain pack-trains and setting up the emergency radio and telephone service used in fire fighting.

Mountain weather, as vital a factor in search and rescue as it is in climbing and skiing, is unpredictable. By instinct as much as training, a park warden must know how to read his mountains day and night by map, compass, cloud and the "feel" of the weather.

His trained eye must recognize advance signs of avalanche danger and accurately appraise the strength of snow, ice or rock formations. If a snow cornice has built up beyond safety, he must know how to set a charge to blast it out, bringing down tons of snow to eliminate a climbing hazard. For winter search and rescue, he must be sure-footed on skis and snowshoes. In summer he may have to direct a team that is lowering a casualty down a rock face lashed in a mine rescue-basket. And in all situations he must be prepared to do his best alone.

Each school session closes with a written examination covering every aspect of field training and the types of equipment used. In the case of the Ski and Winter Rescue School, for example, the work to be reviewed includes instruction in cross-country skiing, ski patrolling, first aid (first aid is mandatory in park warden training), use of ski bindings, ski waxing, emergency ski-binding repairs, snow-shoeing, and handling rescue toboggans. Wardens also have to show that they can organize and lead a ski patrol.

Park regulations concerning safety are explicit. They require that any person or persons planning to climb a mountain or camp out overnight register at park headquarters or with a park warden before setting out. Date, route and proposed duration of stay must be specified. This applies whether travelling with a guide or without one. Most of those who vacation in the parks willingly comply.

Mrs. Prosser Addresses Farmers' Union

MADOC — The Cooper Farmers' Union Local 178 held a meeting in Madoc Orange Hall with Springbrook and Madoc members in attendance. The meeting was called to order with Mrs. Fred Bailey as chairlady. Mrs. A. Franks presided as pianist.

A humorous reading was given by Mrs. Williams, Springbrook, followed by a trio by the Bailey boys of Cooper. Mrs. Gordanier of Springbrook gave a reading and a second number by the Bailey boys followed.

Mr. Clarence Graham, the county director, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Prosser, of Port Perry, provincial lady president, who gave a fine address, urging all farmers to picture for themselves the economy in agriculture, and this organization of farmers, for farmers, and they are only asking a fair and just price, which is only parity prices.

She spoke of the many briefs that have been presented to the government and the benefits that have been achieved. There is need for more farmers to join this great new achievement. There are over 1,000 farmers a month leaving the farms for the city. Surely a little time each week could be spent to bring in new members. "A chain is only as strong as its weakest link."

Mrs. Williams of Springbrook thanked Mrs. Prosser for her address.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served.

Board Chairman Up in Arms Over Spelling

CLEVELAND (AP)—A letter from a group of high school "puples" to the "Cleveland school broad" has board president Charles A. Mooney up in arms.

It isn't what the letter said so much as the way it said it.

Sentence structures and punctuation were "appalling," said Mooney. One long paragraph consisted of a single sentence with "at least 20" commas, he said.

Mooney found "puples" throughout instead of "pupils," "wair" for "where" and "fill" for "feel."

The president said he plans to inquire at the next "broad" meeting into "just what sort of tests are being given in spelling."

Greatly Extended Season For Upland Bird Shooting On Game Farms Requested

TORONTO (CP) — A greatly extended season for upland bird shooting on game farms has been asked by the Ontario Game Bird Breeders' Association in a brief to the legislature's fish and game committee.

The farms would not be considered private clubs, the association said Tuesday.

Restoration of the non-resident family fishing licence, asked for by the Northern Ontario Tourist Outfitters' Association, was opposed by Walter Wilson of the Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

He said that too often the wife would take her limit in one lake while the husband would take his in another when the licence permitted only one limit between them.

Bob Giles of the NOTOA asked for an extension of the southern boundary of Parry Sound district for deer hunters and a ban on high - powered rifles before the opening of the deer season. He said many deer were slaughtered before the season opened by hunters who were supposed to be bear hunting.

ASKS BOUNTY INCREASE

He also asked for an increase in the wolf bounty to $50 from $25.

President J. H. Wilson of the St. Catharines and Lincoln Fish and Game Protective Association urged that fowl and game hunters be required to wear a badge on the back of their jackets showing the number of their licence.

He said a badge, measuring at least eight inches square, would enable game wardens or farmers to identify easily hunters breaking laws.

Committee chairman R. J. Boyer (PC—Muskoka) suggested badges could be made by inmates of reform institutions.

The Ontario Trappers' Association asked the lands and forests department to extend its support of fur auctions. Experiments in this type of sale have proven beneficial at Sudbury and Huntsville, said the association, and should be promoted elsewhere.

WANTS SUNDAY HUNTING

The Conservation Council of Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry asked for Sunday hunting in Southern Ontario and the relocation of the Algonquin Park deer herd.

The St. Catharines group also asked the department to require owners of duck blinds to identify them during the season and dismantle them afterward.

The NOTOA called for ban on the use of dogs for deer hunting in the Kenora and Rainy River districts.

The Essex County agricultural committee demanded that the department return to municipalities the authority to issue pheasant hunting licences.

ASK EMERGENCY AID

DENVER (AP) — Leaders of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) called on the governmtnt Monday to take immediate emergecy measures to save the non-ferrous metals industry. The request follows a 1,000-man layoff by Kennecott Copper Corporation.

Khrushchev Says U.S. Lagging In Science

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Nikita Khrushchev says the United States will lag behind Russia in science "from this time on" because every young Russian has the chance to develop his talents.

Khrushchev was quoted Tuesday by three visiting Americans after a 90-minute interview granted by the Soviet Communist party first secretary.

The visitors are Professor Richard Scammon, a political scientist of the U.S. Governmental Affairs Institute; Professor Cyril E. Black, Princeton University historian and Hedley W. Donovan, managing editor of Fortune magazine. They were invited in a reciprocal exchange program to observe elections Sunday to the Supreme Soviet, Russia's legislature.

Before the interview with Khrushchev, they told 30 Soviet television, newsreel and newspaper reporters the elections did not in th Western sense express the will of the people.

Khrushchev discussed science and economy with them. He said that "our rate of industrial growth is three to four times greater than yours" and reaffirmed Russia's determination to achieve and outstrip the U.S. standard of living.

The Communist leader said there is unlimited opportunity of Soviet education compared with that in the United States.

Russia's Demands Turned Down By Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles Tuesday turned down Russia's demand that international control of outer space be linked with elimination of American overseas bomber bases.

He described the new Soviet proposal as "not very acceptable" in its present form.

"They are mixing up two things that are quite unrelated," he told reporters on his return from a 10-day trip to the Phillippines and Formosa.

Dulles later met with Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov, who insisted afterward that his visit was on "a routine matter."

In discussing the Russian plan for space control, Dulles in effect accused the Soviets of stealing an American idea and attaching impossible conditions to it as a device for killing it.

He recalled that President Eisenhower already has formally proposed an international agreement to limit use of outer space to peaceful purposes.

SEATO, 'Paper Tiger' of Red Ridicule, Now Going Strong

MANILA (AP) — The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, Paper Tiger of Communist ridicule, now is considered out here to be a going concern capable of standing up to communism militarily and economically.

A new feeling of optimism swept through closing sessions of the eight - nation organization's foreign ministers conference last week. It was felt that SEATO military preparations have reached the point where immediate retaliation is possible if any member is attacked.

The final SEATO communique emphasized that more than $700,000,000 in aid, principally from the United States, had poured into the area in the last year to help stabilize economies.

No one claims the tiny military forces of the three Asian members—Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines — could stand up in frontal engagements against the estimated 3,000,000 men in the army of Communist China. But one high informant told reporters:

"We have had a series of military exercises that have taught us how to work together. We have greatly improved communications. Thai and Pakistan forces now are better trained and equipped, and there has been progress in standardization of equipment."

This is a far different situation from that of 1954, when SEATO was born as a paper organization in the wake of the Communist victory in Viet Nam. Such progress, although small, is believed largely responsible for the increased attention Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines are focusing on their needs for economic help.

"SEATO has given them confidence to deal with their internal problems," one source said.

The SEATO members are the United States, Britain, France Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan.

Drapeau Charges Shadow Cabinet Rules Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Former mayor Jean Drapeau of Montreal has charged that Premier Duplessis has let Quebec be governed by a "clandestine cabinet exercising an increasingly odious dictatorship."

The Montreal lawyer, suffering from a 102-degree temperature because of influenza, fainted Tuesday night as he neared the end of an 8,500-word speech to 1,400 Civic Action League supporters at a rally in the Palala Montcalm. He was carried backtsage and revived quickly.

A doctor said his condition was normal and the collapse was due to the tiring effect of the speech and the above-normal temperature. Leon Patenaude of Montreal, finished the speech.

Drapeau hit at the Union Nationale government for not enforcing liquor laws, supporting the "yellow press" and using "fear, suspicion, bribes, patronage and mysterious interventions" to stay in power.

He said a "popular awakening" in the province is shown by the increasing number of civic action leagues being formed.

CABINET "A FACADE"

The provincial cabinet was a "facade" for the shadow cabinet which really runs the province. The government members and ministers, many of them honest, "are merely puppets of this real government which has worked its tentacles into all regions of the province, into every level of population," Mr. Drapeau said.

"Criminals and the yellow press" were the shadow cabinet's instruments and "bribery and the electoral fund its arms."

The party supported the "yellow press" by heavy advertising in it at election time, Mr. Drapeau said.

The rally was sponsored by Les Amis du Devoir—a group supporting Le Devoir, a Montreal daily newspaper. It marked the first time open hostility to the Union Nationale has been shown by Mr. Drapeau but here have been implications of opinion differences since he won the Montreal office campaigning on a vice cleanup platform.

The main wrangle was over a slum clearance plan drawn up by Paul Dozois, now municipal affairs minister in the Duplessis cabinet.

Mr. Drapeau favored another plan but the Quebec government created a housing bureau with extraordinary powers to adopt the plan without the mayor's approval.

Metro Approves Bloor St. Route For 2nd Subway

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan council early today approved an east-west Bloor Street route for Toronto's second subway, climaxing a four-year dispute over where it should run.

Council finally settled the issue in a 12-hour session that ended shortly after midnight with an 18-to-2 vote favoring the midtown Bloor route with a University Avenue extension.

Cost of the subway has been estimated at $332,710,762 and the decision on how the cost will be shared by Metro and the Toronto Transit Cimmission is still to be decided. Metro has proposed a 50-50 basis.

This has not been agreed to by the transit commission, however, which has asked for a 60-40 ratio. The commission will be asked to prove it cannot finance a 50-50 split before council will agree to the 60-40 sharing.

In addition to approving the route, council also endorsed a two-mill surtax for subway finances for a 10-year period, 1959 to 1968, to arise more than $78,000,000.

NEED REZONING

They agreed that financing will be based on the city considering rezoning lands adjacent to the subway for high-density commercial and apartment purposes.

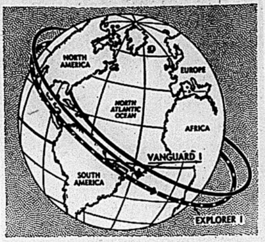
The second subway would run from Woodbine Avenue in the east to Keele Street in the west. A spur line would extend down University Avenue from Bloor Street to Front Street. The route would extend 9.85 miles, bisecting the Younge Street line.

The subway would be at least 10 years in construction.

NAMED CD CO-ORDINATOR

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Former mayor George R. Inglis Monday was named co-ordinator of civil defence for Welland County, comprising Niagara Falls, Stamford and Willoughby townships and Chippawa village. He succeeds city manager W. S. Orr.

VANGUARD FLIES HIGHER, FASTER



Flying higher and faster than other satellites launched by Russia and the U.S., the Vanguard I is orbiting around the earth at altitudes ranging from 400 to 2,500 miles. It completes its trip around the earth every 135 minutes, and may continue to orbit for as long as 10 years. Missile experts say the next stage in space conquest will be a flight to the moon or a manned flight into space.

Canada Must Expand Training Facilities to Meet Economic Stress Says Report

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada must expand her training facilities for professional and skilled workers if she is to meet the needs foreseen for her 1965 economy, says an economic survey published today.

The report says that since the Second World War only a combination of "makeshift" methods and immigration enabled the graduates of the country's insufficient training establishments to go any distance towards meeting the demand for qualified personnel. The demand was not fully met, however, and the over-all economy suffered.

Written by the labor department's economics and research branch, the survey is one of a series prepared for the Gordon royal commission on Canada's economic prospects. The commission, headed by Toronto accountant Walter Gordon, presented a preliminary report a year ago and is expected to make public its final document next month.

Requirements for skilled and professional workers likely will outrun supply for the next 10 years, the survey says, and there is no evidence that the demand will slacken. Automation would merely vary the demand, producing new needs and reducing others.

NEED IMMIGRANTS

Because of the time needed for training sudden demands for such skills could be met only through immigration.

Canada's great post-war expansion "created a severe pressure on specialized manpower supplies."

"Makeshift" methods were used to meet the demand domestically.

These included the overcrowding of training facilities, the acceleration of training for skilled and technical workers and the use of underqualified instructors.

Expansion of Canada's training facilities would have to be done "in an orderly fashion."

"This will involve the careful planning and creation of suitable curricula, the acquisition of competent staff, the careful analysis of requirements for skilled and professional personnel, and continuing studies of the best types of training and educational programs in the light of requirements."

Hepburn Portrait Is Unveiled

TORONTO (CP) — A portrait of the late Mitchell F. Hepburn, Liberal premier of Ontario from 1934 to 1942, was unveiled in the legislature Tuesday by another former premier, Harry Nixon, Liberal member for Brant.

The portrait, by Toronto artist Cleve Horne, will be hung in a Queen's Park corridor. Present for the unveiling were Mrs. Eva Hepburn, widow of the former premier, and Mrs. Irene Sinclair, Mr. Hopburn's sister.

Premier Frost referred to the "wit, brilliance and great ability" of his predecessor. "He was a great leader and a great warrior."

U.S. COASTGUARD RESCUES SIX ON LAKE ERIE

Ice caught these two boats in Lake Erie, stranding five men and a boy for two days. A U.S. coast-guard cutter from Erie, Pa., took 11 hours to reach them, another four to break the ice, and 1½ hours to tow them to Port Maitland. The boats had been immobilized 20 feet apart.

Quebec District Conservatives Patch up Split

QUEBEC (CP)—A split among Progressive Conservative party ranks in two Quebec City ridings, which threatened to extend to the March 31 federal election, appears to have been patched up.

The squabble in the Liberal strongholds of Quebec East and Quebec West produced several cases of jangled nerves and aroused bitterness among some Conservative factions.

But the rush of candidates and the quarrelling also was a sign of greater interest in the party, said Lucien Boucher, the party's campaign director in the Quebec district.

The Liberal organization did not agree with Mr. Boucher, however. It claimed the Conservatives ruined any chances they may have had of taking the ridings away from the Liberals.

Only a week ago, Conservatives in Quebec East and Quebec West appeared hopelessly divided as separate groups sought to get their men nominated.

SUPPORT CANDIDATES

Now the Conservatives in Quebec East appear to have gathered behind Yvon R. Tasse, civil engineer and former president of the greater Quebec industrial development bureau, and in Quebec West behind Dr. J. Eugene Bissonnette, 64-year - old physician and newcomer to active politics.

In Quebec East, it looked as if two party standard bearers would run against Maurice Lamontagne, young economist, who succeeds former prime minister St. Laurent as the Liberal candidate in the historic constituency.

In Quebec West, the situation was more confused. There was talk of as many as three men running as Conservative candidates against Rene Begin, Liberal seeking re-election.

Last week Mr. Boucher denied reports that Premier Duplessis himself had ordered the candidates originally chosen to withdraw in favor of Mr. Tasse and Dr. Bissonnette.

There were persistent reports of high officials of Mr. Duplessis' Union Nationale government getting mixed up in the situation, but no one would be quoted by name.

WAS CONSERVATIVE

No Conservative party exists in Quebec at the provincial level any more, but Mr. Duplessis was elected provincial Conservative leader in the 1930s before he formed his own party. He has never officially relinquished the title and his party gets most of the provincial Conservative vote.

Drastic action by the party's central committee is said to have forced the withdrawal of the two candidates officially chosen during stormy nomination meetings last month. The committee then named Mr. Tasse and Dr. Bissonnette.

In Quebec East, the former official candidate, Emilien Simard, is reported to have rallied to Mr. Tasse.

In Quebec West, the former official candidate, J. Wilfrid Dufresne, has retired from the campaign entirely.

Vote 'Useless' Low's Theme, Preaching Socred Theories In Campaign Without Frills

Election day is less than two weeks away. This story by a CP reporter who covered part of the Low tour reviews issues emphasized by the Social Credit leader during his campaigning.

By JIM PEACOCK

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Solon Low, conducting a campaign with few frills for an election he insists is unnecessary and useless, has moved into the last two weeks before the March 31 voting with key meetings planned in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia.

The 58-year-old Social Credit leader so far has done most of his election stumping in Alberta, with brief jaunts into Manitoba and B.C.

In the first four weeks of the campaign, Mr. Low travelled from Winnipeg to Vancouver and throughout the northern half of Alberta, repeatedly declaring the "uselessness" of the election, criticizing the government's "betrayal of the western farmer," and hitting at the unemployment problem.

In every address, too, he has preached Social Credit fiscal policy as the solution to inflation and unemployment.

HAMPERED BY BUDGET

He has said the party's campaign is restricted somewhat by a budget strained by two general elections within less than a year, but his personal efforts are no less vigorous than during the campaign for last June's vote.

He has had one or two speaking engagements every day except Sunday almost since the campaign began and has maintained a five - minute paid address daily over radio stations in his home constituency of Peace River. He also has made several national television appearances.

Mr. Low has had to carry on without much assistance from the leaders in the Social Credit governments of Alberta and British Columbia, because legislatures are in session.

Because of these restrictive aspects, Mr. Low's campaign has been carried out on a less elaborate scale than in some cases a year ago.

CROWDS GOOD

Attendance in comparable circumstances, however, has been as good or better than in the last campaign and particularly in Mr. Low's home territory, where he has spent a good portion of the first half of the campaign.

During three regional conferences—at Ottawa, Vancouver and Brandon, Man. — the party established a 10-point platform and Mr. Low has spent many of his campaign hours explaining it.

Illustrating with anecdotes—"The Conservatives remind me of a $10 man in a $100 suit . . . and the people are beginning to look under the coat,"—he has called the Liberal and Conservative election promises a "box social auction sale."

In deadly seriousness, he accuses Prime Minister Diefenbaker of abdicating his responsibility by calling an election at a "dangerous" period in Canada's history, a period when Parliament should be in session doing everything possible to solve the country's problems.

Mr. Low is critical of the Diefenbaker government's action to help western farmers. They have not kept their many promises to the farmer, he says, waving a brochure labelled "Diefenbaker Promises," which he claims he got from the Liberals.

In plumping for the Social Credit platform, he stresses the fiscal policy, which would issue new money in the form of direct dividends or consumer discounts to the value of the net growth of the Canadian economy in order to keep in balance the effective purchasing power and the goods available.

The party faces a tough situation in this election, he has said, but it expects to hold its own now and make gains when it has more time between elections to group its forces.

Approve Bill Despite Motion Of Board

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature's private bills committee has approved a bill allowing the suburban Ottawa town of Eastview to issue debentures and raise taxes to cover a $565,497 debt incurred during the last five years.

The committee approved the bill Tuesday despite a recommendation by the Ontario municipal board that the affairs of Eastview be taken over by the municipal affairs department.

The bill, sponsored by G. F. Lavergne (PC—Russell) Mayor of Eastview was first presented a week ago but reading was postponed while the municipal board conducted an investigation into the cause of the debt.

In its report, read to the committee, the board said Eastview town council violated the Municipal Act in five instances.

CCF Leader Donald MacDonald told the committee "the real victims of this mismanagement are the people of Eastview."

Mr. MacDonald also accused the government supporters of "hiding" the results of an investigation by the municipal board into Eastview's finances.

He told reporters he will raise the issue again when the bill is presented before the committee-of-the-whole.

The municipal board said Eastview violated the Municipal Act by failing to:

Prepare and adopt "realistic" estimates of revenues and expenditures including deficits from previous years;

Levy taxes sufficient to raise new estimated expenditures and pay the principal and interest payments on deficits;

Limit current expenditures to amounts authorized in annual budgets or provide for such excess expenditures by special levies.

Levy for "substantial deficits sustained on the sale of debentures;

And levy amounts sufficient for the payment of county rates, including the county's share of certain levies.

Neither Side in Indonesia Appears to Have Strength

By DAVID ROWNTREE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Neither side in Indonesia's developing civil war appears to have sufficient strength to bring the fighting to a decisive end within a reasonable period.

This seems to leave President Sukarno with two choices if he is to restore peace.

He can back down to the extent of meeting the rebels' demands that he rid his cabinet of Communists. Judging by past actions, a retreat of this kind is unlikely.

The other way out would be to call on Communist-bloc countries to give him large-scale aid to put down the uprising in Sumatra. Such a course might provoke counter moves by pro - Western countries.

A right-wing rebel government was formed last month in central Sumatra and the northern Celebes with the announced objectives of ridding Indonesia of Communist infiltration in the administration and resolving an economic crisis.

Forces in south Sumatra, a rich oil area, had been neutral until last weekend when broadcasts attacking the Jakarta government indicated new weight may be thrown to the rebels.

For the last year, Sukarno has governed what he calls a "guided democracy." That made him a virtual dictator. When the last elected premier's cabinet fell in March, 1957, Sukarno formed a new one including Communist friends. He justified this saying a party that polled 6,000,000 votes in national elections couldn't be overlooked.

The rebels say they will end their fighting if Dr. Mohammed Hatta, who wants a Communist-free "business government," is allowed to form a national cabinet with Sukarno and the Sultan of Jogjakarta. In a country still largely feudal, the sultan of one of Java's provinces still has tremendous influence.

This is the political settlement the rebels are seeking. At the moment a peaceful solution doesn't seem to have much chance.

Inseparable from this is the need to put an end to the country's economic troubles. They range all the way from a budget deficit of $85,000,000 in 1956 to a chronic lack of foreign exchange, rice shortages and unemployment.

The rebel complaint about the economy is that Sumatra, rich in oil, rubber, tin and tobacco, earns 70 to 80 per cent of all Indonesia's exports but doesn't get a fair deal from the central government when it comes to spending. Too much, they say, goes to under-fed and over-populated Java, the island where Sukarno's government rules from Jakarta.

U.S. Still Behind Russia In Conquest of Outer Space

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The successful launching of a second United States earth satellite is a matter for rejoicing but still leaves the U.S. behind Russia in the conquest of outer space.

It follows a number of well-publicized failures. Russian space plans, in contrast, appeared to run smoothly although there is no way for the West to know about Soviet failures — possibly many, but hidden.

Russia put up its Sputnik I Oct. 4, then followed with the sensationally - large dog - carrying Sputnik II Nov. 3. The U.S. has not yet tried to match that feat.

Since Sputnik II, Russia has made no successful launchings but has "bargained from strength" in the diplomatic field as the leader in space science, not only in Sputniks but, far more ominously, in intercontinental ballistic missiles.

POWER PLAY

This is the most important single factor in the Russian approach to summit talks with the West. The International Geophysical Year, which was supposed to be the basis for satellite attempts, has retreated well into the background in the face of this celestial power play.

The United States now has two satellite success out of five attempts. Explorer I was sent into orbit Jan. 31 by the U.S. army after the shattering initial failure of the navy Vanguard project Dec. 6. The navy goofed again Feb. 5 and the army failed in its second chance March 5.

Other planned launchings were interrupted before blast-off when technical faults occurred. It is reported reliably that on one occasion, a Vanguard launching had to be given up simply because a technician wasn't at his post to make a routine correction. On another occasion, a piece of plumbing was found installed backwards.

The U.S. now has two satellites whirling in space, while Russia has only one. Sputnik I fell some time ago and Sputnik II, with its dog long since dead, apparently is nearing the end of its life.

MOON NEXT

The U.S. has been handicapped by Russia's head-start in Sputniks, and also by a strident inter-service rivalry, with the army, navy and air force battling for priority in space projects. At times this hassle has seemed as bitter as the U.S.-Russia race.

It also appeared that President Eisenhower and many of his high advisers were caught flat-footed by the surge of public indignation that broke over them when the news came out that Russia was ahead.

They were dismayed by the impact of the news on the people of the U.S. — and elsewhere — and fumbled their chance to give immediate energetic and clear-cut direction to American efforts.

Scientists say the new race is to the moon. State Secretary Dulles is accused in some quarters of failing to realize the prestige value of this enterprise.

Generally, however, the U.S. has turned to space with characteristic vigor and with numerous rocket launchings rich in scientific yield despite some failures. The army expects to put up a dozen or so moons this year, and Vanguard also will fire a few small test moons as well as the fully - instrumented satellite that has been planned since 1955.

During most of the endless hours of the "flight," each man is busy at his assigned duty. Each volunteer is a pilot who has logged at least 3,000 air hours. At the right is the food bar. The patches on the men's heads cover the electrodes which provide information on their physiological reactions during "mission."

Uranium Oxide Seen Cheap Fuel

CHICAGO (AP) — The high cost of atomic power may be cut drastically as handling of relatively cheap uranium oxide fuel improves, a Canadian research executive says.

W. B. Lewis, vice-president of research and development for the government - owned Atomic Energy of Canada, Limited, told a panel of United States nuclear industry executives here that uranium oxide offers an advantage in long-lasting, high - burning qualities.

Lewis, addressing an atomic energy management conference held in conjunction with the 1958 U.S. Nuclear Congress and Atom Fair, suggested that a fuel cost of 1.5 mills a kilowatt can be achieved by careful planning.

Sugar Retains Personal Army; Not So Cocky

CHICAGO (AP)—Middleweight champion Carmen Basilio and challenger Sugar Ray Robinson, each confident he'll win Tuesday's title bout, take pre-fight physicals today before the Illinois Athletic Commission.

Robinson arrived Tuesday lacking his usual swagger but not without his personal army which included:

His wife, three sparring partners, two trainers, two managers, a bodyguard, a lawyer, a publicity man, his personal physician, a guy named Soldier Jones and, of course, his personal barber.

Robinson will begin final workouts Thursday. The Sugar Man, who is three pounds over the limit at 163, will remain idle today which gives him a three-day rest.

Basilio arrived in Chicago Monday and did some road work Tuesday.

Wings Practically Wrap Up Third Place With 4-2 Win Over Toronto

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Itj ust goes to show you the ball game is not over until the last man is out in the ninth—and hope beats eternal in the human breast, especially if it is covered by a Pembroke Lumber Kings hockey sweater.

Up around Pembroke way, the gloom is not so thick. A weak ray of sunshine has trickled through the pall, and the good burghers of the northern town who support their hockey club, are clinging to the hope that the big team might yet come through with the victories necessary for the Eastern Ontario senior league championship.

There is lots of fight left yet apparently in the Giesebrecht Incorporated, Wally Lenser, manager. But it must be said once again the Kings drew some royal ability when they corralled Master Andy Payette, the Keeper of the Royal Gate, who came up last night with a dazzling performance between the pipes to hold off the victory-seeking McFarlands.

However the Kings have averted the shutout in the series and now trail two games to one with one a stalemate. Tonight is another night, and the McFarlands had better sew this one up, or the series might be forced to the seven-game limit. It could do that even with a McFarland win tonight. A victory for the Kings at home tomorrow night and the payoff comes here on Friday. And there is a possibility of the series being extended to an extra game.

Tonight is a "must" for the Macs. A win will put them high and dry in the driver's seat. However with the Kings having tasted their first victory blood don't be surprised to see a ring-tail snorter of a battle starting at 8.30. It could be a thriller-diller.

* * *

THE BIG SHAKE-UP!

Any rumors you may have heard about Kingston tossing in the senior hockey towel were blown to the winds yesterday, according to a story from puck-chasing's ancient and honorable citadel to the east of us.

Naturally disappointed, but far from being downhearted in CKLC's showing in the Eastern Senior League this season, the "Fearless Five" as they are dubbed by writer Don Soutter, has decided to let bygones be bygones—and heigho-ho for next season.

Messrs. Reg Walton, president of the hockey club and directors Harry "Yip" Bradley, Steve Amey, Wally Elmer and Terry French gathered in solemn conclave and came up with some announcements.

In short, it was decided that a "serious shake-up in player personnel" was necessary—and in the offing. Said prexy Walton, "Our fans have been too loyal to let this continue. Something has to be done."

So the "Fearless Five" decided to do something about it. They agreed that three new defencemen and five forwards were the minimum requirements needed to restore senior hockey in Kingston to the position it enjoyed a few years back.

Two of the 1957-58 team the "Five" would like to see back in action with their club next season are youthful Lynn Davis, their sensational goalie, and John Gauthier, who during the latter part of the season proved one of the best rearguardsmen on the club.

As far as Davis is concerned, he fell victim to the goalie jinx that haunted the CKLC's practically all season, starting with the Bob Senior-Kitchener-Eddie Shore schmozzle. The other day, Davis, who is the property of the Canadiens, was ordered to report to the Shawinigan Falls teams of the Quebec Hockey League. This was caused by a general shuffle down the line in the Habitants' farm system when Jacques Plante was hurt and the Habs needed a goalie reinforcement.

Gauthier, too, is controlled by the Canadiens, but as both he and Davis have expressed their desire to perform again next season with the Kingston club all efforts will be made to have the parent body again release their services to the CKLC's.

The directors concluded Whitey Youngberg and Bill Colvin were considered as senior "A" competitors. They felt Mike Bukacheski, Gerry Moore, Roy Partridge and Don Bellringer gave the club good service but "some of tthe others did not live up to advance billing." It was decided, however, they would be given the chance to earn their spot again—but they would have to earn it the hard way.

Asked if the club would buy a seasoned player or a reinstated professional now the directors said, "We are starting to rebuild immediately. If we could obtain a player tomorrow who would help us, we would grab him."

So-o-o-o—it looks like our old enemy buddies from the east of us mean business next season. All of which augurs well for the league in general and the CKLC's in particular.

And it could be added that President Walton intends conferring with Kenny Reardon and Frank Selke of the Canadiens within the next month with regard to player reinforcements for next season's campaign.

Toronto Leads Bowls Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto team took over first place from Kirkland Lake in the open division of the five-pin bowling tournament Tuesday after four days of play at the Sportsmen's Show.

Toronto Cira's went into the lead with 4,876 points, a 313-point margin over Kirkland Lake. A second Toronto team is in third place, Stratford in fourth, a third Toronto team in fifth, Georgetown in sixth, Hamilton in seventh and another local squad in eighth.

In the major division, Guelph Majors, who had a bye, held their opdnlace, a bare 13 points behind. Hamilton, Kitchener, Brantford, Barrie, Timmins and Toronto follow in that order.

Toronto Lakeviews, though they did not roll, still have a 480-point lead in the ladies' division. Windsor is second, and London, Toronto, Fergus and St. Catharines follow.

Gordie Howe's Three Points Prove Big Factor in Victory; Team Could Finish in Second

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings, riding largely on the shoulders of Gordie Howe, have just about wrapped up third place in the National Hockey League.

The magnificent right winger scored one goal—his 32nd this season — and assisted on two others Tuesday night as Wings defeated fifth - place Toronto Maple Leafs 4-2 in Detroit to go within one game of assuring themselves of third place and keep alive a slim chance of a second-place finish.

If they finish third or drop back into fourth it will be their lowest mark since the 1946-47 season, when they ended in the last playoff spot. Next season they were second and one of modern hockey greatest teams flew high for a decade.

DESPITE INJURIES

This season, had it not been for Howe—playing superbly despite injuries and the departure of his long-time winger Ted Lindsay—and goalie Terry Sawchuk's comeback, they might have been much lower.

Tuesday night Howe put Wings out in front at 11:54 of the first and assisted on a second-period goal by centre Norm Ullman and a third-pepriod goal by John Wilson. Jack McIntyre scored the other Detroit goal, at 15:58 of the second.

The Toronto goals were scored by Billy Harris, in the first, and captain George Armstrong at 11:17 of the third, the last goal of the game. It was the 16th goal for each.

Ullman's goal was his 20th this season, his best production since coming up to the NHL in 1955-56 season.

STOPPED ON BREAKAWAY

Sawchuk, whom manager Jack Adams Tuesday refused to sell "at any price" made 24 saves, including a brilliant stop on Frank Mahovlich who had a clean breakaway in the second period. Toronto's Ed Chadwick stopped 27 shots.

Howe's 32 goals and 39 assists give him 71 points and fourth place in the scoring race. With only three games left he has little chance of winning his sixth scoring title, almost certain to be taken by one of the new generation of stars—Dickie Moore or Henri Richard of Montreal Canadiens or Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers.

Wings eliminated Toronto from playoff contention Saturday. Leafs' fans may have little hope the team will improve next season, but they will be able to watch games to the strains of organ music. The management of Maple Leaf Gardens has announced that an organ bought from a demolished movie theatre last year will be playing by fall as part of a $35,000 renovation to the south end of the arena that includes a 60-seat press box.

Dunnies Defeat Harringay 6-2; Sail on Friday

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Canada's world champion hockey team, nearing the end of its nine-week European tour, defeated Harringay Racers 6-2 Tuesday night for its 24th win in 25 starts.

The victory duplicated Whitby's previous win over the same club in the first game of the tour and reversed the setback suffered Monday night at the hands of Wembley Lions.

The Canadians started out at a fast pace, ramming in three goals before the game was barely five minutes old.

They were content to coast the rest of the way, holding their lead at 4-1 by the end of the first period, playing the baffling British National Hockey League side on even terms through a scoreless second frame and picking up two insurance goals after Harringay narrowed the gap early in the final period.

SCORE TWO EACH

Jack McKenzie and Bus Gagnon each scored twice for the victors. Playing - coach Sid Smith and Frank Bonello completed the scoring.

Bud McRae and Tom Rendall, the latter borrowed from Brighton Tigers to fill out the Harringay lineup, were the marksmen for the losers.

The visitors took four of the game's five penalties but there were no untoward incidents resembling Monday night's debating session at Wembley, where two Canadians received misconduct penalties.

The hard-fighting Racers penetrated the Canadian defence often enough to keep goalie Roy Edwards occupied. The fans gave him a round of applause after several neat saves.

The Canadians were a much improved club after their listless display against Wembley, although they were clearly content to preserve their early margin and wait for the breaks.

They complete their schedule at Glasgow tonight against Paisley Pirates and sail for home from Liverpool Friday.

Hull Squares Series With New Glasgow

NEW GLASGOW (CP) — Hull Legion found the New Glasgow Stadium a little more to their liking Tuesday night when they scored a 5-3 victory over the hometown Rangers to tie their best-of-five Allan Cup quarter-final series at one game apiece.

Hull started fast by racking up a 3-0 first period lead and took a 4-0 lead early in the second. Rangers halved the margin before the period ended and came to within one goal of Hull late in the final period. Paul Seguin's goal at 19:46 clinched the victory for the Legion squad.

It was Seguin's second goal of the game. Ron Limoges also triggered a pair while Rheo Dagenais notched the other Hull marker. New Glasgow tallies were split among Jim McDonald, Jim McNeil and Ralph Cameron.

Willie Mays Not Yet Up To Batting Par

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—No one seems worried because Willie Mays is hitting only .222 so far in the San Francisco Giants' spring drills. No one, that is, except Willie.

"I haven't hit a ball well all spring," the star centre fielder said with disgust Tuesday after finishing his turn in the batting cage.

Mays asked Giant lefthander Mike McCormick to "throw your best pitch" but Willie wasn't able to come through with that smack he likes to hear.

Then as Giants were blanked 1-0 by Baltimore Orioles, Mays had one single to deep short in three official times at the plate. He went down swinging with a runner on second in the second inning for the final out, was purposely walked in the fifth and hit a bouncer to the pitcher in the eighth.

In 18 trips to the plate, Willie has one triple, one double and two singles. And he has come up with none of the spectacular field that have made him one of baseball's most exciting players.

Nobody does any head shaking as they migh do if Mays were a rookie. After all he was the National League's most valuable player in 1954 when he led the loop in hitting with .345. And he was second in batting last year with .333.

Despite that .222 to date, there's no doubt who'll be in centre field when the Giants play the Los Angeles Dodgers on opening day in San Francisco.

CLOSE TO VICTORY

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters) — The West Indies scored 99 runs for no wickets in their second innings Tuesday and moved closer to winning the fourth test of their five-match series with Pakistan. The West Indies need only 218 runs today for victory. A draw would be enough to give them the series, however, since they lead 2-0 in matches. One test was drawn.

Pembroke Lumber Kings Hit Win Column With 4-2 Victory Over Macs

Goalie Payette's Fine Work Sets Stage for 1st Triumph; Fifth Game Here Tonight

PEMBROKE (Special) — The Pembroke Lumber Kings, sparked by the dazzling display of Andy Payette in the nets, clipped Belleville McFarlands' unbeaten string in the Eastern Senior "A" finals here last night, defeating the league-leaders by a 4-2 score before some 1800 fans.

The series now stands at two wins and one defeat for the McFarlands with the fourth game tied. The teams clash again in Belleville tonight and are back here for the fifth tussle tomorrow night. If necessary the seventh game will be played in Belleville on Friday night.

The McFarlands shot into a goal lead early in the first period but the Kings tied it up before period end. They led 2-1 at the end of the second and shoved in two more goals in the third before the McFarlands cut the margin to 4-2.

GOOD START

BART BRADLEY

. . . One and One

The Belleville club was away and running at the opening of the first period with the Bradley, Brown, Hildebrand line clicking for the first goal after 1.07 minutes of play. Bradley fired the puck past Payette but that was all the Macs could get over the rest of the period. They hurled 15 shots at the Kings goalie but he kicked them all out but one.

O'Connor and Hildebrand were chased at 7.40 but both teams were unable to score with the power shortage. Lepine was heaved at 15.20 and was just back on the ice when Chiarelli took Plamondon's pass to knot the count with Dennis Menard also getting an assist.

The desperate Kings, fired with the work of Payette, took the offensive in the second period scoring the only goal of the heat to grab a 2-1 lead. Keith MacDonald was chased at 9.53 and in the ensuing power play Bert Giesebrecht converted Limoges pass into paydirt. Fildes started the successful drive.

Maintaining the offensive the Kings smashed home two quick goals in the third period with the Giesebrecht family taking part in both.

Jim Maxwell climaxed a three-man drive with Bruce Giesebrecht at 3.51 to give the Kings a two-goal lead and 42 seconds later Jack Giesebrecht took brother Bert's pass to beat Bell and make the score 4-1. Jim Farelli was credited with an assist on the goal.

Bernie Limoges was sentenced at 12.47 and the Macs ripped to the offensive with Bep Guidolin cutting the margin to 4-2 with Bradley and Brown assisting.

The Macs failed to dent the Payette armor over the rest of the route and the Kings skated off with their first triumph.

The game was cleanly played with Referee Louis LeCompte handing out five penalties three to the McFarlands.

The game was temporarily halted when a rapid Pembroke fan tossed a firecracker on the ice and the debris had to be cleared.

Wiener Brown had two assists for the Macs with Hildebrand and Bradley having one each.

Limoges helped on two of the Pembroke goals with Plamondon Menard, Bert Giesebrecht, Fildes, Bruce Giesebrecht and Farelli earning single assists.

The Kings outshot the McFarlands 30-29 on the night's play.

The teams:

Belleville — goal, Bell; defence, Montgomery, Botley, Benoit, Lepine, Crawford; forwards, Bradley Brown Hildebrand Guidolin, Muretich, Kowalchuk, M. Menard, MacDonald, Payette.

Pembroke: goal, Payette; defence, O'Connor, Fildes, Limoges, Douglas; forwards, Bert Giesebrecht, Farelli, J. Giesebrecht, Plamondon, Chiarelli, Menard, Bruce Giesebrecht, Maxwell, Clarke, Barber.

Ti-Cats Sign Virginia Star

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who relied primarily on a ground attack when they won the Grey Cup in 1957, announced Tuesday they have strengthened their passing arm by signing quarterback Michael Trimarki of the University of West Virginia.

Hamilton coach Jim Trimble described the 21-year-old as an "excellent passer . . . I thought he was an outstanding professional prospect when he was a sophomore." The 195 - pound quarterback will have to beat out Bernie Faloney for the starting pivot position.

In line with his announced policy of getting "better throwers, ends and pass-catching backfielders," Trimble last month signed Ian (Skippy) Giancannelli, a veteran deep pass receiver with Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League and / a good target for Trimarki.

Quebec Hockey

CHICOUTIMI, Que (CP) — Chicoutimi Sagueneens, perched high atop the Quebec Hockey League, built up a four-goal lead over Montreal Royals on Tuesday night and coasted to a 7-4 win in a wide-open game that spoiled a Montreal bid for third place.

The victory, in the night's only league game, increased Chicoutimi's first-place margin to 12 points. Montreal was left in a third-place tie with Quebec Aces. Chicoutimi has one game to play in the 64-game schedule and Montreal and Quebec have three each.

Gerry Glaude, Lou Smrke and Jackie Leclair each fired two goals for the Sagueneens. Jacques Locas got the other.

For Montreal, the scorers were veteran Lulu Denis, with two goals, and Gene Achtymichuk and Glen Cressman.

HOAD WINS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Lew Hoad regained mastery over Pancho Gonzales Tuesday night and increased his lead in their professional tennis series. Hoad has won 21 matches and Gonzales 18.

Injuries Jinx Hits Teams in Spring Training

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The hazards of spring baseball training were emphasized Tuesday when Jack Harshman, lame back pitcher who was traded to Baltimore Orioles during the winter by the Chicago White Sox, was stung by a scorpion. It was one of a series of ailments reported from the cactus and grapefruit front.

The poisonous insect, which apparently crawled into Harshman's uniform, stung the southpaw in the small of the back as he was dressing. Harshman, who said recently he would be able to pitch the entire season if his back didn't both him any more than at present, was treated and then watched the game. Charlie Beamon and Skinny Brown shut out the San Francisco Giants 1-0 on eight hits.

Examinations by a neurologist and head x-rays were ordered for Dusty Rhodes, Giants outfielder and 1954 world series star, who has been complaining of severe headaches for two weeks.

Dick Drott, who won 15 games for Chicago Cubs in 1957, was bumped at the plate by Gene Woodling of the Cleveland Indians and in falling sprained his ankle. Drott was carried out on a stretcher and will be sidelined from a week to 10 days.

Al Smith, Chicago White Sox outfielder obtained in a trade with Cleveland, has been out 19 days with an inflamed tendon in his right leg. The club doctor said Tuesday Smith would be out at least 10 more days.

Clem Labine, Los Angeles relief hurler, was struck on the right ankle by Bob Cerv's line drive and may be out a week or more. The Dodgers beat the Kansas City As 5-4 in 10 innings.

Howe's Condition Source of Worry To 'Jolly Jawn'

DETROIT (AP) — General manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings is concerned about the sub-par condition of star right winger Gordie Howe with the Stanley Cup playoffs less than a week away.

"He has sinus trouble", Adams said. "His play has been sluggish and he's not checking his man."

Adams said Howe would have his sinuses x-rayed today in the hope that the difficulty could be cleared up by Tuesday's opening of the National Hockey League playoffs.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—E. P. Taylor, president of the Ontario Jockey Club, says Canadian-bred horses will soon be able to hold their own with those from any country.

He told Tuesday's annual meetings of the OJC a "vastly improved" band of mares and sires being used for breeding in Canada and particularly in Ontario "indicate the day is fast approaching when the Canadian bred will hold his own in any land."

Canadian breeding and racing history was made last year, the country's leading breeder said, when Niagara Falls, a bay colt by Chop Chop out of Asquith, owned by Mrs. J. McDougald of Toronto, became the first native thoroughbred to win a race in England.

Mr. Taylor who was unanimously returned as president along with the entire board of directors, said this year's running of the Queen's Plate — the 99th — will be run "for the first time under classic conditions."

There were no longer any restrictions as to ownership, training location or competition in prior races, only that the horses be three-year-olds foaled in Canada.

Toronto Marlies Nudge Belleville In OMHA Midget Series Opener 2-1

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Outscored but definitely not outplayed was the story of the Belleville midgets here last night as they dropped a nip-and-tuck 2-1 decision to the Toronto Marlboros in an OMHA playdown fixture.

The Marlies will thus carry a one-goal lead into the second game of the two-game goals-to-count series, to be played at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens this Saturday at 10.00 a.m.

Belleville has eliminated Kingston and Oshawa in the first two rounds, the Toronto series being the provincial quarter-finals.

Russ Soule's battling crew faced a bigger club last night, well-coached in the fundamentals of hockey. Nevertheless, Belleville played its usual digging game and had a slight edge in play over the route. They found the going tough inside the Toronto blueline against the junior-sized Toronto Maple Leaf handled team.

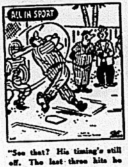
Both goalies, Gord Parker of Belleville and Toronto's Ray Perani, came up with some great saves over the distance while at other times the clubs shot wide or over the net when in close.

Marlies took a 1-0 lead in the opening stanza when Norm Stewart slapped home a rebound during a scramble near the goalmouth. Jon Weeks received an assist on the play.

Neither club scored during the middle twenty minutes with the play being fairly even. Toronto collected two of the three penalties in the first period while Belleville picked up the extra one of three in the second.

Belleville had a great chance when Bathgate of Toronto was penalized at 19.06 of the second and Frank Ridley at the fifty second mark of the third, giving the home club a two-man advantage for 16 seconds. But they could not dent the visiting custodian's armor and shortly after Bathgate's return Toronto made it 2-0. Ridley was still in the sin bin when Jon Weeks scored on a solo effort at 1.42.

Belleville never quit trying and the persistence paid off at 8.40. D'Arcy Lawrence bagged Belleville's lone goal with Moe Hunter assisting, following another close play at the Toronto goalmouth.



"See that? His timing's still off. The last three hits he aimed for left field went over the right field fence!"

Referees for the game were Mike Rain of Belleville and "Zip" Thompson of Toronto.

Marlboros drew five of the game's eight minor penalties and the only misconduct of the contest. Larry Mavety had all three Belleville penalties, Brien Screen had two minors for Toronto and also the ten minute penalty when he protested his second minor sentence at 13.36 of the third period.

Lineups— Toronto: R. Perani, F. Ridley, D. McKnight, J. Weeks W. Moorhouse, C. Sargent, N. Stewart, R. Earl, D. Bathgate, K. Winterstein, T. Ridley, A. Gillies, B. Screen.

Belleville: G. Parker, J. Sheridan, L. Mavety, G. Duggan, P. Zakos, B. McQuire, D. Lawrence, M. Hunter, B. Ethier, B. Hill, S. Muirhead, H. Pointer, J. Boulter, P. Weston, E. Keller.

Marlies, Teeps Play 1-1 Tie; Irish Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There is a possibility of an all-Toronto final for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A championship, on the form of Tuesday night's semi-final games.

Toronto St. Michael's were the most impressive of the two Toronto teams in the semi-final. They whipped Hamilton Cubs 7-1 before 2,224 Toronto fans to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five series. The first game was tied.

Toronto Marlboros just managed a 1-1 tie with the powerful St Catharines Teepees before 3,200 hometown fans to leave their best-of-seven series tied 2-2, but the Marlboros have won the last two games and look stronger each time while Teepees — who led the league—look weaker.

St. Michael's beat the Cubs by outplaying them at their own game — forechecking, backchecking and tireless skating. The winners got three of their goals by stealing the puck from Hamilton attackers and held an astounding 44-14 shooting margin.

SEVEN SCORE

Seven St. Michael players shared the scoring—Jack Martin, Darryl Sly, Hank Marczak, Dave Keon, Gino Ubriaco, Jim Sonoski and Lou Angotti. Jerry Sullivan scored Cubs' goal.

At St. Catharines, Stan Mikita putthe Teepees out in front at 17:36 of the first and it stayed that way until Marlboros' Wally Boyer tied the score at 4:12 of the third.

Marlboros outshot their hosts 34-22 during the game but Toronto goalie Len Broderick had the most difficult drives to handle. Both goalies, however, made several brilliant stops.

Teepees had difficulty mounting any concerted attack and the big disappointment was John McKenzie, the league scoring champion who is widely touted as a coming professional star.

McKenzie was benched for indifferent play in the third period and coach Glen Sonmor said "if he doesn't play any better than that he won't see much action tomorrow night either."

Tonight the Marlboros are host to the Teepees and Thursday St. Michaels play in Hamilton.

Hockey Needs Housecleaning Says Bishop

TORONTO (CP) — The Anglican Bishop of Huron says hockey with a little house cleaning—could "reach Olympian heights of skill and favor among all northern peoples."

Rt. Rev. G. N. Luxton, 57, of London, Ont., in a letter to The Globe and Mail, asks that penalties be imposed on players "whenever there is a deliberate attack on the body of a player rather than on the hockey puck itself."

Thus, he says, "this final remnant of the jungle could be taken out of our contemporary hockey."

GROWS LYRICAL

The bishop, who watches Saturday night National Hockey League games on television from Toronto, says:

"I admire the jet-age speed of contemporary hockey . . . The skating is entirely admirable: the stick handling, combination and defence work delight the heart. The net-attack is a marvel of sharp-shooting, and the goaltending is on most occasions superb. I find it easy to grow lyrical in my description of the game, and in expressing my appreciation to the young men who give themselves to it with such ardor and skill."

He objects, however, to bodychecking, "giving a player 'the boards,' and obvious attempts "by a player to 'get' another player."

Says the bishop:

"For those who would consider such a reformation as a 'sissy' move, and one that would rob hockey of its manly fervor, I should like to ask if baseball would be improved if immediately before the final strike the catcher were allowed to kick the batter on the shins? Or would basketball gain greater favor if players were allomed to gouge an opponent's face in the midst of the game?"

FORECAST FINE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Most of Canada will enjoy normal or above-normal temperatures for the next 30 days, the United States weather bureau reports. The long-range forecast indicates above - normal temperatures for Northern Ontario and Manitoba and normal for Southern Ontario.

Kerwin Earns Split Verdict Over Dupas

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Cocky Gale Kerwin's boxing pride has been restored by his 10-round split decision Tuesday night over Davey Dupas in a return lightweight engagement that had all the earmarks of a grudge fight. Kerwin weighed 140, Dupas 140¼.

The colorful little Ottawa battler who now fights out of Valley Stream, N.Y., came off the deck in the sixth round to take the decision over Dupas, Texas state lightweight champion. On March 3, it was Dupas who won by a split decision over Kerwin in Dallas, Texas.

Kerwin took an eight - count knockdown in the sixth after a hard right and a sharp left hook to the chin from Dupas. It was the only knockdown in the fight, although Kerwin buckled Dupas' legs in the seventh with a hard right.

Dupas and Kerwin fought head-to-head most of the way only occasionally stepping back for long-range fighting.

The decision was both booed and applauded by segments of the crowd of more than 5,000 in the Ottawa Auditorium. It was the first pro boxing card in the capital in more than a year.

The crowd laughed and booed when the hometown Irish boy of 23 entered the ring wearing a St. Patrick's Day green top hat with green ribbon.

Judge Dave Geary scored the fight five rounds for Kerwin, one for Dupas and four even. Referee Gordy Montagano scored it 6-1-3 for Kerwin, while judge Reg Flint scored it five for Dupas, three for Kerwin and two even.

Quebec Hockey

MONTREAL (CP)—The power-laden Chicoutimi Sagueneens dominated a veteran group of players selected to the Quebec Hockey League's first and second all-star teams announced by the league today.

Sagueneens, who made a shambles of the league's championship race, placed a total of seven men on the teams, including coach Phil Renauld as pilot of the first squad. The selections were made by 23 sportswriters and sportcasters.

Representing Chicoutimi on the first squad were centre Guy Rousseau, left winger Jacques Locas and defenceman Georges Roy. Goalie Gilles Boisvert, centre Greig Hicks and defenceman Jacques Deslauriers placed on the second.

Two Montreal Royals players, goalie Charlie Hodge and defenceman Jack (Red) Bownass, filled out the first squad along with right winger Jean Paul Denis of Shawinigan Cataracts.

Right winger Jacques Gagnon of Quebec Aces, Shawinigan left winger Claude Laforge and defenceman John Hanna of Trois-Rivieres Lions were the other members of the second team.

Fred Shero of the Cataracts, who sometimes doubles as a defenceman, was named coach.

Bulldozers Will Soon Level Wonderful Old Sets on Lot

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Let's take a nostalgic trip around the 20th Century-Fox back lot.

Bulldozers will soon level all those wonderful old sets as the film company converts the valuable acreage into a mammoth "century city."

"A lot of the old buildings will be destroyed," explained George Dudley, veteran of the studio art department who accompanied the tour. "They can't be moved like ordinary buildings because they are only fronts."

The first structure on the lot was the stable where Tom Mix kept Tony and other nags. Now the studio armory, it will be felled to make room for new sound stages.

To the north of the studio is Tombstone, a western town originally built for a Randy Scott film. The picture, Frontier Marshal, was a flop, but the set was a hit, repeating for The Oxbow incident, The Gunfighter and others.

Some of the other landmarks: A replica of Grauman's Chinese theatre, built for Dancing in the Dark . . . the London locale made for Hangover Square. . . .

Chicago Lake, created for In Old Chicago and later the waterfront of several movie cities. . . . Boston's Beacon Street, which dates from The Late George Apley.

A biblical village built for Eddie Cantor's Ali Baba and used for The Robe and many other epics . . . the Temple for The Egyptian, later converted to Bangkok splender for The King and I . . . a stone castle where Prince Valiant withstood the Viking invasion. . . .

The southern mansion where Shirley Temple starred as "The Littlest Colonel . . . the flight deck of Wing and a Prayer and a graveyard of war airplanes of all kinds . . . the Scottish Village where Gregory Peck was born in The Keys to the Kingdom. . . .

A suburban street, built for the wholesome goings-on of the Jones Family series and used most recently for Peyton Place . . . an old New York street with its brownstone fronts. . . .

French square, home of Forever Amber . . . the railroad shed, built for The Return of Frank James . . . the Roman circus of Demetrius and the Gladiators, more recently the scene of the boar's head dance in South Pacific.

"This is the waterway," said Dudley, pointing to green-lined channels built as the Erie Canal in The Farmer Takes a Wife.

"It's the most beautiful part of the lot, and I'm going to miss it."

So will I.

Dutchies, Dogs Tie 6-6 in Finals Opener

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen and Windsor Bulldogs battled to a 6-6 overtime tie before 2,859 fans Tuesday night in the opening game of the OHA-NOHA Senior A finals.

Centreman Irwin Grosse collected two of the Windsor markers, with singles going to Bobby Brown, Wally Maxwell, Reg Abbott and Lou Bendo.

After Bulldogs took a 2-1 lead in the first period, Dutchies roared back to score four consecutive goals within four minutes and 52 seconds of the second period.

Bulldogs fought back and trailed only 6-5 going into the final period. Bendo scored the tying goal on a breakaway with Ches Warchol at 2:31.

Second game in the best-of-seven series will be played in Windsor Friday.

Request Changes In Hunting and Fishing Seasons

TORONTO (CP) — Changes in fishing and hunting seasons were among requests made in three briefs presented Monday to the Ontario legislature's fish and wildlife committee.

The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters asked that Ontario's open season for lake trout [illegible] Sept. 24 instead of Oct. 15 [illegible] that the duck-hunting season in the central area be changed to run from Sept. 15 to Dec. 15, with opening-day shooting beginning at 9 a.m. throughout the province.

Other briefs were submitted by the conservation association from Ompah, a community near Kingston, and the Conservation Council of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

President J. C. Dunham of the Ompah association asked the lands and forests department to expand the rearing of Kamloops trout.

ASK LOCAL CHANGES

The brief from Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry sought a number of local changes, headed by the question of the Quebec-Ontario boundary in the St. Lawrence River and Lake St. Francis areas. Also requested were an additional game overseer for Cornwall and a larger area to be set aside for archers to hunt deer.

The Federation of Anglers and Hunters asked that open seasons be allowed for deer in Southern Ontario "in order that the herd will be maintained at a level not detrimental to private property and the travelling public."

Among the federation's requests was a demand for a ban on trolling and casting with gang hooks before the bass season opening in Lake St. Clair.

Secretary H. V. Sutton said many fishermen are trolling when bass are guarding their minnows. The fish struck at approaching lures and died when released, leaving their young to be eaten by other fish.

The federation also asked for an expansion of joint administration by the lands and forests department and the United States Forest Service to preserve the Rainy Lake and Pigeon River woodlands between Lake Superior and Lake of the Woods.

Canning Plant Closes

EXETER (CP)—The Canadian Canners Limited plant here, which supplied employment for about 250 workers from June to December, will not operate this year, Mayor R. E. Pooley said here Monday night. The firm announced a backlog in stock was the reason for the shut-down.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, March 19

Aries (March 21 to April 19)— Many dull chores have to be done today, but you will have an opportunity to learn easier ways of doing them. See that you plan your time wisely, too, and you can turn labor into a pleasurable game.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— The dreary outlook today can be changed to a wonderfully happy thing if you contact that delightful person you know, after you take care of immediate work at hand. Tonight, take it easy, relax.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — You find that the home is a haven of refuge and rest today after much squabbling in the outside world because of excitable contacts. See that you steer clear of entering into any arguments. Tonight, be calm.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — While you will be bored-almost to tears getting those obligations met today before you can go into the activities that most interest and fascinate you, meet them philosophically. P. M. be gay and happy.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A dynamic partner, or one to whom you owe money can today give you quite a raking over the coals to get you to wake up more. Listen and learn but don't let it get under your skin. P. M. enjoy yourself inexpensively.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)— Feeling weighted down at own abode, it is best you execute your duties there with alacrity and get out into the world of activity and put matters in order there, too. See that nothing touches your good name.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — It may appear impossible to get your abode in just the condition you wish it, even until late this evening. Take time out to put statements in order, do shopping, etc. But be careful on the road.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)— Refrain from fretting over money matters, work that has to be done on your property, or your job today. Give devotion to those you love and be happy. A sweet smile will open many a door, regardless.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — It would be the height of wisdom to be far more kind and thoughtful of close ties today. Pay heed to what they have to say and show appreciation for any good suggestions. Don't put others up to them as shining examples.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A private anxiety can so upset you today that you won't be worth a nickel on your job, or other place of work. Spend time studying printed matter and get wind on constructive channels quickly, with determination.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Plan the hours today so that changes. Then the chart is fine, you can accomplish much in practical work which has to be done as well as co-ordinate your efforts with those of friends who want to labor on some joint venture with you. P.M. be loyal.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You could become terribly upset over some creditor hounding you, or your superior lashing the whip for no seemingly good reason, if you allow it. Work quietly and give attention to your appearance instead.

If your child is born today... The rather contrary - minded child born today is the kind who must ever be doing things in the most difficult way, and the only way to break this habit is to let him or her suffer the consequences early so that the attitude for your progeny will tackle any job, no matter how difficult, and get it done just for the sport and the challenge in it.

GUY GETS LEGAL OKAY

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Robert Ozell Moseley officially became Guy Madison Tuesday. Madison, 36, who portrays Wild Bill Hickok on television, told a court he wanted to make his professional name his legal name

Stratford Players Praised For New York Presentation

NEW YORK (CP)—A troupe of strolling players from the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival Company came to New York Tuesday night with Two Gentlemen of Verona for a limited six-weeks run. By the reaction to the first night, New York will be sorry to see them return to Canada.

Mark Barron of The Associated Press says of the performance at the off-Broadway Phoenix Theatre: "An effervescent delight behind the footlights."

"It is a strikingly colorful production," the AP critic adds, "one in which the Canadian version has changed Shakespeare's Elizabethan mood to a Regency era, thereby allowing more colorful costumes and such painting groups."

Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times calls it "a regal and stately production" under Michael Langham's direction.

"Everything is quite elegant in handsome costumes designed by Tanya Moiseiwitch," he says, "and the simple setting, also by Miss Moiseiwitch, is bewitchingly effective.

"Everyone . . . speaks the lines clearly and devotedly, and there is a nice over-all pictorial quality."

CANADIANS FIRST-RATE

The Canadian players, he adds, are "first-rate."

"Eric House is a suitably ardent Valentine . . . Lloyd Bochner as the two-timing Protheus is an effective suitor . . . Ann Morrish's Julia is beguiling while Diana Maddox' Silvia is cool, gay and most attractive.

"There are nicely etched contributions by Eric Christmas as an old and doddering never-say-die wooer (Sir Eglamour) and Douglas Campbell, whose Duke of Milan is robust and effective.

"That this Canadian company has come by its paudits honestly cannot be gainsaid. It has style, intelligence and an affection for the work in hand. And it knows how to speak the verse with clarity and a touch of music."

Walter Kerr of the New York Herald Tribune, while devoting most of his review to the merits of the play itself, sums up by saying "it simply adds competence to competence."

Barron adds:

"Although it is one of Shakespeare's seldom-performed minor plays, this Stratford festival group makes it an effervescent delight behind the footlights. They use all sorts of imaginative costumes and dances, and occasional music by Louis Applebaum, to tell this story. . . .

"Diana Maddox is beautifully regal as Silvia and Ann Morrish is delightful in her disguise as Julia when she appears as a young man in order to recapture her lover.

"COLOR AND EXCITEMENT"

"Now there is color and excitement about this once-trivial story about Valentine, a nobleman in Italy, who falls in love with a duke's daughter, Silvia. He calls on his friend, Protheus, to assist him in his Romeo-and-Juliet problem. Pretheus abandons his own sweetheart, Julia, to aid his friend. . . .

"It is curious that Two Gentlemen of Verona has been so seldom done in various Shakespeare pageants throughout the world. But this splendid production should pave the way for it to be included in many future productions."

Langham said after the opening that he thought the performance was "warmly received." The Canadian group took eight curtain calls.

In advance of the published reviews, he had an answer ready: "The press represents a wide range of view and opinion."

Canadians in the first-night audience included Norman Robertson, ambassador to the United States, C. S. A. Ritchie, permanent delegate to the United Nations, Jules Leger, undersecretary of state for external affairs, and Harry A. Scott, consul-general in New York.

Get Sentences In Penitentiary For Robbery

SARNIA (CP) — Gene Louis Norland, 28, of Petrolia, Ont. was sentenced today to four years in penitentiary for his part in the armed robbery of a 63-year-old store owner at Bright's Grove on Feb. 4.

Testimony at his trial last week was that Norland and George Herbert Burke, 18, also of Petrolia had held up store owner Roy Smith.

Burke pleaded guilty two weeks ago to his part in the holdup and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

SOCRED LEADER

Nova Scotia Liberal Leader Henry Hicks said at Westville, N.S., that Mr. Pearson's proposal to reduce taxes to stimulate employment is "getting fast support from leading economists in this country and the U.S."

Labor Minister Michael Starr said at Glace Bay, N.S., the Liberals were a good-time government and didn't know how to run the nation's business in a recession.

Former Liberal resources minister Jean Lesage said at Montreal the Conservatives won the June election last year on "doubletalk." Had the Liberals not followed the policy they did during the Suez crisis, over Conservative criticism, "we would be at war today."

Mines Minister Paul Comtois said that the Progressive Conservative government had kept faith with the people of Quebec and confounded the Liberals who said the Conservatives were anti-French and anti-Catholic.

Addressing a Montreal rally, Mr. Comtois said that since the Conservatives took office a cordial and co-operative atmosphere existed between the federal and provincial governments.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead,—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Dodd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order,—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dodd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dodd's. 54

WEAK LEADERSHIP

In other House business Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender introduced legislation broadening the powers of the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

MAKES IT OFFENCE

His bill would make it an offence to contravene an order of the commission respecting the collection, production, treatment, storage, transmission, or distribution of water for public purposes.

In addition the commission would have control of all surface and ground waters used for water supply and would be able to examine all surface and ground waters for pollution.

The commission could refuse approval for a water works program or impose conditions for the public interest.

Another bill introduced by Attorney-General Roberts would extend to 21 days from 15 days the time in which summonses for offences under the Highway Traffic Act have to be given to an accused motorist.

Stricter inspections of ditches by contractors would be required under an amendment to the Trench Excavators Protection Act introduced by Labor Minister Daley.

'JUST ROUTINE'

The Sudbury also sent a radio aboard the crippled vessel to ensure close contact. On FFriday the Greek crew said they were in need of more food and 100 pounds of meat and three cases of tinned food was sent aboard.

"They must have been starving," said tug deckhand Ken Jacobsen, 19. "As soon as we put food aboard we saw smoke coming out of the stack—no smoke had been coming out of it for days before."

The Andros Legend's chief steward, George Cardesis, denied the crew was on the verge of starvation. He said he stocked up with plenty of food when the ship left Japan but "due to the rough weather and the accident, we ran short of fresh food."

Officials of the ship's agents refused to permit reporters to question crew members of the freighter. An official of the firm said "there's a lot more involved here than conversation." He refused to identify the captain of the ship.

The freighter was 17 days out of Osaka, Japan, on her way to Texada Island in the Gulf of Georgia to pick up a cargo of iron ore when the accident occurred.

The largest man-made, non-atomic explosion ever detonated is scheduled for April 5 inside Ripple Rock, 150 miles north of Vancouver in Seymour Narrows. Mrs. Eileen Yates Named Deputy City Solicitor

HAMILTON (CP) — Mrs. Eileen Yates, who last week tendered her resignation to board of control, was appointed deputy city solicitor by a 12 to 6 vote Monday night.

City council approved the appointment after two hours of heated debate, in which some members of council charged they were being pressured into making a decision by resignation of four members of the city solicitor's department.

The recommendation for Mrs. Yates' appointment, presented to council originally last week, was referred back, following a closed meeting, for further consideration. The following morning Mrs. Yates served notice of her intention to resign and three other members of the parliament followed suit.

When city solicitor Alan Stewart, appointed early this year, served notice he would resign if the resignations were not quickly withdrawn, Monday night's special council meeting was called to reconsider Mrs. Yates' appointment.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Tunisian Leader Blisters France But Backs West

French Conservatives May Turn on Gaillard

TUNIS (AP)—President Habib Bourguiba today reaffirmed his desire to keep this North African country on the side of the West, but launched a blistering new demand that France pull her troops out of his "occupied" country.

Although he roundly denounced the French, the Tunisian leader did not follow through on his threat to break with the West today, the second anniversary of Tunisia's independence from France. Instead, he said in a speech to the National Assembly broadcast throughout the country:

"We have to prefer co-operation with the West in order to shut the gates of hell . . . once again we must reason and remain lucid."

SEEK SETTLEMENT

Leaning heavily on the Anglo-American good offices mission now trying to patch up the bitter dispute between France and her former protectorate, he said:

"The French troops which occupy our country will be evacuated. The turn of Bizerte (the French naval base in northern Tunisia) will come. Its evacuation will also take place some day."

This was a reference to the modified proposals Bourguiba and the good offices team worked out which the United States and British negotiators now are discussing with French Premier Felix Gaillard in Paris. They call for progressive evacuation of French troops, a French declaration of Tunisian sovereignty over Bizerte and further negotiations on French withdrawal from the naval base.

FRENCH OPPOSITION

Bitter right-wing opposition to the proposals in Paris have endangered their chances of acceptance by Gaillard's government, however.

A protocol signed two years ago today granted Tunisia independence but allowed France to retain troops at bases in the country. Bourguiba demanded the removal of all French troops after French planes from Algeria bombed a Tunisian border village, killing 79 persons. The French claimed the village was a headquarters for Algerian rebels.

PARIS (Reuters)—French Conservative leaders met today to decide whether to stay in or walk out of Premier Felix Gaillard's coalition government.

Withdrawal of the three Conservative members from the 17-man cabinet would lead to Gaillard's immediate resignation, the premier has told some of his ministers.

The latest crisis is reported to have been caused by the Anglo-American "good offices" mission which had tried to settle Franco-Tunisian differences. Today's speech by the Tunisian president calling for a new independence battle is expected to complicate the situation further.

Gaillard and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau were reported to have agreed, in principle to a conciliation deal proposed by American representative Robert Murphy and his British counterpart, Harold Beeley, calling for withdrawal of French troops from Tunisian airfields.

SEE ALGERIAN USE

Conservatives and nationalist groups in the National Assembly are strongly opposed to such withdrawal because they say it will leave the Tunisian airfields free to be used by Algerian rebels.

According to the secretary of state for air, Louis Christiaens, French radar on these airfields in one night alone this week recorded 18 unidentified aircraft flying over Tunisia.

Apart from the airfields, feeling has been growing in France that the Anglo-American mission should never have been accepted by Gaillard. Some French politicians also feel Gaillard's proposal for a western Mediterranean defence pact, with which the United States and Britain would be associated, would cause a French defeat in Algeria.

Battle Renewed Around Medan

SINGAPORE Reuters — Renewed fighting between Indonesian government and rebel forces was reported today in the see-saw battle for the north Sumatran capital of Medan, current focal point of the uprising.

The Indonesian state airline here reported Medan airport closed to all traffic today. A Dutch liner in port there radioed she was taking aboard 470 American, British and Dutch residents fleeing from the fighting.

Des Alwi, press officer here for the Sumatran rebels, said fighting was ranging in the suburbs of the city.

The rebels claimed to have taken the town early this week. Government forces countered with a claim Wednesday that rebel forces had been driven 50 miles outside the city limits with heavy losses inflicted.

But a rebel radio broadcast claimed rebel forces had pulled back to spare Medan the effects of street fighting.

There was no government confirmation early today that fighting had resumed in the town.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Ontario is still covered by a layer of moist air resulting in generally cloudy skies and a few snowflurries. A vigorous Atlantic storm, moving northward along the Atlantic seaboard, is causing rain and snow over a wide area of the eastern United States. Further intensification of this storm will result in some strengthening of winds over Ontario.

Bulganin Again Accuses West of Warlike Moves

LONDON (AP) — The Western Allies' most prolific pen pal has said anew that the West is rushing war preparations while delaying a summit conference by insisting on discussion of unacceptable terms.

Soviet Premier Bulganin's fresh wording of old demands and accusations came in another letter to Prime Minister Macmillan, made public today.

Bulganin gave no hint that the Kremlin is willing to modify its conditions for the summt talks Progress toward the meeting of government heads is now stalled by the inability of the Russians and the West to agree on either what will be talked about or the level at which to open preliminary negotiations.

CITES MISSILES AGREEMENT

This time the Soviet premier wrote that the West is rushing "war preparations which cannot but worsen the international situation." He cited the recent agreement for American intermediate-range missiles to be based in Britain and plans to place the nuclear warhead weapons in some other countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Officials in London and Washington concluded that the main purpose of the letter was another attack on the supplying by the United States of nuclear missiles to its European Allies.

On summit topics suggested by both sides, Bulganin continued to demand that discussions be held within limitations — unacceptable to the West—which would ensure the outcome Russia wants.

Arrival of Spring Brings Snow, Sleet and Winds to Eastern U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Snow and sleet storms pelted eastern parts of the United States today, making a wintry, slushy scene for the arrival of the spring season.

Gusty winds up to 45 miles an hour whipped the snow and sleet across wide areas of the middle and north Atlantic states during the night and this morning.

Up to 16 inches of snow fell in northern suburbs of Baltimore overnight—and snow continued to fall. Depths from 10 to 15 inches were in prospect for many areas in Maryland and in eastern Pennsylvania.

Snow and sleet eight to 10 inches deep gave a mid-wintry look to sections of Washington. Snow mixed with rain also fell in New York City.

Temperatures were far from spring-like in the storm areas, with readings in the 30s and below freezing.

Spring makes its official entry at 10:06 p.m. EST tonight, but it felt much like winter in most of the country.

NON-CONFIDENCE MOTIONS READY TO BE VOTED ON

Frost Govt. in No Danger of Losing

TORONTO (CP)—Two non-confidence motions in the Ontario government will be voted on today, Premier Frost told the legislature Wednesday night.

The non-confidence motions, both in the form of amendments to the throne speech, are presented by the leaders of the Liberal and CCF parties.

However, the vote taking is expected to be strictly a formality with the present House standing giving the government 81 seats, Liberals 10, CCF three and Liberal-Labor one. Three seats are vacant.

Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver has moved that the speech from the throne, read by the lieutenant-governor at the opening of the session, be amended to mention the government's failure to take effective action to meet rising unemployment in the province.

FARMING, HOUSING

Mr. Oliver also called for the government to correct an ever worsening condition of agriculture. CCF Leader Donald MacDonald moved amendments to Mr. Oliver's amendments adding criticism of the housing situation and the present hog marketing machinery.

In the debate Wednesday night, a Progressive Conservative member joined the argument against removing firemen from diesel locomotives in railway freight and yard service.

J. F. Edwards (PC—Perth) told the House that engineers "suffer for weeks" after accidents at railway crossings and should not be left alone in engine cabs.

"Someone else should be in there if for no other reason than safety," he said.

Albert Wren (L-Labor — Kenora) has a resolution before the House backing diesel firemen and A. R. Herbert (PC—Timiskaming), vice-chairman of the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission, has said he doesn't favor taking firemen off Ontario Northland Railway trains.

Mr. Edwards also criticized layoffs by the CPR and CNR in Perth County.

CRITICIZES DEMERITS

Another speaker in the throne speech debate was F. M. Cass (PC—Grenville-Dundas) who criticized a provision in the proposed demerit driving system which would assign five demerits to a driver after a licence suspension and reinstatement.

"He's lost the licence and paid his penalty," said Mr. Cass. "Why make the pour soul start out with a disadvantage?"

The provision was contrary to British justice—and so was the use of unmarked police cars.

W. A. Stewart (PC—Middlesex North) called for full refund of the 13-cent gasoline tax to farmers.

Before the tax was raised to 13 cents from 11 cents a year ago, he said, the farmer received an 11-cent refund on every gallon.

"If the farmer is entitled to an 11-cent refund he should get the 13-cent refund."

National Parole Board Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Davie Fulton said Wednesday that Canadian penitentiaries within four months will be operating a system of automatic parole review for prisoners.

He said the government is considering the establishment of a national parole board as part of a long-range plan of penal reform.

Jobless, Fisheries Mingle As Election Campaign Topics

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An optimistic view of unemployment and a critical stand on fishing jurisdiction over coastal waters have been mingled in the shrinking campaign for the March 31 federal election.

Labor Minister Michael Starr said in Montreal Wednesday night the present unemployment situation has ended sooner than the Progressive Conservative government expected.

He said a drop between January and February in the rate of increase in unemployment numbers was due to government policies. The present unemployment situation would be over by mid-June.

"We knew these policies would correct the situation but we did not think the favorable results would be reflected so quickly," he said. "This means an end of the unemployment picture as we have known it this winter."

Fittingly, former Liberal fisheries minister James Sinclair turned thoughts to fish in Vancouver Wednesday and criticized the government for sending George Drew, former national Conservative leader and now Canadian high commissioner, to a recent international conference on the law of the sea.

Mr. Sinclair said a high official from the fisheries department should have been sent to safeguard the interests of Canadian fishermen at the 32-country conference in Geneva.

He said Mr. Drew didn't go far enough in proposing that Canada exercise complete control over fishing within the three-mile territorial limit and that Canadian regulations apply to foreign fishing operations in a further nine-mile zone off Canada's coasts.

Mr. Sinclair, seeking re-election for Coast-Capilano, said Canada should insist that the whole 12-mile zone be under exclusive Canadian jurisdiction for fisheries purposes.

While the political linemen were smashing away, the quarterbacks tried for some yards as well.

In a speech at Chilliwack, B.C., Social Credit Leader Solon Low said an international commodity clearing house should be established "for the orderly, sensible distribution of unsaleable surplus of food products."

This would be one of the "guiding principles" of Social Credit farm policy, which would ensure farmers a fair share of the national income.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker concentrated on meeting people at coffee - and - cake receptions in Toronto Wednesday and he moved into Northern Ontario, where Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson was already at work. They would be within about 100 to 150 miles of each other in the Sudbury and Little Current areas.

Accept Bases or Quit NATO Seen West Germany's Choice

BONN (CP) — Chancellor Adenauer said today West Germany must equip itself with atomic weapons and permit rocket bases on its soil if NATO considers that necessary for Western defence.

Otherwise, he told the Socialist opposition, West Germany must get out of the North Atlantic alliance.

"If we refuse the technical advice of NATO military experts, then we are withdrawing from NATO." And West Germany could not withdraw from NATO if it were determined to play its part in defending the free world against potential Soviet aggression.

West Germany's opposition labor party has been loudly demanding that Adenauer's government renounce atomic weapons and refuse to let American missiles be based in West Germany in the hopes that this would make the Russians more amenable to German reunification.

Adenauer used the forum of a major foreign-policy debate in parliament to set forth as clearly as he has ever done his government's military and foreign policy.

The main purpose of the debate is to clarify the West German attitude on a summit conference. Adenauer's professed policy is to see that any new East-West meeting takes up the four-power directive on Germany signed at the last summit meeting providing for reunification by free elections.

The Russians now say this plan is unacceptable, that the only way to German unity is through negotiations between East and West.

ACTOR INJURED

DENVER (AP)—Joe Kirkwood, the movies' Joe Palooka, escaped injury Wednesday night when he crash-landed his light plane at Denver's municipal airport.

Costs Money To Collect Small Amount

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — A taxpayer whose $44 payment arrived a day late at city hall because a snowstorm delayed the mail was sent another bill for two cents as a penalty payment. It cost the city three cents for a stamp, plus the cost of stationery and labor to collect the two cents.

Reporting the incident to city council, councilman James S. O'Brien commented that the whole thing "didn't seem like a paying proposition."

Wets Win Vote

TIMMINS (CP) — Neighboring Mountjoy Township voted overwhelmingly Wednesday in favor of liquor consumption with meals in local hotels.

The "wets" carried the day, 361 to 149.

Nearly 67 per cent of the eligible voters turned out in the plebiscite which climaxed a heated campaign by both factions. Township clerk Leo Leacock said the turnout compared with the 50-odd per cent that a municipal election usually attracts.

STOLE SON'S MONEY

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Joseph C. Deaton, 43, will be tried in court here on a charge of stealing the money his son was saving for college from a newspaper route. Police accused the elder Deaton, who is separated from his wife, of taking $250 his son, Joseph, kept in a locked closet.

GOVT. TO IMPOSE TOLLS ON BRIDGES SAYS MINISTER

Allan Announces Building Program

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government plans to impose tolls on bridges in a proposed new $100,000,000 building program in addition to other spans being built or already completed.

Construction of five new bridges is being considered, Highways Minister Allan told the legislature Wednesday as he introduced a bill providing for establishment of a toll authority.

The bill would permit the cabinet to "designate the Skyway over the Burlington Canal, the Fort Frances Causeway, any bridge over or tunnel under the Welland Canal or any international bridge or tunnel as a toll bridge."

Mr. Allan said international bridges are planned at the Niagara River and Sault Ste. Marie and he disclosed "there are presently discussions between Ontario and New York State relative to a new bridge in the Queenston area connecting our highway system with the New York Thruway."

Tolls would also be collected on "either or both bridges" at Rainy River and Fort Frances.

As for the Welland Canal, "it would seem that at least two bridges or tunnels would be required."

The highways minister disclosed that a deal has been made with the federal government for construction of a lift-bridge over the Burlington Canal —for both rail and motor traffic —which would be free from tolls.

"The possibilities mentioned above involve a very large sum of money—probably in the neighborhood of $100,000,000.

"This is over and above any highway program envisaged in the province. It is very obvious that if this program is to be proceeded with, of course, the principal revenues would come from tolls. It is therefore desirable that there should be general authority to proceed in the coming year if the necessity arises."

Mr. Allan gave no indication of what tolls might be charged but his bill set out penalties for those who might try to avoid paying them. Fines for a first offence would run from $5 to $10 and for subsequent offences $10 to $50.

Under the bill Ontario would be able to enter into agreements with other governments for the management of toll bridges.

Toronto Leafs Won't Drop Goalie Chadwick

TORONTO (CP)—Despite a flurry of late-season criticism, goaltender Ed Chadwick won't be dropped by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, acting manager Stafford Smythe said today.

"We have no intention of letting Chadwick go unless someone comes along and offers us Jacques Plante in return," Smythe said. Plante is Montreal Canadiens' outstanding netminder.

"We expect more of Chadwick of course, and we are trying to get goaltending insurance," Smythe said. "But we haven't given up on him."

Coach Billy Reay said: "All the criticism we made was with the intention of helping Ed, not belittling him. We hoped he would rise to the occasion when prodded like that. I never considered the idea of getting rid of him."

If Spring Fever Hits You Quick You Are Not in Love, You Are Sick

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The fever that's sprung in the spring, tra la, is blamed by a university professor on winter hothouse living.

Spring officially is at hand and that gives Dr. Laurence E. Morehouse a seasonal opportunity to offer his explanation.

The man in northern areas who reacts to ice and snow by creating a tropical climate within his home, hotel or automobile is a sure victim, avers this professor of physical education at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Morehouse, 44, contends the spring-fever victim is out of condition. His temperature-regulating tiny blood vessels under the skin over-react. This over-reaction creates above-normal temperature.

Thus, while Webster's Dictionary defines spring fever — "the lazy, listless feeling which comes to persons with the first warm days of spring" — as a humorous state, the victim actually has a feverish feeling of weakness and inaccurate temperature control.

To prevent spring fever—and this may do more good next year than this, if you've already got it —Morehouse suggests: Get daily physical activity, indoors or out, to keep your muscles from "hibernating" in winter months. Have frequent and regular exposure to temperature changes at a "graded and gradual pace."

Panic In Garment Shop Fire In N.Y. Claims 24 Lives

Most of Victims Died Before Hit by Flames

NEW YORK (AP) — Fire triggered by an explosion shot smoke and flames into a fourth-floor underwear factory in a lower Broadway building Wednesday, killing 24 persons—18 of them women.

The high death toll was attributed to panic among some of the 36 workers.

A man and woman lived through the two-hour blaze, while most of the victims died before the flames reached them.

Several women were leaping from windows by the time the first firemen reached the scene. Six women in all leaped to the street. Two other persons were caught in fire nets; five rescued via aerial ladders.

Fifteen persons were injured. Twelve persons, including a truck driver who aided the firefighters, are in hospitals, two in critical condition. The other three were treated and released.

BLAMES PANIC

Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh said there was no evidence of fire-law violations on the premises, adding:

"It would seem that panic played a most important role in this blaze. Some bodies were piled one on top of the other—evidence of mass hysteria. At least three jumped from windows where there was no evidence of smoke or flame."

In Albany, Governor Averell Harriman ordered the state department of labor and the division of safety to investigate the fire in co-operation with city officials.

Mrs. Edna Murray, 38, employed in the workrooms of the Monarch Underwear Corporation at 623 Broadway and who was led to safety by firemen, said: "There was heavy smoke. It was hard to see. People were bumping into each other. It looked like a panic."

The blaze broke out when an oven exploded shortly before 4 p.m. on the third-floor textile factory in the five-storey structure. A bolt of fabric was being treated in the oven when the blast came. The three employees on the third floor escaped unharmed, as did persons on all other floors but the fourth.

SEND EQUIPMENT

Five alarms brought 200 firemen and dozens of pieces of equipment to the scene. But it was almost 6 p.m.—two hours—before the firefighters, repeatedly balked by intense heat and smoke, were able to enter the fourth floor by aerial ladder.

They saw bodies piled atop one another. Some were heaped near the doorways, others lay under work tables and benches, and some were huddled near windows.

Still alive amid the charred ruins were an unidentified woman and a man. The woman had saved her life by crawling into a large metal container which shielded her from the flames. The streams of water being poured onto the fire cooled the metal enough to keep her from being roasted to death. The man was found flat on his face, hugging the floor. It was the worst fire in the city since Dec. 3, 1956, when nine persons perished and 247 were injured in an explosion and fire on a Brooklyn pier.

Scotsman Beats Electronic Brain Over Account

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters) — A shrewd Scotsman is two pennies richer today after tangling with an electronic brain over a money matter. Needless to say, the brain lost.

The battle began when Peter Currie, 48, received an electricity bill for £2, 12 shillings and six-pence.

After close examination of the charges the Scots-born customer figured his bill at £2 12 shillings and five pence halfpenny, and accused the company of overcharging him half a penny.

The company explained that their electronic calculator always works to the nearest penny.

"'Robbery is robbery whether committed by a machine or not," Currie retorted, so the company sent him the odd halfpenny.

But the Scotsman wasn't satisfied.

"'What about last September's account when I also lost a halfpenny," he said.

As a result three more halfpennies have poured into the Scotsman's purse.

Considerable Highway Work Planned for Area This Year

The Ontario Department of Highways will speed to completion the "missing link" section of Highway 401 between Belleville and Toronto, as well as completion of the Quinte area of the above thruway, it is indicated in the department works program for the fiscal years of 1958-[illegible]

The report is the capital works program for the highways department and lists highway construction projects scheduled for the next fiscal year. The report is released under the name of highways minister Hon. Jas. A. Allan.

Mr. Allan noted that the department proposed to continue the accelerated program on highway 401 in order to bring relief to critical sections of highways No. 2, 5, 7, and the Queen Elizabeth Way.

"The sections of highway 401 that have been opened, useful as they have already become, cannot bring full relief until extended and linked up as a whole," he said.

Work on 401 highway in the Quinte district planned for the year ahead includes completion of the paving on the Belleville-Trenton section; paving of close to 10 miles of new grade between Trenton and Highway 30 north of Brighton, as well as paving of the Belleville - Marysville section.

New structures planned for the above artery are the Wooler Road interchange, the Salmon bridge east of Belleville, and a new interchange at Highway 28 north of Brighton.

Missing links on the costly thruway between Brighton and Newcastle are also scheduled for grading.

The department had announced earlier that the Trenton to Marysville section of the highway would be paved before the end of 1958.

COMPLETE BRIDGE

Other highway work in the immediate Belleville area includes completion of the Blessington Creek bridge east of Belleville on Highway 2; and proposed new work included grading, culverts, granular base and paving on highway 37 from Belleville north to Corbyville and paving of 2.7 miles of development road from Madoc south.

In Prince Edward county proposed new work includes new grading, culverts and granular base on No. 33 highway from Bloomfield to Wellington, and the same operation on Highway 41 from Picton northerly to the new Lake Ontario Cement plant.

Further north a new bridge over the Ouse River at Norwood on No. 7 highway is planned.

To the east of Kaladar proposed new work includes grading, culverts and granular base from No. 7 highway north to Northbrook.

And in the Bancroft district a new bridge is planned for Eel's Creek at Apsley on No. 504 secondary road. Other secondary road work in the Bancroft area includes new grading on three miles of road north of Lake St. Peter; 3.7 miles grading on No. 500 road east of Bancroft, and one and a half miles west of Glanalda on road 504.

Mulching will be done on 2.3 miles of 127 road north of Lake St. Peter and on road 620 from highway 62 to Coe Hill, a distance of seven miles.

Wm. H. Eardley, N. E. Company, Goes on Pension

A veteran of 36 years' service with the company, William H. Eardley, Foxboro Road, will end his association with Northern Electric Company here tomorrow and will go on retirement leave prior to going on pension.

Mr. Eardley started with Northern in Montreal and came to Belleville with the company when it opened its Belleville plant. He came to this city heading up the manufacture of the Hammond Electric organ and in recent years has been in charge of the manufacture of special amplifying equipment.

He is the first Northern employee to go on service pension at the Belleville plant.

This afternoon fellow employees and company officials paid tribute to Mr. Eardley prior to his going on retirement leave. Chief Engineer John Grant presented him with the president's wallet. He also received his service fund cheque and was given a life membership in the Telephone Pioneers of America. Fellow employees presented him with a lazyboy chair. Mrs. Eardley received a lovely bouquet of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Eardley will continue to make Belleville their home but for the future expect to do considerable travelling. They hope to go south next winter and also take a leisurely trip to the West Coast. For hobbies, Mr. Eardley has his woodworking shop and a love of gardening.

They have one daughter, Mrs. Frank (Helen) Valentine, of Belleville.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police both reported a quiet nightwatch Wednesday night with little more than routine matters.

Provincial police had a clear sheet in their occurrence book, while city police reported theft of one car and the apprehension of a number of drunks.

Donald Cairns, R. R. 4, Trenton, had his car stolen from the Belleville Collegiate parking lot. The vehicle, a 1953 model was taken some time after seven o'clock.

Many Signs Of Spring in Quinte District

Today is the day we all have been looking for!

Today it's officially spring. According to the Canadian Almanac spring officially arrives this evening at 10.06 p.m., this despite the fact tradition has it that spring arrives on March 21st.

However, there have been many signs of spring in the Quinte area.

The Moira River is almost completely free of ice as far as Corbyville; the crows have been here for weeks, the groundhogs are out of their winter lairs and this morning a local resident spotted a red winged blackbird.

So all that is needed to convince us that spring is really here is a little bit of sunshine.

James Mills, 33, Charged With Theft of Mail

James Mills, 33, of 87 Humewood Drive, a six months' employee of the Belleville Post Office, was arrested here early Wednesday afternoon and charged with theft of mail. He was released on bail for court appearance on April 8th.

Investigation into the theft was made by John Collins and Kenneth McDonald, postal inspectors who have been in the city for the past week. Mr. Mills was arrested by City Detective Harold Reid on information laid by the postal inspectors.

It was reported that mail addressed to charitable organizations and believed to contain cash had been stolen. Mr. Mills started with the post office last October. He is a married man with one child.

Fred Norman Issues Libel Writ for $50,000

The Liberal candidate in Prince Edward-Lennox, Fred Norman, of Bath, Tuesday issued a libel writ in the amount of $50,000 against a bank, a collection agency and a bailiff.

Basis of the action is a summons served last week alleging non-payment on a judgment won against the Bath alderman in 1951 by the Toronto-Dominion Bank. Mr. Norman says he has receipts to show he made payments required by the division court and he is taking the libel action against the Toronto-Dominion Bank, the bailiff William Goodman, and a Kingston collection agency head, Edward R. Hinchey, whose agency, Credit Adjustment Bureau, acts as collector for the bank.

The amount which the collection agency alleges Mr. Norman did not pay in settlement of his action is $90. The Liberal candidate has retained a Kingston lawyer, L.S. Willoughby, to represent him.

"Sounds like a publicity stunt to me," sniffed one official concerned.

Mrs. Wiseman Will Be Speaker At Meeting

Guest speaker at the Salvation Army's League of Mercy divisional meeting Saturday will be the Territorial Secretary, Mrs. Col. C. D. Wiseman.

Mrs. Wiseman, wife of the chief secretary (second-in-command) for the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda, heads the 1,500 volunteer-member-League. The league, which had its inception in Toronto in 1892, is devoted to the visitation of those in hospitals and institutions. There are now League of Mercy Organizations in many parts of the world.

The guest speaker became interested in Salvation Army activities through its branch of the Girl Guide Movement in Toronto. She was a former leader of this movement.

She entered the Salvation Army's training college and was commissioned as an officer in 1927. She was appointed to the editorial department, and held the position of corps officer in such centres as Thedford, Exeter, Renfrew and Whitby.

In 1932 she married Captain Wiseman, and with him was stationed in Toronto, London and Montreal.

During World War II, while her husband served overseas, Mrs Wiseman devoted herself to welfare service for the troops, women's work, and Girl Guide work at the Danforth Corps in Toronto.

Following the war, the Wisemans were appointed to head the S. A. in Newfoundland, where they served for eight and a half years.

During this time, Mrs. Wiseman conducted a weekly Sunday School by radio and had an enrolment of over 4,000 boys and girls, many of them living in isolated parts of the island.

In addition to her duties as Territorial Secretary of the League of Mercy, Mrs. Wiseman also supports her husband in his varied Army activities.

Drug-Resistant Bacteria Kill Sixteen Babies

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A spreading bacterial infection which resists antibiotics has claimed the lives of 16 babies in the last 2½ months at City-County Hospital here.

All the deaths have been in the hospital's new-born and premature nurseries.

A hospital announcement by the board of managers said incomplete statistics show at least 81 babies and 21 mothers infected in February alone.

The announcement said the bacteria is suspected of a key role in an increased number of pneumonia cases among elderly patients. It was described as the same epidemic strain that has ben picked up in other hospitals throughout the country.

Husband Held After Wife Found Slain

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerard Cote, 28-year-old pastry chef, was taken into custody for questioning Wednesday shortly after the body of his wife was found in their apartment. Her throat was cut.

The body of his wife Murielle, 23, was found in the kitchen. On a shelf police found a kitchen knife, believed used in the slaying.

The couple's two young daughters — Sylvie, 2 1-2, and Danielle, six months — were in the bedroom. A policewoman took charge of them.

Police said the inquest will be held today. In Quebec, no charges are laid until after an inquest.

Road Minister May Be Treasurer

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says it has learned Highways Minister Allan will be next provincial treasurer of Ontario.

The last provincial treasurer, Hon. Dana Porter, resigned Jan. 31 to become chief justice of the Ontario Appeal Court. Premier Frost took over the portfolio.

The Star says the appointment of Mr. Allan "is stated to be part of a general shakeup of the Frost cabinet which is slated within two months following the close of the present session."

Four Belleville Rinks Qualify For Sat. Play

As the bonspiel at the Quinte Curling Club progresses, the curling is getting more accurate and the crowds, watching the various games, are increasing in size. Last evening it was almost impossible to make your way through the lounge so dense was the crowd, while downstairs in the "If" rooms, the boys were again playing the several shots they missed during the day.

Two Belleville rinks, one skipped by Ross Booth and one by Ben Corke made the finals to be played on Saturday. Mr. Booth lost his first game by a close score but handily won the next two. Mr. Corke was defeated by Dick Edney of Kingston, the rinks being tied coming home, but easily defeated his next two opponents. Four Belleville rinks are now in the second competition of the bonspiel, the other two skips being Pat Houston and R. Walsh. The first competition will have some of the finest curlers in the Province competing on Saturday for the primary cup.

A rink on Wednesday attracted a great deal of attention at the rink. The rink was entered by Army Armstrong, who lived in Belleville for many years but was skipped by A. J. Parkhill, who married a Belleville girl, Alex Nathan who, lived in the city for many years and Gord Myles, who is a native of this city. The rink won their three games but had a close squeak against Edney of Kingston in the third.

As in the previous days, the women's section of the club was on hand to help look after the refreshments. Pies, cakes, coffee and sandwiches were served and the table was a busy place the entire day. The table where the free cheese is served got a good working over and it was not uncommon to see many of the visiting curlers making the second trip to the table.

Most of the out of town rinks will take over the play on Friday so if they are fortunate in winning they will not have to make the long trip home but will stay overnight in the city. The spiel so far has been a grand success and the directors are getting many compliments on the fine rink that has been built in the city.

IN MEMORIAM

LASHER. — In loving memory of two brothers, and Brenda, who were killed in an accident March 20th, 1956.

Time speeds on, two years have passed,
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast;
Within our homes, where all seemed bright,
And took from us three shining lights.
We miss those lights, and ever will,
Their vacant places there's none could fill;
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven, we will meet again.

—Ever remembered by sister Dorothy, brother-in-law Arthur and family.

LASHER. — In loving memory of two sons, Carl and Stewart, and Brenda, who were killed in an accident, March 20th, 1956.

We often think of bygone days,
When we were all together;
The family chain is broken now,
But memories will live forever.
To us they have not gone away,
Nor have they travelled far;
Just entered God's eternal home,

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by mother, father, Keith, Lorne and Mary.

LASHER. — In loving memory of our loved ones, Stewart, Carl and Brenda, who passed away March 20th, 1956.

Though their smiles are gone forever,
And their hands we cannot touch;
Still we have so many memories,
Of the ones we love so much.
Their memory is our keepsake,
With which we'll never part;
God has them in His keeping,
We have them in our hearts.

—Sadly missed by Aldora and girls Pat and Shirley.

LASHER. — In loving memory of two brothers, Carl and Stewart, and Brenda, who passed away March 20th, 1956.

Broken is the family circle,
Our dear ones have passed away;
Passed from earth and earthly darkness,
Into bright and perfect day.
But we all must cease to languish,
O'er the graves of those we love,
Strive to be prepared to meet them
In the better world above.

—Ever remembered by William and Anne.

DAWSON. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Margaret Dawson, who passed away March 20th, 1953.

She bade no one her last farewell,
She said goodby to none;
The heavenly gates were opened,
A loving voice said come.
We often sit and think of you,
The things you used to say;
We wonder why you had to die,
Without a chance to say goodby.
Though out of sight, your'e ever
Still missed, still loved, still mine;
You live with us in memory,
Until the end of time.

—Sadly missed by husband Clarence, sons and daughters.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to thank Dr. E. M. MacDonald, nurses and staff of 1st Floor West, Thompson Funeral Home and staff, Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan and Rev. E. Smith; also friends and neighbors of Belleville and Stirling, for cards, flowers and many other acts of kindness shown to us in our loss of a loving husband and father.

—Mrs. R. G. Rodgers and family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was irregularly lower today in moderately slow morning trading.

Featuring trading among industrials was Confederation Life, which soared 19 points to a 1958 high of 155 before settling at 151 on an 800-share turnover. Directors of the company announced today that they have passed a by-law providing for mutualization through the purchase by the company of its own capital stock at $180 a share over a five-year period.

Other changes were minor in most sections and the industrial index lost nearly a half point in the first hour. Western oils were down one-quarter of a point while golds eased a few decimal points. Base metals gained a half point on index.

International Nickel featured base metals, climbing 1¼ points to 73¾. Some coppers were strong with Campbell Chibougamau up 35 cents to $5.30.

Usually it makes its first run to Brockville and the Thousand Islands. This year it will place aids to navigation in the new channel created by the St. Lawrence Seaway between Johnstown and Iroquois.

Premier Orders Special Meeting To Study Bill

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost Wednesday night ordered a special meeting of the legislature's legal bills committee to study a new horse racing law which drew objections from Opposition members.

The bill, an amendment to the Racing Commission Act, permits the commission to establish regulations governing all aspects of horse racing and hold hearings in camera.

CCF leader Donald MacDonald said racing circles are concerned about wide powers given the commission and suggested they might be used to interfere with the activities of union organizers at race tracks.

Attorney General Roberts emphasized that the bill gives no powers to the commission not already held — it merely required that regulations be made.

John Wintermeyer (L-Waterloo North) won support from Premier Frost in objecting to the provision for in-camera hearings.

"There is no justification for hearings in camera that cannot be appealed or pursued in anywise," declared the Liberal member.

Mr. Frost admitted that he had reservations about in-camera hearings from which there would be no appeal and ordered the bill to go before a special meeting of the legal bills committee.

Decision About Municipal Voting Law Postponed

TORONTO (CP) — Municipal voting rights caused a two-hour argument in the legislature's municipal law committee today.

After hearing seven briefs the committee postponed decision on a bill permitting municipalities to extend the franchise in elections for council to boarders and relatives living with property owners.

Most of the objections concerned a provision in the bill requiring municipalities to use a separate enumerating staff — not assessors — to prepare voters' lists 60 days before an election.

"Shouldn't each municipality be allowed to decide how to prepare its own list?" asked J. P. Robarts (PC—London North).

HIGHER COSTS

Reg Cooper, London city clerk, and Alderman Margaret Fullerton of London argued the requirement would boost enumeration costs to $12,000 from $4,000 in their city, which has already held the necessary plebiscite for the franchise extension.

Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior said he objects "very strenuously" to the requirement.

"This is going to add quite a bit to the tax burden," commented John Root (PC—Wellington-Dufferin).

Palmer Kent, Toronto city solicitor, supported the bill even though the requirement would cost his city an extra $100,000 or $125,000.

"This is a little costly — but that's why the bill leaves the decision to municipalities," he said.

ARGUE FOR EXTENSION

The two London spokesmen also argued for the extension to include school board and public utilities elections.

K. G. Crawford, deputy minister of municipal affairs, said a constitutional difficulty arose in any attempt to divide public school and separate school voters for the purposes of the bill.

CCF Leader Donald MacDonald and T. D. Thomas (CCF—Oshawa) supported both objections to the bill.

"We see no reason why it should not be extended to school boards and public utility commissions and no reason why enumeration can't be carried out by assessors," said Mr. Thomas.

J. A. C. Auld (PC—Leeds) and F. M. Cass (PC — Grenville-Dundas) spoke in favor of extending the franchise to include even money plebiscites.

Catholics Ban Readers Digest From Schools

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — The Roman Catholic diocese of Ogdensburg has banned Readers Digest magazine from its parochial schools.

Msgr. Floyd J. Brown said Wednesday the action was taken because of "certain articles on sex carried in two recent issues of the magazine." He said they were "contrary to Catholic teachings and principles as well as offensive to good taste."

Msgr. Brown, in a letter to all school principals, instructed them to remove the magazine from buying lists. The schools were instructed to cancel any subscriptions they might have.

The diocese says it has a population of 120,000 Roman Catholics. It has 16 parochial high schools and 48 elementary schools.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) A photograph taken moments before he plunged to his death has led to identification of a man who leaped from the crest of the Horseshoe Falls Wednesday.

Police said the victim was Herbertus Hecker, 44, of nearby Port Weller.

The photograph was taken by Jerry Orrico, 20-year-old musician from Edgewater, N.J., who stopped at the falls on his way to urlington, Ont. He took the picture of the man who was sitting on a ledge in front of the table rock observation house while speitators tried to coax him back.

Orrico took a second picture as the man started his 165-foot drop to the boiling rapids at the foot of the falls on the Canadian side.

The body has not been recovered.

Canucks Again Outspent Record Tourist Outlay

OTTAWA (CP) — Visitors from other countries spent a record $362,000,000 in Canada last year, the bureau of statistics said today.

But for the seventh straight year Canadians travelling in other countries spent more than foreign tourists spent in Canada —a record $523,000,000.

Last year's Canadian income from tourists was 7.4 per cent higher than the 1956 total of $337,000,000. The increase in Canadian travellers' spendings abroad was five per cent above the 1956 figure of $498,000,000.

Foreign travellers without automobiles accounted for most of the increase in Canada's tourist income, the bureau said. Such travellers put out $15,000,000 more than they did in 1956.

Malnutrition Held Cause of Woman's Death

STOUFFVILLE, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday night that Mrs. Hetta Mae Willson, 81-year-old occupant of a rest home here, died March 9 of malnutrition.

The jury made no recommendations. In a note to its finding, the jury said there was no evidence that insufficient food was offered the woman.

The home was operated by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McGinty. Two other elderly occupants at the home have been removed.

Dr. J. A. Ritchie of Newmarket said his autopsy showed Mrs. Willson to have been very emaciated and thin.

"I've never seen a human being in such a sad state. She had probably not had sufficient food for several weeks prior to her death. All the organs were atrophied, indicating malnutrition."

Stouffville Police Chief Frank Edwards said the house was an indescribably filthy mess.

County health nurse Phyllis Windsor said she visited the house Feb. 27 and found a blind man using a bathroom for a bedroom.

She said Mrs. Willson had been locked in her room at times because of mental condition. Her body was covered with scratches apparently self-inflicted.

North York School Salary Accord Likely

TORONTO (CP) — Settlement of the salary dispute between high school teachers and the suburban North York school board may be reached tonight or Friday, Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario said today.

He intervened Wednesday and called representatives of the board of education and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Association for interviews.

"This thing has to be settled," he said afterwards.

The teachers want a $600-a-year salary increase, a drop from their original demand of $800. The board has offered $400. Both have agreed on an annual increment of $300.

The board has said it will not negotiate further while the federation retains its "pink-listing," notification to teachers that they will not get federation support if they deal with the board.

North York's last offer was to raise minimum and maximum salaries for non-specialist teachers to $4,100 and $6,900 and specialists to $4,700 and $7,700.

The federation wants a minimum of $4,300 and a maximum of $7,900 for non-specialists and $4,900 and $8,500 for specialists. Present salary scale os $3,700 to $6,500 for non-specialists and $4,200 to $7,300 for specialists.

Packers Accused Of Trying to Depress Prices

TORONTO (CP) — Charles McInnis, president of the Ontario Hog Producers Co-operative, Wednesday accused the Meat Packers Council of Canada of trying to depress hog prices.

Mr. McInnis said in an interview trading started this week at $30 per hundredweight, the prevailing price last week. But members of the council would offer only $29. By Monday night prices had dropped one dollar, he said.

"Our agency felt justified in asking $30 for all of this week. There is a brisk demand for Canadian pork on the American market. In addition, members of the Meat Packers Council are in a position to get one to two dollars per hog for offal and yet are unwilling to pay as high a price as smaller processors."

Mr. McInnis said smaller packers are buying hogs at the $30 level and willing to continue to do so until the price was forced down by the larger firms.

BIG FEAST

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 1,000 Indians from B.C., Alberta and Washington State have been invited to a potlatch—traditional Indian feast—July 26 and Aug. 3. The Capilano Indian Community club expects 25,000 tourists to watch the feast and dance as part of B.C. centennial celebrations.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Cubs and Sea Scouts of the 10th Belleville group entertained parents and friends last night in Holloway Street United Church. It was the occasion of the group's annual parents' night arranged by the group committee in consultation with the Scoutmaster and Cubmaster.

After the pronouncement of the invocation by the Rev. C. W. Coleman, the Sea Scouts unfurled the Union Jack. Frank Wilson then introduced District Commissioner P. L. Allcorn, who introduced Assistant District Commissioner for Scouts, Les Boyle, ADC for Cubs, F/L Alex Jamieson and District Scoutmaster Norm Roberts, former Scoutmaster of the 10th group.

After brief addresses from the distinguished visitors from district headquarters, Harold Outingdyke introduced the Cubmaster Don Harvey, who has been with the pack of 37 boys since October 1957.

Mr. Harvey introduced his assistant Cubmasters Leo Desaulniers and Keith Chambers and issued an appeal for one or two additional assistants. Then the Cubs demonstrated a game and showed their audience a few of the things they have learned in the pack.

The new Scoutmaster, Fred Furmidge of Corbyville, was introduced by William (Bill) Campbell, president of the Energetic Club which sponsors the group. Scouter Furmidge whistled his troop "on board" and a demonstration of First Aid and artificial resuscitation was presented.

Highlight of the evening for the Cubs arrived when Tom Hutchinson, Larry Kelly, Serson Martin and Don MacCormack received their first proficiency stars from representatives of district headquarters. Tom Hutchinson also received his artist badge which he earned at camp last summer. Bryan Hopkins, a new arrival from Vancouver, received the yellow and red neckerchief of the 10th group. He had been invested as a Cub on the west coast.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. C. F. Leggatt, president of the Belleville Boy Scouts Local Association. Mr. Leggatt reminded the audience of parents and visitors that pack and troop leaders are performing a difficult job, although the rewards are well worth the effort. He asked parents to back the men who are attempting to train dozens of boys in the movement founded by the late Lord Baden-Powell of Gillwell.

Following Mr. Leggatt's brief message a vote of thanks to him was extended by Tony Lepore, the first Cubmaster of the group and one of the founders of it.

Of course the major highlight of the evening came when the Sea Scouts served an assortment of refreshments prepared by Cub and Scout mothers.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Maurice Martin, chairman of the group committee, who is credited with doing much of the organization for the successful parents' night.

Think Fugitive Is in Hamilton

GUELPH (CP)—The search for Ernest Scott, 18, of Hamilton, one of two prisoners who escaped from Guelph reformatory Wednesday, moved to the Hamilton area today. Wayne Morin, 17, of Port Arthur was recaptured a few hours after the pair made their getaway.

Supt. Charles Sanderson of the reformatory said a car stolen in Hespeler has been recovered in Hamilton. Police said they believe the young fugitive was responsible for the theft and headed for his home city.

Workmen Back Digging Ditches For Pipe Line

TRENTON — Construction crews are back working on the ditches of the gas pipe line, Eric Aldersey, town engineer said yesterday.

Mr. Aldersey said it could be almost one of the things which herald the arrival of spring. The fill when put in on the pipes last winter was frozen and now has thawed out and is settling.

The present work is taking place on North Murray street and it is expected the crews will go all over the town filling the places in the gas line which have settled and to keep them from becoming a traffic hazard.

Mr. Aldersey said the construction firm has planned or started nothing on a large scale operation, like running feeder lines from the main gas lines, but are merely carrying out this essential work.

He said he felt it was best to get them back in town and working on the gas lines than to leave it any longer or until the crews were too busy elsewhere and leaving the holes in the present lines to get deeper.

The town engineer also said it could be an indication towards the opening of another construction year for the town.

Town Briefs

TRENTON— No accidents and no fires were reported yesterday to the police or fire departments to make it one of the quietest days in some time for town officials.

Constable F. M. Gainforth is at present in the Trenton Memorial Hospital while undergoing observation. The constable went in last Friday but is reported to be doing fine.

John Farrell, president of Branch 110, Canadian Legion, has reported back to work although his leg is in a cast. Mr. Farrell broke his leg some time ago when he slipped on a patch of ice while getting out of his car. He had spent considerable time in the hospital before the cast could be put on.

The Falcons of the RCAF Sr. "B" league won the title for that division when they defeated the Combines 9-3 in a well-fought game. In the series "A" division the Rockets won the series as the F.I.S. failed to ice a team for the final two games. Exact reason for the FIS action was not known.

SWEEP!

The Quinte Curling Club is holding its first bonspiel. It is to be congratulated. Belleville was without a curling club for a quarter of a century. It was too long. Curling is a good game. It is also more than a mere game; it is one of those rare activities which can be enjoyed, if not from the cradle to the grave, at least from high school to retirement. It is the winter equivalent of golf. There are even some who will maintain that it deserves to be ranked with fishing as a means of cementing friendships, erasing worries, relaxing nerves and exercising muscles.

The game originated in Scotland. There is still a lot of Scotch in it, in the tams and the talks and the tumblers.

Of course curlers have their idiosyncrasies. This week, when they are all too busy curling to read editorials, it is safe to talk about them. For instance, there is this business of sweeping. The spectacle of a couple of healthy men sweeping as if their wives depended on it strikes the uninitiated as strange. He asks why. He is told that by sweeping the men increase the speed of the curling stone - - pardon us, stane. It does not "die" so fast. Why? Explanations will vary. Some may say it is because the brooms remove from the path of the stane any particles of snow or ice, but this explanation comes only from neophytes. The true curler will tell of the suction created by a fast-moving broom. Or, so help us, he may even say that the broom moves so fast that the friction melts the ice, which quickly freezes over to provide a smooth new surface for the stane.

The scientific-minded, unless they also chance to be curlers, will curl the lip at these explanations. Their scoffing ought not to be lightly dismissed, as we may dismiss the scepticism of those who doubt that fish never bite when the wind is in the east. The curler who endeavors to demonstrate the value of sweeping is under great disadvantages. It is quite possible to go fishing when the wind is in the east and catch no fish, conclusively proving the accuracy of that theory. But how can you sweep and not sweep in front of the same stane? You can't, and that's an end to it - - at least until some curler, the bonspiel over, picks up this page while wrapping the garbage, reads this heresy and leads the clan on a raid into the Lowlands of The Ontario Intelligencer office.

There's another strange thing about curling. It is always possible to skip a much better game from the spectator's gallery than from the ice. Somebody may sniff that in this curling is not unique. Even the highest-priced gridiron import from the U.S. can not play as good a game at quarterback on a Saturday afternoon as any overweight, under-muscled stay-at-home TV-dial-twister can turn in at the Monday morning coffee break. The difference, though, is that the gallery skip in curling, after turning in a magnificent game from the lounge, promptly takes his place on the ice and permits the man whom he has criticized to have his turn. In curling all the spectators are also players and all are sportsmen.

LUMP IT AND LIKE IT

The days of lump brown sugar are nearly over. We learn this from Harriet Stevens, in her "This and That" column in this newspaper. T. and T. seems to be happy about the fact. This is akin to being happy about a foamless beer, a bloodless steak or a biteless cheese.

That airtight polyethylene bag which, we are told, is going to keep the moisture in, the dry air out and brown sugar unlumped, is unfair to children - - of all ages.

A lump of brown sugar is the only thing that makes porridge passingly possible. If it is big enough, it is possible to attain such a judicious mixture of golden sweetness and gooey guck that the taste of the latter is wholly swallowed up in the taste of the former. This is impossible with moist brown sugar. It sits atop the porridge and is then washed to the edge by the first few drops of milk, leaving the broad, unsweetened expanse of gooey guck to be tackled without benefit of sweetening.

This, though, is an adult's rationalization. The child in years, as well as in heart, does not rationalize. He does not say that the lumps are brown sugar's raison d'etre. He just reaches into the bag and purloins them.

These polyethylene bags are just another kind of sack we could do without.

ENVY

Give me a little girl of three,
A boy or four or five,
And you can bet that I will be
The gladdest man alive.
I envy no rich man his gold
Or motor car that skids,
But green with envy I behold
The poor man's bunch of kids.

Give me a boy of eight or nine,
A girl of six or seven,
And I would count the world as fine
And very close to heaven.
I envy no man's fame today,
For that I make no bids;
But envying, I go my way,
The poor man's bunch of kids.

With such a troop to follow me
And romp about my feet,
To climb at night upon my knee,
I'd count life's struggle
sweet.
I envy none who's trouble free,
But till death shuts my lids,
With envy I shall always see
The poor man's bunch of kids.

6 Different Kinds of Sex

Toronto Telegram

From the beginnings of human life on this planet, sex has been surrounded by mystery. Before its impenetrable secrets primitive men were so much in awe that they made it part of their ceremonial symbolism and worship.

The scientists of today wonders no less about sex and its manifestations, but instead of worshipping he studies it. Recently the authoritative British medical journal, The Lancet, reported that when scientists these days try to determine the sex of a person, they look for six things: genetic sex (transmitted by one's ancestors), gonadal and hormonal sex (effects of glands and their secretions), anatomical sex (the basic standard), social sex (society's opinion of masculinity and femininity) and psychological sex (one's subconscious attitudes).

These "sexes," the scientists go on to say, may be different in one person. They don't always agree.

For moderns who are burdened with the task of filling out income tax forms, applications for licenses and permits, and a variety of other questionnaires, this research only serves to deepen the mystery.

When the official form asks for an answer to the question, male or female, would it now involve more than the simple issue of deciding whether a human is man or woman?

One can easily imagine some poor fellow, with a passion for accuracy, subjecting himself to a series of scientific tests to determine whether the various "sexes" in him agree, before daring to fill out his income tax returns. As if a tax return in itself is not enough of a complicated buiness, the scientists have to confuse the issue further.

Novelists Long-Winded

Terre Haute, Indiana, Tribune

Nineteenth Century novelists, as everyone who has sampled their works must know, were a long-winded lot. It may come as a bit of a surprise that the 19th century writers were pikers in comparison with some of those grinding out novels in our own supposedly brisk era.

It is commonly imagined that authors a century or so past were able to spin out their romances at great length because their readers had time to read, without the distractions afforded by radio, television, movies and automobiles. Thus, Sir Walter Scott could take some 168,000 words in the telling of "Guy Mannering", and Kingsley's "Westward Ho!" could consume nearly 250,000 without dropping many readers by the wayside.

The theory comes a cropper when it encounters such work as the newly published "Some Came Running" by James Jones of Marshall, Ill., whose earlier "From Here to Eternity" was critical acclaim a few years ago. From Here to Eternity' 'was long enough, but it is overshadowed in this respect by "Some Came Running", which is estimated at about 800,000 words.

The long—but not that long!—opuses of the 19th century's best novelists have one quality that "Some Came Running" does not seem likely to share. They are still read in our time, many decades after first publication. The Jones magnum opus has received such a vigorous trouncing from the critics on the score of its poor taste, adolescent philosophy and abominable writing that its chances of survival, except as an overgrown literary curiosity, seem to be small indeed.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

March 20th., 1938

A service for the inmates at the county jail was conducted Sunday morning in one of the lower corridors at the court house by Major Alderman, the officer in charge of the local corps of the Salvation Army. He was assisted by Mr. W. Hart and other members of the corps. The singing of old familiar hymns and an address by Major Alderman featured the service.

The Moira is flooding. Ice shoves here caused great damage along the banks of the river. Another shove started this afternoon and the footbridge was smashed and carried away. At the lower bridge the shove was halted by firm ice and the resistance of the bridge which, although badly twisted still stood. The water rose so quickly that some people were rescued from houses and stores in boats. Two women who were marooned on a pile of snow were forced to climb a tree to escape the rushing water. Buildings along banks were smashed and basements of stores were flooded to an unprecedented depth causing thousands of dollars of damage to merchandise. Merchants who had goods in basements had placed them on shelves which were considered to be out of the reach of water, but the water rose several feet above the old marks. This flood is said to have no equal here in destructiveness, although the water has been higher at times. The residents on James, Mary, Colborne, King, Water and Willard streets are victims of water which flooded their premises; in some cases the water was three to four feet deep on the first floor of the houses. People were removed from the houses in boats. Coleman St. was of course flooded and water poured over the portion of that street south of the footbridge in torrents and it was of such depth as to carry large cakes of ice along with it. The cakes were carried as far west as Everett Street and found an outlet on Jane Street.

But Moose Jaw Is Good Name

Ottawa Citizen

It comes as a bit of a shock to learn from the Saskatchewan government's news bulletin that some residents of Moose Jaw have several times tried to get the name of their city changed. They have ill-advisedly thought it seems, that something more dignified is in order. Yet Moose Jaw is attractively unpretentious, distinctive, even bizarre. Since the moose is an animal of great dignity, moreover, its jaw surely shares that attribute.

Sometimes, perhaps, a change of name can be justified as when Gastown became Vancouver, Rat Portage, which was replaced by euphonious Kenora, was a borderline case — historic, romantic, yet likely to suggest an unflattering description of the inhabitants. Bytown, a perfectly good name, was felt to have been outgrown well before the place became Canada's Capital, but at least Ottawa is just as appropriate, of greater antiquity and better sounding. Bytown it still is, all the same, to those who wish to suggest that the Capital is not quite so sophisticated as it likes to think, just as throughout the nation a certain metropolis is commonly known by the ancient though unofficial name of Hogtown.

In Saskatchewan, Pile o' Bones (Wascana) unfortunately gave place long ago to Regina, the queenly city — a superficial gain in dignity but a loss to the imagination. Lake Johnston, however, commemorating a transitory English sportsman, is again being called Old Wives Lake, after the Cree women who at the cost of their lives kept the campfires burning to deceive a Blackfoot war party while their relatives fled into night. To the northeast, Moose Jaw continues to celebrate the time a white man mended his cart with a bone. Elsewhere in Canada, Medicine Hat, Yellow knife, Gander and many another colorful name can tell a story.

Sacrificed To Vanity

Windsor Star

How long will we continue to sacrifice the lives of children on the altar of human vanity?

In Ruthven, little 10-year-old Marie Majsa, who survived the bloody revolt in her native Hungary, has been killed by the pointed hood ornament of an automobile. The dagger-like weapon pierced her heart.

The accident is similar to one in Detroit in which one of these chrome-plated killers pierced the temple of a small boy, causing his death, although there was no other injury.

These dangerous ornaments are useless to the safe operation of a vehicle. Only three weeks ago we pointed out on this page West Germany has banned them. We have suggested it several times in the past and we repeat it — they should be made illegal.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ICHTHYOSIS MORE POPULARLY KNOWN AS FISHSKIN DISEASE

Here is a problem which I think we can properly describe as being "fairly common". It certainly isn't rare.

"Dear Dr. Molner: For several weeks I have been caring for a 5-year-old boy whose body has the appearance of fish-like scale which will not wash off.

"His hands, face and feet are clear. What is the matter with him, and what shall I do to get his skin normal? — C. E. Z."

The letter-writer didn't say whether she was a nurse, governess, baby-sitter or what, but it's enough that she has the care of such a child.

This appears to be a case of ichthyosis (ick-thee-oh-sis). The name was derived from a Greek word meaning fish-like. It is a congenital abnormality — people are born with it. It usually persists through life, so the question is how to alleviate it, not how to cure it.

It is a matter of extreme dryness of the skin — harsh texture, and scaliness. Apparently there is some defect in the sebaceous (or oil-producing) glands of the skin.

The general health of people with this trouble is usually good, but the psychological result of ichthyosis is annoying. After all, who wouldn't be worried and annoyed by it?

The face, feet and hands are usually spared, but the arms, legs and back and abdomen can be involved. The dryness in less evident in warm weather but is intensified in cold weather.

Vitamin A is frequently used for dry skin, but in this case it has no effect. Medical literature mentions that treatment of the thyroid gland may help; personally, I can't offer any great amount of assurance of success. Recently the steroids (cortisone, etc.) are reported to be useful in treatment of the condition.

EXTERNAL REMEDIES

Other remedies are external. About the only simple one is to keep the skin soft with a bland oil or ointment — cocoa butter is an example. Warm baths, followed with ointments containing olive oil or glycerin may help. Skin specialists very well may be able to help with some more specific recommendation, depending on the severity of the case, the intention in any event being to relive the dryness.

And it's important both for the patient and for those around him to understand clearly that this is not a contagious disease. It's a mattter of the glands of the skin not producing enough oil.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I find your health advice very good and would like your opinion about children, or adults for that matter, blowing the nose. I have heard it is harmful to blow the nose holding one nostril, as mucus is forced into the sinuses. — Mrs. B. O."

I don't see any harm in this, if done gently, since holding one nostril will force more air through the other side of the nose.

But violent snorting can, indeed, force infected material into the sinuses. In fact, when there is extensive discharge, there usually is some degree of sinus congestion already.

Note to Mrs. H. J.: I have no particular thought on the combined vitamin-mineral capsules you mention. There are numerous varieties on the market that have some virtue. They all cost more than they should because, for one thing, they include a "shotgun" collection of things that are all useful to somebody — but very few if any people need all of them. And as to your crackpot neighbor and those fancy health theories, why not treat her as a neighbor — but take your health problems to your doctor who, from your comments, sounds like a very sensible sort?

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading my booklet "Ten Ways To Stop Constipation". For a copy write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 20c in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Applauds Dance-Hater

Hamilton Spectator

We must confess to a sneaking, thought not wholehearted, admiration for the Belleville boy who refused to take part in folk dancing in his public school because he thought the children looked "awfully silly going through the dance routine."

The protest was worth making, though the manner of making it is not above reproach. The seventeen other Grade Eight students who supported him may have had varied motives for doing so, but they did at least emphasize another of the "frills" that eat up school time.

Let us make it clear that we have no objection to folk dancing as such (though we would not take part in it ourselves if they called out the infantry militia and the garrison artillery to make us). We can sympathize with boys at a certain age detesting it and we wonder how the psychologists, who have so much to say on other subjects, rationalize this one.

• • •

As boys grow older they have a considerable amount of "steam' to work off. Surely the best way of ensuring that they do so with least harm to themselves and others is to let them take part in competitive sports and games — boxing, running, ball games, gym work and the rest of it — under the guidance of a man whose character they admire and whose authority they respect. Such a man can teach them the high ideals of true sportsmanship and appeal to the qualities of manliness (so much neglected) that are a part of every healthy boy's nature. This is better than being little gigolos in a school folk dancing session.

• • •

As things are, many boys, when they get out of school, throw stones and smash things up, probably as an outlet for "steam" and to demonstrate their masculinity. The more violent and less principled few break into schools, smash them up and sometimes set fire to them, almost as though they had a subconscious grudge against their "halls of learning". This curious phenomenon is scarcely heard of outside North America.

Perhaps if boys were given more active masculine sports — most schools have a sort of "games period" now and again — we should have fewer vandals and our youths would admire more virile heros than long - haired, pearly - toothed, slim-waisted guitar-players.

• • •

If the Belleville boy did nothing else, he inspired us to write these strong home truths which may shake some cosy beliefs and which at least are declared in a manner free of the sloppy, simpering and sentimental approach that is one of the well-established curses of our public and high school education system.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is not the function of science to foresee. It is merely to know. Sure, science does some exploring, some speculating. But foreseeing is one of the things science cannot be expected to do, other, perhaps, than foreseeing comets, at which they are pretty good, except when a new comet comes along.

If science could foresee, can you imagine it allowing us to get into the pickle we find ourselves in with regard to electric power? Here we are gathered together in clusters of millions, or in hundreds or tens of thousands, in cities and towns, swarmed so snug together we might be mistaken, at a little distance, for a swarm of bees.

And in these swarms, we have scientifically built up a social, industrial and domestic structure that is dependent, almost 100 per cent, on electric power.

It would not take a city-destroying hydrogen bomb to finish us. Just a few quite small bombs on a few generating centres, and where would we be? No light, no oil furnaces, no gas furnaces, no stoves, no radio, no TV. Aha. No oil, no gas, no gas pumps, no bakeries, no dairies. No trains, no signals, no telephones, no street lights, no traffic lights. No factories, no newspaper presses, no elevators, no street cars.

Why, I bet there are not ten old axes per city block, nowadays.

Axes, that is, for cutting down trees out in front, or chopping up the furniture for a little fuel.

One thing about axes, they aren't scientific.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THAT SCHEDULE PUSHER

There are two types of people designed to send their families and associates straight to the psychiatrist and the observation ward. The first is the person who has no schedule, is never on time, never knows when to go home, and in general is under everybody's feet — and for a lifetime. The other is the person who has a schedule which yields neither to God nor man. This fearful creature plunges through life like a snow plow going down the avenue. The Ten Commandments are nothing compared with the sacred and inviolable schedule this person sets up for himself, and for which he will fight to the last ditch and to the last drop of blood — his own and everybody's else's.

If he confined his activities within the limits of his own personal life, he would be enough of an infliction on his family and friends. But almost invariably he must extend his schedule and push it and fight for it in every circle in which he happens to be. This sacred thing — his schedule — is something to which he not only bows, but something before which he insists everybody else must prostrate himself. His wife must be nagged and yelled at until she hears and conforms. The children slip away early, confident that life must surely have something better in store for them than that. Or, to change the gender, this schedule pusher has her bridge club in a dither, her neighbors afraid to look out-of-doors.

Oh, what a bore! What a nuisance! What an affliction.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A BALANCED LIFE

All of us, when we get well started in life, little by little get a taste of nearly everything — sorrow, ill health, the loss of friends, disappointments, many a failure, and a loss of Faith. We need all this, however, to gain the experience of a balanced life. The things that bring happiness we can cling to, and those that do not we can courageously drop or push from our path. The significant things in life are the ones that we should keep to enrich us in all that we do. When I started, in a modest way, to collect rare books of authors whom I most admired, I felt the atmosphere of a new world entering my lungs, and feeling its way to my mind and heart.

I believe that a careful selection of books can mean more to a person than anything else, if selected intelligently and with enthusiasm. We become very close to a self-trained human being when we read his book. And the interchange of thoughts can be very stimulating and inspiring. A home remains unfinished if it does not have its shelf of beloved books!

I want for nothing — except, perhaps, a new book by a well-beloved writer of mine. I can take such a book to my heart and thank the publisher for another door into the mind of a human being! I am sure books have enabled many a person to balance his life with a careful selection of them. The more you get acquainted with worthwhile books, the better you understand people with whom you associate from day to day, for an author is a painter of character and an analyst of words and thoughts. Every great writer is a benefactor!

Contributory Pension Scheme Pearson's Plan

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ELLIOT LAKE, Ont. (CP) — Lester B. Pearson has added a national contributory pension scheme to his election planks as he plunged into an exhausting two-day campaign in his own constituency of Algoma East, a vast bustling bushland of uranium and lumber.

In this baby uranium centre, now a community of 17,000 where mud roads contrast with bright new buildings, a high school auditorium audience of 400 waited two hours Wednesday night to hear the Liberal leader make his bid for personal re-election.

He spoke of the continuing rise in unemployment, the Progressive Conservatives' "confused and fumbling" trade policies, their "stupid" approach to United States trade problems and urged voters to think before they voted on March 31.

Under a Liberal government Canada had been able to expand markets for uranium, encouraging new production, but there now was a cry in the United States to ban Canadian uranium when current sales contracts end in 1962

TARIFF PROTECTIONISTS

It would be a "bad day" for Elliot Lake if U.S. protectionists ever got their way, Mr. Pearson said. The talk of Prime Minister Diefenbaker to divert $600,000,000 worth of business from the U.S. to Britain did not help. It only gave more ammunition to American tariff protectionists.

It was a "stupid" way to approach trade problems with the U.S. and the Conservatives were "all the more stupid" in not taking action on Britain's offer of free trade with Canada.

Then in answers from the audience, Mr. Pearson made these points:

1. A Liberal government would introduce a national contributory pension scheme at age 65, with payments made by employees, employers and the federal government. This would be in addition to the existing $55 a month universal pension available to all those 70 years and older.

2. He did not agree with Mr. Diefenbaker that an East - West summit conference should be conditioned on free elections in Soviet satellite countries. It was "quite unrealistic" to expect Russia to agree to such a condition. If the world waited for such a move, then there would be no conference "at the summit or any other place."

ALSO OTHER PLANS

The contributory pension scheme would be in addition to other Liberal social security platform planks, such as a national medical insurance plan, extension of unemployment insurance to cover sick workers, old age assistance for women of 60, extension of family allowances for children up to 18 years still going to school.

Mr. Pearson said introduction of the contributory scheme — something which the Conservatives also have proposed—was a "highly complex" problem.

But a similar scheme was already in operation in the U.S. and Canada could draw on that experience. The difference between the Liberal proposal and that in effect in the U.S. was that the American government made no contributions while the Canadian government would.

Mr. Pearson opened his personal campaigning at the little community of Chapleau, about 170 miles northwest of Sudbury, where he told an afternoon gathering of 300 that taxes should be cut immediately.

He observed that Canada's unemployment figures had increased to 555,000 at mid - February while the number of those seeking jobs had increased to 855,000.

"SHOULD BE CUT NOW"

The Liberals proposed cutting taxes by $400,000,000 if they won the March 31 election. "Taxes should be cut now and it should be done quickly."

Bad weather threatened to play havoc with his campaigning in this 30,000 - square - mile constituency which he has represented since 1948.

Plane hops into four lumber camps had to be cancelled. Bad weather also forced cancellation of a plane hop from Chapleau south to Elliot Lake, a distance of some 90 miles. Instead Mr. Pearson had to have the CPR haul his two railway cars 170 miles to Sudbury. From there he moved 100 miles westward by car for the Elliot Lake evening meeting. His party arrived two hours after the meeting was scheduled to begin.

Mr. Pearson will continue his tour of the area today, visiting Little Current, Gore Bay and Blind River. He plans to fly to Toronto Friday for a big rally at Massey Hall.

Low Outlines Farm Policy Of Socred Party

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP) — Solon E. Low, national Social Credit party leader, says an international commodity clearing house should be established "for the orderly, sensible distribution of unsaleable surpluses of food products."

Mr. Low told a public meeting Wednesday night this is one of the "guiding principles" of the Social Credit party's farm policy.

The others:

1. Farmers are entitled to their fair share of national income;

2. The principle of parity prices justly applied to the marketing of farm products is the main method by which the farmer can be assured of his fair share of the national income;

3. The two-price system for the sale of farm products is really the foundation upon which parity prices are based;

4. Canadian farmers should be protected from unfair competition and dumping by countries where growing conditions may be better, or where seasons are earlier, or where farm support prices have resulted in piling up large surpluses.

NOT IN THE EAST

"Our agricultural program was not devised by a few 'brass hats' sitting in their armchairs in Montreal or Toronto, for the purpose of getting votes," he said.

"It was devised as a sincere, responsible program to put agriculture into a position of prosperity and strength in this country and to elevate the family farmer to that position of dignity and worth which has been his right since time began, but which very often has been denied him by governments of the past."

Prime Minister Heading Into Northern Ontario

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker's fast - moving campaign swung into Northern Ontario today with scheduled stops at Kapuskasing and Sudbury and a good chance the emphasis will be off hand-shaking.

Wednesday Mr. Diefenbaker went through one of his most rigorous schedules on a 10-hour stop in Toronto in which he did 16 minutes of speech-making and spent nearly three hours shaking 1,700 hands.

He also drew the best crowds so far in his Ontario campaigning —an estimated 8,000 who turned out in dull, drizzly weather to afternoon and evening "meet-the-people" rallies in the Queen Elizabeth Building at Canadian National Exhibition Park.

Mr. Diefenbaker was joined at the evening coffee-and-cake reception by Premier Frost who introduced him as "the man who knows the people because he is with the people—and the people are with him."

The premier said the Diefenbaker government was producing "a new deal for the people of Canada" and referred to the October provincial-federal tax meeting as proof.

"After years of getting nothing from Ottawa we came back from that conference with a down payment of $22,000,000 in federal money which we returned to the municipal taxpayers of the province," he said.

REFERS TO PREMIER

Mr. Diefenbaker a few minutes later referred to Premier Frost as "one of the great contributors to our cause," and added:

"Premier Frost has given to this party unselfish support and has asked nothing more than the fairness and equal justice we have promised to all the province, regardless of their political affiliation."

Mr. Diefenbaker took a slap at the Liberal party contention the March 31 election is unnecessary.

"Some of the Liberal party wonder why there is an election," he said. "I remember that after the Liberal leadership convention we were told that things were going to happen the next Monday. We waited with some concern. Then they (the Liberals) produced that resolution, that amendment which had never before been produced in Parliament and never will again.

"They said 'Give us our jobs back but don't give us an election.'

"Well, we answered with an election and they'll get another answer from the people on the 31st of March."

URGES TURNOUT

Mr. Diefenbaker spent much of his speaking time urging a large turnout of voters, "the largest turnout this country has ever had."

But he devoted most of the day to personal contacts, switching apologetically from right to left hand in his hand-shaking marathon and exchanging smiles and friendly remarks by the hundred.

Close by him were 11 of the 12 Toronto area Progressive Conservative candidates — Finance Minister Fleming is currently campaigning in Western Canada —whose supporters sponsored the rallies. They said 400,000 invitation cards were given out.

One minor incident occurred when four men began distributing mimeographed leaflets at the front of the building. They were headed "No, John: No, John, no" and attacked Progressive Conservative campaign statements on unemployment. They were signed: "By a group of Toronto unemployed."

Police ordered the men to leave. They were warned unauthorized public distribution of literature was an infraction of city by-laws.

Conservatives Have Two Faces Says Knowles

HAMILTON (CP) — Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, said Wednesday night the Progressive Conservative party "has two faces, one that it wears while in the opposition and the other when it is in power."

"How quickly, too, the change is completed from one to another," he said at a public meeting here.

"In just seven months, the Tories have completely reversed themselves on issue after issue."

The statements were included in excerpts from a text of the speech issued to the press before delivery.

"For instance," Mr. Knowles said, "when the Conservatives were in opposition they advocated an increase in income tax exemptions to $1,500 for single persons and $3,000 for married persons. Now they oppose it.

"When the Conservatives were in opposition they advocated the complete repeal of the excise tax on automobiles. Since coming into power they even voted against the CCF motion to cut the excise tax in half.

"When in opposition the Conservatives voted for federal aid to education. Now they vote against it.

HEALTH INSURANCE

"When in opposition they voted for health insurance and now they are opposed to even including the cost of tuberculosis and mental patients under the Hospital Insurance Act.

"When they were in opposition they made the welkin ring with their charges about unemployment. Now that they are in power, Prime Minister Diefenbaker insinuates that any voice raised on behalf of the unemployed is playing politics with human misery.

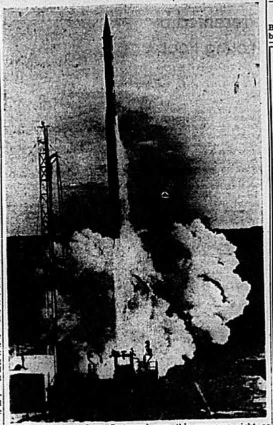
"When they were in opposition the Tories denounced the Trans-Canada pipeline deal. Now they are going ahead with it.

"Just a year ago the Tories in opposition voted for the CCF bill for the voluntary revocable checkoff of union dues. Now they defeat it by talking it out.

"In 1956 the Tories in opposition voted for the CCF federal bill for two weeks' holidays with pay after one year of employment. This year as the government they refused to accept a CCF amendment in precisely this form."

Mr. Knowles said the Conservative government has taken over "lock, stock and barrel the policies and attitudes of the Liberal government before it."

VANGUARD HAS FLAWLESS TAKE-OFF



Spectators at Cape Canaveral saw this awesome sight as the U.S. Vanguard missile rose from its launching pad and disappeared into the sky. The take-off was flawless, the fuel burning with a brilliant yellow flame visible for miles as it climbed skyward.

Unitarians Hold Inaugural Meet

Enthusiastic applause filled the Kiwanis Centre on Sunday evening as the members of the Quinte Unitarian Fellowship and their guests thanked Rev. William P. Jenkins for his inspiring interpretation of Unitarian principles. Mr. Jenkins, minister to the First Unitarian Congregation of Toronto, spoke at the newly-formed fellowship's inaugural meeting.

Mr. Jenkins said that the faith of his denomination cannot be adequately practised in any society that is ridden by political or religious authoritarianism. The orthodox believe that they have access to absolute truth through divinely-inspired Scriptures and theological doctrines. Unitarians, on the other hand, are convinced that the search for truth must be a continuing one—that a constant re-evaluation of human experience and of conventional morality is indispensible to the practice of true mortality.

A second difference lies in Unitarian acceptance of an evolutionary view of the universe.

The basic Unitarian aim, said Mr. Jenkins is to improve the quality of life through understanding.

The history of Unitarianism in North American goes back to the seventeenth century; the first Canadian congregation was organized in Montreal in 1842. Unitarian membership has increased sharply in many countries since 1945, but expansion in Canada has been particularly notable. The number of Canadian churches has doubled within fifteen years; in Toronto, there has been a fivefold increase in membership.

Following the highly successful inaugural meeting, the chairman, Mr. Keith Mills of Trenton, moved a vote of thanks to the organizing committee, which included Mrs. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ward of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Rex Beecroft and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Freeman of Trenton. Mr. Jenkins and his wife later attended a reception held in their honor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman.

Coding System For Car Drivers To Be Set Up

TORONTO (CP) — Transport Minister Allan told the legislature Wednesday consultants have recommended the adoption of a $1,500,000 coding system to speed up the identification of motor vehicles and their owners.

The firm of Price Waterhouse submitted the idea after a survey of the highways department motor vehicles branch. Under it, each driver would be assigned a permanent code number, derived from such facts as his age and name.

Price Waterhouse said the coding system would save $800,000 annually in running the motor vehicles branch.

Mr. Allan announced he is setting up a six-man advisory committee to study accidents and the accident-prone motorist.

Made up of psychiatrists, psychologists and sociologists, the committee would "consider research studies into the causes of highway accidents, the identification of accident - prone persons and the treatment necessary to correct improper behavior and attitude."

Co-Eds Learn How to Eat on 50 Cents a Day

PROVO, Utah (AP)—Co-eds at Brigham Young University are constantly doing what any housewife knows can't be done—eating on 50 cents a day. And they're doing it despite the rising cost of meat and potatoes.

The girls get nutritious but simple meals and they have a reasonable varied diet.

They do it in a nine-day course which senior girls in the homemaking curriculum run.

Just to prove that life needn't be all steak, potatoes and dollars, seniors Pauline Barlow, 22, and Rachel Smith, 23, produced the following evening meal:

Beef stew, dumplings, tossed salad with a microscopic slice of bacon and a razor-thin egg slice, milk (whole milk mixed with powdered milk and chilled to taste better) and apricot gelatin dessert.

The cost: Just over 49 cents for both girls—or about 28 cents each.

The girls are required to prepare three meals daily. Skipping breakfast or lunch brings on a wave of icebox raiding that depletes the budget.

Legion Ladies Hold Euchre

Wednesday night a euchre was held in the Legion hall sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion. Thirteen tables were in play.

Prize winners were: ladies, Mrs McWilliams and Mrs. C. Bowes (tie), Mrs. E. Nolan and Mrs. Thorne, Sr., men: Mrs. Mac Nevery, Mr. R. Bartley and Mr. W. Gray and Mrs. Henderson.

Bishop Evans Visits Saint John's Church

On Sunday last, the fourth in Lent, the Lord Bishop of Ontario, the Right Reverend K. C. Evans, was the visitor of St. John's Church, Carrying Place. The occasion was that of the confirmation of members of the Anglican Church.

It was a splendid service with a depth of dignity and sanctity befitting this holy rite. The Lord Bishop conducted the "laying on of hands" upon 23 candidates; nine adults and fourteen juveniles. The class was prepared by the rector, the Rev. Geoffrey Rennison. The Lord Bishop, attired in cope, conducted the ceremony at the chancel steps.

The younger girls presented a charming picture attired in their beautiful confirmation dresses and veils.

A matter of great interest at this service was that two pairs of brothers, and another family of three brothers, three married couples, a father and daughter, and father and mother and their two children were presented simultaneously. It is not often that so many family groups are presented together.

The music was under the direction of the rector and the organist, Mrs. Geoffrey Rennison. The choir entered to a voluntary from "Sacred Echoes." The introit hymn was "Go Forward, Christian Soldier." The rector then read the declaration of intention for the presentation of candidates followed by the Bishop's admonition. The three Scripture lessons were read by the rector and Mr. Charles Elbert Farr, student missioner; the latter also acting as Bishop's chaplain. The hymn "Holy Spirit, Lord of Love," was sung kneeling, with prayerful intention of the candidates, after which the laying on of hands was administered by Bishop Evans, according to the Apostolic rite. The hymn "Immortal Love, For Ever Full" followed, during which the choir members from the confirmation class were led, by the rector, to their places in the chancel.

The sermon was preached by the Lord Bishop, who took for his subject the story of Jonah. In a most telling and fascinating manner he pointed out the moral of Jonah's resistance to heeding God's direction to preach in the East, and his subsequent perils on the sea. The moral of this story was the "escapism" so apparent in present-day society, and man's tendency to run away from his responsibilities.

The choir sang the anthem, "Ye That Know the Lord Is Gracious," written by the Dean of Durham, England, the Very Reverend C. A. Alington, to the tune "Hyfrydol." The alms of the people were received during the anthem. After the Episcopal blessing had been given the service closed with the singing of the hymn, "O Jesus, I Have Promised to Serve Thee To the End."

A reception for the confirmation candidates and their families was held at St. John's rectory following the service, when Mrs. Rennison received the guests, and members of the St. John's Ladies' Guild served refreshments. The Lord Bishop met the candidates individually during a very pleasant social hour, concluding a most inspiring evening.

Four Plays Presented by Young People

On Friday evening the pupils of Jessie B. Tuite presented four one-act plays before an appreciative audience.

The first play, "The Armchair," by Rose Fyleman, was played by the youngest pupils. As old Mrs. Modger about to be evicted from her apartment because she cannot pay the rent, little Miss Nancy Williams gave an extremely clever portrayal of a very old lady. Billy Hoard made a convincingly hard-hearted landlord determined to have his rent. Elaine MacDonald looked like the fairy she was supposed to be and flitted gracefully in and out on her fairy errand. The voice of the armchair was taken by Toni Wall and a delightful voice it was, clear and musical.

The second play, "The Butcher, The Baker, The Candlestick Maker," by Rose Fyleman, was a charming little play based on the old nursery rhyme. The seven young actors who took part in this play deserve much praise for their naturalness, their excellent diction and their ability to make each character come to life. Harold MacDonald, the king who couldn't find a rhyme, was every inch a king. Toni Wall made a graceful and clever chamberlain. Mary Beth Follwell and Trudi Haig were charming princesses. The play was brought to a gay close by the butcher (Billy Leslie), the baker, (Donald Pugh), and the candlestick maker (Helen Persons). Each of these young actors did credit to themselves and to their teacher.

The intermediate group in "The Day After Forever," by Emery, gave a good account of themselves. These older pupils handled a difficult play in an almost professional manner. Sandra Allen made a beautiful and appealing bride. Terry Silsbury played cleverly the part of a nervous bridegroom, Sylvia Allen, the bride's real mother, brought a touch of pathos to the play, and Pat Miller, whom the bride believes to be her mother, brought dignity and restraint to her role. The comedy of the play was supplied by Helen McArthur, whose every appearance on the stage was greeted by a gale of laughter.

The last play, "The Quarrel Scene," between Sairy Gamp and Betsy Prig from Martin Chuzzleuik was played by Greta Morden and Helen Sulman who are always popular with Belleville audiences. These two gifted young ladies caught every shade of humor which this scene affords. From their first appearance in costumes that the original characters might have worn to Betsy's knocking down of the boxes on her angry exit, the audience was genuinely amused.

Druing intermission, Marilyn Maracle, a pupil of Mr. W. Connor, added much to the enjoyment of the evening by her piano solo, "Impromptu," by Schubert.

Kinettes Hold St. Patrick's Day Meeting

The regular meeting of the Belleville Kinettes was held at St. Thomas' parish house on Monday. The house committee had decorated the tables with green symbols in honor of the day. The meeting opened with the singing of the "Queen," "The Kinette Song" and grace before dinner.

Between courses traditional Irish songs were sung led by the song leaders, Jackie Stewart and Bud Hamill, with Marg Hallam at the piano. The sergeant-at-arms, Eileen Martin, collected fines from members who were not wearing a bit o' green.

Maude Rollins and Marie Osterhout introduced four guests and president Phyllis Fraser expressed the hope that they would enjoy becoming members of the Kinettes.

The roll was called by Monica MacDonald with 29 members present. Mary Atkinson collected for the birthday box and "Happy Birthday" was sung to eight members.

Betty Sullivan gave the secretaty's report followed by the treasurer's report given by Elsie Smith.

President Phyllis thanked everyone who helped with the gentlemen's night in February.

Dorothy Clarke reported that donations to the March of Dimes are still being received and the total to date is $6114.22 which far exceeds last year's total.

Maude Rollins thanked the club for the white cane birthday party and the girls who assisted.

President Phyllis introduced Dr. Ryley who addressed the club on behalf of the blood clinic and asked for donors.

A group of volunteers planned to make flannelette nighties for the children at the Babies' Convalescent Home at Plainfield.

The business meeting was adjourned and turned over to Marg Hallam, who introduced Jean Sisler as auctioneer for the bring-and-buy articles.

Bridge St. A.O.T.S. Holds Regular 'Pot Luck' Supper

The regular "potluck" supper meeting of the Bridge St A.O.T.S. club was held on Wednesday evening with president Ray Gunsolus in the chair. There was plenty of food and everyone enjoyed the meal. Bridge Street "potluck" suppers are famous for their quantity, quality and variety. Ed Buchanan and Alex Gordon provided the leadership for one or two seasonable Irish tunes for relaxation in song.

Thornton Brown, Peter Buchanan, Clark Brown and Cameron MacDonald, guests of several members were introduced and welcomed by their sponsors, and by Art Clare, chairman of the membership committee.

Congratulations were extended to William Finkle, Dr. Arthur Locke, Dr. Sam Cronk, Art May, Charlie Hyde and Walter Elliott on the celebration of their birthdays, and to Mr. and Mrs. Enos David, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Don Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Al Banting on their wedding anniversaries during the month of March.

Danny Cox expressed the thanks of the club members to the ladies who participated in the preparation and serving of the supper.

Dr. Don Scott made an appeal to the members on behalf of the local Red Cross Society for blood donors and several members signed up and will be participating in this important community service.

President Gunsolus outlined the club projects for the year. Among these will be an auction sale to be held before the end of June, for which donations will be accepted. (A suitable storage space will be required for these items). Also available for sale will be "Hasty Note" pads suitably inscribed, and the club expects to conduct a talent money project. Other work projects will be undertaken as well under the guidance of Bill Deline's project committee.

The theme of the devotional period conducted by Glenn Shaver, was "Friendship." The three cardinal virtues of friendship or love are "spontaneousness, selflessness and loyalty." The Scripture was taken from the story of Jonathan and David whose love and devotion knew no bounds.

Everett Fairman introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Art Duncan of Frankford. Mr. Duncan, public relations officer from the Bata Shoe Company was pinch-hitting for Mr. Alex Grimes of the same company. Mr. Duncan has many interests outside his business life, among which is his direction of many sporting activities.

Mr. Duncan's talk commenced on the relaxing subject of humor. He described the unique and sharp English sense of humor with the many colorful English dialects. He added a touch of the Scottish humor and continued with the Jewish type of story. Mr. Duncan's description was punctuated with some well-chosen stories told in the dialect of the Englishman, Scotsman or Jew. He climaxed the stories with an amusing rendition of the old song, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," to the delight and amusement of the club members.

A more serious note brought a challenge and a message. Tomorrow there will be a number of new Canadians taking the oath of allegiance here in Belleville. These people, mostly Europeans, who have completely severed the ties with their native countries, have had to study and learn certain Canadian facts before they are accepted as Canadian citizens, and perhaps are more accutely aware of their obligations to their newly-accepted country.

Rev. Andy MacKenzie thanked the speaker for his friendly, stimulating talk and for his contribution to the lighter and brighter side of life, as well as the thoughtful side.

Local Legion Aux. Holds March Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, Branch 99, was held Tuesday in the Canadian Legion hall, Pinnacle Street.

Approximately 50 members attended the meeting, which was chaired by president, Mrs. Bill Bailey.

Guest speaker at the meeting was zone commander, Comrade Jones, of Picton. Mrs. Jones, who was making her annual visit to the Belleville branch, brought along two of the members of the Picton Ladies Auxiliary.

In her address, Comrade Jones discussed the work done by the auxiliary over the past year, and highly praised the local auxiliary branch, particularly for the large increase in membership over the past year.

The speaker also urged local auxiliary members to attend the zone rally which will be held in Bancroft in May.

Mrs. Jones was introduced and thanked by President Bailey, and was presented with a lovely gift on behalf of the ladies auxiliary.

Refreshments were served and a social evening enjoyed.

SHANNONVILLE GUILD

Trinity Church Ladies Guild, Shannonville, held their regular meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Alvin McKenzie, with 12 members and one visitor present.

Mrs. A. Spencer opened the meeting with prayer, and presented a history of the hymn "Art Thou Weary Heavy Laden". The devotional period closed, with everyone joining in the singing, of this well known hymn.

The roll call was answered by each member giving her opinion on how to keep young, which proved rather amusing.

Mrs. Arthur Long conducted several contests, which formed the program for the evening.

The meeting was then closed with prayer. Mrs. McKenzie assisted by some of the ladies, then served a delicious lunch and a social time followed.

The next meeting of the guild will be held on March 20th, at the home of Mrs. Donald Vance, Milltown. It is hoped that a good attendance will be present.

Printed Lace Suit

By ALICE ALDEN

The material is not the least part of the charm of this cocktail-and-theatre suit. At first glance it looks like silk print, but closer inspection reveals that it is flower-printed lace in shades of red and pink. Evelyn Gates designed the suit, which is prepared to walk the theatre aisle with great aplomb. The loosely fitted jacket with notched collar is self buttoned over a slim skirt.

Although why anybody such as I who gains weight if I look at a cream puff should mount a soapbox and tell you what to do is a puzzle.

Ever since I returned from the Maritimes I've been waging a bitter battle with a bulge. Like a hermit on a fast, every morning I eat my coddled egg on a wafer thin unbuttered slice of whole wheat bread, 1 sectioned orange and 2 cups of coffee with skim milk. By noon I could snarl and snap at the cold roast like a bear, but I hold myself in check by drinking a glass of blue-looking skim milk, and a salad plate with one thick slice of lean meat. My self imposed diet permits a small apple at 3.30 and two cups of tea with skim milk.

For dinner I allow one green and one yellow vegetable (no butter) and a generous portion of lean meat of some kind. Fruit such as oranges, or apples, or grapes, or bananas are my dessert. No before bed snack. On that rigid routine in 4 weeks I've reduced 4 pounds.

One of our readers has written asking how she can combine meals for a dieting husband with those for her hearty eating children. The following three recipes are given for him—with accompaniments to each that will fill the kiddies up.

SAVORY FILLETS

Select 2 fish fillets to serve 4. Finely chop and mix together 1 small carrot, onion, tomato, ½ green pepper and parsley, salt and pepper and a little dill weed. Spread on fillets. If desired, roll up and fasten with toothpick. Place on greased baking dish, pour over 1 cup water or tomato juice or clam broth and bake at 400 degs. Fahr. for 45 minutes. Carefully remove to hot platter or plates. To the dieter serve this as is; for remainder of family make and serve with it a tomato sauce.

CHICKEN SALAD IN TOMATO JELLY

Soak 2 tablespoons gelatin in ½ cup cold water. Heat 2 cups tomato juice seasoned with 1 bouillon cube, ½ teaspoon each onion salt, mustard and Worchestershire Sauce. Stir into gelatin until dissolved. Cool to syrupy consistency. Meanwhile mix together 2 tablespoons each chopped green pepper and celery, 2 teaspoons lemon juice and 1 cup chopped chicken. Stir into partially congealed jelly. Chill until firm. Serve on bed of shredded greens; as is to dieter, with mayonnaise to remainder of family. The dieter could have cottage cheese with this as a main lunch.

APRICOT FRAPPE

Mash 12 water-packed apricot halves until light and frothy. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, grated rind of 1 lemon, shake of salt and 1½ cups buttermilk. Dissolve 6 sucaryl tablets in 1 tablespoon hot water and add, mixing well. Pour into freezer tray and chill until mushy. Remove to cold bowl and beat until light. Return to tray and freeze until firm. Serve as is to dieter; serve with cake or cookies to remainder of family.

WHEN TO MAIL FORMAL WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to be married in May: a large, formal church wedding, large reception. When should the invitations be mailed?
— Bride-to-be

Today, formal wedding invitations are usually mailed four weeks before the wedding date. Very practical . . . so that those invited will "save the date."

FIANCE'S PARENTS SHOULD ACCEPT THIS INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son recently became engaged, and his fiancee's mother and father want us to come to their house so they can meet us. Please tell me if it is our place to go to see them or is it their place to come to see us. They are quite persistent about our coming to see them, but I can't see any rush about it. Thank you for your advice about this.
— Fiance's Mother

It is charmingly apparent, I should say, that the mother and father of your son's fiancee certainly know what's what about establishing the so-important relationship between the two families. The first rule about this is that you and your husband, just as soon as possible after you son told you about his engagement, should have welcomed his fiancee into your family . . . by personal call or by letter or telephone . . . and should have called on or telephoned or written to her parents.

Have you made this important first social move? If you have, it is then quite correct for either family to invite the other family just to call or for some special occasion. If you haven't made this social move they undoubtedly were waiting for, they may have come to the conclusion that you didn't realize this was your duty and so they decided not to wait on ceremony, but to make the first move themselves You should at once and most graciously accept their kind and important invitation.

STYLES, MATERIALS AND COLORS FOR AUGUST WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wedding is to be on August 20. For this date would Summer styles still be appropriate, or would Fall fashions be more appropriate? — K. T.

Summer styles would definitely be appropriate in your part of the country for an August 20th wedding. Materials appropriate for Summer . . . and, very importantly, colors appropriate for Summer.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. C. F. — My daughter has taken the children from me.

Constance F. — I am trying to make it up to her.

• • •

Mrs. C. F. — My problem concerns the happy relationship that I have just lost with my grandchildren.

They are four darlings and I adore being with them. Recently, however, my daughter moved to a new community and since then I have only seen them a couple of times.

There was really no reason for my daughter to have made this move. She had a lovely home, convenient to her husband's office, right near me. My daughter has always been irritable and short-tempered with me and I feel that she resented the fact the children were so crazy about me.

It is heartbreaking that such bitterness should exist in a child's heart toward her own mother. My life is now empty. What have I done to deserve this?

• • •

Constance F. — My mother has always been the possessive type. I have been telling her this for years, but she just doesn't seem to understand.

Of course I love my mother and I don't resent the children's love for her, but I do think they could use a little less of her. I can't help seeing that they prefer her story-telling and gift-giving to my scrubbing, feeding and occasional spanking.

In spite of this I have felt quite guilty about taking the children away from my mother when she dotes on them so. She says she has seen them only a couple of times since we have moved away, but she neglects to mention that those couple of times she stayed at my home several days and saw the children constantly. I am trying to make it up to her.

• • •

The Council: This unhappy situation cannot be remedied by anything Constance can do "to make it up" to her mother. Her guilt is ill-founded.

The real problem here is not being fully stated. Mrs. C. F. has obviously invested too much of herself in these grandchildren. It will be very hard for her to face and accept the fact that they should occupy only a portion of her life and that she must invest her time, energy and interest in other places.

Women who have fully devoted themselves to family life for some 25 years naturally feel that the world outside home and family has little interest for them. It is not until they begin to participate in that world a little bit that they realize they can have other interests. That is why it is important to start developing outside interests and activities while the children are still young.

It takes courage to enter a new phase of life and Mrs. C. F. should realize that she has shirked the problem until now. Her plaintive cry, "What have I done to deserve this?" indicates that she is heading down the dangerous path of self-pity to avoid tackling her very real problem.

Constance can do better than punish herself with guilty feelings about her mother. She can show er love by helping her mother find clubs or community work that will occupy her time and energy.

New Church Dedicated at Frankford

Sunday, March 16, was a happy day for the pastor and congregation of the Emmanuel Gospel Church, Frankford, on the completion and dedication of their new church.

A large congregation gathered from various places for the dedication service which was held Sunday afternoon. The pastor, Rev. R. P. Spurrell presided and several visiting ministers took part in the service. The choir sang a very lovely and fitting selection, entitled "Make Me A Blessing." Pastor Spurrell thanked the members of the congregation for their splendid co-operation and many hours of hard work.

Reeve George Spencer of Frankford represented the town council and extended congratulations to the congregation on the opening of this splendid place of worship.

The soloist, Mrs. Wes Spurrell, of Toronto, sang very beautifully, "Bless This House." The prayer of dedication was offered by Rev. J. Barker of Sarnia, Ont.

Rev. P. Stutzman of Detroit was the guest speaker for the occasion and his theme was the "Dedication of the Temple by Solomon," 2 Chron. 6:19-33.

"Solomon's prayer that God would make the temple a true sanctuary, a place of refuge; that God would reward the righteous, and be merciful in judgment to the guilty that repent. His prayer that God would cause the temple to be a place of blessing to all people —the sick, the needy, the discouraged, the defeated."

The building which was first built for a theatre, has been completely renovated through voluntary efforts of the church members. The color scheme and lighting of the main auditorium are beautiful; the lower auditorium is complete with Sunday School rooms, kitchen, lounge and wash rooms. The congregation of the Emmanuel Gospel Church is to be congratulated on the opening of this splendid spiritual workshop.

The Women's Association of Wesley United Church, Trent Road, held a very successful St. Patrick's supper on Saturday.

Mr. R. Percival welcomed the visitors and offered prayer.

The buffet table was prettily decorated with the traditional shamrocks and green streamers and centred with potted white chrysanthemums, again augmented with St. Patrick's decorations.

The food was of the pot-luck variety, which meant there was plenty to satisfy every taste.

The ladies of the W.A. wish to thank all those who attended.

Shifting Interest

By ALICE ALDEN

The chemise or shift line is a natural background for fine accessories. Jewelry, especially, provides an ideal accent to break the straight line. Color offers spice for spring sartorial creations with costume pieces with sleek precise lines and colorful detail to enhance the shift or any other silhouette. Here, chunky Venetian stones mottled with gold are linked into a handsome necklace to fill in the stark neckline of a simple shift. Earrings and bracelets complete the pretty picture.

Spring Fashions for Young Set Shown at St. Andrew's Church

Over 250 people crowded the Presbyterian Church Parlour Tuesday to view the latest in spring fashions for the young set.

The 22 youthful models, ranging in age from two years to teenage, displayed the latest in school togs, party clothes, casuals, and Easter finery, for the well-dressed tot to teenage class.

The fashion preview, entitled "Fantasy in Fashions," was sponsored by the Welcome Group of St. Andrew's Women's Guild, and was under the direction of Mrs. Robert Michaud. Mrs. Michaud was assisted by Mrs. Jean Cornell, Mrs. P. Gryce, and Mrs. R. Clarke.

The commentator, Mrs. William D. Cook, handled her duties capably.

Divided into three "acts" the show featured the popular Ivy League look in boys' fashions, and the chemise style in girls' fashions.

The latest in school togs for girls featured ever popular plaid skirt and sweater sets, a Dan River blouse and skirt set, and an avocado cotton jumper (which can be worn later on as a sun-dress) over a polished cotton striped blouse. The well-dressed schoolboy will be wearing peaked Ivy League caps, striped shirts, grey flannels, blue sheen suit with a Perry Como-style jacket, or a red corduroy Jimmy Dean jacket, if the fashion forecast is correct.

A birthday party setting was the background for the previewing of colorful spring party clothes. Featured among the lovely collection was a filmy silk organza in cerise shade, with tucked bodice from collar to waistline, and puffed sleeves. An "Alyssa original", it had a full skirt over a matching crinoline. One outfit that really stole the spotlight was a white gabardine Eton suit with short pants. A navy shirt and matching bow tie, navy socks and white buck shoes competed the dapper outfit.

The Easter Parade featured many stunning outfits. A real scene stealer, however, was one of the young models, two-year-old Teddy Marvin. The cute, [illegible] cheeked cherub was decked out in a three-piece brown wool Ivy League slack suit, with peaked Ivy League cap. The suit a Bluebird Size-O-Matic, features a full two-years-growth at the tug of a thread. Teddy was accompanied by a little miss wearing a beige wool coat and roller hat. The coat, a "Mark 'N' Judy" creation featured full gored back, pleated skirt, slash pockets, and brown velvet trim.

The chemise style was very much in evidence. One outfit which drew favorable comments was a nautical-looking 2-piece red wool suit, featuring pleated skirt, and sailor collared over-blouse with brass buttons down the front. This outfit, by "Teacher's Pet", was accented by a white straw hat with red trim.

One outfit for the very young man of the family which drew applause from the audience was a light blue wool tweed sports jacket with contrasting navy trousers, and matching fedora hat.

For the teenager there was a beige wool Ayers coat by "Miss Prim," featuring the new straight line with button-trimmed pleats at each side. The coat was removed to show a stunning two-piece chemise suit in turquoise with a coral bow at the neck and centre belt a beige hat with clusters of brown-eyed susans on either side.

Another striking ensemble was a navy bengaline duster coat, featuring full back flowing from a set-in yoke, and bow detail. The duster was removed to display a light blue sleeveless nylon dress, with wide satin belt with satin piping around the neck and armholes. A white straw hat completed this outfit.

Entertainment in between the "acts" was provided by four ballet students from the Esther Lillian School of Dancing, and by a local vocalist, Francis Rose who sang two selections, the second of which he accompanied himself on the guitar.

The ballet numbers starred Leslie Ineson and Anita Tenhoope in "Dresdena" and Jaclyn Keegan and Barbara Jones in "Courting." Pianist was Mrs. Rod Cameron.

Prior to the fashion show, coffee, sandwiches and pastries were served the guests, while the home baking and candy tables did a flourishing business.

Models who participated in the fashion show were Iris MacLean, Robin Strachan, Brian Williamson, Marilyn Hayman, Arlene Jones, Robert McCreary, Mae Wright, Teddy Marvin, Ardele Sunderland, Carol Clarke, Bobby Burd, Jo Skinkle, Barbara Barrett, Jimmy Hilbig, Linda Gryce, Linda Grant, Douglas Williamson, Glenda Valleau, Linda Valleau, Bobbie Slavin and Heather and Bonnie Ross.

All the outfits were supplied by Tots 'N Teens, and baskets of flowers decorating the stage were supplied by Barber and Son. Other merchants who assisted in this undertaking were Mott Lumber and Wray's Home Furnishings.

CAMPBELLFORD

Ted Kennedy Guest Speaker At Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD — Ted Kennedy, coach of the Peterborough Junior A, hockey team, and former captain of the Toronto Maple Leaf NHL team was guest speaker at the regular noon luncheon of the Rotary club here on Monday. He spoke to a large number of youthful guests, including the members of the Campbellford OMHA Bantam hockey team, who attended the meeting.

Mr. Kennedy stated that hockey from Junior A up is big business. The team must, like any other business, operate at a profit. He said that an NHL hockey player has many advantages in life, but also has many disadvantages.

A player must sacrifice many things. Since he makes his living from his own body, he must keep it in good condition at all times. The fundamental thing among the elements of a good training program, are rest, nourishing food and exercise. The speaker added that a boy's spiritual life is also of great importance. The Sunday school teaches something which one can use the rest of his life. He said a hockey player should neither drink nor smoke.

Mr. Kennedy addressed many of his remarks to the members of the OMHA team, saying that a player must give his all to win, but must not be unduly elated in victory, nor downcast in defeat. He should never be boastful, nor should he make excuses.

The speaker congratulated the Rotary Club for its work among the children of the district.

During a question and answer period following his address, Mr. Kennedy named an all-star team of his playing days as follows: goal, Broda or Durnan; (Broda, he said, he chose for his ability in the play-offs), defence, Jack Stewart and Jim Thompson; centre Syl Apps; wings, Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe. Rotarian Gordon Whitehorne thanked the speaker.

FORESEE WARM WEATHER, LITTLE RAIN OR SNOW

AIRCRAFT BUILDING CRISIS

BRISTOL, England (Reuters) Bristol Airplane Company draftsmen warned the government Tuesday that "a crisis of the greatest magnitude" faces the firm's 25,000 workers. The Draftsmen's Union in a statement said that 400 workers had been laid off at Bristol's headquarters plant and 200 at their London drawing office. They forecast that the "rundown" will continue unless the government does something to maintain production of the Britannia turbo-prop airliner.

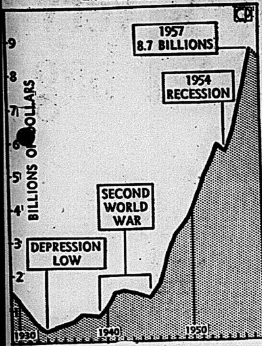
INVESTMENT GROWTH



One of the most important factors in determining the level of economic activity in a country at any time is the volume of investment spending by business and government.

This graph shows the year-by-year level of capital investment in Canada from 1929 to the current year.

The level for 1958 — shown by a dotted line — is an estimate, based on a federal trade department survey of investment plans by Canadian business, institutions, governments and house-builders. The 1958 forecast of $8,500,000,000 in capital expenditures is the same as the 1957 forecast issued a year ago but the 1957 estimate proved to be $200,000,000 on the low side.

The pre-war high in investment was $1,518,000,000 in 1929 and the low was $327,000,000 in the depression year of 1933. As the country emerged from the depression, investment spending began to rise until it was interrupted by a setback in the late 1930s. Then it moved up through the years of the Second World War, falling off slightly as the war neared its end.

An unprecendented boom, starting in 1946, and interrupted only by the 1954 recession, brought investment levels to a peak in 1957. (CP Newsmap).

Minto

MINTO — St. Thomas' W.A. held a dinner and quilting at the home of Mrs. Ed. Colden on Tuesday of last week.

On Sunday morning in Salem church a most impressive service was held when 25 young people were made members of the church. The service was conducted by the Rev. J. F. Lane of Madoc, assisted by Rev. Stobbart.

Those who were made members were: Joe, Glenn and Grant Hagerman, Paul and Glenn Heagle, Harold and Ross Sarles, Carol and Jean Sine, Nancy, Bob and Judy Wickens, Lois, Mary and Margaret Ray, Margaret Rose, Ray Carol Sine, Dewayne Johnston, Floyd Jenkins, Marian and Shirley Broadworth, Jean and Joan Tweedie, Audrey Carter and Marlene Holden.

After the service Rev. Stobbart asked Mr. J. B. Hagerman to come forward and Mrs. Mayo read an address. Mrs. Albert Twiddy presented him with a hymnary on behalf of the choir for his very faithful services rendered for a number of years.

There was a splendid congregation present for this service and the special music was rendered by the junior choir under the direction of Mrs. George Sine.

The young people of Salem church sponsored a variety show and pie social in the church hall on Thursday evening. There was a splendid crowd and the program was put on entirely by the young people, with Miss Barbara Woodbeck of Stirling, giving two numbers. After the program Miss Carol Sine, president of the Young People's, thanked all who had helped with the program, especially Mrs. Bert Heagle who directed them and Miss Woodbeck for her numbers.

Lunch was then served with an abundance of sandwiches, pie and coffee. The proceeds were very gratifying.

Mr. William Courtney spent last week with his sister, Mrs Sarah Preston in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. John Myall of Peterborough, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Colden.

NO COURT-MARTIAL

SEOUL (AP)—The American major who flew a young Korean thief 25 miles jailed in a box has decided to accept punishment without trial. The most he can get is a rebuke and loss of a month's pay. The United States Army gave Maj. Thomas James 40, the choice of accepting the token punishment or seeking an acquittal in a general court-martial.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — A special service held in Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, on Sunday evening, March 16, was largely attended.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Harold Stobbart, assisted by Rev. J. F. Lane, Madoc, and Rev. Harold Lackey of Claremont, a former minister of the Ivanhoe charge.

The Rev. Lackey dedicated a baptismal font, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Creaser. Following the dedication the infant son, Dwight Allan, of Mr. and Mrs. Creaser, was baptized.

Rev. H. Lackey delivered a timely message, the subject being "The Guidance of God."

"I believe for every Christian God has a purpose. He is working His purpose out and will guide us along the way. You will find this teaching all through the Bible," he said. "The Lord is my Shepherd, the Lord is my Guide, and Thou will guide me by Thy counsel."

God not only guides but sustains us. The early church knew great tribulation yet God was its strength.

God sustains us in tribulation and sickness. "Greater is He that is in you, than He that is in the world.

God does not always answer prayers as some would like. Children of God may be often perplexed and persecuted but never forsaken or alone.

God sustains us in loneliness and temptation. Success and happiness should not be the goal of those seeking the will of God.

Following the message Rev. J. F. Lane spoke briefly, stating he had enjoyed the fellowship of the day, having attended services at Salem, Bethesda, Fuller and throughout the day when 65 members were received into the church following communicant and catechism classes conducted by the Rev. H. Stobbart during the Lenten season.

Mr. Lane then conducted a solemn and impressive service when the following were received into the church:

David McMaster, Larry McMaster, Frances Prest, Judy Rollins, Elaine Wickens, Jack Wood, Paul Reid, Evelyn Prest, Judy Wood, Jean Benson, Carlyle Rollins, Allan Rollins, Karen Bray, Barry Bray, Marjorie Stephens.

Mr. Stanley Prest, a member of Session, presented each new member with a book. The session then gave the right hand of fellowship to those who had been received into the church.

Special music, provided by the junior choir, under the direction of the organist and choir leader, included "Little Sunbeam," "O Worship the King," and "Fairest Lord Jesus."

DESERONTO

Various Regular Meetings Held In Deseronto

DESERONTO — The second meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Boy Scouts and Cubs was held at the Lions Centre on March 10th. There were 24 ladies present. The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer followed by the singing of "O Canada" for which Mrs. T. W. Stewart played the accompaniment.

Present for the meeting were District Commissioner F. Burnett and Mrs. Tach of Napanee, who explained the functions of the organization to those in attendance.

The officers of the auxiliary are as follows: president, Mrs. C. Gray; vice-president, Mrs. N. Dimmell; secretary, Mrs. E. Gilligan; treasurer, Mrs. J. Hopson; conveners: financial, Mrs. J. Spence; sewing, Mrs. J. Neal; uniform, Mrs. N. Dimmell; social, Mrs. M. Detlor; membership, Mrs. W. Benn: program, Mrs. J. Therrien and Mrs. D. Armitage.

Lunch was served by Mrs. C. Gray, assisted by several of the ladies. A social hour was then spent discussing the activities of the evening. The next meeting will be held April 21st at the Lions Centre at 8 p.m.

The March meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Church of the Redeemer was held at the home of Mrs. A. Lickorish, Green Street.

The president opened the meeting with an Easter meditation, "He Is Risen" and a Scripture reading from John 10, verses 14 to 21, followed by prayer.

The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and adopted.

A business discussion followed during which plans were made for the rummage sale to be held on April 19. It was decided to hold the April meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Cassie, Thomas Street West.

The meeting closed with the benediction after which the hostess served lunch and a social hour was enjoyed.

The Deseronto branch of the Canadian Red Cross met at the home of Mrs. H. Transue on March 5th.

Routine business was done. Reports were received from the conveners of the loan cupboard, the disaster and civilian relief committee, the swimming and water safety, the women's work and senior citizens committees. It is with real regret that the branch will not conduct swimming classes this summer unless public demand and support warrant the project.

Mrs. F. Robinson reported that the emergency sewing and knitting has been completed. Supplies for knitting and plain sewing were ordered. Mrs. C. Dimmell reported many calls on senior citizens. After a report on the blood donor clinic held on February 12, plans were made for a second clinic. There were 15 donors at the first clinic.

Mrs. H. Transue, campaign chairman for 1958, gave details of the canvass now underway. The Red Cross is always ready to help. During March each home is asked to be ready with help for the Red Cross when the volunteer canvasser calls.

A signal honor to a member of the Deseronto Branch and a source of pleasure to all members is the award to Mrs. George Cooper of a "Certificate of Merit." This certificate was awarded Mrs. Cooper for her "devoted and faithful service as a volunteer worker of the Canadian Red Cross Society." Her contribution of time and talent will long be remembered in this branch.

At the conclusion of the meeting lunch was served by Mrs. C. Dimmell and Mrs. H. Transue. The next meeting will be held on April 2nd at the home of Mrs. D. Dawson.

Wellington

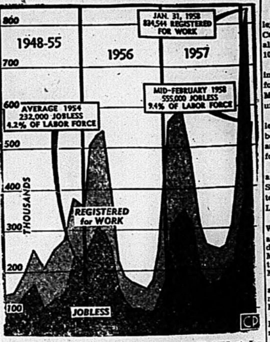
EUCHRE-CRIBBAGE PARTY

WELLINGTON — On Saturday evening, March 15, the Women's Institute held a euchre and cribbage party in the town hall. Owing to the big hockey game there were not as large a crowd as usual. Ten tables were in play and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. After the games were over the prizes for euchre were presented to: ladies, Mrs. Earl Lumley and Mrs. Charles Broadbridge; gents, Mrs. Tom Boyle and Mrs. Jim Denard, both playing on gents' tickets. For cribbage, ladies, Mrs. S. Broadbridge and Mrs. W. King; gents, William Adams and Wilbert King. A special prize was given to the person who lived the farthest away. This went to Mrs. C. Martell of Kitchener. A basket of groceries, given as a door prize, went to Mrs. J. Denard. Other special prizes of canned goods went to Mrs. Norman Foster, Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. Harry Bowers, Picton, Mrs. Otto Moore and Mr. Howard Mills, Northport.

The members of the W.I. had sold tickets on a traveller's alarm clock. The lucky ticket was drawn and the winner of the clock was Mrs Charles Greer. The ladies expect to buy a new electric clock for the town hall with the proceeds of this draw.

The card tables were placed together and a lunch was served by the W.I. members.

UNEMPLOYMENT UP



The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates that 555,000 Canadians were out of work and looking for jobs at the middle of February. This was 9.4 per cent of the total labor force of 5,869,000.

Graph at right shows the monthly fluctuation from the beginning of 1956 in the numbers of jobless (heavily shaded area) and those registered for work with the National Employment Service. Graph at left traces the yearly average of jobless and those registered for work during 1948-55.

The figure of 834,544 registered for work with NES at Jan. 31 does not indicate absolute unemployment. NES figures inevitably contain an unknown proportion of persons seeking one job while holding another, or who have found work after registering.

The mid-February unemployment figure tops any since the depression year of 1936, when DBS estimated 565,000 jobless. At that time, however, the labor force was only 4,417,000.

During the 1954 recession, unemployment averaged 232,000 for the year, 4.2 per cent of the labor force. (CP Newsmap).

Collapse May Be Price of Trade Failure

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

MONTREAL (CP)—Collapse of the Western economic system may be the price of failure to liberalize international trade, Eric Wyndham White, executive secretary of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), said in an address to the Canadian council of the International Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday.

There has been a gratifying expansion of international trade in the last few years, he said, but the current atmosphere of recession has led to a revival of protectionist sentiment in many countries.

"It seems that there are still many people who have not learned the grim lesson of the 1930s, and who still believe that unemployment and recession can be exported to the foreigner.

RESTRICTIONS MULTIPLY

"But those of us who lived through that experience have not forgotten the bitter lesson that restrictive national policies at moments of economic difficulty, have a multiplying effect on the recessive process.

"This, therefore, seems to be a moment for courage and initiative and for the leading trading countries to confront the present situation with bold and expansionist policies.

"If we believe in our economic system and in its dynamism and expansionist character, we must adapt our policies to a positive and optimistic approach. If we fail in this direction, it is doubtful whether the system itself can survive."

Mr. Wyndham White's comments were contained in a text made available to the press in advance of delivery.

ROBBER FOILED BY BANK EMPLOYEES

Kenneth Leishman, 26, right, who said he had just arrived in Toronto by plane from Winnipeg, is questioned by a detective after his arrest for armed robbery. The robbery of a Toronto branch bank was foiled when a woman teller screamed at the sight of an armed man using the bank manager as hostage. Two bank employees chased him, and a passing clergyman kicked a revolver out of his hand. Police had only the job of escorting him to the nearest police station.

Small 'Quake' At Pembroke

PEMBROKE (CP) — An earth tremor Wednesday shook homes here and at Deep River, 33 miles west. Pembroke is on the Ottawa River, 100 miles northwest of Ottawa.

No damage was reported but police and radio station switchboards reported calls from persons who had been awakened by the tremor at about 1:40 a.m. EST.

In Ottawa, the Dominion Observatory said a "very small earthquake" was recorded on its seismograph at 1:39.46 a.m. EST, apparently centred on the Pembroke area. The tremor lasted about two minutes.

It was thought likely the earthquake was purely local. Officials said the Ottawa Valley is "an active region" for such tremors.

Health Minister Gives Colleague Only Sympathy

LISTOWEL, Ont. (CP)—Health Minister Monteith had nothing left but sympathy to offer Eric Winkler when he and the Conservative member of Parliament for Grey-Bruce in the last House, appeared at a political rally here.

Mr. Winkler complained that his campaign was interrupted when he suffered a bout of influenza. "I took serum shots provided for all members last December," he said. "They were supposed to protect us against disease."

Coldwell Finds CCF Prospects More Encouraging Than Ever As Election Day Approaches

With the federal election 11 days away, a Canadian Press reporter summarizes here the Coldwell campaign and the principal points emphasized in the CCF leader's presentation of his party's platform.

By DON PEACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the March 31 general electaion swiftly approaching, CCF leader M. J. Coldwell finds prospects for his party "very encouraging — more so than for a good many years."

The campaign has been a strenuous one for the 69-year-old Socialist leader. It gave rise this month to reports his health was failing. But he said he was only tired, not sick. His doctor confirmed this, but later ordered a week's rest to shake off an acute cold.

In last year's election campaign, Mr. Coldwell's activities were restricted because of a mild heart attack he suffered early in 1957. But for this campaign — his seventh, and his fifth as national leader — he set out on a strenuous road schedule.

BEGAN IN SASKATCHEWAN

He opened his campaign in Saskatchewan where he has represented Rosetown-Biggar since 1935. One of his main themes has been that the only chance Canadians have to express their protest against current conditions is to vote CCF.

The Liberals and Progessive Conservatives, he said, "have dropped the little difference that there had been between them and the CCF takes up the fight for a new approach, a real alternative to the present policies being carried on."

As he moved about Saskatchewan and then through British Columbia and Alberta, this theme recurred. Deputy CCF Leader Stanley Knowles carried a similar message through the Maritimes and Ontario.

PIPELINES REFERENCE

Mr. Coldwell also referred frequently to pipelines, especially the trans-Canada natural gas line. He said "fantastic fortunes" were being made by pipeline promoters at the public's expense and blamed both old-line parties for allowing such a "national scandal." He called for public ownershp of the pipelines.

The CCF leader travelled light by comparison to the entourages accompanying Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader Pearson. Unlike the others, he had no specal train. As he travelled by plane, train and automobile, he was regularly accompanied only by a secretary.

But he was encouraged by what he saw. During a stopover in Ottawa, he told a reporter that CCF supporters "are working more enthusiastically than ever before." He felt support for the CCF was more broadly based than in any previous election.

SEES ELECTION GAINS

Both he and Mr. Knowles frequently expressed optimism that the CCF would emerge from the election as one of Canada's two major parties.

"I think the Canadian people realize that we offer the only real alternatve and the only constructve program," Mr. Coldwell said.

He was especially hopeful of his party's chances in B.C. and Saskatchewan. He said Mr. Knowles is even more optimistic, after travelling through the Maritimes and various parts of Ontario.

The CCF held 25 of the 265 Commons seats in the last Parliament. The most the party ever held was 28, after the 1945 election.

10-POINT PROGRAM

Mr. Coldwell outlined a 10-point CCF program in Rosetown, Sask., on Feb. 15.

It featured a promise of legislation ensuring construction of at least 200,000 low-cost homes each year, a massive school-building program, construction of many new hospitals and federal assistance for a national highway program.

Other items:

1. Full parity prices for agriculture to ensure farmers a fair share of the national income.

2. Establishment of a national investment board to pursue stable investment policies and replace the sporadic "flood or famine, inflation or deflation policies of an unplanned economy."

COMMODITY DEALS

3. Promotion of long-term commodity agreements to ensure stable markets and prices for Canada's mineral, agricultural and other primary production.

4. "Vastly increased" Canadian participation in economic aid programs through support of the United Nations economic development fund and a world food bank "to bring the abundance that is ours to meet the needs of millions throughout the world."

5. Establishment of national marketing boards for all farm products entering interprovincial or export trade, where requested by producers.

6. "A bold program of public investment to ensure adequate employment opportunities for all Canadians regardless of where they may live."

7. A "comprehensive" crop insurance plan.

8. Enactment of a national labor code "to safeguard the rights of the working man."

9. Increasing unemployment insurance payments "to an adequate level to meet the high prices of today."

Mr. Coldwell said the Liberals and Conservatives are so busy blaming each other for unemployment that the economic facts of the situation are being "sedulously" ignored.

Mr. Coldwell planned to wind up his campaign in the West. He said he has always been more expert on the problems of the farmer and rural dweller.

GUELPH GIRL OVERSEAS

The overseas appointments for the air force include one girl, Flt. Cadet Jane Isabel Tracy, of Guelph. She will go to Zweibruecken to join Three Fighter Wing.

U.S. May Be Prepared To Agree to Ban on Tests

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Persistent Washington reports that the United States may be prepared to agree to a ban on nuclear bomb tests for a period of two or three years indicate a buildup to prepare American public opinion for this important first step on the disarmament road.

Such reports do not come about by accident. They are based on hints dropped by officials, some highly placed, who are in a position to know the trend of government thinking.

Until recently, the Eisenhower administration had clung rigidly to the position that any test suspension must be accompanied by a ban on the production of fissionable material for military use. It now is swinging to the view that testing can be suspended safely for a trial period, provided that the ban is enforced by an adequate system of international inspection.

But, before the government can officially pronounce that view, it must prepare the public, the congress and some diehard elements in defence department for what admittedly would be a far-reaching step in U.S. disarmament policy.

President Eisenhower has been under great pressure, both foreign and domestic, to modify his opposition to an agreement with the Russians on an outright ban. Much of the domestic pressure has come from scientists and public health officials who feel that effects of radioactive fallout on mankind are too uncertain to justify continued and unrestrained testing.

Several U.S. scientists recently have challenged the position of the eminent Dr. Edward Teller, often called the father of the H-bomb. Teller, who holds that it is all but useless to try to negotiate an effective and enforceable suspension, generally is credited with having great influence at the White House.

Up to now, the administration has argued that it needed to continue A - tests to develop new tactical weapons with low fallout for use with troops in the field. Anyway, the argument went, a suspension agreement would be unenforceable because a clever opponent, namely the Soviet Union, could carry out sneak tests without detection.

Now, however, the administration believes that its spring series of tests in the Pacific will take it far enough along the road to bombs free of fallout that it can suspend testing for two or three years with comparatively little risk to the U.S. defence posture.

Great Britain Loosens Tight Credit Policy

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain loosened its tight credit policy a notch today, dropping the bank rate from seven to six per cent in a move that reflects a current improvement in the strength of sterling currency on the world market.

The bank rate determines the prevailing interest charge on all borrowing. The government shot it up to a drastic seven per cent last September in a bid to stiffen the market value of sterling which was slumping dangerousiv on world marketh and imposing a critical drain on Britain's reserve bank roll of dollars and gold.

Today's reduction by the Bank of England reflects the success of this emergency move. Since last September the pound sterling has inched upwards to the "par" value of $2.80, and the storm has blown over.

STILL FEAR INFLATION

January and February were the best months for Britain's vital gold and dollar reserves in several years. All the dollars lost during the run on sterling last fall have since been regained.

Officials were quick to stress that the bank rate cut does not mean any relaxation in the government's battle against inflation.

A treasury spokesman said: "While there is still a need to strengthen further the overseas monetary position, the speculative pressure against sterling has ceased, and such an exceptionally high level of short-term interest rates in London is no longer justified."

EASIER CREDIT

From the viewpoint of the British man-in-the-street the chief effect of a bank rate movement is its effect on credit buying. When the bank rate goes up mortgages and instalment buying become more expensive.

Today's reduction raises hopes here that mortgage interest and time-buying charges may be cut, though at six per cent the rate is still far higher than in most countries.

Britain's move falls into a world pattern of falling rates. The current downturn was led by West Germany, Canada and the United States and was recently joined by The Netherlands.

Canada's Militia Strength Will Be Reduced

OTTAWA (CP) — A new order to take effect late this summer will further reduce the strength of Canada's militia, it was learned Wednesday.

Strength of the reserve army has been steadily declining in recent years. It now stands at some 41,000 — 7,000 officers and 34,000 other ranks — compared to 47,000 three years ago.

The new order decrees that only 10 per cent of a militia unit's strength may be over-age or in low physical categories. At present, 25 per cent of a unit's establishment — in effect, its manpower ceiling — may be over-age or not in A-1 physical condition.

Retirement age from the militia varies according to rank and trade. But, generally, it is 50 for corporals and below and 55 for non-commissioned officers. For officers, the retirement age ranges from 45 for lieutenants to 55 for brigadiers and above. In some trade categories, the ertirement age is 60 for both the retirement age is 60 for both

COULDN'T ESTIMATE

Officials said they could not estimate by how much the new order will reduce the strength of the militia. In some units, there might be no decrease but, over-all, there would be a reduction of hunderds and perhaps thousands.

The navy is now in the process of reducing its reserve strength by six per cent. When the reduction is completed the reserve will number 4,400—1,100 officers and 3,300 men. This number will be set as a manpower ceiling for the naval reserve.

No decrease in RCAF reserve strength is planned. It now trands at about 5,100, or some 500 less than a year ago.

RUSSIAN LEADERS ATTEND

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet leaders Nikita Khrushchev, Nikolai Bulganin and Anastas Mikoyan Tuesday night attended the opening of the international pianists ad Violinists' competition at the Moscow Conservattory of music. The competition, which will run until April 14, has drawn 80 young artists from 23 countries.

500 PARATROOPS IN MASS JUMP

Their parachutes adjusted, members of the second battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, march to a transport plane at Crumlin airport, London, Ont., to begin Operation Snowdrop, one of the biggest air drops ever staged in Canada. In all, 500 paratroops participated and, though two 'chutes became entangled in one jump, there were no casualties.

Many of the paratroops were stepping off into space for the first time. Bad weather had delayed the mass jump for two weeks. Hundreds of spectators saw the demonstration, which was described as "successful."

Almost Half Motorists Fail To Pass Tests

TORONTO (CP) — Highways Minister Allan disclosed in the legislature Wednesday that 46 per cent of motorists failed either the road test or driving examination since the first of January at the three new testing centres in London, Toronto and nearby Downsview.

Road test failures amounted to 27 per cent, while 31.1 per cent failed written examinations and tests for visual acuity, depty perception and sign-reading ability.

Mr. Allan said the increased high failure rate indicated that the system of testing drivers on a fee basis is inferior to the system used at the new centres.

"This does not reflect on the examiner on a fee basis except to show that he has not the time, the facilities nor the number of tests necessary to conduct a complete examination."

Succession Tax May Be Eased

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost said Wednesday night the Ontario government is considering easing succession duties by raising the minimum level below which estates are tax free.

At present estates of less than $50,000 escape taxation.

The premier was replying to a suggestion by J. J. Wintermeyer L-Waterloo North that half of any estate bequeathed to a widow should be tax free on the grounds that wives contribute one half of a successful marriage.

Times Publisher Attacks Royal Commissions

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada is suffering from an excess of "royal commissionitis" and a tendency towards economic "cannibalism" in labor-management affairs, publisher Stuart Keate of the Victoria Times said Wednesday.

The many royal commission inquiries ordered by federal and provincial governments were proving costly and sometimes unnecessary. The philosophy behind them appeared to be "when in doubt, appoint a committee."

He told the B.C. Insurance Agents association:

"I suggest there are real dangers in our elected representatives handing over our business to the tender mercies of a select few or even—as frequently happens—to an individual."

He said royal commissions are proving a convenient device for sweeping contentious or embarrassing problems under the rug.

EXCESSIVE DEMANDS

Referring to labor-management relations, Mr. Keate said Canada has reached a hiatus in its development: at a time when many industries are in trouble, labor has decided to make demands "far in excess of the settlements of the boom years."

The average citizen, a helpless bystander, could only view this head-on collision with dismay.

The strike once was regarded as "a last-ditch gesture—a declaration of war against oppression" but now had become "the second-act curtain in a familiar drama which is not always resolved in a happy ending."

The time had come when strikes or lockouts designed to "subdue the whole people for the benefit of a small group" should be made illegal.

Plan to Assist Utilities With Crossing Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—Utilities companies will receive help from the federal railway grade crossing fund towards the costs of relocating their facilities in connecton with grade crossing projects, the board of transport commissioners ruled today.

The board held that—for the time being, at least—the utilities will get assistance only in those cases where this would not reduce payments from the fund to municipalities, highway authorities or the railways.

However, the board stated in a judgment that it is recommending to the government legislation to place utilities on a par with the other bodies.

At present utilities do not share in the fund, set up by Parliament to help defray the costs of improving safety and protection at crossings through subways, overpasses and other projects.

RAISED TO $15,000,000

The fund, initially $1,000,000 a year, was boosted to $5,000,000 a year in 1955, and recently the government announced it will be $15,000,000 for the coming fiscal year and will be increased further if this is found desirable.

The transport board rules on how it is allocated, within ceilings laid down by Parliament. The major one is that on new projects contributions may be made up to 60 per cent of the cost of a project or $300,000, whichever is the lesser.

The board's new ruling was made in connection with an inquiry it conducted, at the request of the government, to re-examine the position of utilities with respect to apportionment of utilities costs in crossings projects.

BOARD'S NEW FORMULA

For the present, the board laid down this formula:

The utilities will participate in help from the fund where the 60-per-cent factor is less than the $300,000.

This will mean that there will be something left over between the 60-per-cent and the $300,000 ceiling so that the utilities can get a contribution without lowering the amounts going to other participants in a given case.

Concurrently, the board is recommending to the government that it be given authority by legislation to make grants to utilities over and above the $300,000 ceiling, which also would leave the other bodies unaffected on larger projects.

ONTARIO PROJECTS

Several projects involving board allocation of costs affecting utilities will have today's formula applied to them. They include:

Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway crossing in Brantford Township; CNR crossing at Plank Road and Indian Road, Sarnia; CNR crossing, County road, Glandford, Ont., Township.

If the legislation is adopted, utilities would get grants on these larger projects where $300,000 is the fund ceiling. Theese include Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway crossing, Wellington St., Sault Ste. Marie.

Dismiss Charge Against Agent Hurricane Fund

TORONTO (CP) — A charge against H. J. Keenan, Toronto publicist, of corruptly accepting $1,500 while an agent of the Ontario Hurricane Relief Fund was dismissed Wednesday.

County Judge Ambrose Shea said he was dismissing the charge because the principal Crown witness, Mrs. Olive G. Holland, suburban Scarborough Hotel executive, was not present. Crown counsel John Hollihan told the judge she had been travelling widely in the United States and was thought to be living in Vancouver.

Clock Tower To Be Rebuilt

TORONTO (CP)— The clock tower of Upper Canada College—a Toronto landmark—is to be torn down and rebuilt.

Education Minister Dunlop said Wednesday the tower and part of the historic building have sagged dangerously. Students were evacuated recently because the tower was crumbling.

Dr. Dunlop asked the legislature's education committee to approve an amendment to the act which incorporated the private boys' school in 1891. The amendment permits the school's board of governors to spend as much as necessary to recontruct the tower. The old legislation limited expenditures to $100,000 a year.

North Atlantic Free-Trade Area Suggested by Head Of Pulp, Paper Association

MONTREAL (CP)—Free trade among North Atlantic countries was suggested to the Canadian council of the International Chamber of Commerce by R. M. Fowler of Montreal, in an address Wednesday at the council's annual meeting.

"The North Atlantic Treaty Organization," Mr. Fowler said, "can no longer remain a purely military alliance and a deterrent to war. It should become an economic agency to resist the Soviet economic offensive.

"There can be no doubt that if each individual country within the North Atlantic community were to concentrate its efforts on those production sectors where it is most efficient, the over-all productivity of the community would be greatly improved.

"Admittedly such a proposal immediately raises the terror of widespread economic dislocation, but if we assume that the removal of tariff protection would be a gradual process, extending over many years, the dislocation and damage do not appear to be so great."

WOULD BOOST MARKETS

Mr. Fowler, who is president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, added:

"A North Atlantic free - trade area would increase export markets both in the United States and Europe for our raw materials and agricultural products.

"Most of our primary and tertiary industries—including construction — would be stimulated by such a policy, and these industries now provide employment to about 75 per cent of our labor force. A number of our largest manufacturing industries, including pulp and paper and aluminum would also gain. . . .

"At the other end of the scale, a great number of smaller manufacturing industries would have little to fear from foreign competition because it is essential for them to locate near their sources of raw materials or their local markets.

There would, of course, be some major problems—of which the textile industry would be the principal one — where special treatment and assistance would be necessary, at least in the early stages."

Mr. Fowler said the first step towards such "a bold and radical policy" might be to give serious thought to the British suggestion of gradually establishing free trade between Canada and the United Kingdom.

"At the same time," he added, "we might approach the members of the European common market to see if there is any way for Canada to participate in their program.

"But most important of all, we might approach the United States and see if a common economic plan through NATO can be developed. . . ."

Mr. Fowler said account must be taken of a new factor in world trade caused by the strong and well-integrated economic offensives of Russia and Red China.

There had been much talk about the "danger" of "excessive" dependence on the United States.

"We have heard repeatedly the old adage that we should not have 'all our eggs in one basket.'

"I would be prepared to argue that it is better to have your eggs in one good, fairly strong basket than to scatter them in a number of paper bags around the world.

"More specifically, I would suggest that you should try first to do what you can to strengthen the other containers before you start to put your eggs into them.

"Canadian trade with the Commonwealth has not gone down; our trade with the United States has gone up, with enormous advantages to Canada and Canadians.

REASONS FOR PROSPERITY

"We have been prosperous in the last 12 years because we have been able to share in the enormous economic expansion of the United States—directly—by selling to them more of our products and indirectly by the inflow of American investment (which their prosperity made possible) and by the purchase of American goods which we needed to expand our capital plant and equipment.

"In the conditions that have existed over most of the last 12 years, other countries such as the United Kingdom, Germany and Japan could not have supplied the goods we needed with any reasonable delivery time, and if we had not got them from the United States we would not have been able to get them at all.

Mr. Fowler suggested it is "unwise and a little bit churlish, to ignore and seek to reduce our flow of trade with the United States, which has been the real basis of our postwar boom. If we persist in doing so we are likely to lose out in our trade with the United States and fail to gain a compensating increase in our trade with Britain and the Commonwealth."

Fur Prices Little Higher But Fewer Trappers Seen

EDMONTON (CP) — Demand for furs in Western Canada has risen this winter for the first time in several years. Prices are higher, but there are fewer trappers to take advantage of the returns.

Good prices are being offered for mink, beaver, ermine and marten pelts. Reports indicate that more mink than ever are being trapped and the beaver harvest is expected to rise slightly. The number of muskrat taken will probably show a decrease.

"Eastern furriers are running short of pelts and there hasn't been much trapping in the west in recent years," explains an Alberta game branch official. "Now prices are way up because the buyers are restocking."

Wild mink are selling in Edmonton at $43 and most types of ranch mink cost 10 per cent more than December prices. In Saskatchewan, mink are bringing $20 to $25 a pelt with offers higher at some auctions. British Columbia and Manitoba mink prices also are up.

An increased mink population in Saskatchewan will bring trappers an estimated $80,000 more this year. Game officials say the mink have been thriving on a muskrat diet. Last year 30,000 mink were trapped in the province, double the figure for 1956.

Muskrat prices have levelled off at about $1 a pelt, as good as in 1957 but lower than the $1.50 price of 1956.

Louis Smith, fur buyer in Yorkton, Sask., says the demand for muskrat is not as great as that for mink, ermine, squirrel and the other short furs.

A mild winter is believed the cause of the lower muskrat population.

Beaver pelts are bringing 25 per cent more than in 1957, with prices ranging from about $20 for ordinary lots to $30 for prime blanket lots.

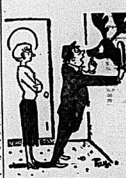
Winter-spring pelts were valued at $1,500,000 in Alberta in 1957. This included 20 timber wolf furs at $2 and 500,000 squirrels at 48 cents apiece.

There are about 2,500 registered trappers in each province. In British Columbia, about half the trappers are Indians and sell or trade their furs at northern posts. Most western trappers bring furs to city buyers for auction. They are paid advances until the furs are sold.

A licence for a registered trapline costs $10 in Alberta. Licences also are issued to trap on privately-owned lands.

The strong market is encouraging trappers to work their lines more closely after several years in which pelts almost had to be given away at times. Over - all fur - production figures won't be available until late spring when northern trappers bring in their furs, but they are expected to show an increase.

"Jest a Second"



"If you think I'm drunk, say so. Don't just stand there staring and waving your hands in the air."

Pope Pius Calls On Catholics to Battle Evil

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius, in a great outdoor audience in St. Peter's Square here, called on Catholic youth to fight evil and dedicate itself to the dawning "springtime for humanity, springtime of life."

The 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church was given a tremendous ovation as he was carried on his portable throne into the square.

A quarter of a million people, including thousands of youths from all parts of Italy, shouted greetings to the smiling pontiff.

ONE OF LARGEST

The audience was one of the largest since the great demonstrations of the 1950 holy year. The occasion was the 90th anniversary of the establishment of the Youth of Italian Catholic Action. But thousands of Romans also went to the audience on this St. Joseph's Day, a national holiday in Italy.

The Pope said the world is entering "one of the most beautiful springtimes that mankind has ever known," marked by a greater awakening in all fields of human life.

"No other epoch, in all those that humanity has experienced since the coming of Christ, appears to us so decisive as yours, Oh young people, in human evolution . . . ."

Certified varieties have more to offer:

SEED PURITY
Freedom from weed and other crop seeds far beyond the average for commercial class seed.

SEED QUALITY
Bright, plump vigorous-appearing sample.

GERMINATION
Averaging 10 to 15% higher consistently.

VARIETAL PURITY
Certified seed fields are inspected to assure trueness-to-type and performance in accord with the characteristics for which the strain was bred.

DUPUITS
This outstanding alfalfa can outproduce any other in tonnage on a short-term basis. Ideal for pasture, silage and early-cut hay on the best alfalfa soils.

NARRAGANSETT
A new experimental strain showing considerable promise in areas of imperfect drainage and on somewhat acid soils. Very limited supply.

Swift's
SKY-HI 314A

TOPS
. . . on the nest
or in the cage

Swift's new SKY-HI 314A combines hybrid vigour with an unusual ability to convert feed to eggs efficiently. This new layer is truly a top performer—whether in floor or caged flocks.

NEW SKY-HI AVERAGES
289 EGGS IN TESTS

In tests during 1956-57, Swift's new SKY-HI 314A averaged 289.8 eggs per hen, had less than 2% mortality to 17 months of age and showed a feed efficiency of 3.83 lbs. of feed per dozen eggs. The nearest competitive layer in the test averaged 18.2 eggs less than the SKY-HI 314A.

Think what an extra 18 eggs per hen could mean to your income! Even at 30¢ per dozen, these extra eggs would be worth $45 per 100 hens.

Now is the money-saving time to see about ordering 314A layer chicks for your flock. SKY-HI is a trademark of Swift Canadian Co., Limited. For these and other fine Swift chicks, contact:

English Woman Lived in Tree

PERSHORE, England (Reuters)—The woman who lives in a tree slept with a roof over her head Tuesday night for the first time in six weeks.

Mrs. Doris Mary Parkes, 37, was remanded in custody Tuesday charged with stealing a pair of shoes. Tuesday night she slept in a prison cell. Earlier she had pleaded with the magistrates: "I want to go home."

Home for Mrs. Parkes and her husband, Harry, is a gnarled old elm tree on the outskirts of town. For six weeks the couple have lived inside its hollow trunk.

Police told the court: "Mrs. Parkes is of no fixed address, and is residing in a tree trunk."

Inside the five-feet-across interior, the couple have laid a carpet of sacks. They have pots and pans, and have been seen cooking.

They moved into the tree when they had to leave their former trailer home, the court was told. The couple claimed they could find no other place to live.

Ira Gershwin Sole Survivor Of Creators of Porgy, Bess

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Only one member of the trio who created Porgy and Bess survives to witness its vindication as an international work of art.

He is Ira Gershwin, wry master of lyrics. With Dubose Heyward, author of the story, he wrote lyrics to the monumental score by George Gershwin. Now that Porgy and Bess is reaching the screen through Sam Goldwyn, I dropped by Ira's Beverly Hills house to bring him up to date.

He lives surrounded by impressionist paintings and relics of the days when the Gershwin brothers were turning out great American music.

I asked him why Porgy and Bess took so long to reach the screen.

"We were always stymied by a legal matter concerning the Heyward estate," he explained. "Sam Goldwyn was the only one with enough resolution to step in and solve the problem.

"Recently I counted up the offers we have had for 'Porgy' over the years. There were 90 . . ."

Ira showed a scrapbook which his brother had kept until his death. It contained all the reviews and news about Porgy. The critics raved over the premiere of the folk opera, yet it was a commercial failure.

"It was ahead of its time," Ira explained. "When it was brought back seven years later, people had heard the score on radio and records and they were ready for it."

He recalled that he always wrote his lyrics after George had composed the music.

"I guess I'm just a lazy guy, that's all. I had to wait for the inspiration of George's music. It was different with Heyward's lyrics. He was a poet and he wrote his words first. Some of his writing was so lyrical that George took phrases for songs right out of the original novel."

Despite his celebrated collaboration with his brother, Ira has worked with many music men throughout his career. He wrote with a half-dozen others until 1925, when he and George began a dozen brilliant years of creativity together. Since George's death in 1937, Ira has worked with many top composers, including Jerome Kern, Harold Arlen and Harry Warren.

"Right now I'm putting together a book of my lyrics, with a commentary about how they were written."

Television Feeling Effects Of Recent Court Ruling

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Will television feel any effects from the Supreme Court ruling that Jack Benny violated the copyright laws when he parodied the movie Gaslight on the home screen?

No pearls of wisdom on the matter can be squeezed from anyone in the industry here. For one thing, the court, equally divided on the question and thereby upholding a lower court's finding, did not issue any opinions that might generate public discussion of the ruling.

It simply seems to mean that if you take quotations from a copyrighted work in spoofing it you must have the copyright holder's permission.

Both the play and the movie Gaslight were chilling melodramas about a Victorian gentleman who tried to drive his wife insane. On Jan. 27, 1952, Benny presented a hilarious parody of Gaslight entitled Autolight over CBS-TV. Patrick Hamilton, the author, and Loew's Incorporated, sued to enjoin showing the film of Benny's parody.

FELT EFFECTS

Actually, television felt the effects of the suit long before the Supreme Court ruling. If memory serves, we have not seen an all-out parody of any copyrighted work on television since the suit was filed.

Issuing a personal opinion on the ruling, I'm sorry as a television viewer that Benny has lost the case. It's one more nail in the coffin that fate prepares for TV comedians. It further limits the area in which they are permitted to try to make us laugh.

Parody, which in the Greek implies a comic imitation of a serious poem, is just about the world's oldest form of humor.

Suddenly to find it illegal is astonishing—and a little frightening.

AT THE PARK — Barbara Stanwyck is co-starred with Joel McCrea in the western drama "Trooper Hook", and on the same program for your added enjoyment, the first real story of America's youth . . . told frankly and fearlessly, "The Carless Years", starring Dean Stockwell and Natalie Trundy. Watson Says

Bathgate Ice-Lane Einstein But Brains May Be Drawback

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP)—Coach Phil W[illegible]n of New York Rangers says high-scoring Andy Bathgate is the Einstein of the ice lanes.

"That boy is really clever, his I.Q. is terrific," Phil said Wednesday, basking in a mellow mood as he surveyed his team, which is in second place in the National Hockey League.

"Brains — yessir," said the coach.

"But maybe that's a drawback," he added. "May be if he wasn't so smart he'd start earlier and try harder."

This gift of Watson's for seeing all the angles is a potent reason why Rangers are doing so nicely in the NHL—their best showing since they won the league championship in the 1941-42 season.

PLAYOFFS WILL TELL

"I'm very happy with the team," said ferocious Phil, who has sometimes been bitterly critic[illegible] players. "But the playoffs w[illegible]ll me more. If there are any players who won't skate, check and work, they'll be changed next year."

Phil declared that when he criticizes players it's only because he's acting the part of a fond father, and not being a martinet.

"I'll never needle a player if he's doing his best — only when he isn't giving everything, or is lagging in practice," he said.

Bathgate, the 26-year-old centre from Winnipeg is tied for second place in league individual scoring honors. He should have "a very fine chance" to emerge the victor in that department, said Watson.

But he credits such players as right winger Andy Hebenton and centre George (Red) Sullivan with playing a more consistent game throughout the season.

Campanella Is Doing Better, He's 'Scufflin'

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — A friend visited Roy Campanella in hospital and asked the half-paralyzed Los Angeles Dodger catcher how he felt.

Campanella grinned broadly and replied: "I'm scufflin.'"

The incident was related Wednesday by Frank Slocum, an aide to commissioner Ford Frick. Slocum was the only person except Campanella's wife and attending physicians allowed in the catcher's room.

"He is doing much better than I expected or even hoped he w[illegible] be," Slocum said. "I don't [illegible] he is laughing but he has made progress physically and mentally."

Campanella suffered a broken neck Jan. 28 in a car crash. There was fear at first he might never walk again.

The latest hospital bulletin said Campanella has recovered a sense of feeling as far down as his lower abdomen and added: "This gives rise to hope."

YOUNG BOXER DIES

WINNIPEG (CP) — RCMP Wednesday reported the death of an Indian youth who struck his head on the floor of a boxing ring during a match at the God's Lake Narrpws Reserve. They said the victim was Joseph Carlson Chapman, 20. He died Saturday at the reserve, 360 miles northeast of here.

WIN CRICKET SERIES

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (Reuters)—Centuries by Garfield Sobers (109 not out) and Conrad Hunte (114) helped the West Indies beat Pakistan by eight wickets in their fourth test Wednesday and clinch the five-match series. The West Indies has won three matches and drawn one. The final score was Pakistan 408 and 318; West Indies 410 and 317 for two.

Connie Broden To Play for Habs In Toronto

MONTREAL (CP) — Connie Broden, star of the Whitby Dunlops world championship hockey team, is to play for Montreal Canadiens tonight in their National Hockey League game here against Toronto Maple Leafs.

Broden played three games for Montreal in 1955-56 and was with the team last season in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

"He looks in great shape," said coach Toe Blake. "He may be able to help us once the playoffs start."

The diminutive forward, highest-scoring player in the world tournament at Oslo, Norway, last month, worked out Wednesday night on a line with centre Don Marshall and right wing Marcel Bonin. Bonin, injured last week and unlikely to play tonight, was skating just to get back in shape.

Kingston Rink Wins Bonspiel At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — Mike Chernoff's Kingston rink captured the City of Ottawa bonspiel grand aggregate with a 10-1 record in the five-day competition.

Chernoff's rink defeated Ottawa Harold Attfield 15-6 in his final game Tuesday night for the Dibblee Trophy but needed an assist from Dr. Russ Ward of Montreal Thistle to win the grand aggregate.

Ward's rink downed Colin Martin of West Ottawa 13-6 in the Crain Trophy final, leaving Martin's foursome in second place with a 10-2 record.

Ken Wilson of Hamilton Thistles defeated Frank Mann of Gatineau, Que., 15-12 for the Keyes Trophy, R.E. Sturgeon of Ottawa downed Jake Edwards of Kingston 12-11 in the Wilson Trophy final and Ted Hunt of Lachine, Que., won the Manuel Trophy with a 12-10 win over Russ Edney of Kingston.

Listowel Gets Players From Stratford Club

PRESTON (CP) — Listowel, smallest centre in the nine-team Senior Intercounty baseball loop, will be favored where players from the disbanded Stratford club are concerned.

The Intercounty league, in semi-annual meeting here, said it favored any players from Stratford, which is not entered in senior or junior leagues this year, playing for Listowel.

Listowel had previously been denied a request for exclusive rights to the Stratford area as it is beyond the 25-mile residence radius in force in the league's senior series.

Only minor matters were discussed by the clubs, representing St. Thomas, London, Hamilton, Kitchener - Waterloo, Brantford, Galt, Guelph, Oakville and Listowel.

Three junior clubs will definitely operate in the association this year with entries from Kitchener, Guelph and Hamilton. Three other clubs, Galt, St. Thomas and Brantford, still are undecided.

Five juvenile clubs, from Kitcehener, Stratford, St. Thomas, Ingersoll and Preston, are entered.

Kennedy Helps Marlies Whip Teepees 6-4

TORONTO (CP)—Captain Bill Kennedy, who came out of retirement last week to rejoin his teammates, scored two goals Wednesday night and assisted on another pair to lead Toronto Marlboros to a 6-4 victory over St. Catharines Teepees.

A crowd of 3,598 saw Marlboros roar from behind with four goals in the third period to take a 3-2 stranglehold in the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-final. One game was tied. Marlboros now need just a tie in the next game —at St. Catharines Friday — to advance into the league final against the winner of the Hamilton-Toronto St. Michael's series.

Kennedy, who quit hockey earlier this season because he didn't think he would have a chance in the National Hockey League, rejoined his teammates for the third game of the present series at St. Catharines last Saturday. Since then he has gained seven points on three goals with four assists. Both his tallies Wednesday night were in the third period, including one into an empty net two seconds before the end of the game.

Jim Murchie, Bob Nevin, defenceman Ian Anderson and Jack McMaster were the other Toronto snipers.

Jack McKenzie fired three for the Teepees, bringing his total for the series to seven. Chico Maki scored the other for St. Catharines.

Each team scored two goals while their opponents were shorthanded. Marlboros were tagged with eight of the 14 minor penalties handed out.

Low Blow Cost Vaughan Fight Verdict

WASHINGTON (AP)—The middleweight series between Willie Vaughn and Jimmy Beecham is still at a stalemate because of a low blow.

They met Wednesday night in what was billed as the rubber match in their ring feud but wound up in a draw after 10 bristling rounds.

Vaughn would have nailed the decision had it not been for a belly punch in the fourth round. Referee Marty Gallagher, Beecham and many at the scene — Willie excepted — thought the blow landed below Jimmy's waist. It cost Vaughn a point and, as it turned out, the fight.

Gallagher turned in a 94-91 card favoring Beecham, unranked 23-year-old Miami entry. Judge Harry Volkman gave a 93-93 margin to Vaughn, eighth ranked contender from Los Angeles. Judge Mike Tardugno scored it all even, 95-95, and that was fatal to 25-year-old Willie.

Docking Vaughn the penalty point, Tardugno scored the fourth 10-9 for Beecham. One more for Vaughn would have squared that round and given Willie a one-point edge on Tardugno's card at the finish and a 2-1 majority of the officials.

Vaughn weighed 160, Beecham 155½.

Wyndburgh 9-1 Favorite

LONDON (AP)—British bookmakers Wednesday night quoted Wyndburgh as the 9-to-1 betting favorite for the Grand National, the world's toughest horse race at Aintree March 29.

The price hardened slightly from Monday when Wyndburgh was assessed as a 10-to-1 chance. Prices also were cut on the second and third favorites. Hart Royal moved to 100-to-7 and Goosander to 18-to-1.

The Grand National will be contested over the 30-jump, 4½-mile Aintree course. An Irish Sweepstakes is based on the result.

On the Tracks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Calumet Farm's Tim Tam came from next to last to win easily in the $16,850 Fountain of Youth Stakes at Gulfstream Park Wednesday. Grey Monarch, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto, was second.

Making his first start since he ran in the Flamingo Stakes—in which he finished second to Jewel's Reward but was moved up to first when the Maine Chance colt was disqualified — Tim Tam was the 3-to-1 choice with the crowd of 16,320.

He ran the 1 1-16 miles in 1:42 4-5 on a fast track.

Grey Monarch, ridden by Manuel Ycaza, was two lengths back. L'il Fella was a head back in third.

After the race, Taylor announced Grey Monarch will run in the $100,000-added Florida Derby at a mile and a furlong March 29.

Marmora Deadlocks Group Finals With 2-1 Win Over Madoc Blues

MARMORA — (Special) — Marmora Millionaires, sparked by the terrific play of goalie Al Killian, shaded Madoc Blue-and-Whites 2-1 before 99 fans here last night to even their OHA intermediate "C" group finals at two games each.

The fifth game in the four-of-seven series will be played on Friday night, also on Marmora ice because of a lack of ice in Madoc.

Last night's contest was another thriller with Madoc scoring the first goal and Marmora coming back with a pair to win it.

Madoc opened the scoring after only 59 seconds of play in the initial period with Fred Nickle batting home Alex MacLellan's pass. The Millionaires battled back and finally tied the score at 12.35 with Bert Gray netting the equalizer, Cousins and Darrah assisting.

The game was strictly a battle of goalies as Killian blocked everything Madoc could throw at him while Bobby Beare in the Madoc nets also played outstanding hockey.

Marmora netted the deciding goal at 3.15 of the second with Buck Mantle blasting the disc home on a play with Jones. Madoc fought grimly to tie the score while the Millionaires hung onto their slim one goal margin and attempted to increase their lead but Killian and Beare refused to surrender another goal in their respective nets.

The game was cleanly played with only seven minor penalties handed out by reefrees Stan Scrutton and Art Casterton of Kingston. The winers drew four of the seven sentences. Both clubs played it cosy after five penalties in the first, there being none in the second and only two in the third heat.

First Period

Madoc—F. Nickle (MacLellan) 0.59
Marmora—Gray (Cousins, L. Darrah) 12.35
Penalties — Baker (2), G. Leonard, E. Darrah, H. Brown.

Second Period

Marmora—Mantle (Jones) 3.15
Penalties — None.

Canada Wins British Army Basketball Title

ALDERSHOT, England (CP)—Canada won the British Army basketball championship for the fourth time in six years, defeating a British Guards training regiment team 76-65 Wednesday in the final game of a three-day tournament.

The Canadian team, drawn from members of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada stationed in Germany with the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group, led throughout the fast, cleanly-fought contest.

The victory avenged the Canadian quintet's only loss in the tournament, a 52-48 defeat inflicted by the Guards in the opening game. The Canadians reached the finals by defeating a second British entry 35-30.

Canadian teams, who qualify for the competition because they serve in Germany under the British Army of the Rhine, have dominated the tournament since its inception in 1952. They held the championship in all but the last two years.

Lieut. Doug Palmer of Burlington Beach, Ont., led the Canadians' scoring in the final with 32 points.

MITCHELL, Ont. (CP) — Two hockey referees left the arena here under police protection Tuesday night after Elora Rocks defeated Mitchell Red Devils 5-3.

There were several disputes between players and the referees during the game. At one stage a Mitchell player fought with a referee.

Mitchell players spent the equivalent of two periods in the penalty box.

Manager Fred Philips told Norm Hill of the referees association: "If you bring those referees here again we will not ice a team."

THIS COULD BE IT!

The Macs can wrap it up neater than a Christmas present tonight. All they need is a win or a tie and the Old Lady of the Moira will celebrate her first senior hockey group championship.

They had little difficulty turning back the Pembroke threat last night, with Bart Bradley, Wiener Brown and Ike Hildebrand having a field day with the Kings' defence. Play was the "openest" seen here in the series, but that was the way the Macs wanted it.

This claustrophobic jinx and "poor ice" which some Pembroke hockey people claim are the main reasons for the Kings' inability to win here all season, is so much bunk. The Kings played some of their best hockey of the schedule in the Whitby bandbox, defeating the world champions on one occasion and tying them on another.

However, hope dies hard. The press box contingent from Pembroke last night was not conceding complete defeat. One ultra-optimist wanted to make a wager that the Kings would win by three goals tonight but as newspapermen never have over sixpence in their trews, no takers were available.

It must be said the Lumber Kings play a different type of hockey in the northern igloo. It could be that crisp, northern air, the hometown atmosphere or some other local element that gives them a needle. It is not the near-colorless brand they flash in Belleville. They were the poorest drawing attraction here during the regular schedule, and Joe Fan usually is the barometer for such things.

HOWE'S THAT?

A poll conducted of the six NHL general managers, by Hockey Blueline magazine reveals that rugged Gordie Howe, 29-year-old right wing of the Detroit Red Wings, was voted the toughest hockey player in the National Hockey League.

The managers voted on the six toughest players and finishing a close second to Howe was Fernie Flaman, the bruising defenceman with the Boston Bruins. Fiery Leo Labine, also of the Bruins was third; hot tempered Ted Lindsay of Chicago was fourth; Montreal's goal scoring non pareil Maurice "Rocket" Richard fifth and Leapin' Lou Fontinato of the New York Rangers caught the sixth spot.

Murz Patrick of the Rangers says that "Howe is the toughest player in the league, no question. He is not only a great player, but he is rough and mean too."

Staff Smythe of the Leafs picked Ted Lindsay over Howe, "Lindsay is tough because he is dirty," said Smythe.

Frank Selke of Canadiens and Lynn Patrick of the Bruins on the other hand didn't rate Lindsay too highly. "I interpret toughness with ability to back any situation which may arise." Says Selke, "I cannot place Lindsay in this category because he is mean wicked with his stick, but can't back it up with his dukes."

"Lindsay is a sneak," says Lynn Patrick. "He's mean and nasty and he'll hit you from behind."

Fern Flaman of the Bruins says that Howe is the toughest. "Why? Strength, brute strength," remarked Flaman. "The guy's a bull. He doesn't know himself how strong he is."

Detroit's Jack Adams who plucked the Floral, Saskatchewan native from an Omaha farm team at the relatively tender age of 18, states, "Howe is the greatest player I have ever seen or hope to see."

LET'S GO, POP!

Here's the chance for some enterprising club or organization of the city to give some of the baseball-minded moppets a treat. We are in receipt of a letter from Rudy Schaffer, the genial and generous manager of the Toronto Maple Leaf Baseball Club in which he extends an invitation to "all the school children in Belleville" to be his guests at Maple Leaf Stadium on May 17 when the Leafs meet the Buffalo Bisons. The game time is 2 p.m.

Rudy wants a reply as soon as possible so he can make arrangements to designate May 17 as "Belleville Day" in Maple Leaf Stadium.

This is an outstanding offer, and it is hoped that some organization can see its way clear to take advantage of it and give some kiddies of the city a real baseball outing. Parking facilities are available for buses, and all adults accompanying the youngsters will also be the guests of the Maple Leaf management.

Any organization or club caring to take advantage of the invitation is requested to get in touch with this department where more details are available.

Need Win or Detroit Defeat After 1-1 Tie With Bruins; Highest Spot Since 41-42

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Andrew Alex Hebenton entered the National Hockey League after averaging 28 goals a year for five years.

Now in his third season with New York Rangers, Andy hasn't stayed at that pace. But he has been able to keep at 20 goals.

For some time this season it appeared the 28-year-old Winnipeg native wouldn't hit the 20 mark. But he closed fast to make it Wednesday night against Boston Bruins Matched by Bronco Horvath's 25th for Boston it gave the Rangers a 1-1 tie and moved them within a whisker of clinching second place.

All New York needs is a victory or a Detroit tie or loss and coach Phil Watson will have brought the Blueshirts to their highest finish since 1941-42, when they led the league.

FIVE-POINT LEAD

New York leads the Red Wings by five points. Fourth-place Boston kept their hopes of a third-place finish alive by creeping to three points of the Wings with two games left. The game was the only one scheduled.

Hebenton went from 16 to 46 goals with Victoria Cougars in the Pacific Coast and Western Hockey leagues before New York brought him into the big time.

Hebenton scored 24 goals his rookie year and 21 last season when he won the Lady Byng Trophy as the player best combining sportsmanship and skill.

SIMMONS RETURNS

Wednesday night's game marked the return to the Boston goal of Don Simmons, injured midway through the season. Simmons, who played two games two weeks ago when Harry Lumley was injured, stopped 35 shots. New York's Lorne (Gump) Worsley stopped 32.

Horvath, Boston's draft bargain, clamped tighter on fifth place in the individual scoring race with his goal. The goal, 7½ minutes after Hebenton gave New York the lead in the first period, came with the Rangers two men short and the Bruins one.

There were only four penalties, all in the first period and two to each team, in the game.

It was the final regular-season game between the teams. Boston won six, New York five and three were ties.

Regina Wins Junior Crown

REGINA (CP) — Regina Pats won the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League championship and the right to advance into interprovincial play by defeating Flin Flon Bombers 6-4 Wednesday night.

The win gave Regina the best-of-seven series 4-2 and Pats now play Oil Kings in Edmonton Tuesday in the first game of a best-of-seven series.

A crowd of 4,354 fans saw Flin Flon, last season's Memorial Cup champions, come to the end of the playoff trail.

Ferraris Are Favored in Grand Prix

SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—The always-dangerous Ferraris of Italy and two "sleepers" from England—Aston - Martin and Lister Jaguar—will be in the spotlight in Saturday's Florida Grand Prix of Endurance, the top North American sports car race.

Ferrari, with a three-car entry and drivers from the cream of the world's crop, must be given a favored role in the 12-hour speed battle.

The Italian factory won the world's championship last year and took the lead this year with a one-two finish in the 1,000 kilometre race Jan. 26 in Buenos Aires, the first of seven races on the world's championship calendar. Sebring is the second.

Many experts here think, however, that Aston-Martin and Lister Jaguar may pull a surprise in the Sebring race. Both cars are unknown quantities in racing competition but both are arousing a lot of interest.

Dunnies Finish Tour With Win Over Paisley

PAISLEY, Scotland (CP)—Canada's world champion Whitby hockey team finished its European tour with a 9-5 win over Paisley Pirates of the British league here Wednesday night.

Paisley surprised the champions by snatching the lead in the second minute of the game while Whitby's Harry Sinden was in the penalty box. But Charlie Burns evened the count almost immediately after sweeping through the entire Paisley team.

Whitby goalie Roy Edwards was kept busy for the rest of the period but the champions finished ahead 3-2.

They clung to a 4-3 lead at the end of the second period in which Paisley forwards missed at least five apparently wide-open scoring chances. In the final session Whitby quickly scored two more goals but Paisley hit back with another two.

Then Sid Smith and Frank Bonello scored 20 seconds apart and Sinden got the ninth goal a minute from the end.

The Whitby scorers were Burns, Bonello, Sinden — each with two goals—and Smith, Gordie Myles and Bus Gagnon.

The champions' European record including the world tournament at Oslo is won 25, lost one; goals scored 289, goals against 38. The only game they lost was to Wembley Lions 6-2 Monday.

The Canadians sail for home from Liverpool Friday.

Sudbury Youth Favored for Ski Crown

WINTER PARK, Colo. (AP)—Top-seeded Brian Burnett of Sudbury, Ont., leads a field of 71 boys today in the downhill race, first event in the national junior ski championships.

The boys, none older than 17, race over a 1¾ mile course that drops more than 1,500 feet in altitude. The event begins at 1 p.m., EST.

Snow conditions on the course were described by many of the competitors as perfect. Eight inches of new snow the past two days have been packed down and the surface is excellent for downhill racing.

The 71 boys competing in downhill are entered also in the slalom. Thirty-one girls will compete in slalom and downhill.

Forty boys are entered in cross country and 52 in jumping, the final event Sunday.

Bonus Baby Hurls 9 Innings, Tribe Rookie Beats Giants

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This could be the year the Baltimore Orioles can quit "nursing alone" Billy O'Dell, the southpaw pitcher who jumped out of Clemson College in 1954 via the bonus route and into a major league baseball uniform.

O'Dell, 25, became the first hurler in the majors to go nine innings this spring when he defeated Chicago Cubs 7-3 with a seven-hitter Wednesday at Mesa, Ariz. However, O'Dell played in the Cuban winter league and is further advanced than other moundsmen.

The Cubs scored all their runs off O'Dell in the first inning, two on Lee Walls' home run, before the young lefty settled down.

CANCEL FIVE GAMES

Five games were cancelled, all in Florida, because of rain or wet grounds. Kansas City Athletics defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7 in 12 innings at Fort Myers, Fla., and San Francisco Giants were beaten 6-3 by Cleveland Indians at Phoenix, Ariz.

O'Dell had a 1-1 record with Baltimore in 1954, when the club said "we'll nurse him along for we don't expect him to start or win a lot of games for us right off the bat."

In 1955 and through August of 1956 he was in the army. He had a 4-10 record last year.

Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, former St. Louis Cardinals star southpaw and Orioles pitching coach, has been tutoring O'Dell since he left college.

NEEDS CHANGE OF PACE

Last June after Billy shut out the Chicago White Sox 5-0 on six hits in his first start, Brecheen said O'Dell would be one of the best pitchers in the league "as soon as he develops a change of pace."

O'Dell walked one batter and struck out six Cubs Wednesday.

At Fort Myers Vic Power tripled in the 12th and Woody Held singled for the winning Kansas City run, and Luis Arroyo was charged with the defeat, eighth in 10 games for Pittsburgh. Johnny Powers and R. C. Stevens homered for the Pirates.

Billy Harrell, who is trying to win the third base job with Cleveland, didn't hurt his chances as he powered the Indians to their victory over the Giants.

He drove in the first Cleveland run with a single in the fifth, then broke a 1-1 tie with a three-run homer in the seventh. To top it off, he tripled in the ninth, and scored on Milt Bolling's bunt. Pete Burnside, victim of Harrell's homer, was the losing pitcher. Daryl Spencer homered for the Giants.

Win Or Tie Can Wrap Up Eastern Senior Crown For McFarlands

n Back Lumber Kings 6-2 ird Victory of Series; 6th in Pembroke Tonight

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Pembroke Lumber Kings failed to come up with anything resembling championship form here last night, bowing to a fast-skating, superior Belleville McFarlands team 6-2 in the fifth game of the Eastern Senior "A" finals. The sixth game is scheduled for Pembroke tonight.

The Macs can wrap up the Eastern Senior "A" title tonight with a win or a tie, but in case they lose, the clubs will battle it out in the seventh game here on Friday.

The Hildebranders opened the game wide after a slow start in the first period, taking a two-goal lead and scoring the only marker of the second heat. They shot through to a 5-0 lead in the third period before the Kings spoiled Bell's shutout effort at 13.18. The Macs added another with the Kings scoring their second with two Macs in the penalty box in the dying minutes.

The Bradley-Brown-Hildebrand line spearheaded the Belleville offensive, getting twelve of the Macs 17 scoring points. Bradley had three goals and one assist, Brown, one and three, and Ike four big helpers. MacDonald and Paul Payette were the other McFarland marksmen. Chiarelli and Bert Giesebrecht were the Pembroke triggermen.

BROKE THE JINX

The teams divided twelve penalties handed out by Referee Gord Fevereau of Toronto with Douglas of the Kings drawing a misconduct late in the third period.

The McDonald, Muretich, Kowalchuk line broke the scoreless jinx that rode herd on them during the last two games of the series. They were the hard-luck trio of the club, but last night MacDonald scored a beauty with his linemates assisting.

It was wide open hockey from the start with the Kings carrying the play to the Macs who appeared unable to get organized.

Dan O'Connor drew the first penalty of the period, paving the way to the Macs first score. Two minutes after he was waved off Paul Payette took Wiener Brown's pass to hit the hemp after a passing pattern scramble in front of the Kings net.

Crawford and Kowalchuk drew penalties within minutes of each other and the Kings gave Bell a few anxious moments but failed to get anywhere.

At 15.42 Barton Bradly scored a picture goal taking the puck off the boards from Brown's pass on the left wing stickhandling through the Kings defence to deke Payette beautifully and put the Macs two up.

The Kings threatened with Bert and Jack Giesebrecht breaking away on a two-man sortie with a lone defender back but Bell handled the shot easily. The Macs outshot the Kings 12-10.

The teams hit the fast wide-open style in the second period with the Kings again starting off with a goal-hungry drive. The Macs came back with the Bradley, Brown, Hildebrand line spearheading the attack and Bradley whipped in alone, his shot bouncing off a post.

On the return attack the puck rolled along the Belleville goal line with Gordie Bell getting his stick on it. The Macs shot into a 3-0 lead at 11.16 when Bart Bradley scored his second goal of the game following persistent efforts during a goal-mouth scramble. Linemates Brown and Hildebrand were in on the points collection.

Montgomery and Maxwell drew the only penalties of the period in which the Kings edged the Macs 9-8 in shots on goal.

Wiener Brown took Bart Bradley's pass in front of the net at 1.45 of the third period, whirled and backhanded a whistler past Payette to give the Macs a 4-0 lead. Limoges drew a sentence and six minutes later Fildes was chased giving the Macs a chance to exercise their pattern passing but with no direct benefits.

Guldolin was chased midway through the frame and the Kings gave the Belleville defence some anxious moments with Gordie Bell tossing back everything thrown at him.

Three minutes later the MacDonad, Kowalchuk, Muretich line hit the scoring columns with the former taking Kowalchuk's perfect goal-mouth pass to flip it past Payette.

WIENER BROWN
One and Three

Then Bell's shutout went glimmering when Chiarelli flipped the puck over his prostrate body during Kings desperation drive. Douglas got the thumb for holding and spoke out of turn, drawing a misconduct.

The Macs surged back to the attack and Bart Bradley flung home his third goal of the night when he knocked a loose puck that Payette had dropped near the goal-line into the net.

Kowalchuk and Menard drew penalties within seconds of each other and on the return Kings power drive Bert Giesebrecnt scored the second Kings goal with time running out. The Macs outshot the Kings 16-9 in the period and 36-28 in the game.

Barons Retain Chance to Tie Hershey Bears

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Barons still have a slim chance to tie Hershey Barons for first place in the American Hockey League with the final games of the season set for Saturday and Sunday.

Meanwhile, the Rochester Americans remained in contention, but not by much, for fourth and final Calder Cup playoff spot, by downing Providence Reds 5-2 Wednesday night.

Springfield Indians, now in fourth place by four points over Rochester, whipped Cleveland 3-2. The Barons trail Hershey by two games with each of the teams having two games to play.

Cleveland's defeat was their seventh in 11 games. Floyd Smith, Bob Beckett and Al Nicholson scored for Springfield with Fred Glover and Gord Hudson getting the Cleveland tallies.

Rookie Bob Laforge counted two goals as Rochester upset Providence. The other Rochester marksmen were Mike Nykoluk, Stan Smrke and Ray Cyr, who got credit for a goal when defenceman Andy Branigan of the Reds flicked the puck into his own net while attempting to clear. The Providence goals were clear. The Providence goals were by Bruce Carmichael and Ted Hampson.

War Breaks Out Between Basilio, Robinson Managers

CHICAGO (AP) — Challenger Sugar Ray Robinson, close to the 160-pound limit, may take a rest in his training sessions today while middleweight champion Carmen Basilio concentrates on road work.

One of Basilio's managers, John Dejohn, said the champion is "tapering off" in drills for his title defence in Chicago Stadium Tuesday night.

"Yeah, I'm tapering off," said Basilio. "I didn't work more than 6-7 rounds yesterday."

Basilio admitted his weight was under 154.

After watching the champion step through two fast rounds with Archie Whitfield, 159½, former heavyweight king Joe Louis commented:

"That Basilio is as strong as a bull. And I like his combinations. He doesn't throw just one punch and quit, he throws two or three at a time."

Basilio refused to predict a knockout victory.

"I think I'll win," he said, "but who is going to predict a knockout? Robinson has never been stopped except by Joey Maxim and the heat."

Both fighters passed their pre-fight physical examinations with ease Wednesday but there were some verbal fireworks among their spokesmen.

Robinson's advisor, George Gainford, charged Basilio's handlers with using a cut lotion containing chloroform in their September fight in New York's Yankee Stadium. They said the stuff got into Robinson's eyes during clinches.

Joe Netro and De John, Basilio's managers, countered by calling the Robinson handlers "a bunch of crybabies."

BANISHES POLIO

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The use of Salk anti-polio vaccine has virtually banished polio from Australia, Health Minister Donald Cameron said Wednesday.

GOVT. TO IMPOSE

"The government is presently negotiating with our own federal government, the governments of New York and Michigan and other areas and interests. This development can have immense possibilities for Ontario, including the development of the tourist traffic."

VOTE HUGE SUM

The highways minister introduced the bill before the legislature voted $252,844,000—$22,736,000 more than last year — for highways department spending in the year beginning April 1.

Presenting his estimates, Mr. Allan said he thinks Ontario might build enough roads in the next 10 years to take care of all needs for 20 years.

He said the spending program will move Ontario well into the 20-year plan for roads worth $2,700,000,000 which was unveiled by his department a year ago.

"At the rate we have planned our work for 1958-59 it is estimated that we can complete our planned program in very little more than 10 years.

"To do this would depend, of course, on being able to maintain expenditures at the 1958-59 level and that the purchasing power of our highway dollar would remain unchanged."

OPPOSITION CRITICIZES

This brought criticism from opposition members who wanted to know how department engineers would do the work in 10 years.

"I can't for one moment believe that they were out by 10 years on a 20-year program after the expiration of only one year," said John Wintermeyer (L—Waterloo North).

Ross Whicher (L — Bruce) waved a copy of the 20-year plan and declared: "I defy the honorable minister of highways to tell me in any page of this book where any future highways in this province are going.

"This isn't a plan. All we've got here are the costs. What we need is a plan that tells us roads are going to be built in outlying areas so that people know that if they move there there's going to be a road there."

Asked Mr. Wintermeyer: "Does this plan include a road such as 401 going north? And how far? To James Bay? Will there be a road from Goderich to Cornwall: What's your program?"

Mr. Allan replied that the 20-year plan provided figures indicating how it could be carried out in five, 10 or 15 years. As for where roads would be located, they would be built where traffic was heaviest.

Premier Frost became involved in a discussion of government fiscal policies after Mr. Whicher commented: "A department that's going $120,000,000 into the hole next year should have some fiscal program."

Mr. Wintermeyer accused the government of building roads to please the people but postponing payment so it would "hurt the people's feelings." The government was "hoping the people of the province will be good to them."

Premier Frost replied that he regarded highway borrowings as an investment, not as a debt.

In nine years the Liberal administration of 1934-42 had undertaken a $196,000,000 in public works "and they charged the whole works to debt—that's the hope - to - goodness attitude the member speaks of."

In contracts this government had undertaken $1,000,000,000 in public works "and instead of charging it to debt we have paid in cold, hard cash $667,000,000 and have provided adequate sinking funds to take care of the rest."

OUTLINES PLANS

Outlining the department's plans for the year ahead, Mr. Allan said $68,935,000 will be paid in municipal road subsidies compared with $64,185,000 in the year ending March 31.

The minister estimated that total municipal road expenditures in the year ahead would amount to $116,000,000.

The budget provides $189,909,000 for highways compared with $165,853,000 a year ago and added to this would be an additional $15,000,000 in federal grants. Altogether 748 miles of road would be built and 124 bridges or overpasses erected.

Contracts for Ontario's 1,440-mile stretch of the trans-Canada highway would provide an additional 314 miles and 36 structures at a cost of $28,000,000. "The gap"—an uncompleted, 165-mile section between the Agawa River north of Sault Ste. Marie and Marathon — would be shortened by 45 miles at a cost of $12,133,000.

BOOST LOSS FIGURE

SARNIA (CP) — Police said Wednesday the value of rings and watches stolen here Tuesday night from Minden's Credit Jewellers may total as high as $15,000. At least 250 watches and about the same number of rings were missing. It was the third breakin at the shop in less than three months.

JOBLESS,

Mr. Diefenbaker, who shook 1,700 hands during the day, played down the speech-making. But he did appeal for "the highest percentage of voters in Canadian history" to turn out a week from next Monday.

Premier Frost of Ontario, flanking the prime minister at a night reception, said Mr. Diefenbaker is "the man from the grassroots who knows the people because he is with the people—and the people are with him."

PENSION SCHEME

Hard at work in his own constituency of Algoma East, Mr. Pearson said at Elliot Lake he would introduce a national contributory pension scheme to start at the age of 65. This would be in addition to existing pensions for everyone 70 and over of $55 monthly.

Mr. Pearson said the major difference between the Liberal proposal and a similar one by the Conservatives is that his party favors contributions toward the scheme by the federal government as well as employers and employees.

The Conservative plan, just as the social security plan in the United States, would operate only on employer-employee contributions.

M. J. Coldwell and his doctor both expressed hope in Ottawa that the CCF leader will be able to get back on the field Monday after a precautionary chest x-ray today.

Deputy CCF Leader Stanley Knowles, meantime, said in Hamilton that the Conservative party "has two faces—one that it wears while in opposition and the other when it is in power."

They had reversed themselves on issue after issue in the months since they assumed office last June.

MUST DECIDE

At Montreal, Mines Minister Paul Comtois said Quebec voters must decide whether to remain buried in the past or enter a new era of prosperity and progress under a Conservative government. He said Liberals have tried to smear Mr. Diefenbaker as anti-French and anti-Catholic, but he had proved himself a Christian and a Canadian.

Former Liberal transport minister Lionel Chevrier said at Lachute, Que., industries in many parts of Canada have been adversely affected by the trade policy of the Conservative government.

He said International Nickel has laid off 1,200 men, a metals industry in British Columbia had closed down, and employment in textile manufacturing in Quebec was substantially reduced.

The Conservatives were doing nothing to deal with the situation, he said. Unemployment had increased even as Prime Minister Diefenbaker crossed the country saying nobody would suffer from it

"NEEDS "PRIMING"

At St. Joachim, Ont., Paul Martin, Liberal candidate for Essex East, said the Canadian economy needs "pump-priming" and the "fastest pump-primer of all" is the proposal by Liberal Leader Pearson that depreciation rates for capital works begun in the next financial year be substantially increased.

The former health minister told a party meeting the Conservative government's proposed public works program will not provide for anyone. It was "a phony because it represents projects normally carried out in the departments of government. Not one man or woman would be put to work under it."

Speaking to 350 Social Crediters at a Victoria dinner, Premier Bennett of British Columbia said Social Credit has divided the province into zones for an intensive campaign by most cabinet members and members of the legislature.

Starting Monday, they will make "speeches every night" in several centres and will give radio speeches "morning, noon and night."

Manning Assails Newspapers for Alleged Bias

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta, opening a series of paid broadcasts over five Alberta radio stations, has accused newspapers of bias to the point of making "a mockery of the vaunted freedom of the press."

He said Tuesday night the public is not getting full and accur[illegible]formation "through the col[illegible] of biased newspapers or fro[illegible] spokesmen for political parties who are more concerned about discrediting your government than about sticking to the facts."

The premier said factual information now is more important than ever before, adding:

"It is a crying shame that instead of facts you are constantly fed inaccurate and often completely false propaganda by men with some political axe to grind and by newspapers which make a mockery of the vaunted freedom of the press by their readiness to let bias override their responsibility to provide authentic public information."

ONE REFERENCE

The premier made only one reference to particular newspapers and to particular examples of bias.

"[illegible]ical examples of the type of [illegible]leading propaganda I refer to are the numerous biased editorials and slanted news stories which appear regularly in the leading daily newspapers in Calgary and Edmonton," charging that your government is indifferent to the financial needs of Alberta muicipalities and is not bearing a fair and equitable share of local costs which made up the municipal tax burden.

"No statement could be further from the truth or more wilfully dishonest."

The remarks were contained in a text of the premier's address, made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Making reference to the federal election campaign, Mr. Manning said "this should be a time for sober reflection and sound analysis of the problems we face." To do this, people needed to know the facts and "they are not being told the facts today."

"Instead they are getting irre[illegible]e promises and a barrage of [illegible]itical propaganda full of [illegible]ggerations, misrepresentations and halftruths."

Order Victim of Monkey Bite Buried at Once as Poisonous

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson of Ontario has ordered immediate burial in a sealed casket for David O'Hara, 38, of Toronto who died Thursday after being bitten by a monkey at the Connaught Laboratories research farm.

Dr. Lawson said O'Hara "was infected with a very poisonous virus — poisonous enough to be dangerous to those with whom he came in contact."

"For that reason I'm going to suggest to the public health officer that he be buried at once in a closed casket."

Dr. Lawson said an autopsy showed O'Hara died from "acute encephalomyelitis", a brain inflammation, as a result of the monkey bite seven weeks ago.

An investigation into the death four weeks ago of another research farm employee, Ferdinand Jacubec, is being carried out. He is believed to have died from the same cause.

Officials at the Connaught Laboratories, a branch of the University of Toronto, said today there is no known treatment that could have saved the men.

Dr. J. K. W. Ferguson, director of the laboratories, said the men knew there was a risk involved in handling the monkeys."

"Monkeys are carriers of encephalomyelitis and it is impossible to tell whether or not they have the disease until they are dead."

TAKE PRECAUTIONS

He said the men handling the monkeys at the farm just north of Toronto wear fencing masks and protective clothing and are warned to take all possible precautions.

The monkeys are used for experiments with Salk polio vaccine. Mr. O'Hara, a monkey attendant at the laboratories for about a year, was given an injection of gamma globulin after being bitten.

The father of four children, Mr. O'Hara came to Canada from Dunbarton, Scotland.

Dr. Ferguson said it was not unusual for monkey attendants to be bitten. "Some of our men have been bitten as many as 20 times without ill effects."

Following a bite, the worker is given immediate treatment and an injection for protection against viruses.

Canada's Trade Slump Continued During February

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's total foreign trade continued to slip in February, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Both imports and exports declined in value during the month, compared with the same period in 1957, thus continuing "a downward trend which has been most pronounced since October last," the bureau said.

February's imports were valued at an estimated $367,200,000, a drop of 15 per cent from the record figure for the month—$431,400,000—last year. The heavy slash in imports followed a drop of 13 per cent in January, compared with the same month a year ago. The 1958 figures are estimates, subject to later revision.

The value of imports for the two-months period dropped to $768,300,000 from $890,400,000 last year.

Total exports last month were valued at $325,900,000, a six-per-cent drop of $21,000,000 from $346,900,000 a year earlier. In the January - February period, exports slipped to $715,400,000 from $756,300,000.

The declines, however, helped narrow the overall import surplus —adverse balance of trade—to $52,900,000 in the two months, from $140,170,000 a year ago.

February imports from the United States fell to $259,000,000 from the record value of $329,800,000 in February, 1957. Exports to the U.S. also were lower, down to $200,000,000 from $214,000,000.

Blames Liberals For Recession

ST. CHARLES, Que. (CP)—Solicitor-General Leon Balcer says the former Liberal government is responsible for the present unemployment crisis in Canada.

In an address Thursday night at an election campaign meeting he said credit restrictions imposed by the Bank of Canada during the former Liberal government's term of office had a disastrous effect on the economy.

"The Liberals were warned by most serious persons that a crisis would result. They ignored all warnings."

He said that when Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Conservatives took office measures were approved to counter the situation.

ORDER INQUIRY OF PLOT TO PAD LIST OF VOTERS

Plan Investigation In Montreal Riding

MONTREAL (CP)—An investigation has been called in the federal riding of Montreal Cartier because of a suspected attempt to pad the voters list for the March 31 federal election.

Chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay in Ottawa Thursday ordered a judicial inquiry, headed by Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure of the Quebec Court of Queen's Bench.

The RCMP is helping to run down the alleged list-padding that is reported to involve at least 375 names.

Mr. Castonguay said Mr. Justice Lazure will "inquire into irregularities alleged to have been committed in the electoral district of Cartier during the period of revision March 13-15."

Mr. Justice Lazure said he had not yet received official documents of his appointment but hoped to hold an inquiry next week and in the meantime would appoint necessary officers. He said he hoped it could be held before election day March 31.

MUST CHECK NAMES

But Donald W. Seal, revising officer for District 1 in the constituency said he doubted it could be done that early because of the necessity of the RCMP checking what appeared to be a list of bogus names.

It was Mr. Seal's complaint, and complaints by two of the four candidates — Liberal Leon Crestohl and Progressive Conservative Hyman Brock—that set off the inquiry. The other candidates are Samuel Kolomeir, an Independent Liberal, and Michael Wozniak, candidate of the Social Democratic party — Quebec arm of the CCF.

Mr. Seal said he became suspicious of the list, brought in by two men, because many of the applications for revision appeared to have been signed in the same handwriting.

He took a personal spot test of the addresses listed and found that the names on the applications were false. He reported his findings to Mr. Castonguay.

About 60 other applications for revision in his district were accepted, Mr. Seal said. RCMP are probing the rest.

Mr. Crestohl, who has represented the riding since 1950, and Mr. Brock said they requested the investigation because of suspicious circumstances and persons.

Mr. Crestohl reported to Mr. Castonguay that there had been "gross irregularities, forgeries and perjuries during revision by agents of a candidate, and padding of voters' lists preparatory to implementing a planned conspiracy for impersonations and fraudulent voting on election day."

He was "delighted" with Mr. Castoguay's action in ordering the judicial inquiry.

Policeman Is Charged With Breaking, Entry

HAMILTON (CP)—A Hamilton policeman was charged today with breaking and entry and with intent and suspended from the force, Chief Leonard Lawrence said.

Constable Walter Manning appeared before Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins and was remanded for one week on $2,000 bail.

Acting crown attorney Herbert Freshman said it was alleged Manning broke into Hart Memorial Hall on Kenilworth Avenue early today.

Manning joined the police department in 1951.

800 Stranded in Cars, Buses, Trucks Make Way to Restaurant

MORGANTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A diverse group of entertainers, motorists, truckers and babies waited for rescue today in a small snowbound restaurant on the Pennsylvania turnpike.

More than 800 of them had made their way to the Howard Johnson restaurant since Wednesday night from cars, buses and trucks stranded on the super-highway by more than three feet of snow.

Some were ferried in by an Air Force helicopter which also brought food and medical supplies for 10 persons reported suffering from shock and frostbite. One man, George L. Bliss, 61, of Rocky River, Ohio, collapsed and died in the crowded restaurant.

Others, too frightened to leave their cars, were led in by truck drivers who formed search parties.

The group was depressed but well organized as it waited for highway crews to clear an access road.

Their progress was slowed by four feet of wet solidly packed snow and the jam of stranded cars on the turnpike, closed for 111 miles from Harrisburg to the New Jersey state line.

The group organized itself under the direction of three doctors; set up an infirmary; sent out search parties and passed the hat to pay for food supplied by the restaurant manager.

Leaders of Two Big Parties Focus Attention on Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The centre of Progressive Conservative and Liberal attention continues to focus on Ontario today.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson labored mightily within about 100 miles of each other in Northern Ontario Thursday for votes in the March 31 federal election campaign. They moved south today.

Mr. Diefenbaker had appearances at Welland and Kingston, at opposite ends of Lake Ontario, while Mr. Pearson worked his hometown of Toronto.

Social Credit Leader Solon Low, meantime, toiled in northwestern British Columbia and CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell rested in Ottawa with a bad cold.

Speaking to about 4,000 persons in Sudbury Thursday night, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals did nothing about rising unemployment a year ago.

But now they were "prophets of gloom and apostles of doom" about what would happen to Canada under a Conservative government.

Yet in 1957 the gross national product—total value of goods and services produced in Canada—had increased by three per cent.

Mr. Pearson, at Blind River in his own constituency of Algoma East, asked:

"How many people have to be out of work before Mr. Diefenbaker decides there is a recession?"

Mr. Diefenbaker had been reported as saying there was no trade recession. Yet by the lowest official calculation, Canada had more than 550,000 jobless last month, Mr. Pearson said.

Labor Minister Michael Starr had said the unemployment crisis was almost over and that unemployment would disappear by June. But there was no evidence of such indications. It would not help to "pretend" that trouble did not exist.

In a recorded radio address from Ottawa, Mr. Coldwell said his party favors federal aid to education because "only the federal government through its ability to tax wealth on a nation-wide basis, can provide adequate financial aid to education."

Former Liberal transport minister Lionel Chevrier said in Montreal that the Conservative government is damaging the Canadian economy. But he didn't think it was deliberate—"they're just inexperienced."

At Magog, Que., Gaspard Fauteux, former Quebec lieutenant-governor, said the Conservatives don't like to hear the Liberal party talk of world peace because they know Mr. Pearson is acclaimed the world over as a man of peace.

At Hamilton Liberal Senator David Croll said his party twice this century had to take over to clear up Conservative recessions and put the country back on its feet.

Donald C. MacDonald, leader of the Ontario CCF party, said at Welland that the Liberal party is "disintegrating" and has no hope of providing an effective opposition. He said he felt sympathy for Liberal Leader Pearson "who is fighting the campaign with half his forces having deserted him."

At Kirkland Lake, Prime Minister Diefenbaker was accused by Paul Martin, former Liberal health minister of stealing some Liberal thunder.

Mr. Martin said:

"Does this man think we take him as sincerely as he seems to take himself? One would almost think he had been in office for the last 20 years and has been responsible for Canada's development."

Postmaster - General Hamilton told a Gananoque audience that the Conservative government had stemmed and reversed unemployment.

"We are on the verge of bringing back that full employment which our young country needs," he said, speaking in support of Hayden Stanton of Leeds.

Cathcart Predicts Booming Tourist Season for Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Travel and Publicity Minister Cathcart today predicted a booming tourist season for Ontario this summer.

He told the legislature that mail inquiries from prospective tourists received by his department amounted to 21,066 in January and February, compared with 13,367 in the same two months last year.

"This is certainly indicative of a good summer ahead, and would lead us to believe that people generally are looking forward to their vacations and certainly have an eye on Ontario for a good place to spend them."

Asking the House to vote $1,480,000 for his department, an increase of $295,000 over last year, he estimated Ontario's tourist industry is worth at least $300,000,000 a year on the basis of a recent survey. The previous estimate was $250,000,000.

CALLED FOR COURTESY

Mr. Cathcart called for "courteous and warm" treatment of tourists in Ontario. A happy departing tourist brought back friends the following year while a dissatisfied or disgruntled tourist could "keep a dozen of his friends from paying us a visit."

The minister said his department has full co-operation from the rest of the government.

"From recent press reports it would appear the public may have gained the impression the department of travel and publicity is not receiving full co-operation from other departments of government, and if this is the case I want to correct that impression and correct it very strongly."

The department received a "complete and sympathetic hearing" from Premier Frost.

Mr. Cathcart appeared to be answering George Wardrope (PC—Port Arthur) who told the legislature's travel and publicity committee on March 4 that the department is the neglected member of the administration family.

Food Costs Set New High in United States

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new high for food costs sent the United States living-cost level to still another peak mark in mid-February.

In reporting this today, Ewan Clague, labor statistics commissioner, said he could see little hope for a living-cost decrease in the next few months. He said it depends largely on crop conditions and food supply.

The official index rose two tenths of one per cent between January and February, reaching 122.5 per cent of the 1947-49 average. This is 3.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

Food alone soared to a point 4.5 per cent above a year ago, a record.

The new over-all living cost peak is the 16th time in the last 18 months the index has broken over the top to a new high.

Clague said the reason living costs are not responding to the general business decline is that most consumer cost items don't respond quickly to general economic conditions.

Works Program Called 'Phoney'

MONTREAL (CP) — Hon. George Marler, transport minister in the former Liberal government, said Thursday night the "Diefenbaker public works program is a phoney."

Campaigning in his riding of Montreal - St. Antoine - Westmount, he said if the Liberals were elected March 31 and their tax cutting plan implemented, the effects could be felt "within a few months."

A Liberal government would fight unemployment by giving Canadians "an increased buying power of $400,000,000." This would stimulate small business and "would encourage new investment."

The Conservative party's public works program was a "phoney" because the jobs proposed "were little or nothing more than the normal public works program that would be scheduled even if there were no unemployment situation."

Theatre Pioneer Dies

HULL, Que. (CP) — Donat Paquin, 68, a pioneer in the theatre business in Ottawa and Hull, died Thursday night after a short illness.

He showed the first films in the district around 1910 and formerly owned four theatres in the two cities and owned Ottawa's Victoria Theatre at the time of his death.

FRUIT INDUSTRY LIKELY TO GO IN NIAGARA PEN.

Geography to Force Change Says Daley

TORONTO (CP) — The multi-million dollar Niagara Peninsula fruit industry will give way to industrial development and it is nonsense for any government to try to force the people to keep growing fruit, Labor Minister Daley has told the legislature.

Mr. Daley, whose Lincoln riding takes in a section of the rich fruit belt, said Thursday night "that area, because of geography, will no doubt grow industrially."

"It would be plain nonsense for a government to tell them (the growers) that because their land has grown peaches for 100 years, they must continue to grow peaches."

Mr. Daley was replying to Reg Gisborn (CCF—Westworth East). He raised the question of planning in the Niagara Peninsula by suggesting present government policies will permit industry to "cut down every tree and bulldoze every field."

He called on the government to establish parks and seaside resorts in the area, to restrict the encroachments of industry.

"DO YOU WANT IT ALL?"

"We have the Niagara parks system—one of the finest in the province," replied Premier Frost. "Do you want it all to be parkland?"

Mr. Daley, Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender and Planning Minister Nickle all declared that the government cannot refuse to let fruit farmers sell their land for industrial purposes.

"I would not want to be part of a government that did that," said Mr. Daley. Fruit farms could be established elsewhere.

Arthur Reaume (L — Essex North) took the government's position. If trees stood in the way of industry "Let's get out our axes and cut them down."

FOREST PROGRAM

Lands and Forests Minister Mapledoram told the legislature the province is starting on a five-year forest regeneration program with the co-operation of the logging companies.

The House approved estimates for the Lands and forests department giving it a budget of $24,453,000 compared with $19,998,000 in 1957.

John Wintermeyer (L — Waterloo North) said the pulp and paper industry is running into serious competition from southern United States mills which had the benefit of cheaper power, labor and transportation.

Two opposition motions of non-confidence were defeated 69 to 14.

Father and Sons Try Drifting On Lake Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—A father and his two sons set out Thursday night on Lake Ontario in a home-made canvas-covered raft, planning to drift wherever the lake currents carried them.

They didn't get far. They were three miles out on the lake when the wind carried them back to shore off suburban Lakeview, near their starting point. The raft was ripped by jagged rocks.

Adrianus Hoogendyk, 52, and his sons, Peter, 25, and Arthur, 30, all of suburban Long Branch, were unhurt. Unable to patch their craft, they called off the expedition.

Historians, Art Lovers, Architects In Row Over Placing of Statue

LONDON (AP) — A dreadful row has broken out here over a proposed change in site for a statue of King James II.

Leading artists, architects and art lovers are beating each other over the head with adjectives, citations from history and even cold logic. Letters have been written to the papers. Statements have been made in Parliament.

So far Jimmy the Two—as he is known to the Cockney element is still firmly planted next to George Washington in front of the National Gallery, overshadowed by the towering Nelson Monument in Trafalgar Square. Sentiment on what to do with him seems divided among four propositions

1. Leave him where he is.
2. Pack him off to arty-smarty Chelsea.
3. Set him up in front of the foreign office.
4. Chuck him in the Thames.

The rumpus was touched off March 4 when the ministry of works announced in the Houst of Commons it plans to move Jimmy the Two to make way for a new statue of Sir Walter Raleigh. It added that the king's statue would be re-sited at the foreign office.

The to - do that followed got Jimmy the Two more attention than at any time since 1688, when he was run off the throne. The first shot was fired by Roger Fulford, a writer of royal histories, who thundered in a letter to The Times

Blast Kills Seven, Destroys Building At Angus Depot

No Cause of Explosion Given; to Open Inquiry

ANGUS, Ont. (CP) — Six civilians and an airman died Thursday when explosive charges they were handling went off, demolishing a 100-foot-long building at the barbed wire-encircled RCAF armament depot here.

An eighth man escaped with minor injuries when something triggered the jetfighter canopy charges and shotgun shells used in air-sea rescue work. The blast, at about 4 p.m. on a chill afternoon, was heard over a wide area but planned explosions are not uncommon at this base so it was ignored until a column of blue-black smoke rose lazily into the overcast sky.

The dead:

Howard R. Thompson, 32, Barrie; Edward G. Trott, 54, Creemore, Ont.; Wayne Charles Kennard, 18, from near Angus; Elliott Edwin Bush, 42, Utopia, Ont.; Lawrence Alton Dobbs, 31, Glencairn, Ont.; LAC Earl Claud Boughner, 27, Guelph, and Robert Cecil McGillivary, 39, New Lowell, Ont.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Cpl. Otis Thomas Cartwright, 32, a weapons and munitions technician who lived in married quarters on the base, was working in an office at the far end of the building and received only superficial injuries. But he was taken to hospital at Camp Borden, five miles south of here, for observation. Borden, a huge army air force station, is 50 miles north of Toronto.

There was no explanation for the blast. The RCAF immediately ordered Group Capt. A. H. Lieff, commander of No. 1 Supply Depot at Toronto, to begin an inquiry.

The air force has two explosives depots in Canada. The other is at Debert, N.S.

The one here, staffed by 60 officers and men plus civilian employees, is built in two roughly concentric rings. The outer ring contains the administration building and some living quarters and the inner, buildings devoted to handling and storing explosives. Wire fences circle each enclosure and safety regulations are stringent.

FIRE SPREADS

Fire spread rapidly after the explosion. An urgent summons brought RCAF firefighting teams from Borden. It took two hours to control the outbreak.

Cartwright went home to reassure his wife before going to hospital. She said she had heard the explosion but paid no attention to it. Despite the havoc inside, there was scant evidence of a blast outside; a building 100 feet or so away was untouched.

The station commander is Flt.-Ltd. C. F. Dixon.

The armament depot lies at the end of a long road through the woods, leading from this crossroads community of 1,000 persons.

Will Hold Inquest

TORONTO (CP) — An inquest will be held in Bracebridge April 16 into the deaths of James Duffy 14, and Robert Pettersen, 13, in Muskoka bushland in February.

The boys were members of a Toronto hunting party led by Andrew Morton, 29-year-old church boys' group director, lost three days in zero weather.

Mr. Morton, Charles Douglas McCoy, 13, and George Farmer, 14, were rescued by plane. The two other boys died of exposure.

Halifax Voters Enjoy Oldtime Political Debate

HALIFAX (CP) — Halifax voters enjoyed an oldtime political debate Thursday night. Many agreed it was the noisiest gathering they ever attended.

Eleven hundred persons packed a high school auditorium to hear federal Progressive Candidates Edmund Morris and Robert McCleave, members of the last Commons, and their Liberal opponents John H. Dickey and Leonard A. Kitz. Another 1,000 were turned away.

The result: It was more like a football rally than a debate.

Chairman Dr. J. H. Aitchison, political science professor at Dalhousie University, had his hands full. Five times he asked the crowd to hear all the speakers, but it was a lost cause.

The Liberals were targets of most of the hecklers, many of whom sat in the front rows.

PARTING SHOT

As a parting shot, Mr. Dickey said:

"I want to thank and congratulate a portion of this audience. . . The rest have done the job they were sent here to do."

The crowd's uproar stopped both Liberal candidates midway in their remarks.

The speakers continued after Chairman Aitchison appealed for order.

Each speaker had a 15-minute opener and a 10-minute rebuttal. They talked about local issues amid heckling, cheers, catcalls and boos.

The Halifax Junior Board of Trade sponsored the "debate." Two Halifax CCF candidates did not participate.

Historians said it was the first such platform battle here since 1878, the days of Sir Charles Tupper.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

CHIMNEY FIRE ON HERCHIMER AVE.

City firemen were called to the home of W. Meens, Herchimer Ave., shortly before 10 o'clock this morning, for a chimney blaze. Firemen reported slight damage as fire caught in the roof before the blaze was extinguished.

The Chanticleers To Close Year For Association

The final concert of the local Community Concert Association's current series will be a performance by the brilliant male quartet, The Chanticleers, on Saturday night at the Collegiate auditorium.

These four gentlemen of song sing their way from Bach to Broadway with portions of Brahms and Gilbert and Sullivan for good measure. Each one is a distinctive personality with a background rich in opera, radio, television, concert, theatre and choral work, and yet together create a "blend" that results in topflight concert fare.

Originally soloists for the famed Robert Shaw Chorale, they decided to work together during a sabbatical year when Shaw was not on tour. However, their ensemble proved to be such a sensational success they continued on their upward way to receive acclaim as a "male quartet extreordinary." They have been in existence for five years.

For top tenor, William Diard renowned as the possessor of a beautiful solo voice; for second tenor, add Richard Wright, master of comic characterization, and a student of advanced composition as well (unusual for a singer); Raymond Keast, in the baritone role, with his fluent and robust voice; and to round out this foursome, youthful James Martindale, Italian-trained basso, who has often been compared to that of the late Ezio Pinza. The result will be a concert par excellence for the present membership and the 150 new members who have been invited as a special bonus in honor of the silver anniversary of the Belleville Community Concert Association.

English Family To Rough it in NorthBoomTown

For the second time within the past six years a young English family now living at Redpersville will start housekeeping in a Canadian frontier boom town.

Next Monday, Mrs. W. H. Russell and her two small school-aged children, Sybel and Ian, will go to Blind River, uranium boom town in Northern Ontario where they will join Mr. Russell.

First experience for the Russells in Canadian frontier town life was at Kitimat, British Columbia, where they enjoyed trailer life during the construction period of the widnerness town.

Life was really rugged there, according to Mrs. Russell. There were no schools, few , stores nearly everyone lived in a trailer and there was mud all over.

She said it was a wonderful experience to see the huge docks and other structures go up in the wilderness.

In comparison she expects life will be easy at Blind River where the family will live in a house instead of in a trailer. Also there are schools for the kiddies as well as other amenities.

WENT TO B.C. IN '52

The Russell family went to Kitimat in 1952, then later returned to England with the idea of settling down. However, Canada again beckoned and the family decided to try Central Ontario. They stopped off at Belleville where Mr. Russell found employment with the H. J. McFarland Construction Company.

However, the lure of higher pay in the Northern Ontario uranium boom town beckoned and he went to Elliot Lake last May, where he is now in charge of equipment at the Algom-Nordic mine.

"The wages are better but it was at the price of having our family separated. Now we will be together again."

Survival in Terror-Filled Cosmic Age Discussed by Speaker at Canadian Club

The people of the free world must learn more about their "challenging adversary", the USSR, and Canadians must adopt a more understanding attitude toward our powerful ally, the United States, if the western world is to survive in this confused, terror-fileld cosmic age.

This was the advice given close to 200 people who attended the monthly meeting of the Women's Canadian Club at Christ Church Parish Hall last night by Mrs. J. F. Davidson, lecturer and free-lance commentator.

Mrs. Davidson, in discussing the international scene, warned: "If the free world falls apart through lack of understanding the two giants of our age, we will be digging our own grave."

The noted lecturer, who made her third visit to the club last night, is a native of Riga, Latvia, on the Baltic seacoast. During World War I, she and her family moved to the interior of Russia where they experienced three years of the Russian Revolution.

In 1920 Mrs. Davidson returned to Latvia to study history at the University of Riga. Two years later she went to the United States to study at the Smith College. She later graduated with an MA in Modern History.

She went to Shanghai and taught at St. John's University. While there she met and married a fellow teacher, John F. Davidson (a Canadian). Two years later, in 1927, the couple came to Canada.

UNIVERSITY LECTURER

Mrs. Davidson joined the staff of the University of Toronto as lecturer in the Department of Extension, and became the first woman news commentator for the CBC and radio station CFRB.

For the past eight and one-half years Mr. and Mrs. Davidson have lived in New York City where she devotes her time to lecturing in her husband's parish, St. George's Anglican Church.

Vitally interested in stimulating women's interest in world affairs, Mrs. Davidson tours various women's clubs in Canada and the U.S.

The speaker strongly urged her audience to accept Russia as an historic fact, and to learn more about Russian affairs.

"We need more students of Russian affairs, serious debates in universities, and forums, in radio, TV, and the press, to clarify our views and any misconceptions we may hold about the USSR," she said. "We must understand our adversary and know what he's up to, before we can deal with him."

Regarding Canadian-U.S. relations, Mrs. Davidson urged her audience to get rid of antagonistic attitudes toward our southern neighbor.

"Schools should teach factual information on U.S. affairs so that students will understand the problems encountered by the leading giant of the free world." Canadian political leaders should also be better informed on U.S. affairs as an aid to better business dealings between the two countries, she stated.

The speaker felt the dislike toward the U.S. by people all over the world was unjustified.

"The United States was thrust into this role of leader. She had no alternative, because she had all the qualifications of a great nation.

"The average citizen should contemplate this fact — mass dislike will reap its own consequences."

ENTERING COSMIC AGE

The speaker noted we are entering the Cosmic Age — "a confusing era of giantness."

The space age was launched last fall with the successful launching of Russia's Sputnik I, she said.

"Today we are faced with man's insatiable drive to discover the ultimate — for the first time we are looking outside our own planet."

She warned, however, we must not spend so much time and energy trying to get men on the moon, that we cease trying to solve the problems between nations on earth.

This era of giantness is reflected in the international scene, she said. "We are creating the tendency away from individualism and toward group society. This is dangerous in that governments and nations are beginning to feel people, as individual units, are too small to do anything about."

The speaker also noted we are living today in a divided world whose security is based on the balance of power.

"We are living in an atmosphere of rising incidence of danger — a fear that some unbalanced person could unwittingly plunge the world into holocaust simply by mistaking an accident for armed aggression." Mrs. Davidson was referring to the recent accidental dropping of an unarmed A-bomb on a U.S. city.

Negotiations and economic aid to underprivileged countries are two of the best weapons in casing this tense situation, she said.

"Despite our glorious ideals, nine-tenths of the world is poor, illiterate and hungry, and this situation is assailing our own basic security," she warned.

NOW OFFERING AID

Mrs. Davidson pointed out since Russia is now offering aid to these poorer nations, the west must step up its economic aid program.

"We must make democracy more attractive than communism so these nations will refuse to come under Russian domination", she said.

The speaker urged her audience to question their own sense of value and their own knowledge of world affairs.

"A high standard of living is not cultural stature," she stated.

In education, attitudes toward intellectuals should be changed, she said. Parents should instill in their children an attitude of high esteem for educated people and encourage them to seek higher education.

"The primary value of education should be in training the mind; and today we need trained minds, the more the better", she said.

The speaker expressed the hope that when the cosmic age comes to full fruition, the process of self-destruction will have been abolished, and the main concern in the cosmic state will be concern for mankind.

Mrs. Davidson was introduced by club president, Mrs. E. S. Fairman and thanked by Mrs. E. Hickey.

Accident-Free Driving to Be Rewarded

Twenty five years accident-free driving by Mr. W. Thompson, 56-year-old Picton driver for the Belleville Creameries at Belleville, is being recognized by the Ontario Safety League.

Saturday at a safe driver award banquet to be held at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto, Mr. Thompson will be one of 13 Ontario drivers who will receive a special award to be presented by Hon. James N. Allan, Ontario Minister of Highways. Attending the banquet will be Mr. Harold West, proprietor of the Belleville Creameries, and also Mrs. Thompson.

Mr. Thompson started driving back in 1921 when he secured his first chauffeur's licence at the age of 19, and his accident-free driving record actually dates from that time. He has been enrolled in the Ontario Safety League safe driving program for the past 25 years.

Mr. Thompson's first job was with the Picton Creamery and he later drove with the Maple Valley Creamery at Picton. He became associated with the Belleville Creameries in 1939.

The Ontario Safety League's program to promote safety among Ontario's commercial drivers has now completed 25 years operation with 300 Ontario firms enrolled embracing 14,000 drivers. Of this number 8,500 drivers qualified for awards in 1957 for one or more years of accident-free driving.

Sergeant Archie Grayling, head of the Bancroft Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police for the past eight years, will be transferred to Blind River detachment to assume duties on April 1.

He has been a member of the Ontario Provincial Police for the past eighteen years, eight years of which were spent at Havelock and two in Peterborough. Two weeks ago at the time his transfer was announced from Toronto, he was promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Married with two children, he has a son Douglas with the RCMP at Victoria, B.C., and a daughter, Mrs. John McCibbin, of Peterborough.

All Qualifying Rinks Thursday From Trenton

The field is narrowing down in the Quinte Curling Club bonspiel and after today's play there will be only sixteen rinks left of the 64 that started play on Tuesday morning last. Of the sixteen rinks to go into action on Saturday, eight of them will be three-game winners and the same number two-game winners. In the first round of Saturday's play the four teams losing will go into the third competition, while the four losers of the two-game winners will go into the fourth competition.

L. E. McLean has conducted the draw in a most satisfactory manner, having the teams ready to play at the appointed time, while Steve Flintoff, in charge of ice arrangements has provided the curlers with excellent ice throughout the spiel. The visitors, who have seen the rink and the accommodations for the first time, are most high in their praise for the fine effort that has been accomplished and there is a possibility the plans of the rink will be used in other centres with some modifications.

A. R. "Alf" Symons, possibly the oldest member of the club, but not in spirit, was around the clubhouse yesterday, receiving the congratulations of the members on his 84th birthday. Alf has been curling for many years and is one of the most active participants at the rink. In the summer he enjoys his evenings on the bowling green and for a hobby works in his beloved flower garden. Many more happy years is the wish of all for Mr. Symons.

Two Trenton RCAF teams skipped by M. McAlpine and J. Wood will enter the three-game winner ranks for Saturday, while two Trenton town rinks, skipped by C. Bonter and M. Rivoire, will go into the two-game winner draw. Today the out-of-town curlers take over with only a few local rinks entered. Some of the best rinks in the province will be on hand and will, no doubt, draw big galleries during the day.

Following are scores of Thursday:

Two Rawdon Township Girls Hurt in Crash

Two Rawdon township sisters, Misses Jean and Carrol Sine, R. R. 1 Harold, suffered facial cuts and lacerations late Thursday afternoon, when their car was in collision with a farm truck on No. 14 highway at the 2nd concession of Rawdon.

Both girls were taken to Belleville General Hospital by Duffin's Ambulance, where Jean Sine, 19, was admitted suffering from superficial facial lacerations. Her 16-year-old sister suffered small cuts about the face and had two teeth broken but was allowed to go home after treatment.

Both girls were treated by Dr. William Cornett, Stirling, before being taken to hospital at Belleville.

Provincial police said the accident occurred about five o'clock Thursday afternoon. It was stated that a farm truck driven by Fred Richardson of Stirling, went across the highway in front of the car driven by Miss Carrol Sine.

Planned Park System Wanted By Thurlow Twp.

Members of the South Thurlow Ratepayers Association will continue their campaign for a planned park system for their rapidly developing area east of the city.

This was indicated at their regular monthly meeting held Wednesday night at S.S. No. 20 when the expressed feeling of the group was that a planned park system was needed. The Association executive was instructed to continue to campaign to the required park areas.

A large park with playground equipment was needed as well as smaller parks. Already the township has set aside many areas for small parks and it is recommended that some of these be sold to provide money for the purchase and equipping of a larger playground park.

Association president Jeff Paget chaired the meeting which was attended by Thurlow township councillor Clayton Hall, Jack Sproule, chairman of S.S. No. 5 school board, and Mrs. E. Risto, executive member of the Belleville Citizens Comittee.

Following the business meeting dancing and cards were enjoyed under the direction of Gordon Hutchison, chairman of the social committee.

Army Demolition Experts to Clear Chaudiere River

QUEBC (CP) — Army demolition experts, with a helicopter assist from the Royal Canadian Navy, will set off TNT blasts on the Chaudiere River today to break up a flood-threatening ice jam.

The piled floes, near Beauceville 30 miles south of Quebec City, could back up river waters when they become swollen by melting snow.

The army said there is no immediate danger of flooding but the jam should be cleared.

The river, swollen by a sudden thaw just before Christmas, caused $2,000,000 damage then as it poured water and ice through Beauceville streets.

The helicopter will be used to lower demolition crews gently onto the river ice. The ice is of undetermined thickness and parties working their way out from shore could break through it.

Hees States PC's Will Win Over Half of Quebec Seats

TRENTON — John Diefenbaker will return to power with a very large over-all majority, Transport Minister Hees said last night at a meeting in support of Lee Grills, Progressive Conservative candidate for Hastings South and the riding's member in the last Parliament. The meeting was in the Community Gardens here.

The minister said the Conservatives would gain more than half the Quebec seats and based this on a tour this week of 15 Quebec ridings.

"Enthusiasm for the Conservatives in Quebec is just as great as throughout the rest of Canada," he contended. "The reason is they like the kind of government John Diefenbaker gave in the past nine months and the fact he has made good on every promise he made during the last election campaign.

"People across the country are laughing at the so-called Pearson plan because they recognize it as nothing more than a deathbed repentance. Every plank in that platform was suggested by an opposition member in the House of Commons when the Liberals were in power and were in a position to put these policies into practice. They turned them down cold."

Hold Special Board Meeting To Open Tenders

TRENTON — A special meeting of the Board of Education on Wednesday will be held for the opening of tenders which have been received over the proposed addition to the Trenton High School.

V. P. Carswell, in announcing the meeting, stated that the Rev. George A. Puttenham will preside at the meeting to be held in the Board Rooms of the North Trenton School.

The tenders will be the main item of business for the evening and board members are reminded that it is of the utmost importance that a tender be accepted and the contract awarded to enable work to get underway as soon as possible.

It is expected that some of the time at the meeting will be spent by board members on the budget for the coming year.

Len Gaudette Takes up Duties At New Arena

TRENTON — Len Gaudette, Aylmer, recently appointed manager of the Community Centre arrived in town to take up his new duties.

Mr. Gaudette was arena manager and recreation director in Aylmer and is no stranger to the world of sport. He has been an active athlete all his life with hockey being, perhaps, his main one. Mr. Gaudette has definite plans to boost hockey in Trenton next season.

Asked how he felt towards the proposed heating plant for the local Community Centre as an attraction to the paying customer, Mr. Gaudette said he felt it would be the only thing to draw out fans and get them interested in local hockey and other rink activities. He said he was glad to hear the heating of the rink was being considered for the Centre as it would make his work and the success of the rink, much easier.

Mr. Gaudette's hockey career goes back into the "Big Four" league in the Maritimes. There he had played with the Glace Bay Miners, who along with the Halifax St. Mary's, the Charlottetown Islanders and the Moncton Hawks formed the mainstay of hockey in the Atlantic provinces. He had also played with the Amherst Ramblers, a team which played an important role in Maritime hockey after disbandonment of the Big Four.

Mr. Gaudette and his young wife are at present staying in Trenton with friends while they seek a furnished apartment or other suitable accommodations.

TRENTON — Members of the Kiwanis Club held their annual ladies' night meeting at the Hotel Gilbert last night with almost a perfect attendance. Following the supper at the hotel's dining hall, the members and their wives held a dance at the new Legion hall.

VISITS TRENTON

John James of Bowmanville, well-known in Trenton, was a recent visitor to town on his way home from a political meeting in Kingston. Mr. James spent a few months in Trenton during the winter when he was temporary editor of one of the local papers. Mr. James is also a former Liberal MP for Durham riding.

CLEANING UP

Workmen and their trucks are busily cleaning up and hauling away the debris of the business block on Front Street, which was badly gutted by fire during January. It is expected the building will be re-built into the apartments, which had just been completed when the fire broke out. Workers are using wooden sluices to slide the burnt wood and dislodged bricks from the second-storey windows to the trucks waiting below.

SELLING FAST

Headquarters for the Community Concert's drive for membership reports a near-sellout and, with only a few days remaining, they feel there will be many persons in Trenton disappointed. The tickets are on sale only during this drive and must be obtained now, or not at all, for next year's concerts.

Accused Wept Openly in Court

BRUCE MINES, Ont. (CP)—Roland Sabourin, 30, wept Thursday as he appeared in court to hear three charges of murder read against him.

Sabourin, a mine worker from Elliot Lake, Ont., was not asked to plead. He was ordered kept in jail at Sault Ste. Marie, 42 miles west of here, until March 28.

The charge was laid after the bodies of Sabourin's wife Lucille, 26, and their daughters, Lorraine, 7, and Jeanette, 3, were found with their throats slashed in an Elliot Lake trailer home Tuesday.

Sabourin almost collapsed in court. He slumped over a table as the charges were read. The man surrendered to police in Detroit several hours before the bodies were discovered.

Owners of Rest Home Charged As Woman Dies

STOUFFVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Bernard McGinty, 26, and his wife Mary, 24, were charged Thursday with failing to provide the necessities of life for Mrs. Hetta Mae Wilson, 81, who died in their rest home March 9 in this village, 20 miles northeast of Toronto.

The McGintys were also charged with failing to provide the necessities of life for Charles Wilson, 75, and Mrs. Betty Jacques, 82. Both were removed from the house by police.

A coroner's jury Wednesday night found Mrs. Wilson died of malnutrition but said there was no evidence that insufficient food was offered the woman.

Dr. J. A. Ritchie, who performed an autopsy, testified there was no abnormality which could have caused death.

"I have never seen a human in such an awful state," he said. "Her stomach was completely empty. It was red and inflamed and all the other organs were too, which is another symptom of malnutrition."

Dr. Ritchie said the body was dehydrated and covered with scratches from head to foot, possibly self-inflicted.

Wholesale Price Of Gas Boosted

TORONTO (CP)—Imperial Oil Limited today announced an increase in the wholesale price of its gasoline to stop the "cut throat" price war among service stations.

A company spokesman declined to disclose the new or old wholesale price.

Quinte Milk Products Ltd. Has Good Year

Quinte Milk Products Ltd., Wellington, reports that the results of its operation in 1957 were satisfactory, with the demand for its quality products being better than ever, in spite of surplus conditions prevailing throughout the dairy industry. The firm has completed 29 years of operation, providing a year-round outlet for milk from farmer patrons in Prince Edward County.

The average price per hundredweight of milk purchased has increased substantially the past two years. In 1956 the average price paid to farmer patrons was $2.56 per cwt. In 1957 the average price increased 10.6 per cent to $2.83½ per cwt. The first two months of 1958 reflect a further increase of 13 per cent with an average price of $3.20 per cwt. partly due to high seasonal butterfat content of the milk. It is anticipated that the price paid to farmer patrons throughout the balance of 1958 will continue strong.

During 1957 the provincial government announced new regulations for quality control of milk produced in the province and to assist farmer patrons in complying with these regulations, Don Harvey, who has been cheesemaker in the Bloomfield plant for many years, is now visiting farmer patrons. Mr. Harvey's record of producing high quality cheese and his experience in the handling of milk, qualifies him very well for this service.

EXPORTING PROSPERITY

Conservative party leader Diefenbaker and Liberal party leader Pearson have rightly diagnosed Canada's major problem at the moment as unemployment. Each has prescribed a different remedy. Prime Minister Diefenbaker says that a big public works program will solve the problem. Mr. Pearson favors a major tax cut as the remedy.

Both proposals have merit. Certainly now would seem to be the time to dust off the list of public works projects, which include such things as adding to Canada's hospital facilities, building better highways, and anticipating the demand for enlarged educational facilities. Such projects will provide employment and add to what economists call the country's reservoir of "social capital." Tax cuts, too, would make sense, provided they were of such a kind as to stimulate investment which, in turn, is certain to generate employment opportunities.

Worth pondering, however, is how it was that prosperity slipped from the Canadian scene in the first place. To answer that question, it is enough to look at the series of staggering trade deficits which Canada has incurred during the last several years. Billions of Canadian dollars have been spent on imports, because this country's trade policies, based on the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, have encouraged foreign manufacturers to exploit this country's domestic market.

Canada's biggest export has been dollars - - dollars which have gone to buy abroad things Canadians could have made at home. To keep on exporting dollars when those dollars are needed to fill empty pay envelopes in Canada seems the height of folly. Surely the time has come to adopt trade policies which will call a halt to this business of exporting prosperity in exchange for imports from low-wage countries.

WHAT IS EDUCATION?

Much of the talk circulating these days about the advantage and necessity of sending more and more students to university is enough to develop inferiority complexes among those not fortunate enough to get past high school graduation, if that far.

Are not laborers, clerks and stable hands as necessary as university graduates? Certainly there is a need - - an imperative one - - for countries of the Western world to turn out more engineers and scientists to try to catch up with Russia's output. But the emphasis that has been placed on university education has far outshone the importance of keeping some people out of university.

Not everyone is entitled to attend university, although everyone should be given the same opportunities of working toward that end. Some people are born to be gardeners, others will be brilliant engineers. That is one of the peculiarities of life and will continue to be long after this century fades into the history books. Many a high school or public school graduate has been more successful in business than a university graduate. Of course, the opposite would be true, too.

Some university students are suffering from a terrible malady of the mind that has them believing universities make men. Conceit and smugness flower. No, universities do not make men. Men make universities.

A person ought never to cease to learn, no matter what his occupation. Education stops simply and suddenly with death. Is not education, then, life and not just university training?

LEVEL CROSSING SIGNS

Donald I. MacKinnon of Belleville has suggested to Attorney General Kelso Roberts two methods of reducing accident tolls at level crossings. One way, he has said, is to paint strips across the highway at the same angle as the railway tracks. The other is to mount signs on country roads indicating the number of tracks and the angle at which they cross the road.

Mr. MacKinnon, who is the probation officer in Belleville and president of the fish and game club, is to be commended for his civic spirit.

One suggestion has been adopted by the Department of Highways, as witness the signs north of Foxboro and Ivanhoe. However, judging from the diagramatic explanation Mr. MacKinnon submitted, the signs now erected are hardly of the size he recommended. They are much, much too small. Painted yellow, the signs do attract attention, but motorists must be right up on them before they can decipher the sketch drawn in black which illustrates the angle at which the tracks cross the road.

It is hoped that his other suggestion - - that of painting strips across highways - - will also be accepted. It is a much better idea than the one of erecting signs. At least with broad yellow stripes decorating the highways at the same angle as the tracks, drivers would stand a better chance of spotting them before arriving at the crossing.

Letter To The Editor

Approves Licensing Of Nursing Homes

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I will appreciate the following letter being published in your paper.

This noon I heard on the newscast over C.J.B.Q. that Mayor Hyde and council have passed a ruling that all Nursing Homes in Belleville are to be licensed.

This is one of the best moves that could be made.

In 1943 when I opened my Nursing Home on the Marshall Rd., I wrote to the Dept. of Health in Parliament Bldgs., Toronto, for a licence. Within a few weeks the late Dr. P. N. Gardner, Examiner for the Province of Ontario came to inspect my Home and gave me certain specifications for alternations that the Dept. of Health required and a length of time to make these alternations; also, so many beds per room — per cubic feet — per person, all patients to be admitted on a doctor's order and prescribed for by him.

Over the years I realized the invaluable advice, co-operation and assistance accorded me by the various inspectors. I drew from their wide knowledge of administration of institutions unlimited information, which was of great benefit to the administration of the Home.

A licence not only protects the public, but also the nursing home operators. It works both ways.

Mr. Geo. Whitman of the Welfare Dept. of Belleville has done an excellent job in the past, of supervising the welfare of indigent patients in local nursing homes and leaves nothing undone for their care.

I trust this new forward step in progress in Belleville will give Belleville the finest nursing homes in the province.

Mayor Hyde and the council are to be highly congratulated in what they have done.

Pen Mightier Than Long Bow

Montreal Daily Star

Long ago in Nottingham there was an engaging rogue named Robin Hood who bedeviled the King's law officers. Legend tells us that he could make things mighty hot for the sheriff, if he felt that this worthy was over-reaching himself. Ambushes, castle raids, a thump on the skull of his tax collector by one of the Merry Men — these and other refinements had a certain restraining influence.

Consider how times have changed. The Times notes that the Chief Constable of Nottingham has suffered a setback. He was to have acquired a new Mark III Jaguar car (cost: £1,897 including tax) for his police duties. It was felt that a Jaguar would be more fitting than his two-year-old Ford Zephyr (cost £392 including tax), especially during royal visits. However, an economy-minded council decided that his Zephyr was still capable of good performance, and that neither the service nor the prestige of the force would suffer.

Thus does England change. In the good old days, the twang of a bow in Sherwood Forest could trim a policeman's ambition. Nowadays, it's the scratch of a ball-point pen through a budget proposal.

Bacon Plugs Hole in Ship

St. Thomas Times-Journal

There is a story, or maybe it is only a legend, that a boy saved part of Holland from inundation by sticking his finger in a hole in one of the dikes and keeping out the water until the breach could be repaired. From Holland comes another story, which is quite true, of a similar character.

A small freighter sprang a leak recently in the Zuider Zee after colliding with another ship. A member of the crew rowed ashore and bought a side of bacon. The captain plugged the hole with the bacon and the ship was navigated to port next day without taking in any more water. "Bacon," said the master, "is the ideal plug for a hole in the hull because it swells and clamps tight through suction."

Maybe all ships should carry sides of bacon for such emergencies.

This Strike Wins Praise

Ottawa Citizen

There is nothing frivolous about the strike of Quebec university students. It is a serious move, aimed at directing public attention to the critical financial situation in which Quebec's universities find themselves. To a degree, all universities in the country face a similiar crisis, created by a rapidly growing population, increased recognition of the fact that lack of funds should not bar a student from a university, and the need of a technical, urban society for larger numbers of professionally-trained people. But almost all of Canada's provincial governments are trying to meet the need through adequate grants, and also by accepting federal aid. This is not the case in Quebec, where the crisis is aggravated.

The position has been well described in a letter to the Montreal Gazette by Mr. Louis Donolo Jr., president of the McGill University Students' Society:

Over 50 percent of the students in universities in the province of Quebec are children of the higher social classes. These classes make up only 4 percent of the provincial population. Education is something to which every young individual has a right, be he wealthy or materially unfortunate. In these days of scientific progress, attempts to increase the number of university graduates are steps which any citizen endorses. The condition of universities in our province makes these increases impossible. Sufficient funds for building and for increasing their teaching staffs are not forthcoming.

Student representations to the provincial government have received short shift, and the students have now taken the extraordinary, grave course of striking to bring the issue to the public.

The continuing progress of Quebec, as of any province, depends to a great extent on the number of highly trained minds available. The public therefore has a direct interest in the problems of the universities. In drawing attention to the issue so dramatically, the students have performed a public service.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Nearly everything advertised on TV and Radio is "new and improved." Maybe everything advertised in this newspaper is new and improved also, though the phrase is not quite so noticeable or repetitious as it is on the other media. All the way from motor cars to soap dust, everything is new and improved, and we begin to wonder how we have been getting along all these years with the old junk formerly supplied to us.

Personally, I have begun to grow a little suspicious about these improvements. In a couple of instances, after buying a new and improved article, I had no choice but to believe that the improvement was from the manufacturers' point of view. The improvement possibly consisted in finding an easier, cheaper and more profitable way of making the goods.

There is something a little pitiable about the way the advertising profession jumps on a new word or phrase. Let one genius think up a new word, and five hundred geniuses all grab it. You have seen that old rooster in the barnyard go over all by himself to a corner, and there utter a few well-chosen clucks, as if he had found something remarkable. And all the hens rush from every direction to join him. Same thing.

One of these days, an advertiser is going to announce that here is something old and tried, the kind that grandma used to use, unchanged in any particular from the old original.

And he will sell a million of it, out of sheer public astonishment.

THE BIRTH OF SPRING

Out of the earth a tulip crept,
And the North Wind laughed in glee.
"'Twere better for you had you longer slept,
For I'm king of the world," said he.

"And I'll nip your leaves, little foolish flower,
And I'll freeze with my biting breath
Your heart; to show you that I'm in power,
In the morn you'll be cold in death."

As if by magic more tulips grew,
And the sunbeams came to sing;
And away to the pole the North Wind flew,
Bewailing the birth of spring.

GOD AT WORK

It costs more every year to pick the litter up from the streets and roads of the United States than to support the entire United Nations. The piece of paper carelessly dropped — somebody must pick it up. The picnic lunch box tossed to the roadside. They can't be left to pile up. Millions upon millions of dollars are spent in the simple act of gathering up the trash which in most cases has been thoughtlessly strewn about.

What does all this signify? It signifis, does it not, the vast importance of little things. Who would think that the clean-up job on American streets and roads amounts to a larger sum every year than does the administrative cost of the United Nations? The wrapping from the stick of chewing gum does not seem much, but ten million of these wrappers make quite a high pile. The cigaret box cast into the gutter is nothing at all, but after a week or a month it could create quite a problem.

The truth is that there is nothing insignificant in the universe. Matter is a substance which results when hundreds of billions of electrons start chasing hundreds of billions of other electrons around in circles — or orbits.

The hairs of our heads are numbered! The invisible atom is split and results in a vast release of energy! Nothing is insignificant. This is God's world, and God means business.

FIDDLING

Fiddling is good for the soul — sometimes. If you fiddle away when there is important work to be done or while someone else is doing what you should do, that is not the time to fiddle. But if you have done the best you know how, and yet everybody seems to find fault with you, get your fiddle and fiddle away. It will cheer your heart, stimulate your brain and rest your body.

But when at work, forget fiddling. Always leave the fiddle at home. In imagination, even, let not your mind go back to its fiddle.

What kind of a fiddle? There are many kinds. Not literally the one with strings. Maybe a good book, or an hour or so at a wholesome sport, or a journey among the trees and flowers and birds in the country. Best of all — a good "hobby." It's the spirit of fiddling at the right time. Old Nero fiddled away as his Rome burned. But at that, he was fairly level-headed. For could he have done anything else as effective as fiddling away at his fiddle? He wasn't the Fire and Hose Company.

Own a fiddle of some sort. And learn to fiddle. Your nerves will thank you and your friends will thank you.

But fiddle in fiddling hours.

To Your Good Health

NITRITES RELAX ARTERIES SUPPLYING BLOOD TO HEART MUSCLE

"Dear Dr. Molner: Should I take nitroglycerin before I feel pain in the chest, or wait for a bad attack? And what effect does it have on the heart or valves? Thanks so much. — S. R."

Nitroglycerin, of course, is primarily used by patients with a certain type of heart trouble which causes angina pectoris — a severe pressure-like pain in the chest, perhaps extending into the shoulder or arm.

The most likely time for the angina pains to strike is after exertion, or after a large meal. In either case, the pain is a sign that the heart muscle is having difficulty doing its assigned work.

Placing a nitroglycerin capsule under the tongue brings prompt relief.

Why? Because nitroglycerin is one of several forms of chemicals known as nitrites. A nitrite relaxes the arteries which supply blood to the heart muscle, and allow a greater flow of blood. The muscle, nourished by this increased blood supply, no longer finds it so hard to work, and the pain subsides. This ability of the nitrite to relax the arteries is the important thing. That is why you have a flushed sensation after taking the pill — the relaxed arteries permit blood to flow more easily.

Its effect, therefore, is beneficial to the heart quite aside from the fact that it relieves the pain. It is not a "pain killer", in the usual sense of that term. And it has no effect at all on the valves, so put aside any worry you have on that score.

There are other nitrites which have a longer-lasting action. These are, indeed, prescribed many times for people having angina pains, and usually they prove to be effective in suppressing the discomfort, with the patient taking them perhaps three or four times a day.

In general, the nitroglycerin is reserved for emergency relief of angina pains, because it acts quickly. The patient can carry a supply and take one when necessary. When frequent dosage is needed, then the longer-acting nitrites may be more satisfactory.

Can you take nitroglycerin capsule in advance? The answer is yes, if there is a pattern so you can tell when the pains are going to come — as at mealtime, or when you do some walking. However, angina is not always predictable, and usually you can't tell precisely when an attack will come. If you can — then taking a tablet beforehand might reasonably be effective.

Nitroglycerin can be taken as often as needed to relieve the pain. However, if pains occur with great frequency, then the use of one of the other nitrites might turn out to be more effective. This will remove the need for taking tablets so often.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Where can I find recipes for making diabetic jelly? — A Reader."

Many books on diabetes written for patients contain such recipes. See a book store or your library. There is also a handy booklet published every two months by the American Diabetes Association called "The Forecast", which has a section devoted to recipes.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss the proper method of cutting toenails to prevent ingrowing, and how to relieve pain of same. — Y. K."

Cut straight across, or nearly so. Don't cut too short. Don't wear shoes that are too short. Watch for any sign that the nail is starting to curl into that "ingrown shape," and use a tiny bit of cotton, tucked under the nail, to train the nail upward.

Leg cramps and foot pain? Both can be stopped! To learn how, write to me in care of this newspaper, requesting my pamphlet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains", and enclosing a large self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The Honesty of Politics

Ottawa Journal

Rev. G. B. Mather, an assistant secretary of the United Church of Canada's Board of Evangelism and Social Service, had some things to say about politics to the board's annual meeting, all of which we liked.

First he said that Christians should take an active part in politics, a thing which needs saying.

For there are too many Christians, churchgoing members, who appear to think that politics is beneath them; something degrading. So believing, they wrap about them their cloaks of respectable morality, leaving politics to people they consider inferior.

That in this moral isolation they are rejecting the divine injunction to render unto Caesar, never seems to occur to them. Nor do they seem to understand that politics practised rightly is concerned with just government, that just government is an integral part of the whole scheme of justice, and that because justice is one of the highest aims of Christianity, it is their duty to be concerned with it.

• • •

And not concerned with it, said Mr. Mather, in merely some passive way. "A Christian must show his political concern . . . by voting in elections and affiliating with a political party."

The last is vital. A citizen, Christian or non-Christian, who imagines he can perform his democratic duties by shunning political parties, by standing alone, disdaining to help in the menial chores of politics, is a victim of self-deception, perhaps a victim of egotism and vanity.

A few men, giant trees in a forest, may stand out from the crowd, influence their times by unique talents or virtues. But for most men, if they are to be useful in society, there can be but co-operation with their fellowmen. It is not a matter of tame conformity nor of slavish adherence to forms; it is but a matter of practical commonsense.

• • •

Finally Mr. Mather said this: "It needs to be insisted that politics can be honorable and actually is honorable to a far greater degree than is commonly imagined."

Not only is this truth; it is truth which can be documented from the records, truth which is one of the great vindications of our democratic system.

Actually, on the record, there is more honesty in politics than in business, or in sports, or in almost any other of the community's activities. Year after year we read of this or that defalcation in business, or of some scandal in certain forms of sport, or within the operation of big unions, more especially in the land to the south of us. How often do we hear of financial dishonesty among our politicians?

Politics is shot through with controversy, with bitter debate and recriminations, with all sorts of taunts and accusations. What an extraordinary thing, then, what a glorious vindication of politics, that seldom if ever do we find accusations of financial dishonesty, and much less accusations of financial dishonesty that have been made to stick. The records of two world wars, with their expenditure of billions, without proof of even much accusation of a single cent finding its way into the pocket of a politician, are something for the pride of us all.

Macs' Playoffs Statistics

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand, Barton Bradley and Wayne (Wiener) Brown paced the McFarland point-getters on their march to the OHA Eastern Senior "A" championship.

The Macs took thirteen games to defeat Kingston in the semi-finals and Pembroke in the finals. They won 8, lost 4 and tied one.

During both series Hildebrand scored five goals and had 18 assists for 23 points, while Bart Bradley had nine goals and 11 assists for 20 points. Brown was just a point back of linemate Bradley with ten goals and nine assists. Hildebrand's 18 assists was tops in that department as he participated in almost half of Belleville's 55 scoring plays. Brown was top goal scorer with ten while Bep Guidolin, fourth in scoring with 13 points, was the penalty leader with 32 minutes.

Gordie Bell compiled a sensational goals-against average, allowing 31 goals in thirteen games for a 2.38 average. He recorded one shutout, that against Kingston in the seventh game of the semi-finals.

FRUIT INDUSTRY

A motion condemning government agriculture and unemployment policies by Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver—along with an amendment by CCF Leader Donald MacDonald—met quick defeat by the Progressive Conservative majority.

The 10 Liberals, three CCF members and an Independent Liberal-Labor member voted as a bloc on both motions.

"DISPENSERS OF GLOOM"

Before the votes were taken Highways Minister Allan closed off throne speech debate with a speech in which he accused opposition members of being "dispensers of gloom."

The opposition had been critical of rising public debt but "the increase of public debt in this province is really an indication of growth and vitality."

Premier Frost, answering criticism of the logging tax by Mr. Wintermeyer, told the House the federal government must grant "a fair and reasonable royalty" to provinces in mining and logging taxes.

Both Mr. Wintermeyer and CCF Leader MacDonald agreed with the premier that the federal government is not granting enough exemptions in corporation taxes for provincial levies.

But Mr. Wintermeyer suggested the provincial government rebate its logging tax on condition it is reinvested.

"If we're not committed to a Socialist policy," he said, "then we must create the best economic climate in which an industry can operate."

START SAFETY SURVEY

Mr. Mapledoram announced his department has started a study to determine whether training in woods travel and gun handling can be made available.

Mr. Mapledoram also had good news for hunters. He said more young deer were born last year than at any time in the last 10 years and most were expected to survive the winter.

The moose situation was "better than ever in the western part of the province," while caribou herds in the Patricia area in north-western Ontario had "improved greatly, due in part to the very fine co-operation of the Indians."

Mrs. Lucy B. Church, 40 Earl Street, Toronto, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burley of Wellington, was recently retired following 40 years with the CNR Telegraphs, Head Office, Toronto. Mrs. Church was honored at a testimonial dinner where she was presented with a diamond studded wrist watch by staff members and officials. From left to right, E. H. TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Hawthorn Publishing Company said Thursday night the company has made an offer totalling $25,555,021 for purchase of the Toronto Star Publishing Company and the Star Realty Company.

Hawthorn Publishing Company was incorporated by the trustees of the Joseph E. Atkinson estate and a grandson of the late Mr. Atkinson, publisher of the paper.

Application was made Monday to the Supreme Court of Ontario for approval of the sale of the Toronto Star and the Star Weekly to the newly-incorporated company. The application is to be heard in Toronto Monday.

Material submitted to the court along with the application set out these figures For the daily and weekly newspapers $15,450,465; Star Realty Company $4,104,556, and past service pension liability and termination liability under existing contracts $6,000,000.

At least six previous offers to buy The Star are known to have been turned down by the trustees, including one by Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor. Published reports then said the offers had ranged up to $23,000,000.

HISTORIANS

"Let the king continue to stand close to George Washington so that American visitors may gaze with respect on that Stuart sovereign who, when Duke of York, gave his name to their most famous city."

Painter Thomas Bodkin, former director of the National Art Gallery of Ireland, pointed out that 17th - century sculptor Grinling Gibbons designed the James statue as half of a pair, the other half being his brother, King Charles II.

BRING CHARLES IN

Instead of moving James, Bodkin co te ded, the ministry should bring Charles in from his present site in front of the Royal Chelsea Hospital and set him up in front of the National Gallery, too.

What may have been the next-to-last-word came from historian George Macaulay Travelyan, who wanted James left with Washington for this reason:

"It seems to me peculiarly suitable to have the statue of the man whom we got rid of on one side and the man who got rid of us on the other."

FORMER GOVERNOR DIES

ST. ANTHONY, Idaho (AP)—Idaho's 13th governor, 92, Charles Calvin Moore, died Thursday night. He served two terms as Idaho governor, from 1922 to 1926, and had long been active in Republican party affairs. He was known as one of the founders of the city of Ashton, Idaho.

Plan to Freeze Level of Farm Price Supports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders pushed today for fast agreement between the Senate and House of Representatives to speed to President Eisenhower a one-year freeze of United States farm price supports.

The House passed the price freeze bill, 210 to 172, Thursday in the face of a presidential veto threat.

Neither the House vote nor a 50-to-43 vote by which the Senate passed a similar bill last week equalled the two-thirds majority necessary to override a veto by the president.

The bill would cancel impending reductions in price supports for 1958 at a saving to the farm economy claimed by Democrats to amount to more than $500,000,000.

Within minutes after House Democrats and dissatisfied farm-state Republicans voted passage of the freeze measure, Senate Democrats indicated they were willing to accept the House version and send the bill immediately to the White House.

FARM SURPLUS BILL

The Senate meantime passed a bill to extend for two years beyond June 30 the government's authority to dispose of farm surplus commodities abroad in exchange for foreign currencies, or as gifts in case of disaster.

Passage came on a voice vote after the Senate rejected an effort by Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.) to force Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson to use barter deals for at least $500,000,000 worth of surpluses each year. Permissive authority for barter remains.

The Senate bill authorizes disposal of an added $3,500,000,000 of farm commodities during the extension period. The administration had asked a one-year extension and authority for disposal of $1,500,000,000 of commodities.

Joint Committee To Market Oil, Metals Urged

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Lester B. Pearson has ended his Algoma East campaigning with a proposal to overcome United States restrictions on Canadian metals and oil.

In the basement of a local parish hall before some 150 persons, the Liberal leader Thursday night outlined his plan to seek a joint Canada-U.S. committee to co-ordinate production and marketing of strategic metals and minerals between the two countries so there would be no sudden disruptions in the Canadian exports of these vital items.

"Our copper and nickel and zinc are very much in demand at some periods and expansion takes place to meet that demand," he said. "Then the tap is turned off in Washington and we suffer here. Men are laid off. We don't know where we stand.

"An inter-governmental agreement of the kind I have mentioned operating through a joint committee of the two governments would be a positive and constructive action to correct this situation.

WOULD TAKE IT UP

"I would take this matter up with Washington as one of the first moves of a Liberal government."

It was a day of tortuous driving over 150 miles of winding dirt roads and a smooth 20-minute air trip aboard a ski-equipped Norseman as Mr. Pearson wound up stumping of his bushland constituency.

The auto drive, he said, was the second most distressing he had ever experienced. The most distressing was one in 1955 from Nikita Khrushchev's Yalta summer home to a Russian airport.

Mr. Pearson spent most of the day on Manitoulin Island in Georgian Bay addressing a luncheon for 70 party workers at Little Current, a community of 1,700 and then a mid-afternoon public rally at Gore Bay, about 50 miles away, where more than half the 1,700 population turned out. Children were given a half-day school holiday to hear the Liberal leader and join in a ham and turkey snack.

From Gore Bay, Mr. Pearson flew in the co-pilot's seat aboard a Norseman aircraft to this uranium community of 3,300.

JOINS HIS BAND

Here at Blind River Mrs. Pearson joined her husband after spending the day at two tea receptions and completing a radio interview.

Mr. Pearson, in his evening rally noted that Prime Minister Diefenbaker was speaking at Sudbury about 100 miles eastward.

"We are very close tonight for the first time in the campaign. He may have a bigger audience but not a friendlier one."

Then he challenged a statement by Mr Diefenbaker that Canada is not in the midst of a trade recession How would he explain that, Mr. Pearson said, to the 1,000 Sudbury nickel workers recently laid off. At the lowest count, Canada had 555,000 unemployed last month. How many had to become jobless before Mr. Diefenbaker would agree that Canada is in trouble?

NO CONVERTIBLES

NEW YORK (AP) — Winter's final storm Thursday forced a ban on convertibles driving over the George Washington Bridge. Ice forming in the upper reaches of the structure fell and threatened to pierce convertible roofs and injure motorists.

Bank Accused Of Deliberately Curtailing Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Social Credit Leader Solon Low accused the Bank of Canada Thursday night of deliberately bringing on unemployment to "readjust the economy."

In an election speech he said the Conservative government called the March 31 election because it was unable to solve the "paradox" of mounting unemployment and the rising cost of living.

His speech contained critical references to what he called the "cult of Diefenbaker."

Discussing unemployment, he said:

"In spite of the fact that they deliberately imposed unemployment on the country—I say they. Who? The masters of the monetary machine, the Bank of Canada who imposed tight money on this country for the purpose of readjusting the economy—unemployment grew.

"It developed so rapidly the government saw what it was and didn't have the answer. . . .

"So they said, let's chuck it up and go to the country."

Diefenbaker Invades Liberal, CCF Strongholds

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SUDBURY (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker, fortified by a rousing visit to Toronto, carried his campaign Thursday into "foreign" territory—the Liberal and CCF strongholds of Northern Ontario.

The prime minister's party travelled from Toronto to Sudbury overnight Wednesday. He then flew to Kapuskasing for a speech and stopped off on the way back to speak over a hastily-rigged loudspeaker at Timmins. His major address of the day was to 4,000 persons in the Sudbury arena.

The Liberals, Mr. Diefenbaker told the Sudbury crowd, want Canadians "to don sackcloth and ashes because there was a change of government last June."

He accused the former government of doing nothing about unemployment when it began rising a year ago. When the talk was of a re-elected Progressive Conservative government, the Liberals became "prophets of gloom and apostles of doom." Yet 1957 saw the gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced—rise by three per cent.

"WHEN DID THEY?"

"I read that all you have to do is put back in power those who were there," the prime minister said. ". . . When did they first find out the answer to this problem?"

The nation's tax burden a year ago was of record proportions.

"We asked the Liberal government to cut taxes. They said it couldn't be done. They say now that it can. Why didn't they do so then?"

He spoke at a rally for Conservative candidates in the ridings of Sudbury, Nickel Belt, Algoma East—Liberal Leader Lester Pearson's home ground—and Nipissing. The other three also returned Liberals last June.

At Timmins, Mr. Diefenbaker spoke at the airport to 125 constituents of CCF member Murdo Martin, claiming that a trend back to the two-party system is costing the Socialists support. He said the latest Gallup Poll of Public Opinion showed CCF backing had slipped to seven per cent compared with the 11.5 per cent at last year's vote.

At Kapuskasing, the prime minister sat down to a civic luncheon in a riding — Cochrane — that has returned Liberals ever since it was established in 1933.

He told a bilingual group of 500 that support for the Conservatives in Quebec is growing.

"The change is as remarkable as it is phenomenal . . . for the first time since 1881 there is a majority in the province of Quebec that will be voting Conservative."

Federal Help To Education Said Essential

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF Leader M J. Coldwell said Thursday his party backs federal aid to education, because "only the federal government, through its ability to tax wealth on a nation - wide basis, can provide adequate financial aid to education."

"Federal grants to the provinces would not in any way interfere with provincial jurisdiction over education," he said in a radio broadcast recorded at his Ottawa home and transmitted later. "Federal grants would be made for the sole purpose of equalizing educational opportunities in Canada, and would not involve any federal control of the administration or the curriculum of education within the provinces receiving such grants."

Results of a chest x-ray undergone by Mr. Coldwell Thursday will be known this afternoon.

The 69-year-old CCF leader said he is feeling fine. He has been suffering from an acute cold.

The text of his free-time political broadfast over the CBC's Dominion network was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Centre St. WA held a successful Shamrock Tea, home baking and candy sale at Centre St. United Church, Hillcrest.

The tea was convened by Mrs. Fanny Stapley and Mrs. Grace Wood, who also acted as treasurer.

Rev. W. E. G. Dovey welcomed the guests and opened the tea, while the president, Mrs. Lula Longhurst, and Mrs. Dovey, graciously received the guests.

The tea table was attractive with its beautiful lace tablecloth, with a green background. The centrepiece was a lovely harp with its green trimming, crossed clay pipes and Irish cobbler "praties", carrying out the St. Patrick's Day scheme. The silver candelabra with white and green candles added to the beauty of the table.

Each tea table had a shamrock centrepiece with a glass candleholder and green and white candles.

Those who presided at the silver tea service were Mrs. Elizabeth Empson, Mrs. Lucille Collins, Mrs. Keitha Fergusson, past president, and Mrs. Madge Vanderwater, vice president.

Those replenishing the plates and the kitchen committee were: Mesdames Fanny Stapley, Nellie Reddick, Laura Markle, Gladys McLeod, Dorothy Schamerhorn, Verna Morris, Roberta Newman, Lillian Lickfold, Patricia Schamerhorn, Dorothy Hudgins and Milly Belch.

Mrs. Gertrude Button made the tea.

Servers were: Mrs. Mary Lumley and Misses: Sylvia Pearson, Cynthia Prudden, Shirley Hudgins, Karen Palmer, Jean St. Denis, Joan Reddick, Mary Longhurst, Carol Cruickshank, Muriel Belch and Mary Simpson.

The home baking table was convened by Mrs. Keitha Fergusson and Mrs. Grace Draddy who did a thriving business selling the assorted cookies, light and chocolate cakes, taffy tarts, cup cakes, date and lemon squares, pumpkin, lemon, berry, mince and apple pies, homemade bread and pickles.

The candy table was presided over by Mrs. Annie St. Dennis whose tempting wares were readily disposed of.

Mrs. Walter Way and Mrs. Daniel Vanderwater did a thriving business with their parcel post packages.

Biggest Hit Of Season Is Mohair

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS (Reuters) — Airborne fabrics launch the new Paris silhouette on its flight towards spring

Even textiles appear bound for outer weave, with airy openweave and porous effects, in every type of silk and wollen fabric. The trend is light in feeling, underlying and emphasizing the loose fit of the chemise.

The biggest hit of the season is made in the fuzzy - wuzzy printed mohair coatings by the British firm of Ascher, featured in new tapestry and floral carpet patterns. Multi-colored effects are softly diffused under the long-haired, fluffy surface and these fabrics are outstandingly successful for spring in both the French and Italian collections.

Other versions are boucle and looped weaves repeating the "lighter - than - thistledown" finish.

Another fabric trend in Paris is the "haberdasher look." Every house uses a wide range of glens, prince de galles, and shadow plaids, or mannish shepherd's checks and pin stripes. These effects break away from classic suitings for tailored dresses and light worsted coats.

A real trademark of the haberdasher look is found in the black-and-white check coat dresses, touched with crisp, white trimmings like glazed cotton shirt collars and turned-back cuffs.

The majority of coats of Guy Laroche are adaptations of the masculine chesterfield in bold crow's foot checks combining two or three bright colors. Pierre Balmain takes tailored suiting stripes right into formal wear with narrow chalk lines printed on sheerest chiffon for simple shirt-waist afternoon dresses.

Tweed makes another headline in the daytime picture, worked in lacy and crochet effects at Dior, Balenciaga and Lanvin, or in rustic open-weave relief, and knitted types of butter-soft suitings.

Following the planetary course, certain textile prices in Paris also have reached the stars. Rising couture prices go hand in hand with the increasing cost of fabric production, and some French woollens are priced as high as $74 a yard this season. A further increase may soon make fur cheaper than fabric.

Working Wives Say Children Well Cared For

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's working wives go out to earn dollars to improve the family's lot. But their hearts stay at home.

"The overwhelming reason why married women—especially those with children — work outside the home is to raise the family standard of living," says a labor department report on working wives.

Results of 786 interviews conducted in eight cities by social work graduates also established that for the working married woman "her home and family are still her primary interest."

A resume of the report, published in the labor department's monthly Labor Gazette, indicated that career wives work to buy things for home and family that would otherwise be unattainable on the husband's income alone.

BIG PRODUCTION

The survey was launched in 1955 by the women's bureau of the department to find why married women work.

In 1956, one out of four, or about 1,341,000 women, were in the labor force—38 per cent of them working wives.

The cities surveyed were Halifax, Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Working mothers interviewed insisted their children were being well looked after while they worked. From the viewpoint of working wives, homes did not necessarily suffer from their absence.

The survey findings did not support any motion that the typical married working woman is a mother whose children are neglected.

Fathers, grandmothers, other relatives and neighbors helped look after youngsters. Organized facilities such as day nurseries and kindergartens did not appear to be widely used.

DIVIDED OPINION

While reactions to married women working were generally favorable, opinion was divided on working mothers.

"A widespread view among those who had no children themselves was that a mother's place is at home with her children," the report said.

Public acceptance of the working married woman deepened on the country's economy—job competition in a less buoyant economy could very well produce opposition, the report said.

The survey found working wives younger and better educated than married women generally. Clerical and factory work and service industries attracted the highest proportions of the women.

Their work records were "remarkably stable." Nearly 60 per cent in the survey earned less than $2,000 in the year preceeding the survey. The bulk of the husbands rceived between $3,000 and $3,999. Husband and wife together brought in at least $4,000 in half the families surveyed.

Immigrant women, with a language barrier, appeared to work longer hours for less pay and generally were older, the survey found.

CHATTERTON W.I.

The March meeting of Chatterton W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Berson Mitts. Mrs. Harold Bloor, the president, presided. The meeting opened with the Ode and Mary Stewart Collect.

Mrs. Bleecker gave a financial statement and the ladies were most pleased with the result of their efforts at the sales barn. The articles for the layette were turned over to Mrs. Mitts.

Mrs. Mitts, Mrs. Harry Reid and Mrs. Gardner were appointed to act as nominating committee.

Mrs. Harry Reid read a paper on citizenship prepared by Mrs. Leonard Prest, in which she outlined the duties and privileges of a Canadian. A 15-minute discussion followed in which members were urged to exercise their franchise. Mrs. Tuinman, a new Canadian from the Netherlands, asked the members the questions she will have to answer when she applies for citizenship. The meeting closed with the "Queen" and a delightful lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Roswell Reid.

Tweed Home, School Holds Open House

The Tweed Home and School Association held an "open house" prior to the regular March meeting, held Wednesday evening at Consolidated School.

Teachers were on hand to welcome the parents and talk to them about any problems pertaining to their children and studies.

Over 100 parents attended this meeting.

The children's work was on display in the classrooms for the parents and visitors to admire.

The regular business meeting followed, during which Mrs. Norman Barker was chosen as a delegate to the Hamilton Home and School conference to be held April 7 and 8. It was also decided teas would be held every month at the regular meetings, and in the autumn a tea would be held for the mothers of grade one pupils and any new-comers to the area.

Mrs. Allen Birney's room won the attendance prize for the evening with a total of 38 points.

Principal S. Howard Connor heartily welcomed the parents and guests, and stated that without the co-operation of teachers and parents the Home and School Association would not run as smoothly as it does. He added this joint effort greatly lessened his own responsibility.

Rev. L. E. Hawkes, rector of St. James Anglican Church, gave an address on the problems of schools and the rearing of children. Mr. Hawkes was welcomed and introduced by past - chairman Burton Vance.

Parents and teachers were entertained by the grade 8 choir who sang four lovely numbers.

One of the highlights of the evening was a fashion hat show, presented by Mrs. Andy Anderson. All the hats were original creations, cleverly made from household articles.

Models were: Mrs. Andy Anderson, Mrs. Janet Whitfield, Mrs. Russell Sexsmith, Mrs. Grace Walter, and Mrs. Fleguel.

Social convener, Mrs. Gordon Nelson, assisted by Mrs. Ken Fisher, supervised the serving of refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Women Lose Battle in Indian House

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The battle of the sexes has had a round in the upper house of India's Parliament. Woman lost.

Mrs. Savitri Nigam, member of the upper house and the ruling Congress party, introduced a bill providing a maximum of 15 years in prison and a fine of 10,000 rupees ($2,100) for any man guilty of molesting a woman.

The bill defined molesting as "indecent behavior, insult, assault, kidnapping, abduction, procuration and importation or wrongful confinement of a woman for an immoral purpose."

Mrs. Nigam emphasized the "indecent behavior and insult" part of the bill. There are too many young men loitering on streets and passing remarks as women pass by, she said, and unless this "Eve teasing" is stopped, India will become a land of hoodlums. Gentlemen will be found only in museums.

P. N. Sapru, ordinarily a staunch advocate of women's rights, drew male cheers and female blushes by declaring immoral behavior is "two-way traffic," that women can seduce men as well as the other way around. Present laws suffice, he said.

Mrs. Violet Alva, deputy minister of home affairs, joined the side of manhood, asserting it would be "monstrous to suggest 15 years imprisonment for a misbehaving male."

She warned that if the bill passed, "some of the honorable members (of the upper house) might find themselves in trouble."

There are 16 women among the 230 members of the upper house, but the bill won only one vote—from Mrs. Nigam.

Children Still Turn to Books In Their Quest for Knowledge

By CAROLYN WILLET
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — In this age of television and other educational influences, children still turn to the wonder of books in their quest for knowledge.

June Munro, a member of the Canadian Library Association staff, says the circulation of books from children's departments of public libraries is increasing.

Besides the "classics" of children's literature, today's young readers want books of facts to augment information gleaned from television and other contacts with the adult world, Miss Munro said in an interview.

BOOKS AT HOME

"It's important for children to have books in their home," says the native of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who studied library work at the University of Toronto and has worked as a children's librarian.

For children, there are books to borrow and books to buy.

"Today, with such a mass of books, the librarian plays an important part in selecting children's literature," she says.

Children's libraries, working closely with schools, hold class visits and story hours. The librarian's influence can go beyond her doors — parents perplexed about what books to buy for children can get sound advice from her.

START YOUNG

A child's interest in books often begins sooner than some parents realize.

Some book - wise parents have found that children as young as eight or nine months will select a picture book from an assortment of toys.

Library visitors also may include four - year - olds clutching library cards signed by their parents.

Home can provide an early "being-read-to" experience to introduce children to the sound of words before they learn to look at books and to read.

At the reading stage, it is not imperative that a child know all the words. Reading can be a reaching and imagination-stretching process.

Miss Munro says the best children's books are those well-written, not "written - down" for a child's benefit.

"A child can sense that someone is making it too easy."

Children's literature is part of all literature. Weighed in terms of value and significance, the child's book also must be creative, informative and imaginative.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

INTRODUCING HER FRIEND FROM NEXT TABLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Yesterday I gave a luncheon party for six women at a very fine restaurant here, very popular at luncheon time. At the next table was another dear friend of mine, who was also in a party of six, and whom I hadn't seen for several weeks, since she had been on a cruise. Her party finished earlier than we did, and she went out last in her group so she could come to say 'hello' to me.

(1) I rose, greeted her, and introduced her to the guests in my party. Was that right, or should I only have greeted her?

(2) I said her name first, and then, in order, said the name of each woman at our table. Like this: "Mrs. Harris (my friend from the other table) . . . Mrs. Thompson . . . Miss Hall . . . Mrs. Williams etc. Was this right, or should I have repeated her name before the name of each woman I was introducing? — M. S.

(1) Of course it was not at all necessary for you to introduce her to the women at your table, but it's proper, cordial, for you to make these introductions if you didn't interrupt the proceedings at your table for more than a minute or two.

(2) You did right in mentioning her name only once, at the beginning of the introductions.

SHE SHOULD EAT VEGETABLES WITH A FORK

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine (a co-worker) and I quite often lunch together in a nearby restaurant which specializes in serving a wonderful vegetable plate. I have noticed that she always eats all the vegetables, no matter how prepared (boiled or baked or creamed) with the fork. She says this is the correct way. But I maintain it's proper, more convenient, for me to use a spoon to eat, for example, creamed mushrooms or corn, or succotash or peas. Who's right about this? — Two friends

Your friend is right. You too will look "grown-up" if you use the fork when you eat the vegetables. Using your spoon to eat any of these vegetables is kindergarten-procedure.

BEST MAN AND USHERS NOT IN RECEIVING-LINE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We're planning the receiving-line of our wedding reception. Is it true, as my fiance and I have been told, that his best man and ushers do not stand in the receiving-line? — S. Y.

Yes, this is true. The best man and ushers do not stand in the receiving-line. The best man stands conveniently nearby so that he can be signalled to by the groom if there are any duties he wishes done. And the ushers mingle with the guests as co-hosts, seeing that guests find convenient places in the line, and in general seeing that "all is well" with all the guests.

FORMAL NAME IN RETURN ADDRESS ON ENVELOPE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How should one write one's name in the return address on an envelope? That is: Joan Brown or Miss Joan Brown; Mary B. Jones or Mrs. John Jones? — Reader

Since the name written in the return address on an envelope is for information (not a signature), the formal name with title should be used: Miss Joan Brown; Mrs. John Jones.

Women's Activities

W. I.

TWEED — The regular meeting of the Chapman's Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Mitchell Rannie, on Tuesday. There were 20 members and one visitor and two children present.

Achievement Day will be held Saturday, March 22, in Madoc, for the Girls' Club, and there will be 20 girls and three leaders from this district attending. The leaders are Mrs. Doris Lawrenson, Mrs. Bernice Booth and Mrs. Isobel Martin.

A letter of thanks from Mrs. Harry Foster was read, for the congratulations extended to her from the club on her recent birthday. The head office sent word that the address has been changed and is now 20 Spadina Road, Toronto 4, Ontario. This is the new office of the Toronto Provincial Board Women's Institute.

A donation of $10.00 for the Ceylon Flood Relief was moved and carried to be taken from the funds for this welfare work.

The conference in Guelph will be held May 7-8-9, and Mrs. Stanley Webb was appointed a delegate for this conference.

Mrs. D. Kleinsteuber sent a message to the president thanking the club for the cards and "get well" wishes of the members while she was hospitalized in Belleville recently.

Mrs. Stanley Bateman read an interesting article, "The 50th Anniversary at Wellington," the first branch of the Institute, in Prince Edward County which was organized on January 20, 1908.

The nominating committee was appointed and consists of Mrs. William Keilty and Mrs. Sam Dafoe, who will be bringing in the new slate of officers in April.

Mrs. Rannie, leader for the day, read a paper on Public Relations which was prepared by Harry Foster. It was most interesting and educational.

Mrs. Howard Countryman gave a detailed account of her vocation as an artist. She demonstrated her remarks with her own work and explained how colors were mixed.

One of Mrs. Countryman's handicraft pictures was chosen to be included in this year's display by East-Central Ontario Travelling Art Display. The display will open in [illegible]ville on Friday, March 21. Two other Tweed artists who also had their work chosen are Mrs. Devolin and Mr. Edward Ward.

Five lamp shades made by the members, following classes given in Tweed under the supervision of Mrs. William Keilty and Mrs. H. Countryman, were on display.

A humorous reading, which was much enjoyed, entitled "Down on the Farm," was given by Mrs. Rannie, Jr.

The new president is Mrs. Stanley Bateman, the secretary, Mrs. William Woods, and the standing convener of public relations, Mrs. Doris Lawrenson.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Freda F. — I am in love with an older man.

Mr. L. F. — They look ridiculous together.

• • •

Freda F. — I am a young woman of 24. I have always been fairly popular and have had several offers of marriage. Some of them have been from quite nice men, but I never felt seriously drawn to any of them.

Not long ago I met a widower of 40. He has two children of 13 and 15. I met him in connection with business and he didn't think of asking me out until I made a pretext to have dinner with him. We discovered that in spite of the difference in our ages, we have a world of things in common.

He wants to marry me, but is worried about the difference in our ages. I feel now that I can never love anyone else, but my parents are making the most tremendous uproar and have even made threats against this man.

• • •

Mr. L. F. — What right has a man of that age with two nearly grown children to make advances to a girl who looks closer to 16 than her real age?

Our daughter is still a youngster. She knows nothing about life. Surely, she'll want a family. This man looks as though he just wants to be free to enjoy himself. They look ridiculous together.

My wife and I have been in a state of near collapse over this. Freda has had so many good opportunities for marriage. Why should she choose a man who looks old enough to be her father? I would be ashamed to say he is my son-in-law.

We have refused to let this man enter our home again and Freda meets him outside. What kind of man would put up with that?

• • •

The Council: The hysteria of these parents is driving Freda straight into the arms of the man they oppose. What alternative has she when the person she believes she loves is excluded from her home?

This same hysteria also prevents both Freda and her parents from seeing some of the very real problems involved in this relationship.

Mr. L. F. speaks much of how things "look." Freda "looks" 16, the man "looks" as though he doesn't want a family, they "look" ridiculous together. But what about the way things really are? Mr. L. F. has not given himself a chance to ask any of the real questions.

Does this man, after all, want a new family? What about the care of his two adolescent children? Will Freda be expected to be a mother to them? If so, does she realize the burden and responsibility she is taking on? Does Freda fully realize that she would be marrying a man who is approaching middle age and does she understand the full implications of this fact?

The full answers to these questions may help Freda to see the problem in a different light. But the questions may very well go unanswered if the parents prefer to remain in a state of near collapse.

Mr. and Mrs. L. F. should recognize that, despite her appearance, their daughter is not 16. Their tendency to treat her as if she were a teenager could, however, be a factor in pushing her toward an older man, who makes her feel more grown up, while at the same time serving as a substitute parent.

PARENTS WIN

CALGARY (CP) — Moms and dads won handily in a competition against teen-age students at a junior high school here. The parents won by 70 to 40 points, shining in spelling, art, music, economics and shopwork, but losing to the students in the quizzes on world affairs and books.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I very much enjoy your column in our daily paper, and have found several recipes that I have wanted for a long time by just watching the column. One for Rock Candy, was in around Christmas. I can remember having this when very young, and have tried many recipes, but did not have the success I wanted, but this one is just the very one I have longed to taste again. A few weeks ago you had in some information for catering, and told how many cans of salmon needed to make sandwiches etc. for 100. I cut this piece out of the paper, and am going to make use of it this week, as I am convener of a church group, and we are catering to a social affair for 150. What I am looking for now is some help in amounts of foods to purchase for a cold plate to be served as a wedding lunch for 100 to 150. It will consist of cold meat, pork or chicken, and salads etc. Any pamphlets that you can send to help in catering to groups would be very appreciated . . . Mrs. J. B.

ANSWER:

To serve 100 people Beef, Veal or Lamb, buy 66 pounds, raw weight, lean, no bone. Chicken (for salad or creamed), 10 birds weighing an average of 5½ pounds each. Roasted 16 to 20 birds weighing 5 pounds each. Ham: 4 hams 12 to 14 pounds each. Turkey: Four 25-27 pound birds. Salads: 10 to 12 quarts allow generous servings to 100 people. I am sending to you some former releases that will help you with quantity cooking.

QUESTION:

I got your recipe for Pineapple Loaf . . . I tried it and although the boys thought it was good it isn't the one I had my eye on. You asked for the approximate date of its appearance. I believe it appeared in the paper before Christmas 1957. It had walnuts and raisins, and didn't include buttermilk or sour milk if I remember . . . Mrs. A. S.

ANSWER:

Could this be the one?

PINEAPPLE NUT BREAD:

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup sugar, ¾ cup chopped nuts, 1 cup drained chopped canned pineapple slices (or raisins or chopped dates), 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1 egg, well beaten, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons melted butter. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add sugar, nuts, pineapple and orange rind. Mix well. To beaten egg add milk and melted butter. Add to flour mixture. Mix just until blended. Turn into greased loaf tin, 8" x 5" x 3", and let stand for 20 minutes. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 55 to 60 minutes.

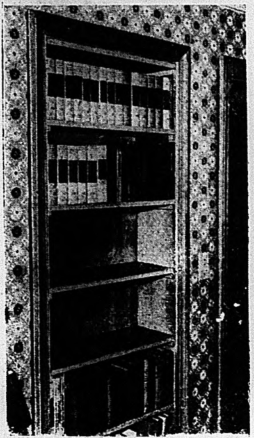
Don't Wall Up That Extra Door; Use the Space for Bookshelves



These built-in bookshelves took the place of an extra doorway. Because the wall wasn't thick enough to provide the depth needed for books, the doorway framing had to be replaced.

If you're remodeling, or planning to remodel, you may wind up with one doorway too many. But don't wall it up without asking yourself, first, if it would be a good place for built-in bookshelves. If the answer is yes, the problem of what to do with the doorway can be solved with a minimum of effort and expense.

First the door trim is pried off, intact, and set aside. Then the frame is pried out. A new frame, made of white pine, 1 by 12 inches, is set in its place so that the "inside" edges are flush with the wall.

CONCEALED BY FALSE WALL

This will leave the new frame protruding beyond the wall on the other side, but the projection is concealed by a false wall of half-inch plywood. The false wall also will provide a back for the booksheves.

Such false walls rob adjoining rooms of only a small amount of space — usually not enough to matter. With the new framing and the backing in place, and the trim restored, all that remains is to build the shelves. The shelves also are made of white pine, 1 by 12 inches. The shelf supports are made of wood trim, known to builders as "parting stop."

A RESERVE SHELF

A few tips:

Before you put the shelves in place, measure the books you're going to put on them to make sure the tallest will fit. Then figure out how many shelves you can get into the opening. Don't forget to take into account the thickness of the wood.

If you have any space left over — and you probably will — use it on the bottom or the next-to-the-bottom shelf. This shelf can be resevred for extra-tall books.

SPREAD OUT THF CARPET

Carpets are important in sound-proofing a house as well as for improving appearances. Carpets not only deaden the footfall but also kill echoes in rooms.

Simple Tools Can Increase Closet Space

By JAMES E. WALTERS

It's possible to almost double the usable space in a linen closet with a minimum of effort and cost and the simplest tools.

What this does to relieve the clutter of towels, wash cloths, sheets and similar items is amazing.

The average linen closet has three or four shelves. They may be about 36 inches long and 18 inches deep . . . or perhaps 18 inches long and 36 inches deep . . . with about 24 inches between each shelf.

There are several ways to go about adding to the shelf space:

You can place an "extra" shelf between each of the present ones.

Or, you can turn much of the present stationary shelves into sliding ones so that nearly every bit of them can be used easily. A combination of these probably is best.

Also, consult the lady of the house. Nine chances out of 10— whether you're a beginning do-it-yourselfer or an "old pro" — it will come as a surprise to find that she's been reconciled for years to having a jumbled mass of linen in the linen closet.

THE STACKING PROBLEM

The reason is simple. Towels and wash cloths are changed frequently in the bathroom, so they're stacked to the front. But there are two types of towels and wash cloths — "family" and "company" — and the company kind, because they're not used as much, go to the back of the shelf. Sheets, tablecloths and other linens aren't changed as often as towels, further complicating the stacking problem.

So, when the wife wants, say, a "company tablecloth," it's usually at the back of the shelf under a pile of towels. She will have some very definite ideas on how she'd like to stack linens for the most convenience.

The easiest job is to install a shelf between each of the present ones. First, lift out one of the present shelves. It will be suspended from two strips of wood nailed (or perhaps screwed) into the side of the closet. You will need two similar strips for each additional shelf (1-by-2-inch furring strips are excellent) nailed through the closet wall into the studding the same as the originals.

Lumber yards carry one-inch shelving in a variety of sizes. That six inches or 12 inches wide is the most common.

MEASURE OLD SHELF

So, if your closet is 18 inches deep, get one board six inches wide and another 12 inches. As for length, measure an old shelf. The lumber yard probably will cut it to the correct length with little or no charge.

Slip the shelving on top of the furring strips, and, presto, you have the shelf. (These widths, incidentally, are what's called nominal. A six-inch board will measure a little less. It won't be very noticeabe — assuming you don't have power tools to cut them to correct size — if the shelf sits in a little from the front.)

In Age of Synthetics, Wood Still in Demand for Homes

In an age of plastics, miracle fibres, and other synthetics, wood still is man's most "home-like" house building material, in the opinion of New York architect Norman Cherner.

"Wood is warm, alive, exciting," Cherner says "Nothing made by man can ever replace it"

Cherner, who designed the International Trade Fair House which attracted thousands of visitors in Vienna, Belgrade and other European cities, adds:

"I prefer an element of naturalness in my homes. I agree with Frank Lloyd Wright in that respect, at least. I like things organic, natural. That's why I stress wood siding and millwork in almost all my houses."

The architect also stresses wood windows with wood siding materials because "wood goes with wood. In fact, I like to go all out and use French doors in rows and big banks of windows, with plenty of wood parts for their special eye appeal."

ECONOMICAL MATERIAL

Polyethylene plastic film — the material that many fresh vegetables are wrapped in — is claimed to be the least expensive efficient moisture barrier on the market today. Enough polyethylene to seal the ground area in a crawl space under a house of 1,100 square feet would cost a little more than $15.

Bigger Medicine Chest Needed

The average bathroom medicine cabinet has shrunk considerably in size in the past 15 years. One survey found medicine cabinets of the early 1940s averaging 14 by 19 inches, 5 inches deep. Today they average 13 by 17 by 4 inches deep. Many new home owners complain about the lack of space and frequently have two medicine cabinets installed in each bathroom.

Put Your Needs First In Landscaping

OLD TREES, carefully preserved provide cool shade for the outside setting (above) which combines ease of upkeep with convenience.

Family Requirements Are Important Factors in Job

Landscaping is a custom job which takes into consideration the needs — and pocketbooks — [illegible]ch individual family.

Obviously a family with several growing children will find it impractical to specialize in a velvet-smooth, weed-free lawn. A hillside house will have problems never encountered with a house on level ground. This family of adults will go in for flower gardening; that family of adults, to whom grounds-keeping is a chore and not a hobby will want to keep outside work to a minimum.

START MODESTLY

Unfortunately, few men and women buying their first house really know just how much outside work they want. Much better to start modestly with a carefully prepared lawn, basic tree and shrub plantings and a minimum of flower and vegetable gardens. It is easy enough to add.

Ideally, a landscaping plan should be developed as careful-[illegible] as house-building plans. [illegible]e often, alas, landscaping in the broad sense turns out to be something added after the house is finished.

MAKE A PLAN ON PAPER

The first move of the home owner is to make a plan—on paper. Every family will have a different answer for each family has its own particular needs.

If there is need for privacy, there should be a screen. This can be a closely-woven fence, a hedge of evergreens or a long planting of shrubs.

If the family enjoys outdoor living in season, provisions should be made for a sunny patio, a shady spot out of summer heat, and an outdoor grill for family fun.

Gardeners will want to mark out their future flower beds, [illegible]ing into consideration the amount of sun which will reach it in growing season.

Everybody with grounds has to consider grass. And, no matter what you've been told, grass is a plant which apreciates good soil, adequate drainage and food as much as a prize dahlia. A thin covering of top soil over a heavy clay soil, rocks and building debris will never support a healthy lawn. It is real economy to spend time and money in the first instance to provide a proper growing medium.

If the job is too much for the home handyman, get help. Also read books on the subject. Have your soil tested. And make certain that there is grading and drainage.

After that, planting may come. The average family will find trees and shrubs costly. It is a better investment to spread out the purchases over a period of time than to try to do the whole job at once. This is not only easier on the budget, but ideas and tastes change from year to year.

Two warnings:

Everybody knows that little trees grow into big trees and that little shrubs grow into big shrubs. For some reason few gardeners can't seem to realize this when they are busily digging holes. The result is that in a few years the material becomes crowded and tangled and the gardener must start pulling out what he put in at so much expense.

Trees, shrubs and flower beds placed in the middle of grass areas are areas which must be moved around, and usually have their edges trimmed. When planting a yard, think of your job as the man behind the mower and make the grass areas as clean and uncluttered as possible. Besides, single specimen plantings are currently unpopular.

Why Make Own Wood Fillers?

Modern wood fillers and filler-sealers are so easy to prepare and use that it is no longer worth while to roll your own out of sanding dust and varnish. The old-fashioned practice might not often work out satisfactorily with the wide variety of modern varnishes containing synthetic resins.

Paint Job May Show Lunch Hour

In painting a clapboard house, it is best to paint in horizontal strips about three feet wide. Don't stop in the middle of a strip for any sizeable amount of time. Your lunch hour may show up in the finished job. The best place to stop is at the end of a strip, or at a window or door.

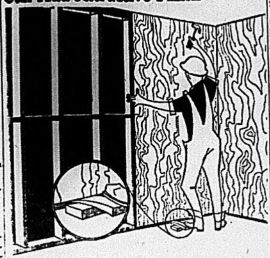
Plumbers Get College Degrees

Plumbers usually go through long training as apprentices, journeymen and finally master plumbers. But college degrees are now given in plumbing science. The National Assn. of Plumbing Contractors says such degrees are now awarded by the State University of Iowa and by Los Angeles City College.

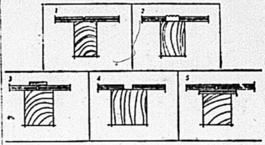
HIGH COST OF BATHS

It takes more labor to put together the walls and plumbing of one small bathroom than it takes to frame a three-bedroom house, says House & Home, professional magazine of the home building industry. The average bathroom costs at least five times as much per square foot, as any other room except the kitchen, which builders list as No. 2 in cost per square foot.

Panelled Room Joint Details Can Add Attractive Finish



FOOT LEVER can be most effective in getting fir plywood panels snug against ceiling when paneling a basement or attic room.



In any room built for rough wear, a rumpus room in the basement or children's room in the attic, fir plywood wall panels give good service.

Not only that but you can install panels yourself and finish the joints in many attractive ways.

When paneling the room it is best to finish the ceiling first. Wall panels can then be butted snug against the ceiling panels for a tight joint detail that will probably need no corner moulding.

USE FOOT LEVER

A handy method of obtaining snug fitting wall panels is illustrated here. One man can do it using a foot lever. If floor to ceiling distance is approximately 8 feet, a wedge-shaped lever may be needed so that the thin edge can be slippd under the bottom edge of the panel.

With the wall studs on 16-inch or 24-inch centres, the 4x8 foot fir plywood panels will meet on the studs for convenient nailing. A moulding can be applied over the joint at the floor.

FIVE METHODS

In the accompanying illustration, five methods of joining fir plywood wall panels are shown. In general it's good practice to show and even emphasize panel joints rather than attempting to hide them.

No. 1 — Very effective and simple to make is the V joint. Panels butt on stud. V is made with plane or by sanding edges.

No. 2 - Small strip of beading is placed between edges of panels. This can be used to form a very attractive joint pattern.

No. 3 — The easiest of all joints is the batten applied over the butting panel edges. Battens can be effective, giving strong vertical lines to a room.

No. 4 — This open joint creates a very pleasing and unusual effect. If the stud behind the opening is painted a strong contrasting color, the effect is heightened.

No. 5 — Strapping is often used behind butt joints. Although not necessary, strapping may be used behind all five joints.

Wash Stand Back in Bedroom

An old-fashioned convenience —a wash basin in a bedroom — is back again in many new homes. It is now called a vanity lavatory, or vanitory. Sparked by the popularity of countertops around kitchen sinks, the lavatory built into a dressing table relieves pressure on high-cost bathrooms. Fine for bathing a baby, too.

PAINT BRUSH POINTER

A wide paint brush should never be used edgewise. Such abuse will cause "fingering," or clumping of the bristles. If you need the edge of a brush in a corner, remove the fingering quickly by giving the brush several strokes broadside.

Natural Wood In Decoration

If you want to know what kind of wood to use for certain interior decorating effects here's how the National Lumber Manufacturers' Assn. classifies natural color tones: Light to medium colors include ponderosa pine, southern pine, Douglas fir, Idaho pine, sugar pine, Englemann spruce, west coast hemlock, Sitka spruce, white ash, birch, black gum, hackelberry, hickory, pecan, magnolia, soft maple, hard maple, red oak, white oak and yellow poplar.

For wood running medium to dark in color use western red cedar, southern cypress, California redwood, larch, brown ash, butternut, cherry, chestnut, red gum, American walnut and mahogany.

How to Paint Cinder Blocks

Cinder blocks are so porous that it is better to give them a coat of cement, stucco or portland cement paint before painting them with a permanent finish. If you paint cinder blocks without cementing the surface, they will absorb a lot of paint and holes will still show. Outdoor type, rubber-based masonry paint is best for the outer surfaces.

A CHEERFUL TONE

Door chimes give any house an up-to-date ring. You can install them in place of an ordinary doorbell merely with a screwdriver.

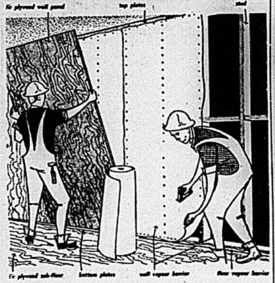
Vapor Barrier Over Framing Prevents Condensation on Wall



There are many attractive ways of dressing up the inside walls of your home using fir plywood.

Probably the basic reason so many do-it-yourselfers turn to plywood is because the large four by eight foot sheets can be secured in place using only a hammer and nails. There is no fuss or bother with plaster or other materials which require the services of skilled workmen.

There is one problem, however, which the wise home carpenter must take into consideration — that of condensation. This is a problem no matter what type of wall finish is used.

When applying paneling (or any other material, for that matter) to the inside or "warm" side of an outside wall, an effective vapor seal must be first attached to the framing.

Purpose of this seal is to prevent moisture condensation within the wall which may cause rot in the insulation or structure. Condensation occurs in winter when warm, moist interior air moves through the wall and condenses on the inside of the cold exterior surface of the wall.

Vapor barriers stop warm air containing moisture from reaching the cold outside wall. Most common form of barrier is a variety of paper which can be obtained in rolls from your building supply dealer.

With the barrier paper tacked to the studs on the inside of the wall, it's an easy matter to get on with the job of nailing on the fir plywood panels.

If it is desired to stain the walls or finish them clear or "natural", use finishing nails to secure the plywood panels to the studs. Set them slightly below the surface with nail punch, being careful not to damage the surface of the wood with the face of the hammer.

Then proceed to finish the panels in the desired manner, filling nail holes last with a mixture of putty tinted to match the final finish.

Sturdy Roof of Insurance Over Your House Can Avoid Trouble

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The proud owners of a slightly used house, our first realization that the place was really ours came when looking dreamily out the living room window, I saw the roofer going by — vertically.

Fortunately, we have a sturdy foundation planting: it is only a short drop from shingles to yews, and the roofer survived with nothing more than severe embarrassment and a slight scratch.

The episode, however, sent me flying to the little tin box in which were nestled the brand new mortgage, a much-fingered roll of blue prints, a certificate for 200 shares in a defunct Canadian gold mine and the insurance policy.

Beset by the confused condition which apparently afflicts every person in the process of acquiring his first house, I had taken a number of things for granted. One was insurance. I knew I had a policy and I assumed I was covered for everything from civil insurrection to carpenter ants.

Upon reading the policy, however, I discovered that actually we were merely covered against fire.

REVISED SHARPLY UPWARD

I was, it turned out, completely on my own if the cleaning woman took a header down the cellar, if the milkman tripped over the hose or if a burgler made off with the brass unbrella stand and the circa 1947 silver plate.

The following day we had a heart-to-heart talk with our insurance broker, establishing what was then a sturdy roof of insuranct over our dwelling house as the insurance folks call it.

That was 10 years ago, remember, and strange things have happened to prices through the intervening years. A few months ago, goaded again into policy-reading after a friend's house had been burglarized, I realized that our insurance coverage was inadequate to match today's costs and today's jury awards.

Our policies have been revised sharply upwards. We are pretty well protected against almost any disaster except flood.

Adequate insurance gives you peace of mind. Ours costs less than $8 a month, which is little enough when you consider the thousands most of us have invested in our homes.

Only recently we decided to do what the insurance people are always urging and what most of us almost never get around to: taking inventory.

It's easy enough to evaluate such items as a refrigerator, a television set or a fur piece from purchase slips or check books. Harder to translate into terms of dollars were such things as a mahogany table belonging to a great grand-mother which just cost $35 to repair and refinish: nine serving plates from the set Great-Aunt Jennie brought back from the Paris Exposition of 1893; the horror of a rosewood chair with women carved on the arms and a broken spring.

This led us to poking around antique shops. The plates, it turned out, were Sevres, collector's items and worth so much money we've been afraid to use them since.

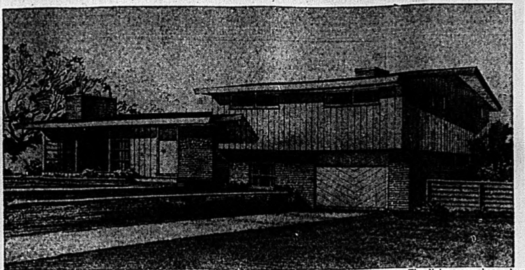
The rosewood chair, Victorian at its most vulgar, is considered "amusing" at the moment and thus worth more than the table (which would have been more valuable if we hadn't had it repaired).

The result of the inventory, incidentally was startling. Our odds and ends, once added up were worth almost three times what we thought they were.

More fascinating, you should see the attic and the cellar these days. You can actually walk around them. They aren't even fire-hazards any more.

How to Figure Flooring Needs

The number of feet of hardwood flooring needed for any room is figured by adding certain percentages to the floor area. For the standard 2 1-4-inch face width, add 33 1-3 per cent; for 1 1-2-inch add 50 per cent; for 2-inch, add 37 1-2 per cent. Then in all cases add 3 to 5 per cent for waste in cutting and fitting.



THE MAIN LEVEL and the basement of H-253-KF are finished in brick veneer. Vertical siding, used for the top level over the garage, is a white contrast. Bedroom windows are small and placed high to provide privacy. The living room has a huge corner picture window.

Multi-Level Model

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Here's a split-level home with modern charm. The roof is pitched — but just slightly — giving the house an almost flat-topped appearance.

Inside, areas are cleverly divided for working, living and sleeping.

L-SHAPED COMBINATION

On the main floor, a huge living room runs into a corner dining room. Together, they make a giant L that's spacious and comfortable. Front windows — a corner picture design —are in the living room. Back windows — a glass wall with a doorway to the terrace — are in the dining area. A fireplace is another high spot of the combination room.

The kitchen's at back, a step away from the dining room. It too, opens on the terrace, making it easy to serve meals outdoors in summer.

ENTRY HALL

A third door in the kitchen leads into the entry hall, at the back of which are two short flights, one up to the bedroom level, the other down to the basement.

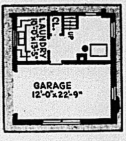
There are two good-sized bedrooms. Each is a corner room and has a generous closet. The third room on this floor is a study which could, of course, be used as a bedroom. The bath is convenient to all bedrooms and close to the stairway.

The basement level divides space between a garage, a heating room and a laundry.

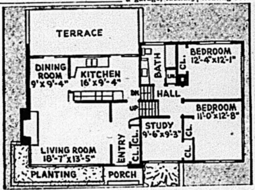
The house, H-253-KF, comprises 1,257 square feet; 18,187 cubic feet.

PAINTING RADIATORS

Cast iron radiators are much less conspicuous when painted the same color as the wall behind them. Regular wall paint also transmits more heat than gilt or aluminum paints. To figure the amount of surface to be painted, measure the front area and multiply by 7.



Four steps down from the main floor is the basement with a garage, laundry, heating room.



TWO BEDROOMS, a study and a bath occupy the top level. On the main floor, there's a kitchen, dining room and spacious living room.

Risky to Build Without Survey

More than once a house has been built on the wrong lot. Houses often are built closer to land boundaries than the law allows. Trouble results. An Atlanta, Ga., lawyer tells of a man who bought a lot on a curving streets where lots were 70 feet wide and 350 feet deep. After his house was finished, he found he had used the front corners of his own lot but the rear corners of the next door lot. He was forced to buy the adjoining land.

Mirrors Make Room Dividers

A bookcase, chest of drawers or other large piece of furniture often can serve as an attractive and useful room divider when a large mirror is fitted over the usually unsightly back of such furniture. The new type of plate glass, twin-ground on both surfaces at once, makes the use of large mirrors more practicable by eliminating distortions.

Death-Dealing Storm Leaves Thousands Without Power

NEW YORK (AP)—An eve-of-spring snowstorm whipped by gale-force winds has cut a devastating swath from Maryland to the New England states, dumping up to three feet of snow, leaving hundreds of thousands of homes without light and heat, and crippling all forms of transportation.

In some areas Thursday the havoc was termed worse than the hurricanes of recent years.

More than a score of deaths were attributed to the storm, which wheeled shoreward Wednesday from off the Carolina coast.

It was still snowing in many of the stricken areas today, but moderating weather was forecast in most sections by late tonight or Saturday.

In Maryland the wet, freezing fall snapped power lines feeding some 100,000 homes. Annapolis was without power for nine hours. A large frame house in Baltimore burned to the ground when firemen were unable to surmount the drifts. Pennsylvania Railroad service from Washington to New York was shut down for several hours. Nearly two feet of snow fell in the Baltimore area.

As spring officially came in at 10.06 p.m. EST Thursday night, some 300,000 persons in the Washington area were without electricity. Power firms said it might take another 24 hours before full service is restored.

The White House telephone system was partially knocked out for about an hour, and security police at the gates used walkie-talkies. An evergreen tree was felled on the White House lawn. Some 10,000 homes had no telephone service.

Thousands of Pennsylvania homes were lightless, heatless and phoneless. Roads were blocked, transportation was at a crawl, and many trees were broken or stripped of their branches.

The Pennsylvania Turnpike was closed for 111 miles from Harrisburg to the New Jersey state line.

Southern New Jersey was wracked by gale-force winds and up to 10 inches of wet, freezing, snow. Northern New Jersey had up to 17 inches. A state of emergency was declared in Camden County, and civil defence officials there ordered all schools closed because of the danger from live electrical wires pulled down by the snow.

Half a million homes and business establishments in the heavily populated area were without light and heat, and at Glassboro, N.J., some 5,000 persons were evacuated from their heatless homes to heated public schools.

Lord Rideau Looks for Job In Canada

LONDON (CP)—A young Englishman who once lived in Ottawa in vice-regal splendor is returning to Canada to look for a job.

Sailing for Canada today is 22-year-old Shane William Desmond Alexander—Lord Rideau. For six years, between 1946 and 1951 his home address was Rideau Hall, Ottawa, then the official residence of his father, Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis, former governor-general of Canada.

"I am going out to look for a job—any job anywhere in Canada," Lord Rideau said in an interview.

The trip marks the fulfilment of a boyhood vow made in 1950 by Shane and his younger brother Brian. The boys broke up a family discussion on the Alexanders' impending return to England by announcing they had decided they were going to become Canadian citizens.

"Ever since we left Canada in 1951, I've been determined to return," said Lord Rideau. "I like everything about Canada, the people, the country, the easy informality, the sense of newness and vigor and strength."

CLOSE WATCH

He admitted he had been keeping a close watch on newspapers reports about unemployment in Canada.

"I've decided to go anyway. I feel certain that nothing can stop Canada's development. I don't expect to find things very easy at the beginning, but I'm arriving just about the time things should be opening up again and I hope I'll be able to get my foot in somewhere before the winter.

"In any event, I've decided to give it a good try. I'm going to stay for at least a year no matter what happens."

Shane had his first look at Canada in 1946. He attended Ashbury College in Ottawa for a year, then entered his father's old English public school, Harrow. "But I made sure I got back to Ottawa during the Christmas and summer holidays every year."

In 1953, he accepted a five-year commission in the Irish Guards as a lieutenant. "I've enjoyed every minute of my time in the army, but I decided I'd better get out since my heart was set on Canada."

On arrival in Canada, he will spend a few days in the familiar surroundings of Rideau Hall as the guest of Governor - General Vincent Massey.

LIVE IN YMCA

Then he intends to go to Montreal—"I'll probably be living at the YMCA" —and start looking for a job.

His father, associated with Canada's aluminum industry, has given him the names of several business acquaintances in Canada. But the dark-haired, wiry young man indicated he doesn't intend to join his father's firm.

"Brian will be going into the aluminum business, but I'd like to get into the construction business. I'll really be starting from scratch because I've had no business experience."

Brian, 18, is studying French at Grenoble University near Paris. "He's just received his calling-up papers for the army so it will be another two years before he's free to get started on a career. He's also keen on Canada."

The decision of their eldest son to head for Canada comes as no surprise to the Alexanders. Canada is a favorite topic in the Alexander home at Cranbourne Grange, Windsor Forest, Berkshire. And there are always visiting Canadians dropping in.

Shane's sister, Lady Rose Crossman, completed two years of an arts course at McGill University. Shortly after her return to England in 1953, she remarked somewhat sadly that "all my friends are in Canada." She and her husband, an army captin, now live in England.

SUES NEWSPAPER TYCOON

LONDON (AP)—Milkman Joseph Riley won a £400 damage verdict Thursday for injuries suffered when he slipped on the highly-polished kitchen floor of Lord Rothermere, British newspaper tycoon.

CALLS WIFE "SERVANT"

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) A judge told a jury here today they must consider a wife "merely as a servant" when assessing damages to be awarded her husband as a result of her death in a road accident. He said "broken hearts, love, affection and grief have no part in this case." The jury awarded Joseph Sheerin, 41, and his four children the equivalent of $14,100 for the loss of his wife.

SETS AIR RECORD

LONDON (Reuters)—A Trans-World Airline plane has set a record by flying non-stop from London to San Francisco via the polar route in 19 hours five minutes, the airline's London office announced Thursday.

Lack of Oxygen Kills RCAF Man On T-33 Flight

OTTAWA (CP) — An air force flying officer died, apparently from lack of oxygen, Thursday night during a jet training flight while his companion pilot was busy flying the aircraft in the cockpit behind.

An RCAF spokesman said FO W G. Smith of air force headquarters apparently died from lack of oxygen while he and Flt. Lt L. F. McGuire, also from air force headquarters, were returning to the capital from a training flight to Chatham, N.B.

The air force spokesman said McGuire was flying the T-33 jet training plane from the rear cockpit at the time. They were at 32,000 feet, where the air is too thin to supply the oxygen necessary to keep a human being alive.

The two fliers had on their oxygen masks as part of the flying suit gear necessary for jet flight at hundreds of miles an hour in altitudes too rare for normal breathing.

NO INDICATION

There was no immediate indication from the RCAF as to what caused the lack of oxygen that cost the flier his life. Presumably an investigation would be held to determine the cause.

The only way two men in such an aircraft can talk to each other while wearing oxygen masks is through the microphones and earphones of the intercommunication system between the cockpits, set one behind the other.

At Sept-Iles McGuire said "I don't know exactly what did happen."

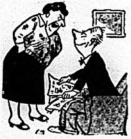
He said he had been talking with Smith over the intercom when Smith suddenly went silent and seemed to lose his breath.

"We had been flying at about 35,000 feet," McGuire said. "I went down right away to under 10,000 and went in to land at Seven Islands."

"It's hard to say how far we were from Seven Islands when it happened—checking back I'd say about 50 miles."

In Montreal an Air Defence Command spokesman said he had never heard of a similar case.

"Jest a Second"



"And take that attentive look off your face when I'm talking—it annoys me!"

'Wets' Win Vote

CARLETON PLACE, Ont. (CP) Residents of this Ottawa Valley town have voted to allow the sale of beer in licenced premises for the first time in 40 years.

Voters Wednesday approved by 1,497 to 977 the sale of beer in premises where women are admitted and by 1,477 to 980 the sale of beer in taverns for men only.

Metro Police To Be Increased To 2,500 Men

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police department is to be expanded by 200 men and 35 vehicles in a new crackdown on crime in the city, it was decided Thursday.

New strength of the department will be 2,500 men and 380 vehicles to cover the city and 12 suburbs.

A combined meeting of Metro executive committee and the board of police commissioners approved the expansion.

A plan to train dogs to aid police in tracking criminals and lost children was also disclosed. The city has never had trained police dogs.

No Opposition So Prince Edward House Adjourns

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Activity in the provincial legislatures Thursday showed signs of slowing down in the face of the forthcoming federal election, only 10 days away.

Premier Matheson had the Prince Edward Island legislature adjourned because he had no opposition. All four Progressive Conservative members were absent.

"If the Conservatives want to spend all their time on the federal election, we'll give them until Monday to rest up," the Liberal premier said.

Meanwhile, the British Columbia House prorogued an eight-week session, the second of the 25th legislature. A total of 73 Social Credit government bills were given royal assent. They dealt mainly with timber and mining and legislative rewrites of the province's school and municipal acts.

THE UNEXPECTED

But the session was notable more for unexpected, non-legislative happenings than for making or revising laws.

A highlight in the scrappy sitting was Feb. 3 when Mel Bryan, young Social Credit member for North Vancouver, crossed the floor of the House to sit as an Independent. He had criticized Attorney-General Robert Bonner and called on him to resign over handling of the Sommers bribery-cospiracy case.

In another incident Vancouver dairy farmers stormed the legislature Feb. 10 with a milk-price grievance and shouted outside the chamber for Premier Bennett who saw them next morning.

Smith Declares Canada's Voice In UN Strong

VICTORIA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Smith said Thursday night Canada's voice is strong in the United Nations whether the spokesman is Prime Minister Diefenbaker or Liberal Leader Pearson because this country is one of the few nations "with no axe to grind."

"There is no such thing as a single savior in the search for world peace," he told an election campaign audience.

Mr. Smith, who described himself as a "rambling and roaming Canadian" ad a "Johnny-come-lately" in the political field, said it was "faith ad belief" in Mr. Diefenbaker which led him to give up his post as president of the University of Toronto and enter politicis.

"In the seven months I was with the government I found my faith and confidence gloriously fulfilled," he said.

PREPARED FOR DEATH

LAFOLLETTE, Tenn. (AP)—Walter D. Goins, 62, arose at a church service Wednesday night and declared "Any time the Lord is ready for me, I am ready to go." Then he collapsed from a heart attack and died.

What is it?

We hear so much about Hi Fi these days. What is it? It means the almost perfect transmission or reproduction of sound by means of radio or record player.

Recorded Hi Fi sound, depends on a series of elements, the microphone, the process of cutting the "original master" through to the pressing of the record on pure vinyl—then the turntable, the pick-up arm and the electronic amplification right through to the speakers. HAIL, THE CHAMPIONS

Today the figurative pennant of its first senior hockey crown fluttered over the city.

Last night the McFarlands won the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" championship from the doughty Lumber Kings of Pembroke in a 2-1 overtime victory in the sixth game of the finals series.

Playing coach Ike Hildebrand and his gallant Macs won the title in their second year of participation in senior "A" hockey. Last year they were runners-up to the ultimate Allan Cup and world champions, the Whitby Dunlops.

The McFarlands won the title the hard way. There were no frills, frizzles or fol-de-rols and each of their eight victories in the semi-finals and finals were clean-cut and well-deserved.

Finishing in front of the league pack at the end of the regular 56-game schedule, the McFarlands met the Kingston CKLC's who finished in the cellar in the league standing, but who tossed a scare into the ultimate champions before a tough seven-game semi-finals series was over.

The Hildebranders were then ordered to play a seven-game finals series with the Lumber Kings who had eliminated the Cornwall Chevies in the other semi-finals bracket. To make things a bit tougher the OHA ordered the Macs and Kings to play their best-of-seven series on consecutive nights as a winner had to be declared by tonight.

Both teams made the tough long grind from Pembroke to Belleville and reverse three times. The Kings failed to win a game on Belleville ice, in fact they have not won or tied a game here in the two years senior "A" hockey has been in operation in Eastern Ontario.

The McFarlands were not pushed too hard in their three victories in Memorial Arena but found the Kings a lot tougher nuts to crack on their home ice. The first game away resulted in a 4-4 overtime tie; the Kings took the next one 4-2 and you know last night's score.

Last night's game was a thriller with the backs-to-the-wall Kings giving everything they had in a last-minute effort to pull the series out of the fire. The McFarlands, just as anxious to get the series completed, matched the Kings with everything they offered, outskated and outshot and outscored them to bring home the first group championship here in many, many years.

The Macs played brilliant hockey throughout. From Gordie Bell to Trainer Turk Barclay they battled hard and successfully to bring home the championship bacon and they are worthy champions in every respect. Playing coach Ike Hildebrand was the happiest man in Pembroke and points west last night, while his jubilant Macs readied for a well-earned rest before meeting the Porcupine Mines League's champions, either South Porcupine or Abitibi Eskimos here on Monday in the first game of a best-of-five series for the right to meet Kitchener or Windsor for the all-Ontario senior "A" championship.

The northern champions will play two games here, the second either Tuesday or Wednesday night, then the series reverts to the northern arena for the next three games scheduled for next Friday, Saturday and Sunday if all are necessary.

The group championship climaxed a highly successful season for the McFarlands. They started off at a fast clip and never were outside the first division of the league standing. They held down second place, then overtook the top-spot Whitby Dunlops, the new world champions, and from there in were never threatened seriously for the league lead, finishing in first place at schedule end with a handsome lead.

As was mentioned previously they met their ancient and arch foes from Kingston in a semi-finals and were extended to the limit before they eliminated the Roddenville squad for the first time since the old days of intermediate hockey. At that the cellar-finishing CKLC's took three victories from the Macs before saying "uncle" when the ultimate champions in a burst of playing and scoring glory blanked the down-east foemen by a 9-0 score.

The Macs have enjoyed the solid support of a grand company of fans in the McFarlands Booster Club, and others, and this support proved a big morale booster for the club.

The city is proud of its new Eastern League Senior "A" champions. This department joins thousands of others in extending the heartiest congratulations to Manager Drury Denyes, Playing Coach Ike Hildebrand, and their gallant crew of McFarlands. More power to their puck-picking arms.

Former Whitby Dunlops Star Helps Habs Whip Leafs 7-4; Black Hawks Edge Wings 5-4

By MARTY GOODMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Connie Broden, late of the world amateur champion Whitby Dunlops, has explosively returned to the ranks of the world professional champion Montreal Canadiens.

Broden scored two goals and assisted on one as the Canadiens whipped Toronto Maple Leafs 7-4 Thursday night and set a National Hockey League record for team scoring.

Chicago Black Hawks defeated third-place Detroit Red Wings 5-4 in the only other game scheduled. The loss allowed New York Rangers to clinch second place, their highest standing since 1941 - 42 when they led the league. Detroit leads Boston Bruins by three points.

IN FIFTH-PLACE TIE

Chicago moved into a tie for fifth - place with Toronto. Both teams have been eliminated from the playoffs.

Broden played six games for Montreal in Stanley Cup playoffs last season after starring for Shawinigan Falls Cataracts in the Quebec Hockey League. When the NHL team didn't place him on its roster this season he retired.

The retirement lasted until Dunlops invited him to make the trip to Oslo. Broden was reinstated as an amateur and was the highest-scorer in the tournament with 11 goals and seven assists.

The 25-year-old Montreal native garnered his first NHL goals Thursday night. He had one assist in the playofs last season and was pointless in a three-game trial in 1955-56.

BROKE DETROIT RECORD

Broden set up Montreal's first goal by Marcel Bonin, the one that broke the team scoring record of 236 set by Detroit in the 1950-51 season.

Other Montreal scorers were Dickie Moore, a league-leading 35th, Jean Beliveau, his 26th, Andre Pronovost's 16th and Doug Harvey's eighth.

Moore had an assist with his goal to increase his league scoring lead to four points over teammate Henri (Pocket Rocket) Ricard, who slipped a point ahead of New York's Andy Bathgate with an assist.

Barry Cullen, Tim Horton, Tod Sloan and George Armstrong scored for Toronto.

A trio of former Detroit players paced the Chicago attack with Glen Skov scoring twice. Former Wings Bill Dineen and Lorne FFerguson each scored once along with Ed Litzenberger's 30th.

Norm Ullman, Nick Mickoski, Alex Delvecchio and Jack McIntyre scored for Detroit.

Minor Hockey

The Toronto - Peterborough - Transports and the Barons won the first games of the finals at Memorial Arena last night in the midget and squirt divisions of the B.M.H.A.

The second games in both series, two - game, goal-to-count affairs will be played next week.

The TPT midgets will carry a two-goal spread into the second game after downing Booth Radio-TV's 7-5 last night. The squirt Barons have only a one-goal margin after defeating the Red Wings 6-5.

D'Arcy Lawrence was the scoring wheel for the TPT's, firing four of his club's seven markers, three of them unassisted. Moe Hunter and J. Dahl each had a goal and assist while Billy McGuire added the other goal.

Ted Hook bagged three of the Booth goals while Jack Boulter had the other pair and added one assist. Peter Weston earned two assists.

Gary Lucas paced the Barons to their one-goal squirt victory with the three-goal hat trick. Jan Morris had two goals and David Storey one. James Pringle and Don Blakely each scored twice for the Red Wings with David Beresford collecting one goal.

Manchester U Meets Fulham In Big Match

LONDON (CP) — Two upstart soccer teams will try Saturday to be the first in eight years to crash their way into the Football Association Cup final, the blue-ribbon affair usually decided by First Division squads.

Playing on neutral ground at Birmingham, Manchester United sends its patchwork lineup of untried youngsters and survivors of last month's Munich plane disaster against Fulham, one of the strongest Second Division sides. In Manchester, Bolton Wanderers face Blackburn Rovers, another team bidding for promotion.

An all - Second Division final would make soccer history and if either Blackburn or Fulham win, it will be the first time a Second Division club has appeared at Wembley Stadium since 1949 when Leicester City reached the final.

JUST THREE FIT

The Feb. 6 Munich air crash, which killed eight Manchester United players and injured seven, has left only three members of the first team fit for the match—goalkeeper Harry Gregg, right back Bill Foulkes and forward Bobby Charlton. A new injury worry is little Ernie Taylor, newly-acquired inside right who has pulled a thigh muscle.

Both Bolton and Blackburn have key players on the sidelines. The big loss to Bolton is the absence of their centre forward and captain, Nat Lofthouse, who has a badly-hurt shoulder.

Ronnie Clayton, skipper of the Rovers and England's stylish right half, has a chipped knee cap and is a doubtful starter. His absence would severely weaken their defence.

Japanese Golf Champions Play In Florida

NEW YORK (AP) — Japan's sensational golf champions, Torakichi (Pete) Nakamura and Koicho Ono, will play Sam Snead and Jimmy Demaret a return match Saturday, March 29, at the Boca Raton Golf Club in Florida

The two veteran United States pros, with fast greens to their liking, will attempt to wipe out their loss to the Japanese stars in the Canada Cup matches at Tokyo last October.

Nakamura and Ono arrived here Thursday. They are in the U.S. to play in the Masters tournament at Augusta, Ga., April 3-6.

King's Plate Winner Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Wright Ralston (Bob) Cowie, 85, who won the King's Plate twice in successive years, died in hospital Thursday night.

Mr. Cowie, who moved to Toronto from Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1908 was prominent in Ontario throughbred racing circles until 1955 when ill-health forced him to retire. He sold his stock to Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor.

He entered racing in 1912 and in 1931 his colt Frothblower won the 50 Guineas. The next year his filly Queensway was the winner.

In addition to winning the King's Plate in 1931 Frothblower captured the William Hendrie Memorial Handicap and the Breeders' Stake at Old Woodbine Park.

As a businessman, Mr. Cowie built a successful trade in novelties, importing from all over the world to his Toronto office for nearly 40 years.

Brown Finally Gets Nod to Fight Dupas

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A three-month boxing dispute ended Thursday as lightweight champion Joe Brown received approval for a title match here May 7 against Ralph Dupas of New Orleans.

M. B. Morgan, state boxing commissioner, announced approval in Austin after receiving results of a poll among National Boxing Association officials on a proposed compromise of the dispute.

The NBA last January announced that Brown would lose his title unless he agreed by March 20 to defend the championship by April 20 against Kenny Lane, Muskegon, Mich., contender.

Lou Viscusi, manager of Brown, rejected the NBA demands on grounds a champion had a right to bargain for the best bout among the top two or three contenders. He also argued that the NBA ruling violated an accepted practice that champions would be required to defend their titles once every six months. months. Brown defended his title three times last year.

The compromise conditions are that the Brown - Dupas contract will not have a rematch clause and that the winner will meet Lane within 90 days. Viscusi said the contract has not been signed but that Dupas has telegraphed an acceptance of terms for the May 7 fight.

Durelle Told 'Take It Easy'

MONCTON (CP) — Yvon Durelle, British Empire light-heavyweight champion, has been ordered by doctors to take it easy for a month. Durelle lost to Tony Anthony of New York by a TKO in a 10-round bout last Friday.

Durelle was examined Thursday by Dr. Leigh Ramsay, an eye specialist, and Dr. J. A. Fowness.

Durelle's right eye was bruised during the fight. The injury is not believed serious.

Chris Shaban, manager of the Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., boxer, said Dr. Fowness found nothing wrong with Durelle but recommended a rest. He has fought 13 times in 14 months.

Gale Kerwin To Quit Ring For Time Being

OTTAWA (CP) — Gale Kerwin, Ottawa boxer who now fights out of Valley Stream, N.Y., has come down with anaemia and will temporarily give up his ring career.

Kerwin, 23, complained of loss of speed and power here Tuesday night after his bout with Davey Dupas of New Orleans, whom Kerwin defeated by a split decision.

Dr. K. Kuwayti, who examined the lightweight in Ottawa Thursday, said Gale has anaemia.

In a report disclosed by Percy Kerwin, the boxer's father, the doctor said "Gale is a sick boy and needs plenty of rest. He won't fight again for awhile."

The father said "we knew Gale was sick even before the fight was started but he wouldn't admit it. I'm afraid Gale will not be able to fight Larry Boardman next month.

Kerwin was scheduled to go against Boardman April 11 in Boston.

Robinson Says

Hook That Finished Fullmer Being Readied for Basilio

CHICAGO (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson is putting a high polish on his left hook for delivery to middleweight champion Carmen Basilio Tuesday night.

It was Robinson's perfectly-timed left hook that sent Gene Fullmer sprawling in the fifth round a year ago as Robinson recaptured the 160-pound title for the third time.

Robinson is cagey enough to show onlookers just what he wants to show them in sparring sessions. Two days ago he appeared so rusty and acted so much his age of 37 that odds favoring Basilio reportedly rose to 11-5.

But Thursday he displayed the cat-like grace and the sharp, powerful punches that have made him legend. His timing was near perfect. The odds well could settle down to 8-5, like they were the first of the week.

It has become apparent that Robinson's main concern is to get Basilio out of his crouch. When the champion crowds in, ring experts think Robinson will uncork a barrage to the body. As Basilio begins to crouch, Sugar Ray will go for the button with short, crushing left hooks.

A sparmate, Lee Williams of Augusta, Gas., using Basilio's swarming, crowding, crouching tactics, was knocked down by Robinson's left hook Thursday.

MACS ARE EASTERN SENIOR CHAMPIONS

Eliminate Kings With Fourth Win Of Tough Series

Meet Northern Champs Here Starting Monday

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Belleville McFarlands are the 1957-58 Eastern Ontario senior "A" League champions.

They won the first senior hockey crown for this city last night defeating the Pembroke Lumber Kings 2-1 in an overtime battle in the northern town.

It was their fourth victory in the best-of-seven finals series. They were defeated once while the sixth game ended in a four-all tie.

Johnny Muretich and Bart Bradley were the heroes of the game that won the title. Muretich fired the goal that gave the Macs a 1-1 tie, while Bradley clinched the victory and series with a lone effort at 6.17 of the overtime period.

The McFarlands meet the Porcupine Mines League champions, either South Porcupine or Abitibi, in the All-Ontario semi-finals, the first game being played here Monday night. The northern series now stands at 3-3. The deciding game is being played tonight.

It was stated that the Pembroke playing coach, Gerry Plamondon, who brought the Kings to the finals left the club prior to the start of last night's game due to some disagreement with the management.

THAT MAN AGAIN

Young Andy Payette, who has been one of the Kings outstanding stars especially on home ice, again came through with a spectacular performance, holding off the win - hungry McFarlands. Payette kicked out 36 shots while Gordie Bell handled 27.

Bucky Buchanan, Kings star who suffered a severe eye injury during a league game, took over the coaching reins and handled the Kings from the bench, when it was learned Plamondon would not put in an appearance.

The McFarlands, taking advantage of lessons learned on Pembroke ice in previous tilts, threw the game wide open, meeting Buchanan's strategy from the start of the game. They were out in front of the Kings throughout the entire game and had the Kings on the defensive for the major part of the pastime. Their biggest stumbling block was the gentleman between the Pembroke pipes.

It was evident from the start the McFarlands were out to wrap up the series, and take a well-deserved rest before meeting the northern champions in the Ontario semi-finals. They slipped into high gear at the first face-off and never slackened their pace.

O'Connor was the first to sit in the sin-bin and Payette was tested with a barrage of fire. Then Joe Lepine was chased with no damage done.

The clock read 9.27 when the Muretich, MacDonald, Kowalchuk line broke away and the McFarlands hopes soared when Johnny blasted a pass behind Payette to put the Macs one up, with his linemates drawing assists.

Dennis Menard did not help the Kings' cause a minute later when he was given a major along with Keith Montgomery, following a pushing match. O'Connor went off with a minute to go in the period.

Benoit and Botley followed each other within minutes to the hoosegow early in the second frame, with Fildes going off a minute later.

Farelli followed him a minute later and the Kings were short two men for a matter of seconds.

Farelli's penalty proved the gateway to the Kings only score of the game for it was while he was off Dennis Menard dashed through after taking Nobby Clarke's pass to drive the puck past Gordie Bell.

BARTON BRADLEY
Clinched It

JOHNNY MURETICH
Won It

Bert Giesebrecht was sentenced with three minutes to go but again Payette hurled back everything the power-playing Macs heaved at him.

The third period was a hard-driving affair with Keith MacDonald drawing the only sentence of the frame.

The teams went into overtime, and the period had scarcely got under way when Douglas drew the official wrath and the Macs surged to the attack. They failed to hit paydirt driving hard to clinch the series victory.

Bart Bradley did that for them at 6.17 when he stole the puck from a Pembroke defenceman raced in on Payette and with a beautiful effort fooled Payette completely to win the game and the first group championship for Belleville. A crowd of 1,829 watched the game.

The lineups:

Belleville — Goal, Bell; defence, Montgomery, Botley, Crawford, Lepine, Benoit; forwards, Muretich, M. Menard, Guidolin, Payette, Brown Kowalchuk, MacDonald Hildebrand, Bradley.

Pembroke — Goal A. Payette; defence, O'Connor, Douglas, Limoges, Fildes; forwards, Bert Giesebrecht, J. Giesebrecht, Chiarelli, Farelli, Bruce Giesebrecht, Maxwell, Clarke, Barber, D. Menard.

Bayer Leads Golf Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) Vim and vigor have returned to the big frame of George Bayer and the San Gabriel, Calif., professional hopes the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open will end his winter-long golfing slump.

Bayer went into today's second round two strokes ahead of the field, thanks to an opening three-under-par 68—his best round in two months. The 1957 Canadian Open titleholder has won less than $1,000 during the current winter tour.

Only six players in the field of 147 first round finishers managed to crack par of 71 over the soggy, wind swept Pasadena Golf Club course.

All at 70 were Dow Finsterwald, Kay Brewer, Jr., Arnold Palmer, Bert Weaver and Jack Lumpking.

Al Balding of Toronto was not far off the pace with a 36-36—72.

Defending champion Pete Cooper was well back at 74.

Guelph Majors, who bowled 5,822, dropped to second place. Galt Majors, with a 5,809 total, were in third-place and Hamilton Majors, 5,773, in fourth.

Toronto Cira's continued to hold top spot in the men's open division bowling a four-game block of 4,676. In second was another Toronto team, Neptune Recreation. Kirkland Lake Legion held third place.

Toronto squads, Lakeview and New Toronto Hobby Centre, led the ladies division three - game event standings. Windsor recreation and London Curly Tops were in third and fourth spot after bowling blocks of 2,957 and 2,753 respectively.

High block to date is a 1,359 total rolled by G. Marsh of Hamilton in the major division. Kirkland Lake's D. Lane holds the high singles score of 382.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trois - Rivieres Lions, already eliminated from the Quebec Hockey League playoffs, spoiled Quebec Aces hopes of bettering their position Thursday by holding Aces to a 3-3 overtime tie.

The tie brought Aces to within one point of the third-place Montreal Royals, who took an 8-3 beating from the second-place Shawinigan Falls Cataracts.

A win for Quebec would have tied Aces and Royals, and they almost had the win until Trois-Rivieres' Pat Kelly scored with less than two minutes left in regulation time. Neither side scored in the 10-minute overtime period.

LONGDEN WINS THREE

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Longden splashed in with three winners Thursday once at Golden Gate Fields and ran his lifetime record to 5,107 winning rides. The winners were May Not Run in the first, Brief Interlude in the fifth and Mintaka in the sixth.

Maverick Is Among Popular Television Programs on Air

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — In the course of an 1,800-mile motor trip you learn that just about everybody is his own best television critic.

Although we definitely weren't conducting an audience survey, it was interesting to discover—among other things—how popular is Maverick (ABC-TV, Sundays).

The people met here and there who enjoy Maverick were not too coherent as to just why they like it. Since we've been looking the other way recently at Maverick time, we tuned it in last Sunday.

The program concerned a rich old man who called a dozen distant relatives to his remote ranch with the announced purpose of picking his heirs.

Three of the relatives were murdered and suspicion focused on numerous people before it turned out that the butler did it for reasons too complicated to be worth going into here.

PLOT AND CHARACTER

As with every Maverick program we've happened to see, it was intricately plotted. It was also heavily populated with a variety of well though briefly characterized roles.

A viewer of this series is not asked to concentrate hard on one character or situation. Something is constantly happening. Also, its dialogue is crisp and well-written.

Probably another ingredient of its popularity is the fact that Maverick is a basically decent guy who lives as a gambler on the edge of the law. He's a change from the numerous highly moral law - enforcement heroes who people the TV screens these evenings.

Hamilton Whips Irish 4-1 To Even Series

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Cubs defeated St. Michael's College Majors 4-1 Thursday night to even their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series semi-finals at one win each, with one game tied.

The best-of-five playoff resumes in Toronto Saturday or Sunday, depending on the outcome of Friday's game between St. Catharines Teepees and Toronto Marlboros.

Defenceman Lloyd Haddon led the Cub attack with a pair of goals and an assist. Ed Cooke and Garry Luyben were the other Hamilton snipers. Hank Marczak scored for the Irish. Cubs were given 13 penalties, the Majors nine.

Manchester City Soccer Stars Refuse to Fly

LONDON (CP) — Three Manchester City soccer players, all members of the first team, have refused to fly when the team makes a five-week tour of Canada and the United States starting in May.

Team manager Les McDowall said the players told him they don't like flying, especially after the Feb. 6 Munich plane crash in which eight Manchester United players lost their lives. The names of the players were not made public.

McDowall said Manchester City will cross the Atlantic in May by sea and return the same way in June. But the tour schedule is so heavy that the club will have to do considerable flying in both Canada and the United States in order to fill engagements. The three players will be dropped from the tour unless they change their minds.

EXTEND RACING SEASON

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba legislature's laws amendments committee Thursday approved a bill extending the Winnipeg racing season to 42 days from 28 despite protest delegations from two United Church groups. The bill returns to the legislature for third and final reading.

Harding was a member of Canada's team at the 1954 British Empire Games in Vancouver, the Pan-American Games in Mexico City in 1955, the 1956 Melbourne Olympics and a goodwill tour to British Guiana last year.

AT THE PARK — Natalie Trundy stars as the teenage girl who finds the path of young love a thorny road to happiness. Here she confides in her mother, played by Barbara Billingsley, in a scene from "The Careless Years", and on the same program, for your added enjoyment, an adventure story of love and hate told in western "Trooper Hook", starring Joel McCrea and Barbara Stanwyck, now showing at the Park Theatre.

Oscar Vote of Confidence By Your Friends Says Tracy

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Far be it from Spencer Tracy to dampen the enthusiasm over academy awards, but he says:

An Oscar doesn't mean much to an actor "except as a vote of confidence by your friends;"

The movie industry is foolish to put its biggest show on television;

Film stars are crazy to go on the show.

Tracy, a two-time Oscar winner himself, reasoned:

"Why should we put our money up to do the show on the medium of our mortal enemy—television? Why should it cost us, anyway? A TV network should pay Hollywood to have a show with so many stars.

"I think those stars are crazy to go on the show. Some of those dolls come into the studio at 5:30 in the morning to look their best for shooting at nine. Yet they'll go on TV and be seen by millions of people and have no control over how they look.

"Another thing—the public is going to be mighty surprised when they compare the stars today with how they looked on the late movie on TV last night."

Tracy's idea: The academy should film its show in color and play it in theatres. Managers with empty theatres next Wednesday night may agree with him.

The late Harry Cohn is quoted as having said the big studio operation may be doomed in the future. It makes you wonder why Columbia studios put up three new sound stages recently. One of them, by the way, is numbered 12A. This bears out the old Hollywood superstitution against stages numbered 13.

The movie industry needs more Josh Logans. He made Kim Novak a star in Picnic, Marilyn Monroe a star in Bus Stop and created the smash hit Sayonara. Now he has his fourth and possibly biggest hit, South Pacific.

Rossano Brazzi and Mitzi Gaynor are a perfect combination in the Ezio Pinza - Mary Martin stage roles.

Joe Collins Hangs Up Glove 'Can't Be Yankee, I'm Done'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first base problem of the Philadelphia Phillies remained desperate today. Joe Collins of the New York Yankees retired from baseball after being sold to the Phils for the $20,000 waiver price.

"If I can't be a Yankee, I'm through with baseball," the 35-year-old Collins said at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Philadelphia sought a first sacker after Ed Bouchee, an outstanding 1957 rookie, became involved with the law. He now is taking psychiatric treatment.

Thursday when the Yankees trounced the Phillies in an exhibition game 11-8 Frank Herrera, a Cuban with Triple A experience, played first.

Collins has been in the Yankee organization since 1939. He played over 100 games each season until 1957, when in 79 contests he batted only .201, his poorest year. Bill Skowron is the regular Yankee first baseman.

The two most valuable players of 1957, Mickey Mantle of New York and Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, both had two homers to lead their teams to victory in exhibition games.

Mantle's blasts and a double drove in six runs as the Yankees won their sixth straight.

DRIVES IN FOUR

Aaron batted in four runs as the Braves belted Cincinnati Redlegs 11-1 at Bradenton, Fla.

Baltimore defeated Chicago Cubs 4-1 in the first game of a twin bill at Scottsdale, Ariz., but Cubs blanked Orioles 1-0 in 10 innings in the second game.

San Francisco Giants went 10 innings in defeating Cleveland Indians 7-5 at Tucson, Ariz., on rookie catcher Bob Schmidt's homer.

Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Kansas City Athletics 7-4 and Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Detroit Tigers 6-4 at Miami.

Czechs Bar Canucks, Yanks From Ski Meet

ZAKOPANE, Poland (AP)—A group of Canadian and American skiers have been refused permission to compete in a meet in Czechoslovakia, Hank Gaffner, team manager of the Americans, said Thursday.

The North Americans had planned to travel Saturday from the current ski meet here to another one at the Czech resort of Tatranska Lomnica. But suddenly the Czechs had withdrawn the team's invitation and refused them visas, Gaffner said.

Gaffner said he planned a protest to the International Ski Federation. He told a meeting of the American team that the Canadians were covered by the ban and would make a similar protest.

The Canadians are Peter Ryan of Mont Tremblant, Que., John Platt of Trail, B.C., and Bill Stevens of Rossland, B.C.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Racing Commission and two racing associations decided Thursday to ask that proposed legislation granting extra power to the commission be withdrawn.

The decision was made at a meeting of commission Chairman S. Tupper Bigelow, George M. Hendrie, vice-president of the Ontario Jockey Club, and Vince J. Sheridan, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association.

The legislation is part of a bill before the Ontario legislature which would amend the Racing Commission Act. It would grant the commission power to impose fines up to $500 and sentences up to six months for violations of racing rules.

The commission will seek an addition to another part of the bill concerning licences when members appear before the bills committee Wednesday. The members have been requested to appear and explain why they sought charges in the Racing Commission Act.

BUICK BRAKES 100% BETTER THAN INDUSTRY STANDARD

SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED

In "crisis stop" tests Buick brakes refuse to fade

SPORTS CAR ILLUSTRATED Magazine recently ran brake tests on '58 models of various makes. These cars were raced to 60 m.p.h., then the brakes were slammed down hard—again and again. After five or six such stops, all but one of the cars were 'way down in brake power. And that car was Buick! The '58 Buick CENTURY made 22 such stops and still braked efficiently. Buick's new air-cooled aluminum brakes*, wrote SPORTS CAR ILLUSTRATED, are "conservatively, a 100% improvement over conventional brakes."

Aluminum puts new safety in Buick brakes

Down in Daytona Beach, NASCAR (The National Association for Stock Car Advancement and Research), made another series of brake tests, based on different conditions. Where other cars had severe brake-power loss after only 20 to 30 "crisis stops," the '58 Buick CENTURY with aluminum brakes made 176 such stops, and still had full stopping power. The experts called these Buick air-cooled aluminum brakes* phenomenal. No other car's brakes came even close to them ... proof positive that Buick's safety performance is built right in. It's extra protection for you and your family.

Why are Buick's brakes best? Buick defeats the heat build-up that causes brakes to fade—lose their stopping power. Buick's finned aluminum front brake drums are air-cooled for fast, fade-free stops. Surround yourself with the year's greatest advance in braking safety. Get behind the wheel of a B-58 Buick.

*Aluminum front brakes are standard on CENTURY, SUPER, ROADMASTER 75 and LIMITED, optional at extra cost on the SPECIAL Series.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on 'nerves'—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail, impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better. 136

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handsome associate will today give you the data and know-how yo[illegible]ed, but you must meet him o[illegible] at some lovely site where you can talk and plan at leisure. Then cement fine relations.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Spending much time talking with the person who is your regular co-worker or helper today can bring the ideas that suit you to a T. And trereby you know just how to make your income much greater than it is now.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take your associate to some place of recreation where you can at long last get your ideas across to this fiery individual as you enjoy yourselves. Tonight, meet your obligations properly.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A splendid time today to take care of your beauty needs, health treatments. Then make plans for social or recreational functions with those who call you. Tonight, fine for entertainment, social prestige.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Here is the ideal day to install those new gadgets, efficiency machines that will make the weeks ahead more prosperous and easy, whether at home or at business. P.M. take care of your larynx.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Today you are feeling in the highest of spirits and a pal walks in and gives you fine advanced thoughts on how to get your work done more easily, your letters more efficiently written, etc.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) Try to get out today with some person in business who has been most successful. Learn his or her methods, and then plan how they can be applied to all of your endeavors. Work with vim and bright vigour.

If your child is born today . . . The delightful child born today will have a certain charm that will be irresistible to all that come in contact with him or her. And if you inculcate the valuable trait of consideration upon your child, every person met will prove a great friend to your progeny. Otherwise, selfishness could ruin an otherwise wonderful career. SECOND ATTACK FATAL

OROFINO, Idaho (AP)—A man who once suffered a heart attack while driving a school bus was stricken fatally while at the controls of a light plane late Wednesday. A passenger, who also is a pilot, landed the craft. Ralph Whipple, 44, was stricken in flight and Charles Lashley took the controls. In February last year Whipple suffered a heart attack near the end of his rural school bus run. A student drove the bus to town and got help for Whipple.

DEBS MEET QUEEN

LONDON (AP) — Nearly 500 debutantes curtsied to the Queen Wednesday at the second of this week's Buckingham Palace presentation parties. Most of them wore the new short-length hemline, which made the curtsey a little easier.

Doing Things That Suit God

By ROY L. SMITH

On no subject, perhaps, has the Christian Church been subjected to more criticism than in the case of its missionary program. And the fault has been found, usually, by one or the other of two groups of people. Either it has come from those who did not want to be asked for money to support the missionary cause, or from those who have no concept of the meaning of the Christian message.

A young university man was discussing with an old churchman the case of the missionaries to the South American Indians who had been murdered by those to whom they had gone with the Christian message.

"Those Indians have had a religion of their own for hundreds of years," the young man said, "and I do not think any white man has a right to interfere, and to try to thrust his ideas down their throats. If their religion is satisfactory to them, it is no one's business, even if it is mistaken."

But the young man did not ask, or answer, one other question which is of the utmost importance. "Did their religion suit God?" If it did not, then it becomes the business of those who know something of God's mind and purpose to do something about it.

Some few years ago Dr. Norman Dunning, a famous British preacher, was sent by his English colleagues on a tour of the mission stations of the South Pacific. It was his business to make first-hand observations, and report back to his home church concerning the practical results of the work of the missionaries.

> The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 23: "The Church and World Evangelism," Matthew 28:18-20; Acts 13:1-3; Romans 1:14-18

On one of the islands he was entertained by the local mission station, and in the course of his stay delivered a series of addresses to the girls in a Christian school. On the morning of his departure, as he was leaving the chapel, he found rows of young women lined up on either side of the walk which led from the chapel door down to the gates of the grounds. Holding flowers aloft in their hands they formed something like a triumphal arch, under which he was to walk. Meanwhile the girls were singing, "What a wonderful change in my life has been wrought, since Jesus came into my heart."

Every girl in both lines was either the daughter or the granddaughter of a cannibal.

For centuries cannibalism had suited those people, but it did not suit God. And the day had come when some Christians had decided to do something about it, with the result that a revolution had been worked in the lives of the people.

CHURCH WAS THERE

In the course of the war in the South Pacific an American plane, disabled, made a forced landing on a small island concerning which the flyers knew nothing. As a matter of precaution they hid themselves as best they knew to protect themselves from what they feared might be the animosity of the natives. An hour or two later they saw a little company of islanders approaching them through the jungle, and heard them singing a familiar Christian gospel song. Later investigation revealed the fact that Christian missionaries had been at work on the island for more than 50 years, with the result that the American boys found themselves in friendly hands.

The news of their good fortune filtered out and back to an American churchman and he began investigations. He soon discovered that similar experiences had occurred in a long list of cases. Wherever the American boys found themselves on an island where the missionaries had been at work, they found an entirely different quality of life.

No one has been able to compile exact statistics in the case but it is known that hundreds of lives were saved because, when our sons came crashing to the earth, they found the Christian Church awaiting them.

That seems to have suited God. Foreign missions have a much more practical aspect than most of us are aware.

Hammarskjold Goes To Moscow On Summit Talks

Skilled UN Negotiator Will Also Visit London

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Dag Hammarskjold headed for Moscow today to discuss with Russian leaders the East-West disarmament deadlock and the Soviet-proposed summit conference.

The United Nations secretary-general, who has achieved success in sensitive missions to Red China and the Middle East, left here Friday night and is due in Moscow Sunday. He is expected to spend all next week sounding out Soviet leaders.

En route home he plans to stop off for several days in London to get a Western viewpoint.

Hammarskjold has given an idea of his views on both issues at his periodic press conferences here, where he is known for his talent at fielding tricky questions without overstepping his neutral position.

His replies on delicate matters are sometimes vague, but these views have emerged

1. "It might be easier to get somewhere" on disarmament by negotiating bit by bit—the Soviet view—than through the Western "package" approach.

2. Both sides sincerely wish to get results on disarmament and to find some means to tackle world issues "without too much delay."

3. A summit conference would be useless "unless very carefully prepared" (Western view).

4. It would be "perfectly appropriate" to hold such a parley at UN headquarters, and Hammarskjold is keeping the door open.

On April 10 he will embark in his second five-year term as a result of his unanimous election last September by the Security Council and General Assembly. Hammarskjold's first term was generally hailed as outstanding.

French Endeavor To Halt Constant Cabinet Changes

PARIS (Reuters) — The National Assembly early today passed a reform bill to help halt the constant turnover in French cabinets, but the attempt to solve France's governmental ills may take a long while before it is put to work.

Premier Felix Gaillard failed to coax a sufficient majority from the assembly to prevent the bill from going to the electorate in a national referendum.

Although the measure was passed by a vote of 308 to 206 it failed by one vote to receive a three-fifths majority. Thus is must be sent to a referendum if it is passed by the council of the republic—the uppser house.

THREE FEATURES

The main features of the bill are:

1. Single assembly members can be overthrown only by adoption of votes of censure or votes of "defiance," and every member of the assembly must vote—by proxy if necessary. Abstentions will not be permitted.

3. The government may dissolve the assembly and call for new elections, but the president of France may override this decision if he considers the circumstances so serious as to make dissolution of parliament undesirable.

The reform bill was the first serious attempt in 40 years to end France's chronic turnover of governments.

The turnovers are a result of the multi - party system which makes weak coalition governments a virtual necessity. The results have been 24 governments since France was liberated in 1944.

Observers are not sure how the French voter would react to the referendum if it is held. Politicians are afraid of any referendum because they fear it might be turned into a public demonstration of hostility to the present legislature.

Tourists May Order Liquor In Advance

TORONTO (CP) — A tourist planning to visit Ontario may order his liquor in advance by having a resort owner act as his agent, W. H. Collings, chief commissioner of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, said Friday.

All that is required from the agent is the presentation of the tourist's permit with the order to the store, he added. Permits can be obtained by mail.

Mr. Collings said that the board will confer with representatives of the Ontario Tourist Outfitters' Association about the industry's liquor problems.

REACH HIGH SPEED

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP)— A rocket-powered sled reached a top speed of 2,704 miles an hour Friday for what the United States Air Force missiles development centre claimed as a world record. The previous record was 2,580 miles an hour set at China Lake, Calif., by the U.S. Navy. The run was made here on the new 35,000-foot monorail track being completed for use in captive missile tests.

Charge Dismissed

VANCOUVER (CP) — The appeal of Milton Henry Higgins, 64, of Galt from a two-year sentence for arson was dismissed Friday.

Higgins pleaded guilty to burning his late-model car Jan. 30 at Fort Steele, B.C., and was sentenced at Vernon Feb. 11. He told Appeal Court judges he was in a state of shock when he admitted burning the auto.

Crown counsel Gordon S. Rae said Higgins admitted burning a car in Ontario Nov. 1 and collecting $1,100 insurance. Mr. Rae said Higgins told police he intended to claim $3,299 for the Jan. 1 burning of the car plus $2,500 for tools and other contents.

KILLED BY CAR

PRESCOTT (CP) — Margaret Jane Deaubney, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Deaubney of this town, 10 miles northeast of Brockville, was killed Friday when she collided with a car.

SEABOARD REELS BACK TO NORMAL AFTER BIG STORM

Thousands of Homes Without Light, Heat

NEW YORK (AP) — The battered Atlantic seaboard from Virginia to Maine struggled today to get back to normal following the most devastating snowstorm in years.

Hundreds of thousands of homes still were without heat and light as the storm — which started Wednesday, then made a mockery of the advent of spring Thursday night — continued into Friday before tapering off.

Power crews were working around the clock to restore services to the areas hardest hit by the storm — Eastern Pennsylvania, most areas of New Jersey, Maryland, and New York City's Long Island suburbs.

At least 45 deaths were attributed to storm-caused exposure, electrocution, traffic accidents, and excessive exertion leading to heart attacks.

DANGER OF FLOODS

As the storm itself waned, the Washington weather bureau warned that "a sudden and extensive" thaw would pose . major flood threat for the northeast United States. The more critical flood potential areas extend from northern and Eastern Pennsylvania northeast through Eastern United States and New England. The governors of Pennsylvania and New Jersey each proclaimed a state of emergency. Linemen worked through the night in Pennsylvania to clear fallen wires and restore service to a million homes left powerless by the state's worst snow storm in 40 years. Snow in some sections of Eastern Pennsylvania reached depths up to 40 inches.

In New Jersey, snow which ranged in depth from 14½ inches at Newark Airport to 35 inches further north, started melting fast as temperatures climbed above freezing. Thousands of homes still were without power today.

New England was rapidly digging out and returning to normal today after snowfalls of up to 17 inches. Many minor roads, however, were reported still choked with snow. Power failures affected some 250,000 families.

WORST SINCE HURRICANE

Rhode Island communications and power were the hardest hit since hurricane Carol in 1954, but state officials expected to restore most services by tonight. High tides and heavy seas added to the storm headaches.

The snow was due to taper off over Northern New England today, and light flurries were predicted for the southern sections.

MAY BE FIRST

WINDSOR (CP)—Windsor may become Canada's first city with atomic power. Walker Lee Cisler, president of the Detroit Edison Company, said in an interview here Windsor could expect to get power from the Enrico Fermi atomic power plant at Lagoona, Mich., late in 1960 or early in 1961.

RCAF CANNOT ACCOUNT FOR DEPOT BLAST

RCAF officers have expressed amazement at the explosion of the top-secret ammunition depot near Camp Borden, Ont., which killed seven men including six civilians. Extraordinary precautions had been taken with the depot, which, they reported, held only mild explosives, well crated. The explosion was followed by a fire which quickly demolished the building.

Novel Plank for Platform Introduced by Liberal Leader

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A novel political platform plank—a six-week holiday from paying taxes—has been shaped by Liberal Leader Lester Pearson.

He unveiled it Friday night before 2,800 party workers in a Toronto rally while Prime Minister Diefenbaker was being heckled by boisterous Queen's University students at a meeting at Kingston attended by nearly 4,000 persons.

In a television broadcast from Winnipeg, Stanley Knowles, deputy CCF leader, said a Conservative government with too large a majority would be worse than government under the Liberals.

Mr. Pearson told his supporters that a Liberal government would make a $400,000,000 tax cut retroactive to Jan. 1, 1958.

It would not be able to bring down a budget before May 31 at the earliest. Canadians would have been paying taxes at the old rates up to that time.

So, Mr. Pearson said, he would credit taxpayers with overpayments made through payroll deductions and declare a tax holiday for six or seven weeks.

Mr. Pearson said about $100,000,000 would be added to the take-home pay of Canadians in a six-week period beginning June 1. Purpose of the reductions would be to get money into the pockets of people in lower-income groups quickly. Expenditure of this money would stimulate economic activity and create jobs.

Mr. Diefenbaker, amid the heckling, got in some licks at the Liberals. He said at one point:

"When I read the record of promises that are made daily, I make this challenge: If you know of anything the Liberals have voted against in the last seven years in the Commons you'll find it in the new policies being enumerated by the Liberal leader."

Rebel Planes From Celebes Bomb City on Isle of Java

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — The Indonesian rebel radio at Padang claimed tonight that two planes from the rebel North Celebes bombed Bandung, about 100 miles from the Indonesian government capital of Jakarta.

This was the first report of a direct air attack on Java by the rebel forces.

Fighting in Indonesia in the last month has been confined to the oil-rich island of Sumatra.

Insurgent forces in the North Celebes threw in their lot with the Central Sumatran rebels shortly after the revolt began against alleged Communist influences in President Sukarno's government.

Padang Radio said: "The number of casualties is not known."

Meanwhile, ship owners in Singapore are planning to ask for British naval protection in waters near Sumatra following an Indonesian gunboat attack on a Singapore fishing boat.

The owners claim the Indonesian navy has been ordered to shoot on sight at any craft which appears to be heading towards Central or North Sumatra.

In addition to asking for British help, the ship owners also plan to take the case to the Singapore and Malayan governments. Presumably the governments would then convey a protest to the Jakarta government.

In Jakarta 10 Soviet vessels purchased by the Indonesian government were formally handed over by Soviet Ambassador D. Shukov at a ceremony aboard one of them in the harbor.

The transfer was the first step in the realization of economic and technical co-operation between Indonesia and the Soviet Union.

U.S. Subs Helped on Way to Pole Under Ice by Russian Research

OTTAWA (CP) — Russian Arctic research likely will help United States submarines find their way to the North Pole under the polar ice pack this summer.

Informants here say the submarines, two of them atomic-powered, likely will use charts compiled from Soviet sources.

The federal department of mines and technical surveys has prepared a bathymetric chart of the Arctic Ocean based exclusively on information gathered from Russian publications. A bathymetric chart gives the contour of the ocean floor.

Informants say they believe the chart is the only one of its kind in existence in the West and that it—or one similar to it—will be used by U. S. submarines navigating under the Arctic ice.

The chart shows that Russian scientists have in the last two years gathered considerably more information on the Arctic Ocean than they possessed in 1954.

In 1954 a Russian chart showed the undersea Lomonosov mountain range as extending almost in a straight line across the pole from New Siberian Islands to Greenland.

The new chart displays variations in the range's direction, especially north of Greenland and Ellesmere Island, Canada's most northerly land mass.

Ability of the Russian scientists to plot the ocean bottom on the Canadian side of the pole confirms that scores of Soviet landings were made on the permanent ice pack within 200 miles of Canadian territory between 1954 and 1956.

The chart also makes clear that the Russian scientists have carried out research near northern Alaska, far down the east coast of Greenland and off the northwest coast of Norway. One line on the chart traces the southern edge of the polar cap as recorded in April.

The U. S. Navy announced March 6 that the nuclear submarines Nautilus and Skate and conventionally-powered sub Halfbeak will operate around and under the Arctic ice cap this summer. The Nautilus reached a point within 180 miles of the North Pole last summer and remained under the ice nearly six days.

J.V. McAree Dies at Mimico

TORONTO (CP) — J. V. McAree, 81, veteran columnist of the Toronto Globe and Mail, died today at his home in suburban Mimico.

His last column appeared in today's Globe and Mail. It was devoted to letters received in response to a recent column on the Roman Catholic shrine at Lourdes, France.

John Verner McAree began his newspaper career with the Toronto Star. He moved to the old Toronto Mail and Empire in 1903 as a reporter but soon switched to writing a regular column. He continued the column when the Mail and Empire was merged with the Globe in 1936 to become The Globe and Mail.

His daily column, on the editorial page, was one of the most widely read in Canada.

MAY REDUCE TAX ON DIESEL FUEL RESULT OF STUDY

Allan Gives Report By Research Council

TORONTO (CP)—The trucking industry may get a concession from the Ontario government.

Transport Minister Allan tabled a report in the legislature Friday which recommends reducing the tax on diesel fuel to 18.5 cents a gallon from 20 cents.

Premier Frost has told the House he is "not adverse to" the reduction.

The tax on diesel fuel was raised to 20 cents a gallon last year while the gasoline tax was raised to 13 cents. The seven-cent difference was designed to take into account better mileage with diesel fuel and the policy of making heavy trucks pay more for using highways.

Mr. Allan's report was made on the basis of an investigation by the Ontario Research Council. Studies of weight, mileage and fuel factors were made on truck runs in Ontario with the conclusion that an equitable tax would be 18.46 cents a gallon. A tax of 18.5 cents was recommended.

In budget debate, Reg Gisborn (CCF — Wentworth East) described as "bunk" contentions that Canada's recession was caused by wage increases out of line with production boosts.

He said that in 1948 the average weekly wage was $30 and total production $3,735,000,000 while in 1956 wages averaged $67 and production was $10,780,000,000. Wages had doubled but production had tripled.

Canadian workers are "in a stranglehold," said the CCF union executive. "Their only salvation is the trade union movement."

A. H. Cowling (PC — Toronto High Park) called for permissive legislation to let Ontario municipalities fluoridate their water supplies.

"Fluoridation is coming regardless of what we do or anybody else does," Mr. Cowling said. "It is inevitable."

He said the measure is backed by the Canadian Dental Association, the Canadian Medical Association, the Canadian Public Health Association, the U.S. National Research Council, the U.S. Public Health Service, the American Dental Association and the American Medical Association.

Charge Withdrawn

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A charge of drunk driving against Lee Graham, about 40, of Peterborough was withdrawn in court Friday at the request of acting Crown attorney Frank Foster, who described the defendant as "so drunk he was incapable of having care and control of a vehicle" at the time.

The phrasing of the drunk driving charge is of "having care and control of a vehicle while intoxicated."

Graham, a city lawyer, earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of being drunk in a public place and was fined $10 and $3 costs by Magistrate A.D. Barron of Kitchener.

DRO 'Benny The Cork' Drew $241 For Balloting Lone Vote-His Own

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)— Helicopters are flying ballot boxes to Finlay Forks, Manson Creek and Germansen in the Rocky Mountain trench area west of here for the March 31 federal election.

However, Returning Officer John W. Baker draws the line at sending a 'copter to old Fort Grahame.

The reason: only one vote was cast there in last June's election and the cost of recording it was $241.50.

Ben Cork, a one-legged war veteran renowned for his Irish wit, is "the" man at Fort Grahame. He conducts a small trading post for Indians of the area.

"Bennie the Cork," as he is known up and down the Finlay River, has great hopes for the future of Fort Grahame, 600 miles north of Vancouver.

It was once a flourishing Hudson's Bay Company post, but the company closed down its store some years ago.

He wrote the returning officer here, assuring him that he would be delighted to help out by acting as deputy returning officer March 31.

Mr. Baker looked over his Fort Grahame records for 1957 and found that the account showed five payments in favor of Bennie the Cork. He got $175 for flying in the ballot box and ballots, drew $25 for enumerating eight possible voters and smaller sums for court of revision expenses, rental of the polling station and as wages for serving as deputy returning officer.

For the $241.50 expended, the lone ballot cast was that of—who else but—Ben Cork.

"Shure and it's a shame to close Fort Grahame polling place," Bennie wrote Mr. Baker. "There be hundreds of voters between here and the Yukon denied the right of free men if ye refuse to follow democratic principles and don't keep open as usual at Fort Grahame."

Mr. Baker says there will be no more election expense money poured into old Fort Grahame.

Ford Prevented From Accepting Bid From China

U.S. Restrictions Apply To Subsidiaries Here

WINDSOR (CP) — The Canadian chief of the United Auto Workers says Ford of Canada could have sold 1,000 automobiles to Communist China but the parent Ford Company in the United States vetoed the sale because of U.S. government regulations.

George Burt, said the Ford Motor Company of Canada, like all Canadian subsidiaries of American firms, must abide by U.S. laws prohibiting trade in strategic goods with Communist countries.

No responsible officer of Ford in Detroit was available for comment.

The U.S. state department at Washington declined comment.

Mr. Burt said in a prepared statement the Peiping government order for the vehicles was handed to Marshal Johnson of the East-West Export-Import Corp. of Vancouver who relayed it to Ford of Canada.

QUOTES LETTER

The union official quoted from a letter—it was not known to whom it was originally addressed—which he said the UAW has in its possession. It was said to have been from Tom Lilley of the Ford international division at Detroit and it read in part:

"Mr. Ford has referred to me your letter of Feb. 12, 1957, addressed to Mr. Marshall Johnson of East-West Import-Export Corp. in respect (to the proposed sale). We are not in a position to furnish a quotation because of the policies of the U.S. government."

The union quoted the letter further as saying the U.S. embargo "as interpreted by the government" applies to Ford of Canada.

Mr. Burt said J. M. Macdonneil, acting Canadian trade minister, had told Don Brown, Liberal member for Essex West, in the House of Commons Dec. 18 that the only way the American government could affect exports by Canadian subsidiaries would be by exerting influence with the parent U.S. firms.

"That," Mr. Burt said, "is exactly what our information says has happened."

TO OTHER GOODS

He said investigation has shown this situation pertains not only to automobiles but to appliances, chemicals and "other goods."

He noted the Canadian government had decided to sell 350,000 bushels of wheat to Red China and ". . . there is no reason why Canadian-made automobiles cannot be sold to China without a lot of name-calling."

Thousands of Canadian auto workers, he said, are without work yet auto companies in this country "were prevented by the U.S. state department from filling an order for 1,000 cars for China."

VANCOUVER (CP) — A businessman who tried unsuccessfully to get a Communist Chinese order for 1,000 automobiles filled in Canada says China "wants to do big business" with Canada.

"Trade with Red China could put Canada back on its feet and keep us busy for the next 50 years," said Marshal Johnson president of East-West Import-Export Limited, a Vancouver firm through which he promotes Canadian trade in the Far East.

Mr. Johnson said in an interview Friday night the order for 1,000 low-price models was "one of many orders" for Canadian goods he obtained during a 2½-month visit to Red China in 1956.

He said General Motors refused outright to consider the order. Ford of Canada at first was prepared to supply the cars, he added, and went so far as to agree on the commission to be paid, then cancelled the deal because of "U.S. government regulations."

SAW CARS IN CHINA

Mr. Johnson said that during his 1956 visit and another which he made to China last year, he saw European cars from many different countries and a number of American models.

He was told the American cars had been imported through intermediary countries — "probably Britain or France."

Mr. Johnson declared he has encountered many problems in attempting to get Chinese orders filled in Canada.

In some cases the firms concerned have refused to consider the orders, in others the federal government has refused export licences, he said. He cited as examples an order for pharmaceuticals which he attempted to place with a Montreal firm but was rebuffed and a $2,000,000 order for ball bearings which he managed to place with a Canadian manufacturer but an export permit was refused.

The Canadian government has restricted exports to Communist China to chemical fertilizers and wheat, he said.

Red China is especially interested in importing agricultural and automotive machinery, chemicals, pharmaceuticals, machine tools and ferrous and non-ferrous metals, Mr. Johnson said.

Market Farmers Say Sap Season Best in Years

"One of the best sap seasons in years," was the way that district farmers described the current maple syrup season as they attended the local farmers' market this morning.

Absence of rain, cold nights and warm days had also made the sap quality excellent with resulting high quality syrup being made.

Prices held at $6 per gallon with quarts at $1.75 and pints at 90c. Maple sugar was offered for the first time with prices rangings from two cakes for a quarter to 20c each.

On the inside market eggs brought 60c for extras, 55c for large, 44c for mediums and pullets 50c the dozen.

Mature fowl sold at 45c per lb. and chicken 50c.

Liberals of Northumberland Hold Rally at Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — About 300 people from many parts of Northumberland riding attended a Liberal rally in the Masonic Temple here on Thursday night. J. F. R. Douglas, QC, president of the Campbellford Liberal Association, was chairman. Mr. Douglas returned this week from a trip to Florida, on which he was accompanied by former Mayor R. J. Locke, who is president of the Campbellford Progressive Conservative Association.

Among those on the platform for the rally were Mrs. Charles Shaw, chairman of the Ladies' Liberal Association of Campbellford; Mrs. P. H. Macmillan, chairman of the ladies' county organization; J. D. Burnett, mayor of Cobourg and president of the county organization; Colin Crews, secretary - treasurer of the county organization; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sweet; Mr. W. A. Hogle, Mr. Sweet's campaign manager and Miss A. Rogers, regional chairman of the county Liberal Association.

Colin Crews spoke, outlining many of the social functions and meetings that his committee had arranged throughout the county.

MAYOR SPEAKS

Mayor J. D. Burnett of Cobourg told the meeting that the Liberals had not been defeated last June, they had committed suicide. He said later, however, that the Liberals had been beaten in 1957 by a real job of salesmanship. He said the Conservatives "offered their product to the country in very attractive labels and wrapper."

He urged the audience not to forget "the wonderful record of 22 years of Liberal government." He said that all social legislation on the books of Canada came into being when the Liberals were in power. He said "should the Diefenbaker party—I don't say the Conservative party, I say the Diefenbaker party — by any unlucky chance be returned to power on March 31st., should they try to implement the promises they have made, the economy of the country will suffer of 25 years after."

Mrs. P. H. Macmillan, leader of the ladies' organization in Northumberland, spoke briefly, saying that it is 50 years since Campbellford has had a representative in the federal government. She urged voters to elect the Liberal candidate, Wesley R. Sweet.

LOCAL PROBLEMS

Mr. Sweet, in his address, stressed the importance to the people of the north end of the riding of electing a "local boy."

He said Mayor D. R. Maybee of Campbellford, "is not aggressive enough." He said he would do all in his power to secure industry for the town. He spoke on unemployment and said new industry for Campbellford would end unemployment. He also said that one of his prime interests would be to have Bill 257 rectified so that it will be of some help to the farmer.

Mr. Sweet said that the one textile firm in the town was one industry that had kept the town from sinking "right out of sight."

He said Mr. Pearson asked him what the most pressing thing in Campbellford was, and Mr. Sweet said he answered "textiles." Mr. Pearson asked Mr. Sweet to remind him of textiles and how they applied to Campbellford, when Mr. Sweet was elected.

KINGSTON SPEAKER

Mr. W. H. Hogle, Mr. Sweet's campaign manager introduced the guest speaker, Mr. William J. Henderson, MP for Kingston riding.

Mr. Henderson said the main issue in the coming election is leadership. He said Mr. Diefenbaker called an election because he could not assume responsibility. Mr. Pearson was the one person who could lead Canada out of the present situation, he declared.

He said that Canada needed trade, but the Liberals did not intend to go after it in the same way the Conservatives did. He accused the recent trade mission to England of spending taxpayers' money to buy goods that could have been manufactured in Canada, "We need Mr. Pearson to negotiate a trade agreement with the United States," he said.

Mr. Henderson said that the Liberal government would lower the income tax and extend unemployment insurance to include sick benefits.

Mr. Henderson said "it seems very funny that Mr. Diefenbaker should tie up Quebec with Mr. Duplessis." He said Diefenbaker was an imperialist and Duplessis was a nationalist.

Mr. Henderson praised Mr. Pearson for his action in averting a possible World War III during the Suez crisis, and winning the Nobel Peace Prize.

He criticized the Diefenbaker government for not bringing down a budget prior to the election. "He was afraid to bring down a budget and that is why we are in an election," he said.

Mr. Henderson said the Pearson plan was to leave the money with the people so that they would have more purchasing power, create more jobs in industry producing consumer goods, and unemployment would thus decrease. He said the cuts in income tax would accomplish this.

SENATOR SPEAKS

Senator W. A. Fraser spoke briefly saying the Liberal party was being rejuvenated with young blood. He said the "Tory party is the personification of hypocrisy."

Speaking of trade, he urged more trade with the U.S. and less with Great Britain. "We should buy the goods we want at the price we are willing to pay, regardless of international borders," he said.

"We get value for our money when we buy goods in the United States," he said. "I've done business in old England, they are fine people, rugged people, pioneers across the face of the globe, but when it comes to trading they are horse traders and they will trade you an apple for a ton of coal any old time. These are things we must recognize as facts."

Mr. Douglas, in thanking the speakers, said that only six votes more were needed in each polling subdivision to elect Mr. Sweet.

Robt. Hamilton Returning Home From Cleveland

Robert G. Hamilton, secretary manager of Belleville Chamber of Commerce, who is attending the Sportsmen's Show at Cleveland, Ohio, telephoned the Ontario Intelligencer this morning to report on the show.

Mr. Hamilton was just winding up a week's stay at the show. He will be back in Belleville sometime tonight. With him are Bernie Leeson, reeve of Havelock, and Joe Jones of Hastings.

Arrivals at the show this morning were Donald W. Kingdon, general manager of the Lake Ontario Development Association, Stan Shippman, manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and chairman of the tourist promotion section of LODA, Alex Gilbert, manager of the Trenton Chamber and George Coling, manager of the Brighton Chamber, who is also the chairman of the LODA show.

The LODA display will be moved out some time on Sunday in time to reach Harrisburg, Pa., for the noon opening of the Sportsmen's Show there Monday.

"We had our biggest day here last Sunday," said Mr. Hamilton, who, although he did not have attendance figures at his disposal, said he believed an attendance record had been made.

Members of the LODA are distributing brochures to interested Americans who are looking about for a different spot to vacation. Mr. Hamilton said that 1,280 names and addresses of such people have been secured. He added that many of them plan to come to this district in 1958, while others will likely come some other year. More than 400 personal letters have been forwarded to the people who desire to come to the LODA region for their vacation and Mr. Hamilton said that in due course local pamphlets will be sent.

The LODA party is billeted in the Auditorium Hotel, directly across the street from the beautiful auditorium which is the scene of the show. The auditorium was built in 1928 by public subscription, Mr. Hamilton said.

"Some 21 tourist areas in Canada and the U.S. are represented here, making stiff competition for us," said Mr. Hamilton.

Mr. Hamilton and party arrived in Cleveland early on March 14.

Downtown Lack Parking Space Hurts Business

TRENTON — "Right now the merchants of town are losing a lot of money in sales because of the parking facilities around the main section of town," John Compeau, owner of Trenton's newest meat market on Dundas Street West said yesterday.

"If the Market Square was made into a parking lot," he said, "it would certainly be a wonderful thing for the merchants. It would give shoppers a handy place to park especially when things are busy and the streets are filled with traffic.

"The way it is now, with parking not allowed on the north side of Dundas Street between 4 and 6 p.m. we are actually losing the cream of our daily sales.

"Most store keepers in town will agree that the busiest time of the day, regardless of what day it is, is between 4 and 6 p.m., just before store closing time and when both male and female workers are on their way home from their different jobs," he continued.

"With parking facilities the way they are now, and parking is a big thing because most of our customers ride in cars, it is against the law for them to park on one side of the main street, there is no place handy where they can park, so they go home and forget about it. When otherwise they would have stopped and made a purchase. When this happens once or twice it isn't so much, but over the course of a year, and for all the stores in the business section of town, it would mean hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"Local store owners should think about these things, weigh them in their minds, and let the town's governing body know how they feel in matters as important to their business as this parking-lot issue is," Mr. Compeau concluded.

Darts Champion Sets New Mark

TRENTON — Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion in Trenton have a new dart champion who has set a mark which will be hard to beat.

William A. Fraute of 93 Byron Street, used only 9 darts to complete the final 301 game. This score in darts is considered practically a perfect game and is as rare as a 29 hand in cribbage or a royal flush in poker.

To become the branch champion of the Legion here is in itself no mean chore when one considers there are 700 members in the organization and a very large percentage of these ex-servicemen are good dart players.

The tournament in which Mr. Fraute made his top score was in the games room of the new Legion building last week with over 30 dart addicts competing during the afternoon.

The new champion is also a member of the 'Legionnaires' in the Trenton District Dart League. He was awarded the branch championship trophy, suitably engraved, during the last regular meeting. The presentation was made by branch sports committee chairman W. H. "Bill" Milne.

Need Adult Help In Local Scout Movement

TRENTON — G. W. Jackson, new district commissioner of Boy Scouts in Trenton has made an official plea for more men to help out in the local Boy Scout movement in the position of leaders.

The Commissioner made his appeal in the last edition of the "Trenton Pathfinder," official publication of the Boy Scouts Local Association and published under the editorship of Ted Snider.

Commissioner Jackson's message to the Boy Scouts was as follows:

"After checking the Scouting situation in Trenton I find there are two weak spots. The first is leadership. The quality we have is tops, but the quantity is not enough to go around. I would ask all group committeemen to be on the lookout for suitable men and women for leaders and assistants.

"The Second important item needed is more interest in group committee work. It is always a let down for a leader who is giving a great deal of his time to the training of the boys, to find that in some cases there are only two or three fathers willing to meet one night a month as a group committee.

"I appeal to all men who read this paper, to get behind the movement and give it the support it needs.

"Remember, the aim of the Boy Scout movement is to train our boys in the principles of discipline, loyalty and good citizenship."

Mr. Jackson also praised the past work of men in the Scout movement in Trenton including Phil Simmons, Bernard Fox and Ivor Walling, and stated he will be depending on their help and experience to assist him in serving the local Scouting program.

Police Blotter

A hit and run accident resulting in about $100 damage to a parked vehicle was reported to city police early today.

The car owned by Robert Lee Browhing, 14 Highland Ave., was left parked outside the house when some time after midnight it was struck by a passing car which failed to stop. A neighbor reported hearing a loud crash a short time after midnight.

Otherwise police reported a quiet night with three drunks being apprehended, while provincial police apprehended a motorist for drunk driving.

—Forever in our hearts, Gwen and family.

CASEY. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Casey, who passed away March 22nd, 1956.
No one knows how much we miss her,
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered; since we lost her
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts her memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Horace and Stella, Linda and Ronnie.

CASEY. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Jennie Casey, who left us two years ago.
Gone dear mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth could take your place.
God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So He closed her weary eyelids,
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Eva, Perry and grandchildren Elaine and Russell.

CASEY. — In loving memory of my dear wife, Jennie Casey, who passed away March 22nd, 1956.
I have lost my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss her more,
As I walk through life alone.
—Sadly missed by her husband W. R. Casey.

CANNINGS. — In loving memory of my dear wife, Katherine Elizabeth, who passed away March 23rd, 1957, one year ago.
The month of March now is here,
To me the saddest of the year;
I lost a loved one good and fine,
She will live in my heart until the end of time.
To be with her in the same old way
Would be my dearest wish today.
—Sadly missed and dearly remembered by her husband Charles.
M22-2t

CANNINGS. — In loving memory of our dear mother, who departed this life one year ago, March 23rd 1957.
We little knew when we awoke that morn
The sorrow the day would bring;
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
—Ever remembered by Ethel and George.

CHAPMAN. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Ethel Chapman, who passed away March 23rd, 1951.
Nothing can ever take away,
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps her near.
—Lovingly remembered by husband Earl and family.

Passion Week

Two thousand years ago He died in agony upon a tree,
And now, as Passion Week draws near we think again of Calvary.

Two thousand years ago. It seems so long ago, so far away;
He pleaded that the cup might pass from Him—but has it passed today?

Two thousand years ago, and still men live in sin and dark despair.
We look around, and lo, the cross of Calvary is everywhere.

Two thousand years and each new day the mem'ries of His old pain speak,
Unto a world that heeds not God, and each new week is Passion Week.

Two thousand years! Lord, may Thy voice, this Eastertide be heard to speak,
And men forsake their evil ways, and joy will come in Passion Week.

FRED H. DEACON

For the third time in the short space of a week, death in its inexorable toll has removed one of Belleville's outstanding citizens.

The passing of Fred H. Deacon in his fifty-fifth year, while vacationing in Florida, came as a distinct shock to not only his personal friends but to the city as a whole.

As one of the city's well-known manufacturers, Mr. Deacon carried on the business traditions of a family long known and honored here. As a family man he was beyond reproach. As a member of the community in which he resided all his life, his efforts towards the betterment of his native city and its residents will live long in the memory of those who knew him well.

He was a man well liked in business, society, and the many phases of community activity to which he devoted a lot of his time. He was a sportsman, believing that "all work and no play . . ." He was an ardent hunter and fisherman, and sought and found many hours of relaxation and family enjoyment in his recreational activities.

Mr. Deacon had a friendly personality that won him many friends in all walks of life. In business, church, municipal and other phases of activity in which he was interested, he was an able, willing worker, giving his time and effort unstintingly with no thought of personal gain or benefit.

As a member of the city council, the Rotary Club and the Bay of Quinte Country Club, he served his city well.

This city, like any community, can ill afford to lose men of the quality of Fred H. Deacon, who found honor and satisfaction in giving a life of activity that reached beyond the realm of family and business.

COMMUNISM'S NEW SERFDOM

In the forty years since the Bolshevik revolution, resistance to the regimentation and control of Communism has been greatest among Russia's farmers. In Stalin's day resistance on the part of farmers in the Soviet Union was invariably crushed by brute force and terrorism. Establishment of Russia's 78,000 collective farms was one means by which the Kremlin sought to gain complete political control over the farm population. Another device that came with the mechanization of agriculture was the setting up of tractor and farm equipment stations under rigid control from Moscow. Because workers on collective farms were denied the right to own the equipment themselves, but forced to rent it from the State, this extended the Kremlin's political control over Russia's restive farm population.

Until now Russian farmers have managed, in the face of oppression and tyranny, to retain the right to own a few cows or other farm animals and to cultivate garden plots for their own use. Now, it seems, the Kremlin is determined to deprive them of this last vestige of independence and to reduce them to a serfdom more abject than anything known in Czarist days.

As outlined by Soviet Communist party boss Khrushchev, this is to be accomplished by forcing the collective farms to buy, instead of rent, tractors and other farm equipment. Soviet propaganda organs are busy depicting this move as intended to extend the freedom and independence of Russian farmers. But at the same time a vicious propaganda campaign is being waged to persuade farmers to abandon their cows and sheep and private garden plots and turn them over to the State as a gesture of gratefulness for their new "freedom" as owners of tractors and farm equipment.

The Kremlin's purpose is clear. It is to reduce Soviet farmers to the status of wage-earning serfs, entirely without resources of their own, and utterly subservient to the State. This is Communism's new serfdom which Khrushchev offers under the spurious label of farm reform.

A WISE DECISION

Hon. E. D. Fulton, acting minister of citizenship and immigration, said at Ottawa the other day that the Progressive Conservative Government plans no lifting of current restrictions on immigration until Canada's economic climate improves.

That makes sense. It is a decision which should earn the support of all political parties.

The Ontario Intelligencer has gone on record several times as favoring immigration and as disputing the validity of claims that it was one of the causes of unemployment. The opposite, we believe, was true. It was one of the factors contributing to our prosperity Today, though, the situation has changed. It would be no kindness to either the unemployed or to immigrants to bring more people to Canada until there is some reasonable prospect that they will be able to find work.

JUST FOLKS

LIFE'S PURPOSE

Life is a chance to do some useful toil,
A time to build, to serve or to achieve,
To sow a harvest on some stretch of soil,
To shape a record for the soul to leave.

This long adventure lived upon the earth
Is not the whim of Him who sent us here.
It is our chance to serve and prove our worth
To fit the soul for His celestial sphere.

He Was Jailed For an Idea

Hamilton Spectator

Not one but many books could be written concerning the mistaken ideas many people have concerning the law. Particularly in the underworld are such fallacies widespread and often held and expressed with the firm conviction that they are true.

One is, for example, that a person cannot be convicted of vagrancy if he has a few dollars in his pocket, a job, and a place to sleep.

Another is, that "they can't jail you for thinking . . ." Ah, but they can and they do.

In Hull, Quebec, the other day a man went to penitentiary for two years (he could have been given fourteen) because he planned to rob a bank first and then a grocery store. And when arrested he wasn't near either of them, nor in anyone's company. He was just minding his business when the police checked him. They also checked the contents of his pockets. There they found he had drawn a neat and tidy plan of the bank and grocery store. The date of the robbery he had not even determined upon. But he did talk too much, thinking he was safe, he glibly agreed he had robbery in his mind.

The idea was expensive. For thinking, meditatively that is—without such an aide memoire as is represented by a sketch—nothing could have been done to him. Or even for having the sketch — without revealing his thoughts beyond, say, expressing an artist's interest in draftsmanship — nothing could have been done to him.

But under Section 406 of the Criminal Code (rarely used because it is so difficult to prove intent without expressive action) it is a crime to plan a crime when the planning goes even as far as map-making.

Ideas can be dangerous.

Own Plants Come First

Windsor Star

Cancellation by the Canadian Government of a $20,000,000 aircraft order in the United Kingdom, of planes for the R.C.A.F., may seem paradoxical in view of the government's professed desire to increase trade with that country. There is, however, no contradiction.

The Government's proposal was to transfer 15 percent of Canadian imports from United States to United Kingdom sources. Nothing was said about transferring production from Canadian plants to British plants. The reneging on the order is designed to provide work in the Canadian aircraft industry.

There would be terrific furor if the Government were to give preference to buying from the United Kingdom, instead of from Canadian companies, during this period of unemployment.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 22nd., 1938

From our file copy at this time in 1888: The drinking fountains which are to be installed by the water works company have arrived and are on display in front of the company's office. Also from the same file copy in 1888: Mr. John R. Orr will assume control of the Madoc Weekly Review on April 1st.

Several Front Street business places are having new awnings installed.

City paved roadways emerged through the winter in better condition than was expected according to information given today by the public works department. This week the work of cold patching the holes left by the heaving frost has been commenced. Tons of sand and cinders used on icy walks and roads during the winter are also being removed this week.

The present spell of mild weather worries the maple syrup makers; they hope yet to have some cold weather. The sap is not flowing in any quantity to amount to anything. One farmer stated today, "If we don't get some cold weather soon, the public will surely pay a high price for what syrup may be available."

From our file copy at this time in 1888: New telephone subscribers this week are: R. P. Hamilton, George Hope and Caverly Bros. grocery.

30 YEARS AGO

March 22nd., 1928

A successful and enjoyable concert was given at Holloway Street Church last evening under the auspices of the Sunday School Orchestra which is composed of the following: conductor, Garn E. Dobbs; violins, Fred Howard, B. Sills, P. McMullen and G. Brown; saxophones, E. E. Moynes, F. Clarke and J. Larke; cornets, G. G. Gazley and Frank Howard; trombone, W. J. Jordan; bass violin, W. B. Haines; banjo, A. Cole.

Mr. Austin Walters is home from Queen's University, Kingston, to spend a few days.

Capt. Allan Harper of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal is spending some time at the head office of the bank in Montreal.

Mrs. A. M. Climo of Cleveland, Ohio, spent the weekend here with her sister, Mrs. B McMurray, West Bridge Street

From our file copy at this time in 1898: Two Chinamen have arrived here direct from China and may locate here.

From our file copy at this time in 1898: Give manager Fred Adams a bumper house at the performance of the "White Crook" at the opera house this evening.

40 YEARS AGO

March 22nd., 1918

The immense jam of ice in the Moira River extending from the lower bridge to the vicinity of the G. T. R. railway bridge commenced to move and in a few minutes it was carried by the great volume of water behind it towards the bay. It was, however, arrested when it came in contact with the C.P.R. bridge at the junction of Front and Dundas Sts. and here it is held at present. When the jam came down some damage was done to stables and sheds in the rear of the Queen's Hotel and the old Victoria Hotel premises. The water is some lower on the west side of the river, but a miniature Niagara is raging on Front St. from the fire hall to the railway bridge. The Springer Lock plant is completely surrounded by ice and water as are also a number of houses in the same locality. From the corner of West Bridge Street to Water Street, Coleman Street is completely closed with ice. The water has receded from Everett Street. Conditions are still bad.

50 YEARS AGO

March 22nd., 1908

At a meeting of the city council Mr. James G. Lindsay of Guelph was appointed city engineer and Mr. Thomas Gardner was re-engaged as manager of the gas department.

Mr. Harry W. Greenleaf is visiting the automobile show in Toronto.

Mr. W. C. Mikel, city solicitor, is in Toronto on city business in connection with the Telephone Bill which is now before the legislature.

It is about time some activity should be shown with regards to the game of baseball here this summer. Lovers of the game should get busy and get some organization formed.

Blue Patches Mean Spring

Cleveland Plain Dealer

You look up into the gray sky—and you see patches of blue.

You know that spring is still a short while away, and that when it does arrive nothing will be greatly changed. It may bow in with a snowstorm, although the worst our Old Farmer's Almanac predicts is "cold wind."

You remember the saying: "When you can tread on nine daisies at once, spring has come," and you realize you are rushing the season. But you can't help yourself. Those patches of blue in the gray sky have done it.

Where do poets get the idea that spring is exclusively a young man's season? To be sure man eventually arrives at the point where, if a pretty girl went tripping by a bed of tulips he would not fail to see the tulips.

But he would also see the girl. Unless she were a pretty girl he might prefer to return his gaze to the tulips but this is simply an indication of the selectivity which comes with increasing years. After all, a beautiful tulip is easier to look at than a homely girl.

No matter how old a fellow gets, spring puts the spirit of youth and enthusiasm back in his bones. His step becomes lighter, possibly because he no longer has to wear overshoes and can shed his coat, although we would prefer to think it is the magic of the season.

You look up through the gray sky — and you see patches of blue. It is, somehow, symbolic of life itself. From time to time, amid all the sorrows and troubles and complexities of this world, patches of blue show themselves, just as they did in simpler days. You encounter acts of kindness or straight thinking in high places or quiet heroism in places not so high.

Winter is almost over, and it's good to be alive, with a job to do and another day in which to do it. True, we can't tread on nine daisies at once; we can't even find one lovely dandelion! But the magic is in our blood; we have seen the patches of blue, and so can anyone else who looks up.

Strength for The Day

DON'T MAKE THAT MISTAKE

"Be no anxious for the morrow," said Jesus to His disciples.

He did not mean by this that we are not to plan for the future. Quite the contrary. "Which of you," He asked His hearers on one occasion, "desiring to build a tower doth not sit down and count the cost? . . . " And again He said, "Or what king, as he goeth to encounter another kind in war, will not sit down first and take counsel, whether he is able with ten thousand men to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?" Jesus wanted us to be thoughtful and to plan carefully every move we make.

But what He dinned into men's ears incessantly is the great truth that the issue of events is not in men's hands. We do not have control over the next minute or the next second. We may do certain things which appear to produce certain results, and they may produce far different results. The issues of life are in God's hands — they always have been and they always will be. We can plan in the present, and should, but the future is in God's hands. He may bring events to a climax which appears to us to be shocking, disappointing, and in every way unsatisfactory, yet viewed years later, the whole circumstance appears filled with blessings.

Leave the issue of events in God's hands. It is none of your business, or mine.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

My Aunt Madge feels particularly proud of those fellows who recently crossed the Antarctic continent because, in addition to all the other hazards they faced, there was always that danger of them falling off into space.

The farther north she goes, the safer Aunt Madge feels. On the one or two occasions on which she has visited Florida or California, she has had that nasty feeling of sliding. She was down on that side of the earth that bulges out towards eternity, and she had the fearsome sensation that she was dangling.

You see, Aunt Madge was brought up in a parson's home, in the library of which was one of those round globes representing the earth. A handsome large globe, tilted slightly to one side, on which you could see the continents and oceans. It gave her a nice sense of security to see how far up towards the top we Canadians live. Even going up to the summer cottage, a hundred miles north, afforded her a pleasant sense of extra confidence. One was not so aware of whirling.

The question now is: by what authority to we set the globe in the position we do? How do we know which way is up? Down in Australia, down-under, as we say, do they set the globe the way we do? Or do they turn it upside down, so that the antipodes are up?

I would, if I were an Australian. So would Aunt Madge.

For there is not the slightest justification for imagining that the Arctic is the top and the Antarctic the bottom.

In the eternal mystery of space, there is no up and no down.

Belleville in the '90s

EDITOR TO THE RESCUE

Article 12

At Campbellton, N.B., on or about July 12, 1899, Chief Duncan snooping around the railway yards was to make a historic catch. He had picked up two men answering to the description of Pare and Holden, who had escaped some days before from the Napanee, Ontario, county jail where they were being held for sentence after being found guilty of robbing the Dominion Bank. Inspector Greer, Toronto, was sent to Campbellton to identify the men, and return them to Napanee.

The Napanee bank robbery, some time before, was the big story of that era. After the robbery the police were to learn that two strangers had been hanging around the district, they had been seen in Deseronto where they had patronized the hotels. Eventually these men were arrested and they gave the names of Pare and Holden, which may or may not have been true. It was the belief they were Americans.

At the trial the suspects were stoutly defended by legal counsel who was to drag in the name of a bank teller, a Belleville man, as an accessory to the extent that he had given the robbers the combination of safe or vault, or both.

However, the teller's lawyer had learned that Arthur Gravelle, editor of the Renfrew Journal, had shown that there was no combination that he could not master, so Gravelle was brought to Napanee. The editor was to open the bank safe or vault without much difficulty.

The teller and a second Belleville man, who allegedly had been seen in the company of Pare and Holden at various times prior to the robbery, were to be freed of all connection with the crime, to be returned to their jobs in good standing. Found guilty Pare and Holden were taken to the county jail to await sentence, but they were to escape. The jailer was to learn later from their own lips that Pare had picked the lock of his cell, that of his partner's cell, the lock leading to the yard and the fence that could be scaled. The men then caught a freight train heading east and to be picked up in N.B. as reported above. They were given long terms in Kingston penitentiary but in the meantime most of the large sum of stolen money was recovered.

To Your Good Health

WHITE BLOOD CELLS ACT AS NATURE'S DEFENCE

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is a white blood count? What causes it? And can it be corrected? —H.V."

A white blood count is a calculation of the number of white cells in the blood. Blood, you see, is a mixture of red cells, white cells and a variety of other things, all of which are useful and necessary.

So, you see, you test the blood for various things. The commonest "blood count" is a count of the red corpuscles, or cells — there are 80 billions or so in a cubic inch. It is more practical to count the number in a cubic millimeter (between four and five million) and that "count" is calculated by using a microscope and counting the number of cells in a very small amount of blood indeed. (That is why it is possible to test the blood in various ways by taking only the amount of blood that you get from pricking the finger.)

One of the essential matters shown in a count of the red cells is whether the patient is anemic.

Now let's go on to the white cells. They are much larger than the red cells, but not nearly as numerous. There is only one white cell to every 500 or 1,000 red cells. Even so, there are millions of them, and several thousand in each public millimeter.

The major purpose of white cells is to protect against infection. They gobble up and carry away germs. A wound becomes sore and "festers." Pus appears. This is nature's defence — the white corpuscles attacking the unclean invaders.

THEY FLOCK TO WOUND

If you cut your finger, white cells will flock to the wound, consuming bacteria, as well as clotted blood or dead skin which have been left at the site of the wound

The number of white cells is automatically adjustable in the body. Babies usually have about twice as many white cells, per cubic inch, as an adult — nature's protection, evidently, for the wee ones.

If you have an infection in your system, the number of white cells will increase because more of them are needed. In severe cases, there may be even 10 times as many white cells.

So now we get down to your question. An unusually high white cell count, thus, becomes a useful indication in determining whether an infection of some sort is present.

The cells themselves are good. They are a protection for you. But if the count is too high, then the next step is to find out where the infection is, in order to correct the infection. Once it is controlled, the white count will go back to normal.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Several years ago I had an operation for a tubular pregnancy and had the right tube and ovary removed. This year I had another operation and had the left tube removed, but I still have the left ovary and still have my periods. Can I still become pregnant? —L.L.T."

You cannot become pregnant without at least one of the tubes, so the answer is no. But menstruation is a reaction to secretions from the ovary (either one or both) and the tube is not essential for this. Therefore, since you have one ovary and the uterus, menstruation should be regular.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Does the thyroid gland have anything to do with the growth or condition of one's hair? — Mrs. M.E."

Yes, it has considerable to do with hair and skin. In hypothyroidism (under-activity of thyroid) the hair tends to be thin, lustreless, dry, lifeless. There may be loss of hair. Eyebrows may be thin at the outer portion, and the skin tends to be coarse and dry.

In hyperthyroidism (over-activity of thyroid) the hair is abundant and lively, the skin tends to be moist. If you are having trouble, it makes plenty of sense to have the thyroid checked by a basal metabolism test, or by what we know as the protein-bound iodine test.

Want to lose weight? It can be done if you follow the advice given in my pamphlet, "The Lost Secret Of Reducing." For a copy, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Radar Caught Its Inventor

Ottawa Journal

In October, 1954, Sir Robert Watson-Watt was driving into Port Hope when he heard a police siren and drew into the side of the road. An Ontario Provincial policeman told him he was charged with driving at an excessive speed which had been recorded by radar. Lady Watson-Watt replied: "You may be interested to know that King George VI knighted my husband for inventing radar."

Sir Robert in his book "Three Steps to Victory" quotes the constable as saying:

"I don't know who invented anything. I know you were driving at an excessive speed."

The upshot of the conversation was that Sir Robert paid $12.50 in a fine and went on his way "unrejoicing."

Sir Robert's book, the personal account of radar's great pioneer, has been received in the United Kingdom with some criticism, one reviewer commenting that the author apparently wants to establish not only that he is the father of radar but the grandfather as well. This Ontario incident, set amid the pages of achievement in creating instruments to watch the German air invasion and plot its defeat, makes Sir Robert a man who retains the ability to laugh at himself. With that what may appear boastfulness is more readily forgiven.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

INFLUENCE

Influence is the fastest travelling commodity in the world. There is no end to it. Each of us is influenced daily by someone, somewhere. Even by those who have never met us or had anything to do with us. Influence — what a wonderful thing to gain. We don't know when we are influencing someone else, but we do know that the power of influence for good is something that has no end. Think of the influence of Abraham Lincoln, nearly a hundred years since his death. That influence keeps spreading. As Secretary Stanton said after Lincoln's last life breath had been given out, "Now He Belongs to the Ages."

Great influence is something that does belong to the Ages. If man is immortal, and I believe that he is, then to have influence can count for more than anything else in this world. It can waft love around the earth or stagnate it. Influence is not delegated alone to the learned or famous. Think of the influence of the baby, Jesus, in that manger in Bethlehem Every day spreads that influence and creates it anew. We carry with us the influences of our youth, and they may out our path behind our hopes or ideals and those other ways that warm our hearts in humility, to touch up our world with tints of Kindness, Unselfishness, and Understanding. The power of influence is impossible to appraise adequately. Think of that woman in the Bible who gave her two mites — all that she had. The story of Croesus and his wealth is nothing when compared to that poor woman who gave all that she had.

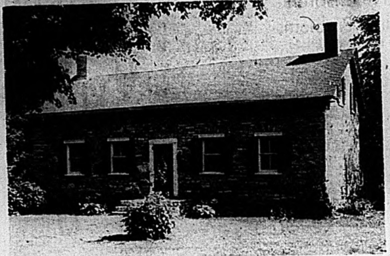
Old Houses of the Quinte Area



Built before 1792, lovers of Old Historical Houses are indebted to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson, present owners of the Manor House in Wellington, who have carefully pointed the original stone, once completely covered with stucco. The two original fireplace chimneys which rise from cellar to roof, at each end of the house, are intact as well as the hand-made, upstairs railing and bannister.

By Viva Richmond Graham

THE MANOR HOUSE

"We came, we saw, we — stayed!" explained Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson about the purchase of the Manor House in Wellington, the oldest stone house in Prince Edward County. "We just happened to be on a motor trip, with little thought of settling down, even though we have lived in many parts of Ontario, moving in and out of twenty-one various houses, until — almost without a moment's notice, we had lost our hearts to this house, which fortunately was for sale, and find ourselves happily settled. for the first time in our lives."

As fans of afternoon sunlight bathe it in the palest of an amethyst haze, the stone house stands as something ageless out of history into life. Tinted by the hand of time, it is arresting, yet strangely pleasing. Though there are additions to it at the back, the front is intact with its "'four windows and a door", while the floor plan of the original interior is still maintained with a wide hall dividing two rooms that are spacious and well proportioned.

Modern innovations would seem too impertinent, and its owners wish to preserve its early Canadian heritage of a lovely beauty patterned in with field stone, held together by plaster which to this day will dull the chisel; and even such imperfections as the absence of a lintel over two of the four front windows; these are priceless, not in terms of success or value, but in an atmosphere of loveliness which lingers in the mind.

HISTORY OF THE HOUSE

"Yes, naturally, we are interested in the history of this house and we felt fortunate to possess a copy of a letter written by Mrs. Tom Garret kindly given to us by her granddaughter, Mrs. (Edith) Beryl Oliver, which reads:

"The history of this old Manor, I will try to give as correct an account as can be given . . . My Mother, Ellen Jones . . . was born in this country, married in this house, therefore, is a true born Canadian. She has a retentive memory and is one of the daughters of our hardy pioneers and United Empire Loyalists. She remembers the founder of this "Manor" and adjoining land (of) eight hundred acres.

"Daniel Reynolds was born in Stanford, Connecticut, of English descent. His father was an officer in the English Army.

"He died in the service in the Revolutionary War, leaving his wife and family to his son, who was only eighteen years of age. They left Stanford, and settled in Duchess County, N. Y. Leaving his mother, he came to Canada as a trapper, hunter and trader in furs which he bought from the Indians. Reynolds took his furs to Albany, N. Y., once a year rowing across Lake Ontario. We do not know the date of his final settlement. But when he brought his mother over, he settled (first) on an island in one of the small lakes. He bought it from the Indians . . . then, let the Indians have it back. They sold it to the next settler, Isaac Garret, my husband's grandfather. (The descendants still own it, having to buy it from the Government, after having it over a hundred years. It is called Garret's Island.)

"Daniel Reynolds built this 'Manor'." The squaws and Indians carried the stones from the beach and worked faithfully until finished. It is built of stone, one and one-half storeys high, four windows and a door in the front and the same at back. The walls are two feet thick. The beams on which the floor rests are eighteen inches thick, solid oak, eleven in number and to brace these timbers at each end, there are red cedar posts, eight or ten inches in diameter.

LARGE CELLAR

"The cellar is divided into three sections. The middle (had a large door which accommodated a horse and sleigh to unload logs within), while the two outside rooms were heated by fireplaces, One was . . . a basement kitchen where all the cooking was done at the large fireplace. The old oven was where the bread and pies were baked since my time which I can well remember . . .

"The boards, many of them hewn, never having seen a saw or plane were put down with wooden pegs; no nails in those days. One door with a wooden lock is still intact. The glass was brought on one of . . ." end of letter. But from a copy of Mrs. Oliver's letter it says: "Glass was brought from Oswego or Rochester by Grandfather Reynolds when he used to row across the lake a couple of times a year to sell his furs. Some of the original panes are in those windows across the back.'

"We, also have read and heard how Reynolds used to allow the Indians to come and sleep before the huge fireplace in the kitchen of this cellar but it is said, he never allowed them "upstairs" meaning in the house proper, and see, up there, where the boards of the ceiling are cut, you can tell where the stairway used to run. The kind of stairs that you could pull up after you.

"Reynolds, we understand was considered a past-master in the art forming friendships. Especially with Indians. He became firm friends with the Indian Chief of the tribes that lived along the Lake Shore here. It seems the Chief was called "Smoke" and that this name clung to Reynolds himself, when identified by the white settlers who gradually settled around him. In time the small settlement on the shores of Lake Ontario became known as "Smokeville" and the name was used until the Wellington post office was opened.

NURSED BY INDIANS

"The erection of this house took considerable time, it seemed, and it was while the work was in progress that Reynolds suddenly took ill with a strange malady which made him unconscious and delirious. Nor did the Indians desert him in his helplessness, proving themselves trusty and efficient nurses. Their treatment proved successful, using brewed herbs and native remedies, until at last, after many weeks, he was fully recovered and in possession of his usual good strength and vigor. Later he journeyed to New York and returned with fifteen-year old Nancy Wait as his bride. Six sons and two daughters were born to them in this house . . ."

The smoke of the friendly Indians and their way of life have vanished from these shores at Wellington as if blown away by the Great Lake breezes to beyond the sea. The garden slopes gently toward the lake.

A strange sensation takes possession of the mind. This surely is tht magic defined by Freya Stark "The Lycian Shore" as being a flash where the universe, which surges up through a creature, who becomes ear, or eye — an unresisting vehicle — void of self, filled and replenished with sights and sounds and feelings that move in and out of perception. . . and this awareness "steals over and moves with unhampered shadows of trees upon the grass and amid the solitary rustling of budded branches, so that the sound is almost visualized of the tireless carrying to and fro of the stone by Indians; of a glimpse in 1792 of the convalescing Lady Simcoe whose eyes watched these same waters during her six-week rest and visit with Nancy Reynolds, and who enchanted the friendly Indians and graciously received their gathered and brewed herbs for her recovery. Or the slight, lanky youth who spoke with fire and sincerity on these very grassy slopes, while someone remarked: "Here's a man who will go far. Watch him." But young John A. Macdonald, erstwhile was welcome and content to rest here, often before the great fireplace in the parlor, asleep and rolled up in blankets on the floor.

But what of Daniel Reynolds, the creator of this structure of stone. What manner of man was he? What was his gift to us in this modern age?

GOT TOO CROWDED

"The district is becoming too crowded," he is quoted as saying, when the second white family settled in this vicinity, and added that they had better move on. He said this doubtless because of his trapping and furs rather than from a desire to avoid his fellowmen.

But consider the life of insecurity as he lived it here. It was a great achievement. Such a life does not allow a man to forget the "fundamental sense of proportion between the universe and man." Life acquires meaning more important than any circumstance, and "this freedom of the soul in which all things happen, come and go, makes (the pioneer) splendid." He finds a peace, a happiness and certain freedom for infinity lies about him unquestioned. This, perhaps unspoken. Reynolds felt while living in the Wilderness.

Two homes in Roblin's Mills Ameliasburg township are discussed in next Saturday's article.

Have 350 Donors, Need 1,150 More For Blood Clinic

With the free blood transfusion service now less than a month old, the Belleville and district branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society reports that over 350 persons from Belleville and vicinity have volunteered to date as donors for the Tuesday evening clinics being held at Belleville General Hospital.

The Bank of Montreal staff takes top honors to date with the highest ratio of donors. Corby's Distillery comes next with approximately 25 per cent of its employees signing cards as volunteers. Members of several service clubs, Rotary, Kiwanis, Y's Men and So-Ed, have signed up as volunteers, as have members of several church organizations, men's organizations, women's organizations, etc.

The response of individuals by telephone to Red Cross headquarters has been very encouraging, also the response by direct mail by donors at previous Red Cross donor clinics.

Industry in Belleville is getting geared up to enlist volunteers but to date the results have been slow in coming in.

A team of speakers comprising Doctors T. Ryley, T. Scott, G. Stobie and Mr. Rod Cameron, chairman of the Blood Donor Clinic, is doing yeoman service talking to all service clubs, men's and women's organizations, Home and School clubs, P.T.A., church organizations, banks, businesses and industry.

Fifteen hundred donors are needed to maintain the blood bank at the Belleville General Hospital so there is a long way to go yet. To obtain these donors will require one person in every six between the ages of 18 and 65 from the city of Belleville and surrounding townships who are served by the Belleville General Hospital.

As this is a community effort for your own personal benefit will you volunteer today? Phone WOodland 2-5406.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Widow, Alone and Lonely, Pleads With Wives to Care for Husbands

By THOMAS COLLINS

"Why . . . why . . . why do our husbands have to die and leave us so alone?"

This woman is the widow of a railroad man. Four years ago, at the age of 63, he had a heart attack and died a few days later. There was not much insurance.

She was sitting on a couch in her living room. In her lap was the newspaper. She had been reading the obituary column. A few hours before she had returned home from her eight-hour-a-day job in a hospital.

"I'm too tired to go anywhere or do anything," she said. "But not too tired to say this: Tell those women who are fortunate enough to have their husbands still to love them, to cherish them, and to make life as free of tension and worry for them as they possibly can.

"The strains of everyday living in our times, when everyone thinks he has to have everything the neighbor has, are responsible, I believe, for causing so many men to die.

"Things are not important. Love and companionship are most important. And loneliness is awful . . ."

This widow, who in her time had been a PTA member and active in church and civic affairs, had to scratch for survival. She went to work in a grocery store, part time. Finally she enrolled in a school for practical nursing, and went to work in a hospital.

CASE NOT UNUSUAL

Her case is not unusual. About the only difference between her and most other mature-age widows is that she chose to fend for herself instead of moving in with her children.

Where, then, are the Golden Years for wives?

Here, until the Good Lord changes things, is where they are most likely to be

1. In marrying a man of your same age, or a man three to four years younger. Men die first nowadays.

2. In stomping your foot and demanding that your husband's health, from about age 45 on, take precedence over every other problem of the household. Groceries, bills, a leaky roof — a husband is the coin that buys a solution to all these things. Send him to a doctor at lease once a year for a physical checkup. That is essential. But also watch what his job is doing to him. Many men are simply fools in their jobs from age 55 on. Their ambition, or their desire to be adequate, drives them to take on problems and do work that will kill them. They feel they must.

Now a wife can't interfere much with a husband's job. He knows better than she what is expected of him. But at least she can question. She can argue. And thus keep him in balance. She can grow caustic if the company asks too often that he work overtime, clean up a job on Sunday, or catch a midnight plane to Keokuk.

And she can view with a cynical eye the increasing requests that her husband take his leisure time to collect funds for somebody's pet charity.

YOUR FINANCIAL STATE

3. In finding out what the family financial situation is. A woman who doesn't know, by age 50, what her husband's pension and insurance will do for her, too, is inviting disaster. A wife should understand, by age 50, how to deposit money in a bank and write a cheque; how to take various options of payment, on her husband's life insurance; how his pension can be split to provide her, also, an income until death; what cash the husband's company pays in case of death, both before and after retirement; how to borrow money, where, and for how much interest; where to invest money, how, and for how much return; what it costs for a husband to die; and how she can secure, without lawyers and fussing, the money and property he leaves.

4. And finally, in getting a job. As soon as the children are grown. Not after the husband dies. This is the economic salvation, in case everything else fails. But it is more. It is a clasping of hands with the world outside the front door. It is companionship and a reason for being, and something to do, if you are left alone.

Red Cross Executive Holds Meeting

A meeting of the executive committee of the Belleville branch of the Red Cross Society was held Monday evening with Mr. A. S. Lewis, president, occupying the chair.

The minutes of the January meeting were read by the secretary and Mr. J. H. Bowlby, treasurer, presented his report.

The committee chairmen presented reports on the women's work, homemakers, welfare, loan cupboard and disaster services. As the Red Cross campaign headquarters are now occupying the Red Cross rooms on West Bridge Street, the women's work group have moved temporarily to other quarters in order to continue their Tuesday afternoon work sessions.

Forty-four cases, involving 83 children, have been handled by the homemakers since January 1st. In addition to their regular activities, the homemakers have rendered assistance at the blood clinic at the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Lewis commented on the fact that the proposed provincial homemaker and nursing service had been mentioned in the Speech from the Throne at the February 3 opening of the Ontario legislature. This service has evolved as a direct result of the Red Cross homemaker's service and it is most encouraging to see that once again the Red Cross has been the first to see the need. Homemaker services were first started in Ontario as the visiting housekeepers in 1925.

Mr. Lewis also commented on the press report of the organization of a Quinte district association for retarded children. This, too, is an activity that received initial impetus from the Belleville branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Orthodontic treatment for a district child will commence next week under arrangements made by the welfare services. The sick room loan cupboard facilities are being increased to cope with the increasing demands for this service.

Mrs. W. Muirhead, Reg. N., reported on the home nursing course completed last month. Nine members of the class graduated and received pins while three others received acknowledgment cards signifying attendance at all lectures. It is expected another course will be made available to the public this coming fall.

Accounts for expenses for all these services were passed for payment. Mr. Rod Cameron, chairman of the blood donor committee, reported that two clinics had already been held at the Belleville General Hospital and regular clinics will be held each Tuesday in the future. The operation of the clinics had been most satisfactory from both the hospital and Red Cross points of view. In order to continue this excellent start and to maintain adequate facilities for all Belleville and district residents, it is imperative that a full panel of donors be assured for each clinic. Any person between the ages of 18 and 65 will be welcomed by the Red Cross and, if qualified, will be accepted as a regular donor. Donations of blood will not likely be requested more than twice a year.

Blitz night for the annual Red Cross financial campaign has been set for Monday, April 14.

The Ontario division annual convention will be held at Niagara Falls on April 17 and 18, and delegates were elected from the branch. Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson was elected as the representative from the Belleville branch on the executive commitee of the Ontario division for the year 1958.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

If T & T seems a bit vain it is because we are proud of the contribution the women of the Bay of Quinte community are making in the growth and development of our Dominion. Within the past few days three district women have been before the public eye directly on the provincial level and indirectly in the national scheme of things. We recall a bright and friendly child on the bus between Belleville and Foxboro. She was attending school here a few short years ago. Miss Kay Homan showed then the personality and attributes that lead to ultimate leadership. Our community is proud of this young lady who is seriously and earnestly following the path outlined in that famous verse in the New Testament: Luke 2-52. She does indeed "increase in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." Although we feel that it is safe to say that her heart is in the rural area, her activities find an outlet too in urban life as assistant recreational director of Belleville. T and T salutes Kay Homan for being selected by her fellow Junior Farmers as the new president of the Junior Farmer movement in Ontario. We wish her well in her broader field of responsibility and hope she leaves a bit of the Bay of Quinte in the United Kingdom during her two months tour of duty and that she brings back new visions for the ever expanding horizons of Canada. May a kind Providence give this young Canadian good health because she seems destined to become a leader in our country.

Then the other night we were proud of two local women taking part in a television panel, which devoted itself to the voluntary services of the Women's Hospital Auxiliaries. Mrs. J. E. Buchan of Belleville, immediate past Ontario president of Women's Hospital Auxiliaries, was the M.C. and Mrs. J. A. Magnus of Trenton was a panelist. The other members were from Kingston and Brockville. The panel happened to come fittingly and by coincidence on the evening of the same day the Belleville Auxiliary celebrated the tenth birthday of the founding of the Opportunity Shop. When we appreciate the fact that our Opportunity Shop has turned over $16,000 to the hospital locally, we begin the understand the magnitude of the contribution being made provincially by volunteer work. The panel confined its discussion to volunteer work within the hospital, a phase of the work in which Mrs. Buchan is a pioneer. We do not know how the experts assess the stream-lining of a panel program but as a layman we feel we have listened to few that flowed smoothly and were so informative as this one. Mrs. Buchan may take a bow and our community is fortunate to be able to claim a woman who has made, and is making, so great a contribution from her busy life towards so worthy an aim.

Since T & T is preoccupied with saluting women today, we may be forgiven if we remain consistent and pass along some interesting information about the women of India. It is probably impossible for us to grasp understandingly all the ramifications of the evolution going on in India. India has had its independence for only ten years. In a part of the world that relishes the use of the superlative, we should at least be impressed to know that India is the largest and greatest experiment in democracy that the history of man has ever attempted. Let us endeavor, even if success eludes us, to visualize what it means when we say that there are as many persons on the voting lists of India as there are citizens in the United States. Within ten years India has held free democratic elections that are the greatest in magnitude and the equal in probity to the best. Women vote, women sit in the state and the national parliaments. The government of India employs 20,688 women. Women are to the forefront in public relations work and leadership in this field goes to the Ministry of External Affairs where over 700 are employed. At the university and college level, women are nearly nine per cent of the teaching staff. Contrary to some opinions, women have always worked in India, but it is in the area called middle class employment that the great changes are taking place. It is hard for us to picture the women of India without seeing the image of the fine international figure of Nehru's sister, Mrs. Pandit. They are taking their place all along the scale from ministerial and ambassadorial posts to the factory and field and are most important in the humanitarian work of the nation. India should receive more attention and respect than it does. There are many who feel that the greatest test democracy has ever experienced is in free India. It takes many men sometimes to work the dials to open a great vault. It is no prognostication to say that without India, the combination necessary to open the vault of world peace will be unsatisfactory. The women of India are doing their part in opening the hidden secrets in the valut.

Re Thursday's editorial page reference to T & T:

If we may mention the packaging of brown sugar again, we are sure every housewife wants to make both big and little boys happy. While she keeps her portion of the brown sugar soft for measuring and creaming, T & T is sure she will not mind allowing some to get lumpy in a paper bag if only to ensure that the porridge is eaten. For a weekend suggestion T & T offers the saga of gooey guck and lumpy brown sugar. Boys will be boys so why not have a duel at breakfast time with guck and brown sugar lumps for weapons. Or we might have a debate — progress versus the good old days. T & T feels that the editorial goes deeper than the bottom of the porridge bowl. The polyethylene bag versus a happy boy's face—that's the question. Maybe we should pursue it further.

Holloway St. Church Holds Pleasant Tea

A pleasant and profitable afternoon was enjoyed in the church parlors of Holloway St. Church by members, new members and prospective members as they convened for their spring membership tea.

Mrs. Wilson, the president, extended a welcome and said "we wanted this to be an informal, friendly get-acquainted gathering." A hymn was sung. Mr. Coleman gave a brief, but fine, address pertaining to the Easter message.

He invited all to attend the evening services in the church from March 31 to April 3.

Mrs. Tucker favored with a lovely reading entitled "Easter Lilies."

Mrs. Downs sang two numbers with Mrs. Hubbs as accompanist. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Moorman, a past president.

Mrs. Dobbs conducted a "get-acquainted" contest. Mrs. Ellis thanked Mrs. Tucker for the fine reading, the soloist, Mrs. Downs and all who helped in making this gathering so enjoyable and worthwhile.

The committee in charge served a delicious cup of tea, dainty sandwiches and cakes. Several new members were added to the membership of the W.A.

Travelling With the Children Presents Few Minor Problems

By SHIRLEY & BOB SLOANE

Travelling with children always presents certain stock problems. Here are some of the most frequently posed questions and the answers we've been able to come up with:

1. What about unruliness?

We've finally come to the conclusion that this bothers the parents in public places far more than it does strangers, who invariably think it's just cute.

Of course, bad manners strike parents as a reflection on their upbringing techniques. But look around any restaurant with kids in it and you'll see them all putting plates on their heads, crawling under the tables and brandishing butter knives. Either there are a lot of ill-raised youngsters around or all kids are alike.

Anyway, we've never seen anyone complain to the management or react with anything but amusement at the antics of our kids or others. To maintain a sane demeanor, it's best for parents just to grin and bear it.

Unruliness in the car is inevitable, but if confined to the back seat it is, at least, harmless. Inside door handles can be removed or special lock buttons (from any auto supply store) installed on rear doors to keep the kids from popping them open.

If the brawling should become severe, it can be broken up by putting one child in front, but not without an adult there in addition to the driver to keep him from flying through the windshield on sudden stops.

2. Do children feel a sense of insecurity from sleeping in different and strange places every night?

Ours never have. It seems that children's security comes from being with their parents, no matter where.

3. Are accommodations for children generally available?

Yes. All hotels and motels can accommodate as many as two adults and three children in a single room and have suites and adjoining rooms to take care of larger families. Nearly all have cribs also.

COMMON AND ECONOMICAL

For our family of four we've found rooms with two double beds to be the most common and economical — an average of $10 a night. Our kids took a while to get used to sleeping in the same bed but are quite agreeable to it now. Separate beds are better but sometimes more expensive. They also make for more crowded rooms.

4. What about the quality of milk and water?

Well, there are children being raised in every corner of the country on locally produced milk. It's all pasteurized and our children have survived and thrived on it.

Changes in water may affect some children so it's best to stick to other beverages. Ours may be unusual, but again, have never been bothered by water either.

5. Do children develop new tastes in food?

This seems to be an individual matter, Jonathan our 4-year-old has, but Claudia, 5½, is more conservative and sticks to what she likes at home.

6. Is motion sickness a problem?

Another individual matter, but we'd guess that the earlier children are broken in to travel the less likely this is to develop. Our children never have suffered.

For those who show a tendency towards it, one of the best solutions is making sure they are occupied and are in a position to look out the window, whether it be in a car, plane, train or bus. Motion sickness results largely from a loss of visual reference to the world outside.

Fresh air helps, too. And avoid complicating things by heavy meals and difficult-to-digest dishes such as fried foods.

7. What about keeping their clothing clean?

Instead of carting along their entire wardrobe, bring durable items, preferably of the variety that doesn't require ironing. An hour and about $1.50 in a self-service laundry enroute will get all their things washed, dried, folded and ready to drip orange juice on again.

EGGLETON W.M.S. AND W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — On Thursday afetrnoon the March meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Fitchett with Mrs. Bruce Stapley presiding over the program which had been prepared by Mrs. Gordon Nelson.

The opening hymn was sung with Miss Joyce Stapley at the piano.

The theme for the devotional period was "Unto Him Every Knee Shall Bow," with Mrs. C. Fitchett giving the call to worship and prayer. All joined in singing a hymn.

For the Scripture lesson, Mrs. Maurice Clancy read the 2nd chapter of Philippians, verses 5-11 and gave a talk on the lesson.

A short discussion period followed with several taking part in answering the questions on the lesson.

The offering of $5.60 was gathered and dedicated with prayer.

The roll call showed 16 adults present with each one answering by repeating a favorite verse of Scripture.

The W.M.S. president, Mrs. Stapley, spoke a few words, welcoming the visitors, thanking Mrs. Fitchett for opening her home for the meeting, and also thanking all taking part in the program.

Mrs. Dyson expressed thanks for card received from Eggleton W.A. during her recent illness.

The W.A. president, Mrs. William McMullen, then presided for the business period.

The treasurer, Mrs. Warren Harlow, reported $37.10 proceeds of the pot-luck supper and $2.50 received for making a quilt for Mrs. Harry Clarke.

Mrs. McMullen offered her home for the April meeting and Mrs. C. Fitchett and Mrs. Frank Smith were appointed to prepare the program.

It was moved and seconded that all money be divided equally between the W.M.S. and W.A.

Bills were presented and paid. Donations, brought for the bazaar, were then displayed.

Members were requested to bring articles made of cotton to the April meeting, as that month's donation will go to the bazaar.

Plans were discussed for making a quilt early in May for Mrs. Gordon Clarke.

PAPER GIVEN

Mrs. Gordon Nelson gave an interesting paper on the life of Miss Fanny J. Crosby. Assisting her was Mrs. Forde Stapley who read the poem, "Never Give Up." This poem was later set to music. Mrs. Milton Reid also took part by reading the poem, "Hear, O Hear, and Answer Prayer."

The hymn "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour," written by Miss Crosby was sung.

The chapter from the study book, "Japan's Role In the Awakened Asia" was given by Mrs. William McMullen. The hymn, "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross" was sung and Mr. Dyson dismissed the meeting with prayer.

The hostess served refreshments and all enjoyed a social half hour.

CENTENARY W.M.S. — W.A.

CENTENARY — The W.M.S. of Centenary United Church met at the home of Mrs J. Tomalty with the president, Mrs. Byron Harder, presiding.

The meeting was opened by a reading on children's prayers. This prayer had been sent home by a Grade 4 teacher to the parents of her pupils. It contained all the things for which her pupils prayed when asked to submit a prayer. It showed how thoughtful children are. After the singing of a hymn, the minutes were read and the offering received.

An invitation from Aikens W.M.S. to attend their Easter meeting was accepted.

Mrs. E. Ray, the supply secretary, arranged for the making of two layettes and also for the purchasing of a supply allocation, namely a baby blanket and crayons.

Arrangements were made for a special evening meeting on Friday, April 18, when Miss Elva Locklin of Frankford will be the guest speaker. Miss Locklin is a registered nurse and a returned missionary from Israel. Invitations to neighboring auxiliaries were extended.

The treasurer reported and Mrs. H. Hancock brought the study book, the topic being "Students in the News." The student of Japan is very apt to become frustrated. Upon acquiring his education jobs are not plentiful. Then too, upon becoming educated to the new way of life, the Japanese student finds it hard to cope with the old Japanese philosophies.

Their parents, in so many cases, are not Christians and are not in sympathy with the students' beliefs. Some case histories were reviewed and discussed. These illustrated some of the difficulties of the Japanese students.

W.A.

The W.A. meeting followed with Mrs. R. Edmondson presiding, and was opened in the usual manner.

Messages of appreciation were received from Mrs. Blanche Roblin, Mrs. J. Sargent and the Rev. A. C. MacCallum.

A special welcome was extended to Mrs. Spicer and Mrs. Christopher, and Mrs. Tomalty was thanked for opening her home for the meeting.

The treasurer reported. Mrs. M. Nobes, who had attended the Presbyterial executive meeting in place of the president, brought back her report.

A donation was made to the John Knox Chapel.

The devotional was under the leadership of Mrs. G. Sills. Mrs. M. Nobes read the Scripture. The topic, "A Lenten Meditation," was taken by Mrs. Sills. Mrs. C. Skinkle read "My Business" and Mrs. W. Shortt read "A Prayer For A Man In A Hurry," which was followed by a reading, "Time To Pray," by Mrs. R. Thrasher.

The meeting closed with the benediction.

A Lift for Living

Man Pines for What Is Not

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Let us lift a question a learned teacher put 10 centuries ago. It is this: "How can a man be born when he is old?"

Man differs from all other living beings in his deliberate desire to change himself. So far as we can tell, other animals do not mirror themselves in their thoughts. They may strut and pout and assume attitudes that look human; but there is no evidence they are ever sorry for their vanity or have remorse for their passions.

Man, however, is incurably self-conscious. He suffers remorse for what he has been and is disturbed by dreams of what he wants to be. "He looks before and after and pines for what is not."

And yet man, who struggles so hard to make himself over, can change the lower creatures almost at will. The animals and plants now most serviceable to man have been tamed from wild types. Dogs are but reclaimed wolves and jackals. Grains, vegetables, fruits and garden flowers are the cultivated offspring of wild forms.

But when man turns to change himself, he is not so successful. In fact, he has had such poor results in improving the human species that many cynically say human nature cannot be changed; that man, for instance, is a fighting animal, always has been and always will be, and therefore wars are inevitable.

But our great philosophers take a different view of human nature. Professor William E. Hocking, long at Harvard, says: "To anyone who asserts as a dogma, 'Human nature never changes,' it is fair to reply, 'It is human nature to change itself.' " And he points out of all the animals man's infancy is longest, his instincts least fixed, his brain most unfinished at birth. Hence man differs from all other living beings in that he has more possibility and power of self-shaping.

And our Judaic-Christian religion holds ever before men the promise of improvement up toward the image of God. In the Old Testament we read, "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." And the New Testament talks about "walking in newness of life." Saint Paul congratulates some Christian converts with the words, "Seeing that you have put off the old man with his deeds and have put on the new man." Yes, men can be made over.

But first let us realize we cannot change the pattern of our lives, we cannot change the perversity of our sinful natures, unless we want to do it most desperately. And I wonder how many of us seriously want to change ourselves.

Oh, of course many of us desire to change the conditions of our living. We want the world made better. We want salvation for ourselves and our loved ones. But we can crave all this, and still not really desire to change our own lives. If we would be born again, the first thing to get clear is that it is ourselves and not our mere surroundings which we desire to change.

Secondly, let us see that the Christian principle in reshaping our natures is to "overcome evil with good." Evil is to be driven out as darkness is driven out, for evil is the absence of light. We cannot drive darkness out of a room with a broom or a sword. We turn on the light and the shadows flee.

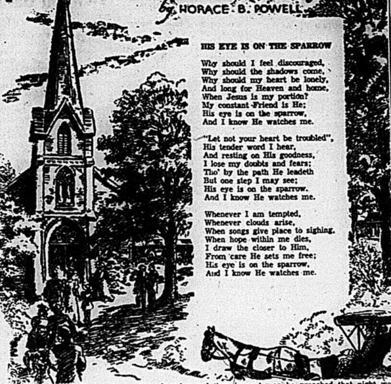
Similarly, the best way to conquer a bad habit is not to set the teeth and focus the mind on fighting the temptations. That serves to fasten the sinful thing more firmly in the imagination and strengthens the pull toward it. The better way is to fill the mind with good ideas to displace the bad, or in Paul's figure of speech to "put on the new man" and make "the old sinful man" look shabby. This is why religious faith helps our will power.

An active worker in my church ten years ago was a drunkard. The friendliness which once made him so congenial at the bars makes him now so valuable in the pew. William Booth was by nature pugnacious, but his fighting spirit was converted and he became General William Booth of the Salvation Army, a fighter for God.

The basic drives of human nature cannot be destroyed but they can be redirected by God's help and into His service.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



HIS EYE IS ON THE SPARROW

Why should I feel discouraged,
Why should the shadows come,
Why should my heart be lonely,
And long for Heaven and home,
When Jesus is my portion?
My constant Friend is He;
His eye is on the sparrow,
And I know He watches me.

"Let not your heart be troubled",
His tender word I hear,
And resting on His goodness,
I lose my doubts and fears;
Tho' by the path He leadeth
But one step I may see;
His eye is on the sparrow,
And I know He watches me.

Whenever I am tempted,
Whenever clouds arise,
When songs give place to sighing,
When hope within me dies,
I draw the closer to Him,
From care He sets me free;
His eye is on the sparrow,
And I know He watches me.

One day, nearly half a century ago, the Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Martin were visiting some ailing friends in Elmira, New York and were much impressed by a Christian testimony given by the convalescents.

Mrs. Martin found in the testimony message the inspiration for her hymn, "His Eye Is On The Sparrow". When she finished her verses, she sent them to Charles H. Gabriel and Mr. Gabriel promptly supplied a tune, just as he already had done for "The Glory Song", "More Like The Master", "Some Bright Morning" and a host of other gospel gems. The new song soon was ringing through evangelistic meetings across America and then jumped across the Atlantic to England where revivals were being conducted at the time by the famous Torrey-Alexander party.

The Martins are best known to Christians of the world for their hymn, "God Will Take Care Of You", which they wrote together one Sunday night in New York while Mrs. Martin was gravely ill. Mr. Martin was so concerned about his wife that he was about to cancel a preaching date which he had made. Then his little son said, comfortingly, "Don't worry, daddy. God will take care of mother while you are away".

The father changed his mind about staying home and the sermon he preached that night won many converts for Christ. Returning home, he found Mrs. Martin much improved. He found, too, that she had written some verses while he was preaching — verses which soon became the hymn, "God Will Take Care Of You".

It was Mr. Martin who wrote the music for this favorite hymn. The hymn was used by Pennsylvania Christian Endeavorers as the theme song for their 1910 state convention, held in Altoona. It is reported that a convention visitor, impressed by the hymn message, stepped to the front of the hall at the close of one of the meetings to ask how he might become a Christian.

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Gabriel, Busiest Archangel

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Monday, March 24 — As far as things to look after on earth are concerned, the busiest archangel of all the heavenly host has been Gabriel, who is honored in the Christian calendar today.

His name means "man of God." He is, and apparently always has been, God's chief messenger, and is known also as the prince of fire and thunder, and the angel of death. It is expected that when the Judgment Daay arrives it will be Gabriel who will be in charge of letting everyone know about it. He will blow his horn to herald the dreadful event.

The reason for this expectation has been lost and forgotten. Probably it is because Gabriel has been the intermediary in every other important message God has sent to man. It is only natural to suppose he will handle this one, too.

Gabriel appears in many references besides those in the Bible. In literature, Milton ("Paradise Lost") says he is one of the guards placed over paradise, and Longfellow, in the "Golden Legend," calls him the angel of the moon and states that he brings to man the gift of hope.

Moslems call him the spirit of truth, one of the "four favored angels." In their Koran (Moslem scriptures) Gabriel is credited with having revealed to Mohammed all the prophetic lore that great leader imparted to his followers, and finally to have taken Mohammed to the Garden of Allah.

In the Old Testament this friendly spirit is said to have explained visions to Daniel (Daniel, chapter 8, verse 16, and chapter 9, verse 21), to have shown Joseph the way to his brothers when he was looking for them and was lost (Genesis, chapter 37, verse 15) and to have been one of the angels who buried Moses (Deuteronomy, chapter 34, verse 6.) Although his name is not mentioned in the latter two of these incidents, ancient tradition says it was Gabriel.

Longfellow was indeed accurate in saying Gabriel is the bringer of hope to mankind. His two appearances in the New Testament give him undisputed right to that title. In St. Luke, chapter 1, verse 11, he announced to Zacharias the coming birth of St. John the Baptist, and in verses 26 to 31 of the same chapter he brought the most hopeful, most important news man has ever had: the announcement to Mary that she was to bring forth a Son whose name was to be called Jesus.

Tomorrow is the day traditionally kept by the Christian Church as the anniversary of the Annunciation to Mary. It is appropriate that Gabriel is honored on the day before the memorial of his greatest assignment.

In some parts of Europe wild geese are called Gabriel's hounds. The legend behind this figure of speech is that the geese are unbaptizd souls, doomed to wander until Gabriel's horn summons them on the Day of Judgment.

BLIND HYMN WRITER

Also Monday — Today, in 1820, was the birthday of one of American Protestantism's best-known hymn writers, Fanny Crosby, in the town of Southeast, New York. Her real, and full, name was (Mrs.) Frances Jane Crosby Van Alstyne.

Blind from the age of six weeks, Fanny Crosby produced many familiar hymns, of which the most widely known is probably "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

She also wrote much secular music. Still cherished is her famous "There's Music in the Air."

Fanny Crosby died in 1915.

A LONG, LONG HYMN

Friday, March 28 — Americans tend not to realize that there are in the United States some five and a half million members of the Eastern Orthodox churches — Greek, Armenian, Russian, etc. Together they form a group larger than many of the communions with which we are so familiar we just naturally think of them as being the largest. Actually, there are more Orthodox Christians in America than there are Presbyterians or Episcopalians or Congregationalists or Lutherans.

The Orthodox are an important part of American religious life. They have continued to adhere to their ancient Old World traditions not because of any stubborn resistance to assimilation, but because of a conviction that they have a definite contribution to make to Western culture.

Christianity, they say — with all the facts to back them up — was born and nurtured in the East, within the framework and idiom of the Eastern culture, and the orthodox churches can therefore contribute a purity of unbroken tradition that comes down through the ages from the earliest times.

Today in the Orthodox churches is known as the Day of the Akathist Hymn, which is an old hymn divided into four parts because of its extreme length, with one part sung on each of the first four Fridays in Lent. It is a hymn of thanksgiving for the deliverance of the city of Constantinople at a time in the ninth century when that great Christian center was besieged by an idolatrous and non-Christian army.

QUESTION:

. . . Mrs. Moore, I found a recipe for Butterscotch Squares. I don't know whose, but shouldn't it have flour in it? Butterscotch Squares: Two cups quick cooking rolled oats, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup brown sugar, packed, ½ cup butter melted, ½ teaspoon vanilla. After blending thoroughly, spread thinly in 2 8 x 8 ungreased pans. Press down with back of spoon. Bake in mod.-slow oven 300 degs. Fahr. about 20 minutes, until golden brown. Let stand 5 minutes. Cut into squares. Would be pleased to know if the above is correct, as I was going to make them . . . Mrs. C. B.

ANSWER:

Your recipe is correct. Here is another rolled oats cookie.

HAWAIIAN NUT BARS:

One cup sifted all-purpose flour, ¼ teaspoon each soda, salt, 3-3 cup brown sugar, 1-3 cup soft shortening, 1 egg, 1-3 cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats, uncooked, ½ cup nuts, ½ cup cocoanut. Sift together flour, soda and salt. Add sugar, shortening, egg, milk and vanilla. Beat until smooth, about 2 minutes. Blend in rolled oats, nuts and cocoanut. Spread in greased 7 x 11-inch pan. Bake at 350 degs. Fahr. 25 to 30 minutes. Remove from oven and cover with Hot Orange Glaze: Combine ½ cup sugar and 3 tablespoons orange juice in saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil 3 minutes and add 1 teaspoon grated orange rind. Whtn cool cut into bars.

LETTER:

Last fall I read how you saved the sauce, apple that is — by adding gelatin, and it was delish. I tried it. Now I am going to tell you how to save the apple peelings and make winter apple jelly. I bought a bushel of Kings and they have the loveliest red skins and I just hated to give them to the garbage can, and as I usually bake 2 or 3 pies weekends, there usually are a nice lot of peelings. So I just dumped them in a kettle, added water to half the depth as apple peels, then simmered them till soft . . . squeezed through a jelly bag . . . If I haven't extracted enough juice I put it in a jar in frig and keep it until apple pie weekend again, and the jelly is just out of this world.

(NOTE FROM EMEM:

Heat 6 cups apple juice to boiling. Add 1 box certo crystals and boil up. Now add 7 cups sugar, stir, bring to full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute stirring. Remove from heat, skim. Pour into hot jelly glasses at once). I had a jar of canned raspberries which had turned soft but not spoiled so I took the juice from them and mixed with apple juice. Now everywhere fights for the Razapple Jelly. Those folks with deep freezers who pack away a dozen pies could really go into the jelly biz . . . Mrs. H. W. S.

ANSWER:

You are resourceful one! Thanks from me and from our readers — many of whom, I am sure, will bless you for this economical idea.

GOOD MANNERS

CONDOLENCE-CALLS NEED NOT BE RETURNED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have lived in this New England town for only about three years, and I know the people here are inclined to be conservative, although they are really very kind. We have found this out in our church connections, and now again they have been thoughtful and understanding, and I want to do the right thing about this.

My beloved sister, who lived with us, died recently, and many of these neighbors called to express their condolence, and to offer their services. I was too devastated to receive them, and my husband explained this to them. I am sure they understood, but now I am wondering if I am expected to return these calls. Please direct me about this. — W.

A condolence-call is not returned . . . not expected to be returned. And I am sure these kind neighbors of yours would not want you to try to take on this burden. However, I do think that if it is at all possible for you, you should make some gesture of appreciation to these neighbors for their kindness, and I suggest you write a note of thanks to each one . . . just one or two gracious sentences.

"NO ASSISTANCE," PLEASE . . . THAT'S THE RULE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My girl friend says it's correct for a girl to help a boy put on his coat when he is leaving her house or when they are leaving a movie theatre. I disagree, as I think boys resent this assistance. Who's right? — Sue

You are!

ADDRESSING INVITATION TO TWO SISTERS AND BROTHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am having problems with addressing my wedding invitations. Because of my limited budget I could order only a limited number of invitations, and I'm trying to make one invitation cover a family. The other day in your column you gave directions how to do this when mother and father and children were to be included, and I'm following your practical directions. Another question: When I address one invitation to two sisters, unmarried, and a bachelor brother, who live at the same address, what is a correct form? — M.

On the outside envelope write the sisters' names separately, the older first, and the brother's name underneath. Like this:

Miss Mary Clark
Miss Janet Clark
Mr. Thomas Clark

On the inside envelope:

The Misses Clark
Mr. Clark

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Evelyn S. — The money keeps draining away.

Joe S. — I want to give her the best of everything.

• • •

Evelyn S. — What woman would cry when given a mink stole for Christmas? Well, I did — and they weren't tears of joy either.

My husband and I both work — and hard. Supposedly we are saving for a home and family, but the money keeps draining out of our bank account like out of a leaking faucet. We both like nice things, but I try to keep the brakes down a bit. My husband just doesn't know limits. We still owe money on our furniture and car.

We have been married nearly three years and are not much nearer our goal than when we started married life. We have tried sticking to a budget, but it doesn't seem to work.

• • •

Joe S. — I come from a family of eight and we never had anything outside of the bare necessities — and not always those. I always used to dream about being rich and driving around in a classy car.

Well, I see now that I'm never going to be rich, but I can have some of the things I've always wanted. Once we have a family Evelyn and I will never be able to do the things we do now. It's a wonderful feeling to know that there's money in your pocket and you can do whatever you like with it.

Evelyn has never had much either and it gives me a big thrill to be able to give her the best of everything. She has a right to it.

The Council: We all really want the best of everything, don't we? The question is what is the best.

Economists and social thinkers often point out that our idea of what is beautiful and desirable is dictated by many factors that have nothing to do with the object itself. Who can prove that a diamond is more beautiful than a bit of glass or a pebble gleaming in the sun at the beach?

It is natural to want the things our society values, but unless we are aware that these things have a very passing and relative value, we are left with nothing very real in the end.

Evelyn shows some awareness of these facts, but she doesn't hold to her beliefs strongly enough. The budget won't work of itself. It has to be made to work and that calls for effort and will power and a constant awareness of the real goal.

Fortunately, a working couple in our society can have many good things and still save for the future. Even sticking to the strictest budget, Evelyn and Joe can live better than young couples in any other part of the world. They should remember this when they feel that need to spend the "extra" money in their pockets.

Many individuals with "itching wallet" have found tricks to keep themselves in line. One of these is to allow a small sum each week for "squandering." A five- or ten-dollar bill set aside purely for fun may give Joe something of the same thrill he experiences when he spends far larger sums. Try it, Joe!

The Week's News

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The election campaign chugged merrily along, and nomination day showed that there will be no "free rides" to the House of Commons on March 31.

Nomination day ensured a contest in every constituency—there were no acclamations when the deadline passed across the country.

Among the 832 candidates were 265 Progressive Conservative followers of Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who is seeking a clear majority in the Commons.

The Liberals, under Lester B. Pearson, also named 265 candidates—one for every seat. Pearson and his party are driving for a return of the Liberals to power in Ottawa.

The CCF had 169 candidates in the field, Social Credit 82, independents and others 51. The total was the lowest since 672 candidates contested 245 seats in 1940 and compared with 862 in the election last une.

Standing of the House at dissolution Feb. 1 was Progressive Conservatives 113; Liberals 106; CCF 25, Social Credit 19; independent 2. There were no vacancies.

Russia's election passed with the usual lack of suspense and without adding any grey hairs to what little fuzz there is on the dome of Nikita Khrushchev.

It was a one-party slate, and voters had only the limited choice of striking out names if they wished.

More than 500,000 Russians used that method of voting against at least one Communist party candidate, but it didn't affect any seats. With 133, 769,091 citizens each voting for both houses of the Russian parliament, the votes against the party candidates totalled about one-third of one per cent of all votes.

It was, as they say, a shoo-in.

BLAST TRAGEDY

Seven men were killed when explosive charges — designed for use in rescue work—went off with a roar, demolishing a 100-foot-long building at the top-security RCAF armament depot at Angus, Ont.

The dead included six civilians and an RCAF airman who were handling the charges at the building, which was one of several sealed off from the public by barbed wire and surrounded by dense woods.

Planned explosions are common at the base, so the blast at first caused no concern outside. The explosives are designed for use in air-sea rescue operations.

FLAMING DEATH

Twenty-four persons, 18 of them women, died within three minutes when fire, triggered by an explosion, shot smoke and flames through a fourth-floor underwear factory in New York.

Panic broke out among the workers in the lower Broadway factory. Most of the victims perished before the fire reached them. A man and woman lived through the two-hour blaze.

Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh Jr. said the "fire conceivably was going like hell for 10 minutes" before the fire department could get to fight it. There was a delay in sounding the alarm.

FATAL BITES

A second attendant died after being bitten by a monkey used for experiments with Salk polio vaccine at the Connaught Laboratories' research farm just north of Toronto.

David O'Hara, 38, died four days after becoming ill. Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said he believes death was caused by encephalitis, an inflammation of the brain common to monkeys in the tropics.

The Ontario attorney-general's crime laboratory still was investigating the death of another attendant, F. Jakubec, who died four weeks earlier after being bitten by a monkey.

NEW MOON

Belching fire and smoke, a slender grey-green Vanguard rocket roared away from its Florida base and launched the free world's second artificial moon into a celestial orbit.

The successful launching by the United States Navy—following well-publicized failures — brought jubilation and renewed speculation about firing a rocket to the real moon.

The U.S. now has two baby moons orbiting the earth while Russia has one, its first Sputnik having blazed down into the atmosphere some weeks ago. Moscow announced that Sputnik II also will drop soon.

American scientists speculated their new moon may stay up there as long as 10 years.

BATISTA HOLDS

Rebel leader Fidel Castro announced in his Cuban mountain stronghold that he will start a "fight to the finish" April 5 unless President Fulgencio Batista gets out.

It was his boldest ultimatum yet, and he threatened that roving terrorists would wage war over the whole country unless the regime submits.

At the same time, thousands of civic and professional leaders called on Batista to resign "to save Cuba from anarchy and chaos." Their manifesto was signed by 42 organizations.

But Batista held on. And he postponed promised elections from June 1 to Nov. 3, holding the country under martial law.

OLIVE BRANCH

The North African struggle continued as one of the world's most explosive riddles, but new hope was seen when Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba extended the olive branch to the West in a major speech.

Bourgiba, embroiled in a quarrel with France resulting from the Franco-Algerian war, reaffirmed friendship with the West.

His conciliatory speech gave hope that the Anglo-American "good offices" mission to France and Tunisia will be successful. It was also interpreted as indicating hope that the beginning of the end may be in sight for the bigger problem—the Algerian war.

GAILLARD WINS

In Paris, meanwhile, Premier Felix Gaillard fought for his political life, and won.

He successfully defended his right to conduct delicate negotiations for healing France's breach with Tunisia without harassment from parliament.

The premier's firmness appeared to have deflated, at least temporarily, a threat by the right wing of his majority to desert him if he made certain concessions for settlement of the dispute, which arose from the French bombing of a Tunisian village.

Cold Engine Is Main Cause Of Piston Slap

By EUGENE MILMOE

If your engine sounds off with a hollow bell-like noise when first started, then quiets down almost if not completely a few miles later, piston slap is probably to blame.

The clatter is set up by a piston which rocks from side to side in its cylinder. It's always loudest with a cold engine. As the engine warms up, this rocking motion is decreased (so is the noise) because higher temperatures have then expanded cylinder and piston metals to take up a good bit of the clearance.

Crankcase oil also helps muffle piston slap. After the engine has been running a while, the oil circulates well up into the cylinders where it cushions piston side motion.

S. Q. asks: "What is the best way to clean the plastic window of a convertible model?"

(A) Clean with cold or lukewarm water and mild soapsuds, then rinse with cold water and wipe with a damp soft cloth. Never use dry rags, chemical cleaners or solvents.

• • •

F. S. writes: "If the crankcase ventilation system is clean, what causes some oil fumes to keep blowing out, the oil breather pipe?"

(A) It could be due to worn piston rings which are allowing combustion gases to get into the crankcase. These gases build up pressure there, causing some oil vapor to be forced out the breather pipe.

• • •

From S. G.: "I contend the brakes share the braking job equally during normal driving, while my friend says the front pair always shoulder the greater load. Who's right?"

(A) The front brakes must work a lot harder, mainly because they are subject to weight transfer. This refers to the additional weight which shifts (from the rear) to the front wheels when brakes are applied. To meet these greater demands, more powerful brakes are placed on front wheels.

• • •

C. A. asks: "Slight but annoying noises seem to come fom one or two doors on my 1953 sedan. Is there a special kind of lubricant to help quiet the latches and striker plates?"

(A) Use one of the stainless stick lubricants to get rid of noises coming from these door parts.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

WEAK FOOTED PREDATOR

Did you ever hear of a weak footed predator? The combination sounds ridiculous. Owls and hawks, whose food list is headed by the word "rodents", are noted for their strong talons, with which they hold the prey while tearing it to pieces with their cruel, hooked beaks.

But there is one very odd bird unable to function in this way. Though as much a predator as they, it is classed in with songbirds. Being a meat eater, it can live in a fairly cold climate, and so it is possible for us to see one even in winter. This is the shrike, whose butcher shop often discloses its presence.

To say "the shrike" is somewhat misleading, because there are really two kinds, the northern, and the loggerhead, the main difference between them being that of locality. The northern, a sort of gipsy about the size of a robin, breeds from northern Ungava, Mackenzie and Alaska down into settled Canada. In winter, somewhat after the fashion of the snowy owl, it wanders over the border into the U.S. About every fourth year, mice become scarce; then the northern shrike must hunt farther afield. The loggerhead, a slightly smaller bird, breeds through settled Canada and the U.S., wintering in the southern states.

WAITS PATIENTLY

A shrike's flight is characteristically stealthy. With rapid wingbeats interspersed by short sails it skims the ground, then glides upwards to its lookout perch, there to sit patiently waiting for a catch. In summer grasshoppers and crickets are favourite foods, but snakes, lizards, frogs, mice, and even small birds are used to supplement the regular fare. In winter our non-migratory birds help out, but at that season the shrike depends mostly on mice, with keen eyes scanning the surrounding country in hopes that an unwary little rodent will suddenly pop into view. Then down it swoops to grab the prey in a strong beak.

But the captured mouse must be held firmly in order to be torn up before being devoured. Having extremely weak feet, the "butcher bird" must find some "object" that can anchor the prey. The natural object is a thorny bush, on which it may be impaled, or a crevice into which it may be wedged. Now man provides something very handy: barbed wire fences.

News on Gardener's Chemicals

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

In recent years chemicals which will affect plants have taken on new importance. As soon as a chemical is found for a specific use the lab men begin to look for ways to widen its use and to combine it with other chemicals for sprays and dusts of multiple uses.

Insecticides and fungicides which were perfected for commercial use are now being packaged in small sizes for home and garden use. You can find combinations for almost any plant from an apple tree to an African violet. Directions are included to take the guess work out for the amateur.

Gibberellin is being packaged by several companies under their trade names. They combine it with other chemicals but the base is gibrel. This was made from a fungus found on rice plants in Japan. Used on other plants it produced startling results, in rapid growth. An agronomist at Michigan State University reported recently they grew on other plants it had no effect.

It has been used succesfully to shorten the life cycle of biennials to one year. For commercial seed men this will mean a big saving in time, labor and land. In several ornamental plants it was found to give a sudden spurt of growth which takes the plants quickly into the flower stage. They then slow down and grow at the normal pace. This will be a time saver for those slow to get started bedding plants. Gibrel has been found useful in shortening the dormant stage of many seeds, bulbs and cuttings.

POLLEN BANKS ESTABLISHED

Another growth-stimulating hormone is napthalene acetamide. It is being used to break the self-sterility of the Easter-lily and other shy seeders. Pollen banks are being established to store pollen to be used on late blooming types.

Larger plants and flowers are made possible with th euse of colchicine. It has been used to produce ou. tetraploid snapdragons and marigolds. Carnations and poinsettias are bigger and better through its use and in Beltsville, Maryland, it has been used on vegetables and in the orchard. McIntosh apples become bigger and finer with its use.

Union Carbide Company, who manufacture Eveready batteries have come out with a new line of dusts — rose dust, floral dust, vegetable dust, one for tomatoes and another for ants, also two sprays, one for fruit and the other for garden.

Sodar is the basic ingredient for a new crabgrass killer and an item called Formula Z. This is a combination lawn fungicide designed to take care of almost all of the lawn diseases.

Wilt-Pruf has been on the market for some time and used by the commercial grower for use in transplanting stock. The protective coating which is sprayed on slows down evaporation from the leaves. A new use for it is winter protection for evergreens and shrubs. Drying is considered the greatest cause of winter killing. Often it is lack of moisture, not low temperatures, that kills many of our plants during the cold months. Spray it on Christmas trees, and indoor greenery to keep them fresh for weeks.

MANY LAKES

In an area of 5,300 square miles southwest of Reindeer Lake in Saskatchewan there are 7,500 lakes.

Farmers' Union Hears Members Of Major Parties

CAMBELLFORD — Representatives of three political parties spoke at an Ontario Farmers' Union meeting in the Warkworth town hall on Wednesday evening, when a small group of district residents turned out to hear the views expressed.

Chairman of the affair was Tom Robins of Roseneath, county director of the OFU.

Miller Stewart, former Ontario president of the C.C.F. party spoke briefly and without any heckling. His party does not have a candidate in Northumberland riding. He outlined the plans of the CCF party, especially as they applied to the farmer.

He proposed a national marketing board for farm products, with a plan of comprehensive crop insurance and technical assistance to help the farmer keep up to date with modern farming methods.

Professor A. W. Baker of Beaverton, who served 44 years on the staff of OAC, Guelph, represented Progressive Conservative Ben Thompson, who was speaking at a meeting in Coldsprings. Mr. Baker outlined the 10-point program of remedial legislation which the [illegible] hoped would pull the farmers out of the present slump and give them a fair share of the national income. He said farmers were humbled, and felt a sense of inferiority due to conditions which prevailed during the past five years.

He added that at present the farm population was dropping and that many of the younger farmers were leaving the farms to take better paying jobs. He outlined the PC's bill to assure farmers a proper income based on a system of graduated prices, founded on production costs.

He said that the federal government had asked him, because of his 44 years' experience at Guelph, to assist and advise them regarding the new farm bill. He said he had drafted the original bill and presented it to the committee. It contains few changes, he said.

Mr. Baker told his audience, "It is a good bill, I repeat, a good bill. Changes will probably have to be made in it, just as all legislation must sometimes be revised, but it is a good bill."

He said the bill was the first step made by the PC's to assist the farmer. He called it a "courageous move," and compared their action with that of the former Liberal government. He quoted former agriculture minister James Gardiner as saying prior to the last election that "Canada has had the best year in her history—of course farm income was down." He pledged his support in overcoming the situation, and asked those present to support Ben Thompson and John Diefenbaker to give the PC's a working majority.

Wesley R. Sweet, the Liberal candidate for Northumberland, spoke, saying that while he was [illegible] expert on farming, he considered he knew more about it than a professor or a lawyer. He accused Professor Baker of being "Steeped in Toryism," and said his (Liberal) party did not have the money to hire a college professor to speak in his (Sweet's) place. Professor Baker later replied that he received no remuneration for his appearance and said the same thing was true when he was on tour during the last election. He said the only time he received remuneration was on three occasions during the last election when three of the candidates, for whom he spoke, paid his hotel bill.

LAUNCHES ATTACK

Mr. Sweet then launched an attack on the Conservative party in general and Professor Baker in particular. He added that while Mr. Thompson was a "nice chap," he would not be elected on March 31st. He said "the Liberals will form the next government of Canada," and said his party was a small man's party. He reviewed the platform of what he termed "the new Liberal party."

He asked that Mr. Collin Crews of Trenton be allowed to speak for him, to outline the plight of the farmer under the Conservative government. The audience agreed to allow Mr. Crews to speak for Mr. Sweet.

Mr. Crews lost no time in taking up the attack on Professor Baker, saying that he did not think the professor knew enough about agriculture to talk on it. He accused Mr. Baker of not having the interest of the farmer at heart and asked: "How many retired professors ever take up farming?" Mr. Crews said the Conservative farm bill was typical of one written by the professor, calling it "vague". He said most things written by civil servants were vague, so that the servant could not be pinned down.

The speaker also claimed that apple imports had cost the growers of Northumberland (he later added Durham), one million dollars. He said there were approximately 350 apple growers in the two counties and said the imports had cost the growers about $1,000 each.

Mr. Crews explained that apple imports from the United States were more than ten times in 1957 what they were in 1956.

Professor Baker was asked to speak at the close of the meeting, and he said he thought the Liberal candidate would have been better advised to speak more on his own behalf and spend less time making remarks about his opponent.

Ben Thompson, PC for Northumberland, arrived as the meeting ended, and spoke briefly, giving an accounting of himself to the electors present.

The prime minister said that as a result of government policies it was expected that by June or July unemployment would be reduced to the average of the last two or three years.

Mr. Diefenbaker at Welland Friday promised protection for Canadian farmers against price-depressing imports of agricultural products. He did not specify what action would be taken.

SUPPORT FOR CCF

Mr. Knowles said publication of a recent opinion poll predicting a Conservative election victory will play a tremendous part in rolling up support for the CCF.

The poll, right or wrong, had led Mr. Diefenbaker to predict conservative re-election with the greatest sweep in Canadian history. Reaction of the voters was "what an awful thought," Mr. Knowles said.

At Quebec City, Justice Minister Davie Fulton said his party recognizes provincial rights and that Mr. Diefenbaker has given his word to respect the integrity of those rights.

At Timmins, former Liberal health minister Paul Martin said the government's announced public works program is nothing more than the total of routine works projects passed by Parliament.

Mr. Martin also said that Mr. Diefenbaker's support of gold mines-assistance legislation is so vague as to be almost meaningless, while Mr. Pearson represents a great mining area in Northern Ontario and could be depended on to provide real support for mining.

At Montreal, Tim Buck, leader of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party, said at a press conference that the voters were swinging back to the Conservatives this time without realizing that neither party had the answers to their problems. Mr. Buck's party has 17 candidates in the field.

EMERGENCY ACTION

At Calgary, Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, state secretary, said emergency action by the government is having "a definite good effect on the unemployment situation."

At Montreal, former Liberal transport minister Lionel Chevrier said in a French - language television broadcast that tax reductions advocated by the Liberals amounted to "a clear and simple equation" for solving Canada's unemployment problem.

Three cabinet ministers appeared on a single television broadcast and said Canada must strive for a reduction of its dependence on the United States as a trading partner. The three were Finance Minister Donald Fleming, Trade Minister Gordon Churchill and Labor Minister Michael Starr.

At Oxford, N. S., provincial Liberal Leader Henry Hicks said Mr. Diefenbaker has kept seven of his promises "but there are 175 unaccounted for."

At Sussex, N. B., Works Minister Howard Green said Mr. Diefenbaker hopes to put the Atlantic provinces on an economic basis equal to that of other Canadian regions.

At Thessalon, Ont., Anthony Abbott, son of former Liberal Finance Minister Douglas Abbott, said a tieup between Mr. Diefenbaker and Premier Duplessis of Quebec will poison Canada.

PROBE DROUGHTS

CANBERRA (Reuters) — Australia has had seven major droughts in the last 100 years, according to a Commonwealth bureau of meteorology review, the most disastrous from 1895 to 1903. The report is the first of a series in an attack on the problem of drought prediction.

'Swords at Dawn' Threat Features Opening of Rose-Petalled Ballet

PARIS (AP)—The Marquis de Cuevas' new ballet opened here Friday night in a shower of rose petals, but an offstage threat of a duel nearly stole the show.

It all began when de Cuevas, Chilean-born grandson-in-law of American oil man John D. Rockefeller, was warned by the Society of Dramatic Authors that his troupe was forbidden to dance the Black and White ballet by Serge Lifar, the marquis' one-time friend and former ballet master at the Paris Opera. There was no indication why the society had decided on the ban.

De Cuevas ignored the warning, and at intermission in the Champs Elysee Theatre Lifar strolled by and dropped his handkerchief in front of the marquis. The latter promptly picked it up and flung it in Lifar's face.

In days of old, this meant war—or at least a duel. A few minutes later, Lifar, 52, announced he was sending his seconds to see the 66-year-old marquis.

Duelling is outlawed in France, however, and many seconds have been sent on similar missions in the heat of argument without producing any fighting.

After this bit of extra entertainment, the audience settled back for the rest of the ballet.

Quebec South Voting List Under Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP has begun an investigation into alleged irregularities in the Quebec South voting list for the March 31 general election.

Chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay said Friday night he ordered the examination following a complaint from Liberal candidate Frank G. Power.

It is the third known inquiry in the current election campaign.

Mr. Castonguay Thursday ordered a judicial inquiry into a suspected attempt to pad the voters' list in Montreal Cartier. Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure of the Quebec Court of Queen's Bench is heading the Montreal Cartier inquiry and the RCMP is helping run down alleged list padding.

Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court was appointed March 3 to inquire whether the returning officer for Toronto St. Paul's constituency knowingly or negligently appointed unqualified emmerators. A new enumeration in more than half of the riding's polling divisions was ordered by Mr. Castonguay.

COMPLAINS BY WIRE

Mr. Castonguay said Friday night Mr. Power, who is in a two-way fight for Quebec South with Progressive Conservative Jacques Flynn, complained of list padding in a March 17 telegram to the electoral chief.

The seat, a Liberal stronghold, was held by Mr. Power in the last Parliament. His father, Senator C. G. Power, had held it from 1921 until his Senate appointment in 1955. It has sent a Liberal to the Commons since it was first established in 1914.

The Election Act calls for stiff fines against vote padders. Infractions in Toronto St. Paul's in the general election last June 10 resulted in jail sentences and fines to offenders.

Mr. Power said in his telegram: "Have proof that names have been fraudulently added to electoral list during revision in revision districts numbers four and five, Quebec South. Investigation required urgently."

Polish Attache Forced to Leave Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Stanislaw Michno, an attache at the Polish legation in Ottawa, was forced to leave Canada Feb. 12, the external affairs department said Friday.

The department said that Mr. Michno was declared "persona non grata" and asked to leave the country. However, an official at the Polish legation said the Polish diplomat was simply recalled by the Polish government.

An external affairs official said that when a diplomat is declared persona non grata he could be guilty of anything from repeated traffic violations to engaging in espionage. The department did not elaborate on reasons for the expulsion.

Mr. Michno is the second diplomat from an Iron Curtain country to be ordered to leave Canada in the last 18 months.

Gennadi F. Popov, a former second secretary of the Russian Embassy, was ordered out of Canada in September, 1956, on grounds that he had engaged in activities "incompatible with his continued presence in Canada."

Asked to comment on Mr. Michno's expulsion, an external affairs official said "he was asked to leave because his conduct was incompatible with his diplomatic status."

Unemployment Insurance Questionnaire

Questions relative to unemployment insurance frequently crop up which are of general interest to many workers. Last week The Ontario Intelligencer published a series of questions from the office of Mr. Cecil Hiuser, manager of the Belleville Unemployment Insurance office. Following is a further list:

Q. I am a carpenter. A year ago I was laid off the job where I was working. I decided to build a house for myself before taking another job. Can I be given credit for this time that I have been working for myself?

A. Contributions are only payable by persons who work under a contract of service or apprenticeship. When you are working for yourself, you are considered not unemployed and you are not insurable.

Q. I was working for a firm which closed up because of a strike four months ago. For the past two months I have been working steadily at another place. This second job was different from the first but I like it and would have stayed on if shortage of materials hadn't caused a layoff. I don't intend going back to my old job after the strike is over. Can I claim beenfit?

A. If you can establish that you have made a definite and permanent change of occupation and that you do not intend resuming your old occupation you may be entitled to benefit, if otherwise qualified.

Q. As a salesman I am employed on a straight commission basis. May I contribute to unemployment insurance?

A. You must contribute if you are an employee and not an independent agent and your net income (after deducting expenses) does not exceed $4,800 a year and if you are not mainly dependent for your livelihood on some other occupation. However, insurance agents, securities salesmen and real estate agents paid by commissions are specifically excluded from coverage.

Crows Make Good Stool Pigeons

The Knight family, what there is left of it in these parts, lives in a house that has been set in a six-acre plot adjoining the golf course of the Williamsport Country Club. Our place is not in the city limits; thus, being in the township, we can break out the shotguns and do some shooting when the occasion arises.

Last summer an enterprising robin built her nest within the confines of a large rosebush that Mrs. Knight has taught to grow espallered against the brick wall of our carport. Time went on and at last there were three husky and ravenous youngsters in the nest.

One bright moonlight night, we were startled to hear a heavy thud against the side of the house. The mother robin left her nest with loud squawks of protest and there was the sound of heavy wings flapping in the rosebush. I grabbed my twelve-gauge and some shells and hurried to the scene of the disaster, alas, too late. One of the baby robins was gone. The next night another baby vanished from the nest in the same manner.

The following morning a flock of crows began to raise a tremendous ruckus among the trees in the hollow about two-hundred yards from the house. Again I grabbed the gun, but this time I placed it in my car and drove slowly up the road that borders our property. Sure enough, there in a tree sat the baby-stealer — a great horned owl — fighting off crows as best he could. One well-placed load of high-speed sixes put an end to his depredations in a hurry. The last remaining robinette grew up to follow his mother around our lawn, begging for the worms that she laboriously dragged from their homes in the grass.

When we first bought our land here on Sand Hill, we decided what to do with it. One acre is devoted to house and lawn; the other five acres are allowed to grow as they will. Any brush or trees that are cut are dragged down into this wild acreage and deposited in huge piles. There being plenty of cover, the plot makes a handy home for pheasants, rabbits and suchlike. We have not hunted this land for six years.

STATE OF WARFARE

Where game is plentiful, there also will you find the predators. Owls, hawks, foxes, skunks, cats, etc., find real good picking on our little five-acre game preserve. The result is an unending and relentless state of warfare between the varmints and yours truly.

The main offenders, of course, are the hawks, owls, and cats. All of them are smart, wary hunters and the elimination of any of these takes a bit of doing. However, I have help in the form of a flock of crows that hangs around this general area. Just let these black scamps locate a hawk, an owl, or, for that matter, a cat, hunting on our property and they gang up on the marauder, making enough racket to wake the dead.

One day during the early hunting season, the crows were raising quite a fuss over on the hill back of our house, so my son, Dick, took his gun and our big setter, Spot, and walked over to see what was causing the commotion. They hadn't gone far until Spot went on point. As Dick walked in, out flew a big Cooper's hawk that had been feasting on a hen pheasant. Forthwith there was one less Cooper's hawk to feed on the birds and rabbits of our area.

For a great many years, we used to shoot crows each winter — still do, for that matter. However, we no longer bother the flock that makes our property its headquarters. To be sure, those crows do some damage to the birds hereabouts, particularly during the nesting season, but they do so much good the rest of the year, policing the property and notifying us of other more damaging predators, that we allow them to go their nefarious ways unmolested.

Russians Test Nuclear Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission has announced the detection of two more Soviet nuclear weapons tests.

"The first occurred Thursday at the usual Siberian testing grounds and the second Friday north of the Arctic Circle," the AEC said.

The Russians have been conducting a test series in both areas that began about a month ago. The tests reported today were the 33rd and 34th reported by the AEC.

Caribou Herds Can Be Saved If More Wolves Are Killed

By JACK VAN DUSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—If the northern caribou herds are to be saved from extinction, hunters must kill fewer of the deer-like animals and more of the wolves that prey on them.

So says Winston Mair, chief of the Canadian Wildlife Service, who blames humans and wolves for disrupting the balance between the caribou and its Arctic environment.

"Mar now must restore that balance in some measure if the caribou herds are to survive as a resource of any value to our northern economy."

REPLIES TO CRITICS

He was replying to criticism of the service's recently - launched program of killing off wolves in Canada's north. Wolves considered the chief predators of the caribou, are being destroyed by the thousands.

Complaints have been few but one came from as far off as La Mesa, Calif., where Doran E. Hutton wrote that killing the wolves would upset the balance of nature. Without predators to keep down the population, caribou would eat up all grazing land.

Mr. Mair said control of the caribou kill is necessary because the once-plentiful animals have dwindled from a population of 660,000 in 1950 to less than 300,000.

The barren land caribou is a chief source of food and clothing for more than 20,000 persons in the North—the Indians, Eskimos and white settlers living in the Yukon, and the Northwest Territories and the northern parts of the prairie provinces. This is the 600,000 - square - mile stamping ground of the rugged animal.

A 1951 report set the annual kill by 100,000 head. It was estimated wolves killed about 34,000 a year.

"Such things as adverse weather and accidents are beyond our control, but we can do something about the utilization of caribou by humans and wolves," Mr. Mair said.

The yearly decrease in the caribou exceeded the number of calves surviving to a breeding age and "it is a certainty that the decline cannot be stemmed until this process is reversed."

Cutting down on the wolves' consumption of the caribou by killing them off is "an easier step to take because we don't require the approval of the wolves."

Co-operation of the natives involved "and education takes time."

Mr. Mair said the natives are just becoming aware of the scarcity of the caribou—"mostly because they can see how scarce the caribou is becoming."

"The native has few inhibitions about killing a game animal. Generally, with modern weapons available to him, he kills more than he needs and wastes the surplus."

Biologists want to "reduce wastage, foster selectivity in hunting, and develop other sources of food as an alternative to caribou."

The wolf kill is just part of a wide program being carried out by federal and provincial agencies to determine why the caribou is disappearing. They are studying every aspect of the caribou's pomand life, from food sources to weather, disease and predators.

Car Output Down a Little From Last Week

WINDSOR (CP)— There was slight change in Canada's automotive scene this week, Ward's Automotive Reports said Friday.

The statistical publication estimated output at 7,080 passenger cars and 1,165 truck — a "minimal 1.5 per cent decrease" from last week's 7,154 cars and 1,219 trucks.

Operations are "normal" at all plants this week, Ward's said, comparable to last week when five-day assembly was performed by the nation's manufacturers.

Ward's predicted 33,000 cars and trucks will be produced this month compared to 31,135 in February and 33,097 in January.

National Hockey League Loot Winners To Be Decided This Weekend

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Ike Hildebrand, the diminutive lacrosse star, playing-coach of the McFarlands, went "around the world in 80 days" to bring his club to the Eastern Ontario Senior "A" championship.

While it takes a team to win a title or any other honors, a large measure of credit goes to the 155-pound "flying" wing who gave everything he had to bring hockey honors to this city.

IKE HILDEBRAND

Ike missed a few practices—but never a game, come hades or high water, weather or not. He had the stamina of a Missouri mule, was an ice-lane will-o'-the-wisp and a prolific points-getter.

Hildebrand played to win, and he wanted his club to do the same. In the fall with Manager Drury Denyes, he selected a club which he thought would win Belleville its first senior "A" group title. The record tells how far wrong Ike was.

Coaching a modern senior "A" hockey club is no sinecure. To "play-coach" one is tougher. Ike found it that way and acquitted himself nobly. He ran the club according to his own methods in co-operation with Manager Denyes.

While it is no secret that Ike did not have altogether smooth sailing with the club, it must be said that never once did he run to the press with his troubles. He probably had less to worry about than the majority of other clubs, but whatever was done was concluded behind the closed doors of the dressing room, while reporters were doing whatever reporters do when they are not cheek-to-cheek with a story.

We do not believe Ike was a stern taskmaster, nor a slave driver, but he did expect "every man to do his duty." There were times when it was thought a player or players were not up to snuff and Ike took immediate action.

There is no room for sentiment in sport, especially modern day hockey. Ike benched a player when he thought it was necessary, with friendship tossed to the wind. He was a team player all the way.

He was human, like the rest of us, and as such was not perfect. Ike has his faults, but name one glaring one. He was subject to criticism inside and outside, but it was not serious, and as events proved everything worked out for the good of the club.

As an individual player Ike gave everything he had for and to the club. There were some who thought he overdid it. Perhaps he had a reason. But he fought with and for his team, just as hard as he played for it.

He had a nucleus of experienced senior "A" veterans to start with and he threw everything he had and knew into moulding the club into a winning aggregation. He even conceded points occasionally to maintain harmony within the ranks. He experimented with players and player combinations, always with the one thought in mind, victory.

Ike knew he had a good team behind him. He knew its potential and strove at all times to bring out its best. There is not a team extant that does not have its off day or "has to get a bad one off its chest." The McFarlands were no exceptions. But they generally rebounded with a topflight exhibition.

The season just finished was perhaps tougher on Hildebrand than any of the rest. Ike resides in Peterborough where he holds down a fine position—and owns a fine home. He did not deem it expedient to move his family here.

Consequently he commuted the seventy odd miles from here to Perdueville for practice and games. Coming back from a "long haul" few begrudged the coach that long trip home in the wee small hours.

Yet many times, especially in the gruelling grind of the semi-finals and final series, Ike was back the next night full of fire and fight, ready to lead his team to whatever the hockey fates had in store for him.

Hildebrand is one of the few senior "A" playing coaches that survived the 1957-58 season. Cornwall and latterly Pembroke had their troubles, while in the NOHA everything was not a bed of roses for blade-wearing mentors.

However a tough trail lies ahead for Hildebrand and his McFarlands. The consensus in provincial senior "A" circles is that the Macs will win the Ontario semi-finals over the Porcupine Mines League champions. If they do they will face the winners of the OHA-NOHA, either Windsor or Kitchener.

If Ike can lead his charges to victory over the Ontario opposition, they will face the eastern Allan Cup aspirants, either New Glasgow or Hull for the Eastern Canada title.

If the Macs win or lose, fandom hereabouts can be assured they were led by a "little guy" who never gave up trying, gave his individual playing best, and drained the barrel of leadership to help bring his team and adopted hockey city the top honors of the game.

ATTENTION BOOSTERS!

The Booster Club is holding a Victory Reception for the McFarlands and wives at the Club Cedars tonight. All Booster Club members and wives are invited to share in the fun. A big turnout is expected to greet the Macs and wish them luck in the coming playdowns.

Schedule Finishes Sunday; Plante Favored for Vezina While Scoring Awards in Air

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The division of the National Hockey League spoils will be decided this weekend.

By Sunday night the season's scheduled play will be over and the allocation of thoucands of dollars in personal awards and playoff shares will be settled for this year.

On the line in the six weekend games are the $1,000 award to the winner of the Vezina Trophy, another $1,000 to the leading scorer, $500 to the runner-up and the split of the playoff pool among the third, fourth, fifth and sixth teams. In addition, personal awards are usually matched by the winner's team.

The Vezina money, given to the netminder with the lowest goals-against average, seems safely tucked away in Jacques Plante's pocket.

MAY WIN FROM BENCH

The Montreal Canadiens' goalie has a 2:10 average and his closest competitor is Don Simmons of Boston Bruins with a 2.70 mark. Plante may be on the bench as he wins the award.

He has been out of the lineup since Sunday when he suffered a severe concussion, but Montreal coach Toe Blake said Friday night he may play against Detroit Red Wings Sunday.

At any rate, Charlie Hodge, who filled in for the first nine games this season and in Thursday's game, will play tonight, and it is here that the Vezina can be won or lost since Canadiens play Bruins in the Forum.

The scoring awards are less certain, though Canadiens' Dickie Moore must be favored for the big money.

FOUR-POINT EDGE

Moore, who has never won the scoring race, now has 81 points on 35 goals and 46 assists, a four-point edge over linemate Henri Richard.

The biggest item in Moore's favor is his goals-total—35 — since in the event of a tie the man with most goals would be awarded the prize.

In the race for second spot, New York Rangers' Andy Bathgate is one point behind Richard. His total of 76 points is made up of 30 goals and 46 assists while the Pocket Rocket has 27 goals and 50 assists.

Gordie Howe, last season's winner, cannot be counted out, though he has only 72 points on 32 goals and 40 assists.

TOUGHER TIME

The two Habitants may have the toughest time increasing their totals since both Boston and Detroit are tougher opponents than Toronto Maple Leafs, whom Rangers will face twice during the weekend. Howe will have his big chance Saturday when Detroit is at home to Chicago in an afternoon game.

Boston and Detroit are fighting to decide third and fourth between them and Detroit, with a three - point edge, could wrap third place up with a win over Chicago.

Maple Leafs, tied for fifth with Chicago, have prestige as well as money at stake. They have not finished last since the 1926 - 27 season, the first they were known as the Maple Leafs, when they finished fifth in the five-team Canadian division of the old NHL.

London Leads Bowls Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — London Majors took over top standing in the open five-pin bowling tournament at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show Friday night, rolling 6,032 in the seventh day of competition.

The London team was the first in the tournament to break the 6,000 barrier and move into position to win the $1,000 first-place prize.

Waterloo Majors, first Thursday, dropped to second with no action Friday, and Guelph Majors were third.

St. Catharines was second on the day's play with 5,550. Two bowlers, John Scholes with 1,374 and John Patterson with 1,315 bettered 1,300 for St. Catharines, but the day's play still left St. Catharines in 10th place.

Toronto Ciras remained in the lead in the men's open division standing, but saw no action Friday. Peterborough, in 11th place, had the best showing for the day with 4,214. Kingston Hi-Lo's and London Kellogg's did not roll and are well down in the standings.

There are only two teams left in the women's division to challenge the 3,437 score posted by Toronto Lakeviews earlier in the tournament. Friday, Oshawa Jewellers and St. Catharines Diamonds were not able to menace the Lakeviews.

Tillsonburg Wins Basketball Title

TILLSONBURG (CP) — Tillsonburg Livingstons Friday night won the Ontario Senior A basketball championship with a 77 - 46 victory over Sault Ste. Marie Gunners.

The win gave Livingstons the best-of-three series in consecutive games as they swamped Gunners 90-48 Thursday night in the first match.

Fred Ingaldson was high-scorer for the winners with 22 points. John McKinnon hooped 14 points.

For the Gunners, Jerry Kahle and Bill Harris each collected 12 points.

Tillsonburg led 39 - 20 at half-time in the rough game which saw 55 personal fouls hande out, 31 of them to Gunners.

Dutchies Trim Bulldogs 6-3, Take Game Lead

WINDSOR (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, alert to every opportunity and supported by the excellent goalkeeping of Boat Hurley Friday night whipped Windsor Bulldogs 6-3 in an OHA-NOHA Senior A playoff game.

A crowd of 4,300 looked on as the Dutchmen took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven final with one game tied. The series resumes at Kitchener tonight.

Kitchener was never behind, taking a 2-1 lead in the first period and maintaining a 3-2 edge after 40 minutes.

TURNED TIDE

A power play goal at 4:28 of the third by Ted Maki turned the tide decisively. Seventeen seconds later Dutchmen pulled farther away when Don Rope connected.

At 11:01 Dutchies shot out of reach on another power play goal this time by Billy Flick. Harry Psutka, Bill Wylie and Ken Laufman were the other Kitchener snipers. Frank Bathgate, Lou Bendo and Bob Brown scored for Bulldogs.

Hurley was outstanding in the nets as he held off powerful Windsor thrusts in the first two periods when Bulldogs seemed to mount the more dangerous attack. He stopped a total of 34 shots.

Although 16 penalties were levied the game was relatively tame. Bulldogs attempted to go wide open in the Kitchener style and came off second best.

Experts Claim Age Is Factor In Robinson, Basilio Battle

CHICAGO (AP)—Can a fighter grow "too old" in six months?

The question applies to 37-year-old Sugar Ray Robinson, who seeks to recapture the middleweight title from 30-year-old Carmen Basilio in Chicago Stadium Tuesday night.

Robinson, who celebrates his 38th birthday May 3, never was in better form than last Sept. 23 when he dropped a debatable 15-round decision to Basilio in a blistering title scrap in New York.

There was some talk that his punches didn't come in typical combinations; that he let Basilio slide off the hook a couple of times. But he made the boys who said he couldn't go 15 fast rounds eat their words.

So, now, six months later, why wonder if he can do it again?

Well, another former middleweight king, Tony Zale, at the age of 35, faded from his greatest victory to oblivion in three months.

Sam Pian, one of Zale's co-managers, recalled this today as he predicted another torrid scrap between Robinson and Basilio.

Pian said, a decade ago, that Zale never looked better than in the third and last of his historic middleweight brawls with Rocky Graziano. "He mowed Rocky down in three rounds," Pian recounted. "Then, three months later, he was chopped to pieces and lost the title to Marcel Cerdan in 12 rounds. The finish was pathetic, but inevitable, and we knew it was Tony's last fight."

The Basilio camp also thinks age is a big worry to Robinson as the big scrap nears. "Here it is a couple of days before the fight and Robinson still is two or three pounds overweight," said Joe Netro, a Basilio co-manager "That's because he has had to take it easy. An old man can't be pushed."

Robinson's handlers may keep him boxing today and Sunday, depending on his weight which Friday was said to be around 162.

With well over $250,000 worth of cheaper tickets sold, the sponsoring International Boxing Club expects a big surge to the box office over the weekend.

Teepees Swamp Marlboros 11-3; Series All Even

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines Teepees, on the verge of elimination in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-finals with Toronto Marlboros, came up with their best game of the playoffs to win 11-3 Friday night before 3,600 fans.

Thoroughly dominating play during the entire game, Teepees forced an eighth, and deciding game in Toronto Sunday afternoon. Both teams have won three games with one tied.

After spotting Marlboros the first goal of the game, Teepees came back with seven straight, leading 3-1 at the end of the first period and 8-2 at the end of the second.

Stan Mikita and Rino Robazza scored two goals each for Teepees with singles going to Bob Ewer, John McKenzie, Wayne Hillman, Chico Maki, Bob Corupe and Ted Wright.

Marlboro scorers were Bill Kennedy, Doug Riseley and Wally Boyer.

In the final 12 minutes of the game, players of both teams forgot hockey and concentrated on "playing the man."

The result was a succession of fights. McKenzie and Marlboros' Jack McMaster started the brawling and were followed by Marlboros' Jim Murchie and Teepees' Darryl Wennechuk, then Stan Osborne of Marlboros and Don Cosburn of Teepees.

New Glasgow Blanks Hull To Even Series

NEW GLASGOW, N. S. (CP)—Hull Legion, Ottawa District champions, forced their best-of-five Allan Cup playoff series against New Glasgow Rangers to the limit here Friday night with a 4-0 victory.

The win evened the series at two games apiece. The fifth and deciding game will be played tonight.

Hull took a 1-0 lead in the first period and stretched it to 3-0 in the second.

Ron Limoges, big gun for the visitors in the series, came through with a pair of goals. Andre Prevost and Rheo Dagenais accounted for the others.

Cards Like American League; National Loop Was Tougher

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis Cardinals, who have the best record after the first two weeks of the exhibition spring baseball season, can thank their dominance over American League clubs for their 8-3 won-lost mark.

Sporting the best average to [illegible] although by a slim margin since San Francisco and Los Angeles each are 7 - 4, the Cards have captured five of their seven games against American League teams. They are 3-2 versus National League clubs.

St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 8-5 Friday as Alvin Dark clubbed a homer, double and single and also started two double plays in the game at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Chicago White Sox, who lead American League teams with a 7-5 record, were knocked off 6-4 by Milwaukee Braves at Bradenton, Fla. Hank Aaron, who hit two homers on Thursday, broke up the game again with a three-run blast in the seventh inning.

Morry Dickson, released last winter by the Cardinals, gained credit for the Kansas City Athletics' 8-7 victory over New York Yankees at West Palm Beach, Fla. Dickson, trying to hook on [illegible] the Athletics, pitched the [illegible] three innings, allowed one hit struck out three and issued one walk.

Philadelphia Phillies defeated Washington Senators 7-6 in 11 innings at Clearwater, Fla. Harry Anderson tied the score for the Phils in the 10th with a homer and Willie Jones singled home the winning run in the 11th.

Cincinnati Redlegs shoved three runs across the plate in the eighth and outlasted Boston Red Sox 11-8 at Tampa, Fla.

Baltimore couldn't handle pitchers Cal McLish and Dick Tomanek, who were stingy with five hits, and Cleveland Indians won 2-0 at Scottsdale, Ariz.

At Mesa, Ariz., Danny O'Connell and rookie outfielder Willie Kirkland scored three runs each in San Francisco's 8 - 2 victory over Chicago Cubs. Los Angeles Dodgers won their second straight from Detroit at Miami, Fla., 8-4.

For the third straight year the entry is so large it will be necessary to run afternoon eliminations. The shorter night program is so well filled several events will be run on a time basis.

Eastern League Played to 500,000 Fans

NEW YORK (CP)—Tom Lockhart, president of the Eastern Amateur Hockey League, said today the loop is winding up one of its best seasons. He estimated the six teams of the senior league played to 500,000 customers.

Playoffs are in progress, with Charlotte, N. C., which won the league championship for the second straight year, playing New Haven, and Washington, meeting Johnstown, Pa. Philadelphia and Clinton, N. Y., didn't make the playoffs.

Lockhart said prospects are for an eight-team league in 1958-59, with the New York Rovers, inactive since 1953, and Raleigh, N. C., icing teams.

Arnold Palmer Takes Lead in Florida Golf

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) Arnold Palmer, the man to beat going into today's third round of the $15,000 St. Petersburg Open, has a quarter of a century of golfing experience packed into his 28 years. And he's making it pay off.

Palmer, United States amateur champion in 1954, sported a 70-69—139 chart after the first two rounds. That gave him a one-stroke lead over Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who put together two 70s. Par is 36-35—71.

First-day leader George Bayer and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, another former amateur star, were tied for third at 143. Six others were bunched another stroke back.

At 145 and tied with six others was Calgary's Bob Wylie, topping the five - man Canadian contingent. Strung out behind him were Al Balding of Toronto, 147, Johnny Hendrick of Ottawa, 151, Bob Dean, Cornwall, Ont., 156, and Murray Tucker of Toronto, 157.

Palmer, who won more than $30,000 in 1957 and already has earned $9,540 this year, got his first set of clubs — junior size— when he was only three. By the time he was five he was playing regularly with his dad, a club professional in Latrobe, Pa.

McKenzie, Burns Placed on Red Wings List

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Adams, general manager of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League says he has placed two member's of the world champion Whitby team on his negotiation list.

In a telephone interview from Detroit Friday night he said he wants to talk to Jack McKenzie and Charlie Burns when they return next week with the Canadian team from its European tour.

"I think both boys have major league futures," Adams said.

He said he doubts whether McKenzie, a school teacher, will be interested in professional hockey, but he said he likes "that boy Burns. We got along fine when he was with us at camp last fall."

Adams said he thinks Burns is all right in spite of a silver plate in his head as the result of an injury in junior hockey.

LOOKED HIM OVER

"Our doctors looked him over and said to give him another year and see how he was. Well, he seems to have done all right."

Burns was selected as the outstanding player of the world tournament, an honor McKenzie won two years earlier when Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen lost the title to Russia.

Burns was a member of the Toronto Maple Leafs farm team but was not considered for professional duty because of his head injury. Nevertheless, he played for a Leaf amateur farm team, Toronto Marlboros, two years ago and helped them win the Canadian junior championship. He joined Whitby last year.

McKenzie also played with the Marlboros and then served a spell with Pittsburgh in the American League before reverting to amateur status with Kitchener. Whitby borrowed him for the world tournament.

Sixty-Five Cars Enter Colorful Grand Prix Race

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Sixty-five swift sports cars, mostly from European assembly lines, were ready to roar away from the starting line at 10 a.m. (EST) today in North America's most grueling race, the 12-hour Florida Grand Prix of endurance.

Experts believe the Italian Ferraris, English Aston-Martins and German Porsches will capture most of the laurels.

Ferrari and Aston - Martin are expected to battle it out for the over - all championship, which goes to the car covering the greatest distance before the checkered flag of victory is flashed at 10 p.m.

Race sponsors believe speed records will be set because of new road surfacing on the course which twists and turns for 5.2 miles around the abandoned Sebring air terminal.

Delany Wins 24th Mile Race

CLEVELAND (AP) — Ron Delany of Villanova wound up the indoor track season here Friday night by winning his 24th consecutive mile race in 4:12.7—far slower than the 4:03.4 world indoor record he set at Chicago a week ago.

The 9,827 fans at the 18th annual Knights of Columbus track meet waited in vain for the flying Irishman to step away from the others, but he stayed in third place through the first half.

At the three-quarter mark, Delany sped past Burr Grim of Maryland. Grim overtook him momentarily and then fell behind. It was all over from there on, as Delany slowly widened his lead to about 15 yards at the finish. The quarter times: 61.3 seconds, 2:07; 3:14.

John Macy, 28-year-old Polish refugee, outclassed the two-mile field, winning in 9:02.4

Doug Kyle, Canadian Olympic runner, was second. Kyle, from Hamilton, Ont., was competing for the University of Michigan.

Minor Hockey

Canadiens and Rangers fought to a 2-2 deadlock this morning in the opening game of their city peewe finals. The second game in the two-game, goals-to-count series will be played next Saturday morning.

Rangers came close to handing the undefeated Canadiens their first setback of the year as the Blueshirts led 2-1 with about five minutes to play.

But a goal by Jimmie Mairs with Bob Skinner assisting provided the Canadiens with the tie and makes next Saturday's game a sudden death affair for the title. Jim Meens fired the Canadiens' first goal with Brian Williams earning an assist.

Bob Pursey scored the Rangers' first goal on a pass from Bill Hallam. Allan Mott was the triggerman on their other marker with Carl Boomhower assisting.

Both goalies, James Hurst of the Canadiens and Bobby Kiser of Rangers, came up with some fine saves over the route, Hurst pulling off a couple of tough stops in the final minutes to preserve the tie.

Tommy Boyle and Bob Skinner, both of Canadiens, served the only penalties of the game.

Major League Expansions Get Cool Shoulders From Brass

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Two separate proposals, one to expand and the other to consolidate the big leagues, drew mixed reactions today from baseball officials.

A proposal by Del Webb, co-owner of the New York Yankees, to re-align the two major circuits was received with coolness.

Another suggestion, by owner Lou Perini of the Milwaukee Braves, to expand the American and National leagues to 10 clubs by 1960, and eventually to 12, was greeted with enthusiasm.

The re - alignment idea would embrace the changing of leagues by Philadelphia Phillies and Kansas City Athletics as a means of reducing travelling expenses.

The Phillies would become part of the American League and the Athletics would become a National League entry.

The plan appeared doomed before it gained any momentum.

Both Bob Caprenter, owner of the Phillies, and Arnold Johnson, president of the Athletics, voiced skepticism.

Johnson declared he saw no reason for the switch. That seemed to be the feeling of other baseball officials.

Commissioner Ford Frick declined to comment on Webb's plan but he partly endorsed Perini's expansion proposal.

"I'm glad to see so much talk about changes in baseball," he said. "The game needs to expand."

Frick long has been an advocate of major league expansion with the eventuality of forming three eight-club leagues.

It is Perini's hope that New York City and a Texas city be added to the National League with Toronto and the twin Minnesota cities of Minneapolis and St. Paul joining the American League.

Madoc Blues Defeat Millionaires In Fourth Game Int. Group Finals

MADOC (Special) — Madoc Blue-and-Whites outscored the opposition in every period in Marmora last night to defeat the Marmora Millionaires 6-2 in the fifth game of their OHA Intermediate "C" group finals.

Madoc leads the four-of-seven set three games to two with the sixth slated for Marmora on Monday night. Should a seventh game be necessary it will be played on Wednesday.

A large crowd of 1250 fans watched last night as Madoc netted the only goal of the first period. They made it 3-0 before Marmora got one in the second to lead 3-1 at the end of the period. The clubs traded a pair to give Madoc a 4-2 lead before they wrapped it up with two goals in the last three minutes.

Bob Taylor was the lone two goal man for Madoc and added an assist for a three - point performance. "Shaker" Baker and Fox each collected a goal and two helpers while Jud Semark and Glen Nickle also scored. Alex MacLellan picked up two assists with one each for "Nobber" Day and Smith.

Leo Darrah and Brooks were the Marmora marksmen. Earle Cousins and Jones had single assists.

Referees Stan Scrutton and Art Casterton, both of Kingston, handed out nine minor penalties with the winners drawing the extra one.

Fred Nickle of Madoc was missing from the lineup through illness but with the Taylor, Fox, Baker line clicking in fine style the Blue - and - Whites came through to take a stranglehold on the series.

Virgel Akins TKO's Logart In Sixth Round

NEW YORK (AP) — Virgil Akins's sixth - round technical knockout of Cuba's Isaac Logart shared the spotlight today with the surprise serving of more than a dozen subpoenas to boxing figures to appear before a grand jury.

Akins, a power punching, 30-year-old veteran from St. Louis, earned a fight with Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J., for the vacant welterweight title by stopping the shifty Cuban in 2:53 of the sixth round Friday night.

Trailing 4-1 on the scorecards of the three officials, Akins let loose with both barrels in the sixth. He floored the 24-year-old Logart twice and had him on the verge of another knockdown when referee Harry Kessler halted the massacre. It was an abrupt turnabout as Logart, the 2-to-1 favorite, had dominated the first five rounds.

Shortly after the fight ended, District Attorney Frank Hogan's office said "more than a dozen" boxing figures, including matchmaker Billy Brown of the International Boxing Club, were served with suppoenas.

DECLINES ELABORATION

A spokesman for Hogan said the subpoenas were issued for appearances as witnesses in an invertigation "that has been going on for some time." He declined to elaborate.

The papers called for April appearances before the grand jury as witnesses in a criminal action against "John Doe."

Brown and two managers, Willie Ketchum and Jimmy White, said they had received subpoenas. Reports circulated that both Akins and Logart as well as their managers had been among those served but Bernie Glickman of Chicago and Eddie Yawitz of St. Louis, co-managers of Akins, denied they or Akins had been summonsed.

Logart and Akins each received $20,000 guarantees — the biggest purses of their careers — for the bout which drew an estimated 5,000 and a gate of $15,030. Each weighed 145¼ for the scheduled 12-rounder.

Player Fined $100 'Or Ten'; Hit Referee

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP)—Keswick hockey player Lowell Waller, 22, who struck a referee during a game, Friday was fined $100 or 10 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to common assault.

He admitted striking referee Jack Campbell of Lorneville Tuesday during a game between Keswick and Coboconk after Campbell had penalized him and another player for roughing and high-sticking.

Campbell reported that Waller said something to him after he handed out the penalties. He added a 10-minute misconduct and then was slugged. He said three stitches were needed to close a cut near his eye and he was knocked to the ice.

Splendid Games Seen in Matches At Curling Club

The Quinte Curling Club bonspiel has come to the point when the men will be separated from the boys. Today the finals will start in all events and shortly after nine o'clock this evening winners in the several events will be declared.

On Friday the last of the sixteen rinks to compete took to the ice and probably the best curling of the week was witnessed by the large gallery on hand. Many of the games during the day were decided by the last shot or the last end. One witnessing the games could see the pressure that was building up as the rinks neared the finish of their games.

There is one curler on the local club that is a bearcat for punishment. Don McNevin, a most enthusiastic curler, has played practically every day of the tournament on one rink or another. He entered a rink under his own name, helped out on a rink, when the rink was a man short and on Friday joined the Bank of Montreal rink from Toronto and succeeded finally to make the playoffs. Mr. H. Gillingham will enter the two-game winner class and Don is the lead for the rink. The other two-game winner was a rink Reg Morgan of Kingston. The three-game winners were a rink entered by Dave Duffy of Belleville and skipped by Charlie Lovett and a rink skipped by J. Butler of the Trenton RCAF.

Following are the scores of the Friday's matches.

TV NOTEBOOK

by John Wettlaufer

Last week, if you remember, we talked of principle of "scanning". We mentioned that your TV screen has 525 horizontal scanning lines from top to bottom and your receiver sweeps these 30 times per second; a total of 15,750 lines per second. However, this is an overly simple version of what your set must accomplish to provide a picture.

Imagine, if you will, one single line of the picture which has say, 100 changes from light to dark. There are 525 lines, you know, and if each line had an equal number of changes, 52,500 changes per picture are involved. Your set produces 30 such pictures per second which adds up to a production of 1,575,000 changes per second.

Actually, when you consider the incredible complexities of producing a picture, a TV set stacks up as a fantastic example of electronic engineering.

However, even the finest sets have troubles from time to time. When your set requires attention, call on CIRCLE TV SERVICE for fast, thorough repair. TV repairing is a specialty — not a sideline — at CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St. — Phone WO 8-6791; in Trenton phone eZnith 6-3800.

Many Things Worked Against Gisele MacKenzie TV Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Spring is the time when many network television programs face the life-or-death issue. One which failed to make the grade is Gisele MacKenzie's musical half-hour, which will breathe its last next Saturday night. What happened?

"The sponsor didn't like our rating," she replied in an interview. "It's as simple as that."

"We came on after Perry Como and Polly Bergan, and two hours of music is just too much. Half the audience drops off after Perry's show, and we had to try to build it up again. It was tough sledding. I think we might have had a better chance if we had followed a western or another kind of show."

HAD TOUGH OPPOSITION

She also faced rugged opposition — the straight - shooting Paladin of Have Gun, Will Travel plus Lawrence Welk.

Two days after her show goes off the air she begins rehearsals for The King and I. She'll play it in the civic light opera season in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"I'm thrilled about that," she said. "After all, there are only about four great musical roles for a woman — The King and I, Annie Get Your Gun, South Pacific and My Fair Lady."

After she closes in The King and I, she opens at Las Vegas' Flamingo with Jack Benny. Then she'll go to Europe, where she'll take a delayed honeymoon [illegible]ith her husband - manager, To[illegible]'s Bob Shuttleworth.

After that she might try her hand at another TV series. But this time she won't let herself get caught in that Saturday night songfest.

PLACES SEVENTH

ZAKOPANE, Poland (CP)—Peter Ryan of Mont Tremblant, Que., Friday placed seventh in the downhill race of the international ski meet here. His time was 238.4.

Tax-Free Weeks Would Result If Liberals Win

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Lester B. Pearson says he will eliminate all federal personal income taxes for the majority of Canadians for a period of at least six weeks if the Liberal party forms the next government March 31.

This $100,000,000 tax holiday would be accomplished by making his proposed 25-per-cent tax slash retroactive to Jan. 1, 1958. Since a budget could not be brought down before next May 31 employees and others having their taxes deducted from their cheques would be entitled to a refund or tax credit for the five-month period.

This refund or credit would be applied against tax payments beginning June 1, so that for a period of six or seven weeks, beginning June 1, employers would be ordered not to make any further deductions from cheques but use the credits or refunds for tax payments.

After the credits run out, tax deductions would be resumed on the new lower tax scale. The rate would be reduced by about 25 per cent on the first $3,000 of taxable income.

Not only would the tax rate cuts be made retroactive to Jan. 1, but also the proposal to reduce the corporation tax to 10 per cent from 20 for small businesses and to increase the basic exemption to $4,000 a year from $2,000 for newly-weds.

The whole purpose of the reductions would be to get money into the pockets of people in lower-income brackets quickly.

"If this is done," said Mr. Pearson, "they may be expected to spend the increase in their take-home pay on a great variety of consumer goods and services and this, in turn, will stimulate economic activity throughout the country and create jobs."

The Liberal leader announced the new pledge to rousing cheers from some 2,800 party workers gathered in carnival spirit at a Massey Hall rally. Clowns, horn-tooters, bands, balloons, confetti and other stage gimmicks enlivened the rally as the 18 Toronto and York Liberal candidates were introduced.

In the last Parliament, the Liberals elected only one of their 18 candidates in this area. The winner, Dr. Stanley Haidasz of Toronto - Trinity, sharply criticized Prime Minister Diefenbaker as he introduced Mr. Pearson.

Mr. Diefenbaker, Dr. Haidasz said, was a man on a flying trapeze who had intrigued the voters with his antics.

"The awful tragedy is that the affairs of a nation of 17,000,000 people have been suspended in the limbo while a political acrobat swings in the glare of publicity.

"Dizzied by the height of his office, dazzled by the limelight, drunk on the dregs of his own oratory, John Diefenbaker has swung, spun, clung, hung and somersaulted from one crisis to another."

Mr. Pearson was interrupted several times in his speech by a few hecklers but he quietened them by saying he would answer quetions at the end of the meeting.

Here are two examples of how the proposed new tax refunds or credits would work out

A single man earning $50 a week and paying $4.05 a week in personal income taxes would give $26.70 as a refund or credit. For the six weeks starting June 1, he would pay no taxes. Thereafter, he would pay only the lower rate of $3.10.

A married man with two children earning $70 a week and paying $2.60 in tax would get a credit of $20. He would pay no taxes for seven weeks starting June 1. Afterwards his tax would go down to $2.20 a week.

Mr. Pearson may elaborate on his proposal as he continues his campaigning.

Sharp-Witted Queen's Students Heckle P.M.

KINGSTON (CP) — Noisy, sharp - witted student hecklers from Queen's University have given the prime minister one of the roughest rides of his election campaign.

The Progressive Conservative leader replied smoothly Friday night to some of the interruptions, ignored others and meanwhile got in some licks at the Liberal party that drew applause from the mainly sympathetic audience of nearly 4,000 in the arena here. Boisterous students, heckling the prime minister, subsided only after an incident within the section that brought four policemen to stand in front of the students.

A huge man, weighing well over 250 pounds and wearing Conservative emblems, moved in behind a row of hecklers, tore up some pro-Liberal signs they carried, and left. Students said the man was not from the campus.

SHOUTS INTERRUPT

No one tried to stop him, but a shouting commotion interrupted the party leader's speech for about two minutes and brought from Mr. Diefenbaker the comment:

"I've seen that throughout the years by those who have ears to hear and will not hear."

The meeting here was in contrast to one earlier in the day at Welland.

There an orderly line of sign-carrying unemployed men met Mr. Diefenbaker on his arrival for a noon - hour speech, stood quietly while their spokesman presented a brief to the prime minister, and then joined an audience of some 1,800 to hear Mr. Diefenbaker speak.

At Welland he said he wanted to keep people off relief rolls by providing jobs through public works.

"I hope that by June or July the application of our policies will have met this problem, through loosening tight money and through public works, so that no one will be suffering from unemployment."

ONLY A PART

At the meeting here the hecklers made up only part of a block of 200 or 300 students. Many in the section wore paper hats publicizing Ben Allmark, the Conservative candidate who is seeking to win from the Liberals the Kingston riding that elected Sir John A. Macdonald to the Commons nearly a century ago.

Thus there was a mixed reaction to some of Mr. Diefenbaker's statements: Boos when he claimed his party was mobilizing the support of young people, and cheers when he said Conservative student governments have been elected at mock parliaments at all but two Canadian universities. The Queen's University student government is Conservative.

Mr. Diefenbaker, met by heckling from the start, apparently tried to head if off by saying he has found audiences "not desiring in any way to interfere with discussion of the issues."

"Amen," shouted one student. "Now's the time to start." As the Conservative leader began his speech, several stood with mock Nazi salutes and shouted "Heil."

FARM PROBLEMS

Mr. Diefenbaker, speaking at Welland, dealt mainly with unemployment and farm problems in a city whose economy is tied in large measure both to steel-processing factories and to surrounding fruit and vegetable farms.

For the farmers, he said the Conservative government does not intend "to allow the Canadian agricultural producer to find his industry destroyed or undermined as a result of the dumping of produce from any country."

". . . if this government is returned to power we shall act, within our rights under GATT, (the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade) to preserve the Canadian agriculture industry and in particular our fruit and vegetable growers."

Mr. Diefenbaker did not specify what action would be taken, but referred without comment to a proposal by the Canadian Horticultural Council for establishment of customs valuations on various products for dumping duty purposes.

He said a major problem is the import of earlier-ripening U. S. farm products so that prices of Canadian products are "artificially depressed at a time when prices would otherwise be good."

GIRL BANDIT

POZO MUERTO, Argentina (CP)—Police are looking for a good-looking girl bandit. Latest victims were two Buenos Aires men, forced to stop their car by a rope across the road. The rifle-packing girl took $125 and a bottle of liquor from them and disappeared on horseback.

FORD PREVENTED

At Detroit a General Motors Corporation spokesman said Friday night he knew of no state department request asking GM to halt sales of its Canadian division to Red China.

The GM spokesman said any decision to halt sales of the company's Canadian division probably would be made by the Canadian government rather than by the American state department.

The U.S. maintains an embargo on American trade with Red China. Restrictions by the U.S. and other Western countries were intended to stop shipments of strategic goods or material that might be used for aggression, particularly during the Korean War.

In Oshawa, a spokesman for General Motors of Canada queried on Mr. Burt's statements, said:

"Under present circumstances, we don't care to do business with Communist China."

In Toronto, James Dykes of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce said: "Mr. Burt has in a way answered himself. As he says it is the U.S. state department that would prevent such a deal."

Mr. Dykes said he believes the U.S. policy prohibiting trade with Communist China in strategic goods also applies to wholly-owned subsidiaries of U.S. companies, whatever country they may be in, and therefore parent companies would be held responsible for any violations.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, March 23

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—While the age-old standards and dogma under which you were raised appear antiquated to you because some innovation has proved successful, this is no reason to discard them. Retain and be grateful for new knowledge.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—You are thinking in a muddled way today and would easily make radical changes that could catapult you from the stove into the open fire and the former would be cool in comparison. Relax and everything works out fine.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—A private worry annoys you so that you would skip out to Timbuktu, if you could. Let this be a valuable experience for you instead, or it may prove much harder for you to solve later on. Get it straightened out now.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — A rather annoying and boring person could today stop you from going about your business seriously. Just keep working diligently and he or she will leave. Don't attempt to skip out. Be gracious but firm.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You would love to give a piece of your mind to a Bigwig who appears to be acting in a rather foolish manner. Are you not acting in the other extreme fashion? Figure out a happy solution or medium and make the future a happy one.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — You are tempted to throw all that you have accumulated to the winds and tear off to some other location. Things would be worse there, so stick to present setup and try to perfect it. Go to church and find inspiration.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A recurring hunch is very erroneous, so think it over very well before attempting to follow it. Luckily you have fine will power. Be certain you do nothing that could lose you a most valuable attachment.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—A dictatorial associate could really make it hard for you today if you retaliate in kind. There is a strange psychological reason that is egging him or her on to use such tactics. Consider it philosophically and smile.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Steer clear of dull - doldrum tasks today or you would lose a good deal of money trying to replace objects that could be destroyed. Be most kind to fellow men and the day is then fine for you and lucrative.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — While you are in the mood to have a good time, expense be doggoned, remember that your budget will not permit it and that it isn't worth it. Change your irritated attitude and stick to simple and pure pleasures.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Affairs at the home are in a pretty stew, but your preaching to other members of your family will do absolutely no good. Show by example the success and happiness that right living and thinking produces.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Be particularly careful in driving today or even walking in the evening. Put a bridle on your lips, too, if you want to avoid arguments and worse, which unguarded words could cause. Take it easy. Relax and smile.

If your child is born today . . . The interesting child born today in the is the kind who believes implicitly in instigation for the sake of the fun it affords him or her and the sense of accomplishment when a point is won. Let your child get bumped once or twice and then teach that honey gets more than all the vinegar in the world. Also teach tolerance, for your child is naturally imperious, due to the great mind he or she possesses.

One Man Missing, Twelve Homeless In $250,000 Fire

Picton Block Burns, After Terrific Explosion

PICTON — A business block containing a restaurant, a store and four apartments on Main Street was swept by fire following an explosion early Sunday morning with a loss amounting to $250,000. The ruins are being probed for the body of Danny Evangelatos, 27, restaurant employee, trapped when an explosion blew the front out of that business.

Sgt. Scott Hele and Constable George Wright of the police force are being hailed as heroes and credited with saving the lives of twelve people residing in apartments above the Town and Country Restaurant and Sobie's Ladies' Wear. They carried two crippled women to safety after arousing the occupants.

Rendered homeless and losing all their possessions were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bannon and son Michael, 4; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Chesterton, daughter Vickey 3, and a two-months-old baby, and Mr. Chesterton's mother; Mr. and Mrs. Stan Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Foster Christy.

In Prince Edward County hospital here is Mrs. William Daoussis, 38 who operated the restaurant. She suffered burns about the arms and face and severe shock and had a close call from death as flying glass shot past her with sufficient force to carry it 40 feet across the street.

The main section of the town was without power all day as hydro gangs, along with telephone crews, repaired services. Collapse of the front brick wall of the block ripped down a large section of wires and broke off a hydro pole.

Picton and Picton Army fire brigades did a fine job in confining the fire to the one block, which was owned by Harry Abramsky. Belleville Dept. offered to send help.

Sgt. Hele and Constable Wright were seated in the police cruiser forty feet from the scene, when they saw Mrs. Daoussis rush from the restaurant, her hair ablaze and cuffs of her coat afire.

Her screams awakened neighborhood residents. Hele stopped further injury by fire to the woman and rushed her to hospital in the cruiser. Just after Mrs. Daoussis had run outside there was a tremendous explosion. Plate glass was hurled across the street and windows in nearby buildings blown out. The block was enveloped in flames and smoke in a matter of minutes.

Constable Wright hastened to arouse the apartment dwellers on the second floor. All were asleep and were forced to flee in night attire. Unable to walk, Mrs. Chesterton, Sr., had to be carried downstairs by Constable Wright. Left behind were Mr. and Mrs. Williams, the latter also crippled. Constable Wright again returned, followed by Sgt. Hele although it was impossible for them to breathe and both were nearly overcome. Between them they were able to carry Mrs. Williams and assist Mr. Williams to safety.

Townsend Back From World Tour

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—Group Captain Peter Townsend, 43, returned here today from his round-the-world tour.

Formerly air force attache at the British Embassy here Townsend left Brussels in October, 1956, on his lone 60,000-mile journey in a British Landrover.

The 43-year-old former suitor of Princess Margaret described the only "serious incident" on his trip:

"I could not take up my quarters at the small hotel where I was booked at Baix, near Valance, southern France," because a madman was standing in the doorway with a shotgun.

"He fired several times at random.

"Police waved me on and I spent the night farther north."

Accused Unable To Meet Bail

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP) — Joseph F. Fleming, 33, of Toronto, is in jail here on stock swindling charges after being unable to meet increased bail.

His bail was increased to $10,000 from $3,000 after he was arrested Sunday night at the international border at Niagara Falls. Police said he was trying to leave the United States.

Fleming is charged with Alexander D. Freeman III, also of Toronto, in connection with a telephone-mail scheme that allegedly resulted in the sale of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of fraudulent uranium stock in 1955. Freeman is free on $3,000 bail.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The weekend's fine weather continues across most of Ontario today, and for the northern half of the province little change is expected for Tuesday. In Southern Ontario, Tuesday's weather hinges on the development of a low pressure system centred over the Mississippi Valley. This system has caused a large area of precipitation to spread northward almost to the south shore of Lake Erie. The precipitation is expected to continue to spread slowly northward into the Windsor area this evening reaching the London-Hamilton area by tonight.

Hammarskjold Opens Talks With Red Leaders

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations begins a series of meetings today with Soviet leaders. He said he expects no specific results but regards the discussions as "important in themselves."

Hammarskjold is expected to remain in Russia until Thursday. He almost certainly will meet with Communist party chief Nikita Khruschchev.

British Government Fighting Back Against 'Ban-The-Bomb' Campaign

LONDON (CP) — The British government is fighting back against the ban-the-bomb campaign.

Prime Minister Macmillan has made a number of recent speeches stressing the dangers of unilateral abandonment of nuclear weapons, and Conservative party headquarters has prepared a leaflet designed to answer questions raised by the campaign for nuclear disarmament.

The leaflet says the anti-bomb campaign is confusing the public, with young people being a particular target of campaign "propaganda," just as they were in the 1930s when the British left-wing "paid only lip-service to collective security."

The Conservative counter-attack suggests a growing concern over the influence on public opinion which the disarmament campaign appears to be having.

Nobody knows for sure how deep the current agitation goes, but in recent months it has become one of the major political talking points in Britain and some other countries, including West Germany.

Newspaper correspondence columns carry a continuing debate on the subject.

NO PERMIT ASKED FOR SALE OF CARS TO RED CHINA

Canada Not Likely To Object to Sale

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Canadian trade official said Saturday the government would probably have no objection to the sale of Canadian-produced passenger automobiles to Red China.

But in Washington a treasury official declared no Canadian subsidiary of an American company can sell goods to a Communist country unless the parent firm obtains an export licence from the U.S. government.

The officials were commenting on a statement made in Windsor Friday by George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers, that Ford of Canada could have sold 1,000 cars to Red China but that the parent Ford Company in the U.S. vetoed the deal.

He said thousands of Canadian auto workers are without work yet auto companies in this country "were prevented by the U.S. state department from filling an order for 1,000 cars for China."

NOT INVOLVED

In Ottawa, M. W. Sharp, deputy minister of trade and commerce, emphasized the Canadian government was not involved in the reported deal. He said no applications for export permits for cars had been received although the Canadian government probably would grant an export permit if approached.

Passenger cars were not included in the list of strategic goods Canada has banned from export to the Communist country.

The treasury official in Washington said the department had received no request for an export licence to cover the shipment of cars to Red China by Ford.

He added that he was not prepared to say whether an export licence would have been granted if the parent Ford company had asked for it. However, no such licences have been granted in the past.

The U.S. official said that under the "trading with the enemy" act, a parent company which did not obey the regulations requiring a special permit for export of goods to Red China would face a $10,000 fine and up to 10 years in prison for its officers if convicted.

DOES NOT AGREE

And at Niagara Falls, Lester B. Pearson indicated Saturday he does not agree with the U.S. law which prevents subsidiaries of American companies in Canada from selling automobiles to Communist China.

In reply to questions the Liberal leader suggested that U.S. parent companies should not try to influence their Canadian subsidiaries in their export policy.

Canada, he said, could not exercise control over the export policies of individual companies doing business in Canada but the federal government could express its feelings on the matter.

As far as he was concerned he would like to see Canada export all types of goods to Red China with the exception of strategic materials. He did not consider automobiles a strategic item.

At Welland, he was asked again for comment and here he said he would hate to think that U.S. parent companies would take any action on their Canadian subsidiaries that was not consistent with Canadian policy.

Diefenbaker and Pearson Get Personal in Addresses

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson got downright personal with each other during their weekend campaigning for the election coming in exactly a week.

Each suggested the other is irresponsible.

Mr. Diefenbaker referred Saturday at Beloeil, Que., to Mr. Pearson's promise that a Liberal government would make a $400,000,000 tax cut retroactive to Jan. 1 and give most Canadians a tax holiday for six or seven weeks to compensate for tax deductions at the higher rate.

"I think the people of Canada want a holiday from continuous and irresponsible promises as day passes day," said Mr. Diefenbaker.

Mr. Pearson said at Welland that statements made as truth by Mr. Diefenbaker provide a "sad commentary" on the responsibility of men in high Progressive Conservative government office.

He said the prime minister "did not seem to be telling the whole truth" in various speeches across the country.

CCF F Leader M. J. Coldwell, pronounced recovered from an acute cold during the weekend, resumes his efforts in Toronto tonight. He was forced to rest last week at his Ottawa home.

Weekend performances:

Revenue Minister George Nowlan said at Windsor, N.S., that future election campaigns should be three weeks long instead of two months as they are now.

There were so many sources of information available to the public now—newspapers, radio and television—that extra long campaigns "are not really necessary." After weeks of campaigning across the country, he said, he finds it difficult to "get a new and fresh approach."

"It was much easier in the days when politicians could get on a train at one end of the country and move leisurely across it . . . making a speech at every stop." Now the same speech couldn't be made twice because "reports of it moved ahead of them."

Former Liberal health minister Paul Martin said at Brantford the Conservative $1,185,000,000 public works program is "the greatest single deception a prime minister has ever tried to put over the Canadian people."

Ninety per cent of the works had been planned by the former Liberal administration as the normal program to carry on the country's progress.

"The Diefenbaker program is a phoney and it is not worthy of the Queen's first minister."

Quebec Welfare Minister Paul Sauve said at Oka, Que., that Canadians should vote Conservative "because John Diefenbaker has done his duty to the people of all Canada."

The Union Nationale minister charged the Liberals with "trying to drag out the bogey-man of war" in an effort to frighten Quebec voters. But they were not children any more. They knew that if Russia decided to start a war it wouldn't matter who was prime minister of Canada.

Former Liberal finance minister Walter Harris, not a candidate this election, said at Kenora that some foreign investors have stopped spending money in Canada because they are uncertain of the Conservative trade policy.

Canadians wanted to do business with Britain, but that did not mean they should cut trade with the United States. He referred to Mr. Diefenbaker's proposal to divert 15 per cent of Canada's import trade with the U.S. to Britain.

Mr. Diefenbaker in speeches that took him from Montreal to Sherbrooke concentrated on appealing to Quebec voters to support his Conservative party on election day.

Mr. Pearson, on a journey through the Niagara Peninsula, said at St. Catharines he promised that a Liberal government would prevent dumping of American fruits and vegetables in Canada at low prices. He recalled that Mr. Diefenbaker also promised to prevent dumping.

"But if he will not permit it why, as head of the government, doesn't he do something because there is already dumping?"

Churchill's Private Doctor Flies to France to See Him

ROQUEBRUNE, France (AP)—Lord Moran, Sir Winston Churchill's private physician, flew in from London today but insisted he does not believe his patient's condition is serious.

Lord Moran arrived by plane with Churchill's daughter Mrs. Christopher Soames. She echoed the doctor's statements.

Churchill suffered a slight setback in his recovery from pneumonia and pleurisy which struck him Feb. 18.

Sources close to the household said Churchill, 83, is making a normal and satisfactory recovery from the latest relapse.

Lady Churchill lunched at the plush Hotel de Paris in Monte Carlo and told a reporter there that her husband was "much better, thanks."

Lord Moran said his latest news from the villa is not alarming.

The doctor said he had planned to return to the Riviera about this time anyway "to see if he was fit to come home."

Dr. David Roberts, his local physician, described the relapse as "a slight recurrence of a former illness." He said "Things are as we want them to be, and we are not worried at the moment."

Lady Churchill is staying at the villa with her husband.

There were hints Churchill had tried to return to his usual routine too soon after his bout with illness.

He soon began smoking his cigars again. On March 14 he insisted on walking with Lady Churchill in the garden of the villa where he is staying. The following day he went to lunch with a friend at a public restaurant.

It has been unseasonably cold on the Riviera.

Geoffrion May Play

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion will undergo an examination today to determine if he can rejoin Montreal Canadiens for the Stanley Cup playoffs, opening against Detroit Red Wings here Tuesday night.

TODD'S WIDOW PLANNING TO FLY TO HIS FUNERAL

Showman Met Death As Plane Crashed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor leaves a sickbed tonight for a sad flight to Chicago and the funeral Tuesday of her husband, producer Mike Todd.

The actress has been bedridden with a severe cold—the illness that kept her from accompanying Todd on his fatal plane flight.

With her will be singer Eddie Fisher, one of Todd's best friends; MGM designer Helen Rose, a close friend of Mrs. Todd; Dr. Rexford Kennamer, the actress' physician; Howard Taylor, her brother, and Dick Hanley, Todd's executive secretary.

Todd's body, sealed in its casket, was en route to Chicago, home town of the colorful showman.

His son, Michael Jr., had wanted the body cremated in Albuquerque where it was taken after Saturday's air crash which killed Todd, 50, writer Art Cohn, 49, pilot Bill Verner, 45, and co-pilot Tom Barclay, 34.

But Miss Taylor balked. She told Mike Jr. that his father did not want cremation.

PRIVATE RITES

The private funeral rites will be held in Jewish Waldheim Cemetery at Fort Park, Ill., a Chicago suburb.

Todd's mother, Mrs. Sophie Goldbogen, 91, a patient in a sanitarium here, was not notified of her son's death. An attendant explained that the shock "might prove very damaging to the patient."

Telegrams were delivered in bales to the Todd home here, including one from Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower which read: "The president and I extend our deepest sympathy."

Cables from 17 foreign countries also were received.

A memorial service will be held at Temple Israel here at the time of the burial. George Jessel will deliver a eulogy at the rites, expected to draw a host of Hollywood stars and show people.

The funeral will cancel out Miss Taylor's appearance at the Academy Awards Wednesday night. night. She is a contender for the best actress award for her performance in Raintree County.

Jennifer Jones will accept for her, if she wins. Fisher also dropped out of the telecast of the awards.

Miss Taylor wired flowers and condolences Sunday to the wives of the dead pilots. She received a telegram in return from Mrs. Barbara Verner.

DIG OUT PLANE

Meanwhile at the crash scene, a Civil Aeronautics Board investigator said heavy equipment would be moved today to the isolated crash scene 22 miles southeast of Grants, N.M. The equipment will dig out the shattered and buried pieces of the Lockheed Lodestar, the Lucky Liz, in an effort to determine what made it crash.

"The plane hit at an awfully steep angle—practically straight down," said CAB investigator Phillip Goldstein.

Unofficial theory blamed the crash on icing, which the pilot reported only a few minutes before the crash. Some pilots on the scene said it appeared that only one engine was working when the plane smashed into the ground and exploded.

Last of Reported Rebel Holdings In N. Sumatra in Govt. Hands

JAKARTA (AP)—Reports from North Sumatra today said Prapat, one of the last reported rebel holdings in the area, was firmly in government hands.

Associated Press correspondent John Griffin telephoned from the port of Medan that Prapat was "all shot up and there are gutted vehicles in the streets from a battle last Tuesday."

Griffin said Maj. Boyke Golan, who led the mutiny last week in Medan had gone into hiding with the remnants of his force among the rubber estates about 100 miles southeast of the key port and rail centre. The government retook Medan after a see-saw battle.

Loyalist forces meanwhile claimed to have recaptured the last major oil installations held by the rebels in the eastern side of Central Sumatra.

Antara news agency reported that 43 persons, including women and children, were killed recently in an ambush by the outlawed Dari Islam, a fanatic Moselm group which has no connection with the rebellious army units, near Wadjo-Bone in the central Celebees.

An Indonesian military spokesman denied reports that rebel planes had bombed Indonesia's summer capital of Bandung, 70 miles east of Jakarta.

Forced To Join Teamsters' Union Commission Told

Trucker Tells of Gangs Patrolling Highways

TORONTO (CP) — Trucker John Watson told a royal commission today that "a gang of 35 to 40 men" forced him to join the Teamsters' Union in October, 1956.

The inquiry by Mr. Justice W. D. Roach into allegations against the union opened in the legislative buildings with testimony by Mr. Watson, chairman of the Individual Dump-Truck Owner's Association.

It was Mr. Watson's brief to the legislature's select committee on labor relations on Jan. 30—accusing the teamsters of using intimidation and violence to gain members—that led Attorney-General Roberts to launch the inquiry.

Under questioning by commission counsel C. L. Dubbin, Mr. Watson said he was forced to join the union Oct. 29, 1956, while he was hauling gravel to a highways department project from a gravel pit operated by Stouffville Sand and Gravel Company at nearby Hope.

STOPPED ON ROAD

He said 35 or 40 men stopped him on a concession road leading from the pit and told him "I had to take my load back to the pit and dump it."

The group followed him back to the pit and supervised the dumping. Then a Mr. Rumble asked him for $5 and gave him a receipt issued by local 230 of the Teamsters' Union.

"Mr. Rumble said there would be $20 owing," Mr. Watson testified.

The receipt given Mr. Watson was introduced as evidence by Mr. Dubbin.

The commission counsel asked Mr. Watson if there had been any threats and the trucker said one had come from an unidentified man in the group.

"He said that we would have to join the union. If we didn't join the union we wouldn't get home that night."

Mr. Watson said he and other truckers paid $5 and went home. Later the Stouffville company's truckers had split into two groups — those who favored a strike and those who didn't.

AFRAID TO CONTINUE

"Why didn't you carry on your work?" asked Mr. Dubbin.

"I was afraid to," replied Mr. Watson. "There was a large number of people in cars patrolling the area—you might say pickets—to make sure we didn't go back to work."

Mr. Watson said that on about Nov. 12 some of the truckers decided to go back to work "in spite of the gangs travelling in cars."

The company had established armed guards while several trucks began hauling "because some trucks had been damaged."

"I believe there were six carloads of provincial policemen touring the area at all times."

At that time Mr. Watson began organizing the Individual Dump-Truck Owner's Association, which he said now has 600 members made up mostly of men who operate their own trucks.

Hearing on Sale Of Toronto Star Is Adjourned

TORONTO (CP)—A hearing on the proposed sale of the Toronto Star Publishing Company and the Star Realty Company was adjourned today until Wednesday when one of the lawyers was unable to attend.

The Supreme Court of Ontario is considering a purchase bid by the Hawthorn Publishing Company. The company was incorporated by trustees of the Joseph E. Atkinson estate and a grandson of the late Mr. Atkinson, publisher of the paper.

Earlier today, the Globe and Mail said a second, and higher, offer was expected to come before the court.

Last Thursday, a spokesman for the Hawthorn company said it has made an offer totalling $25,555,021.

The Globe and Mail quoted B. A. Griffis, editorial budget controller for The Star, as saying he made an offer of $26,799,638 and said he represents only himself.

Benny, Truman Help to Wipe Out Orchestra Deficit

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A musical gentleman from Independence, Mo., and a "39-year-old" comedian who says he plays the violin brought a financial bonanza to the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra Saturday night.

The Independence musician was former president Harry S. Truman. He presided as master of ceremonies for the silver anniversary concert before a sell-out audience of 2,500.

The comedian was Jack Benny, funny man of radio and television, who played two violin solos.

The audience paid $2.50 to $50 a seat and the $50,000 boxoffice returns virtually wiped out the orchestra's debts.

PICK POCKET WORKS IN PARKING LOT

Acting the Good Samaritan proved costly for one teen-aged youth in the city over the weekend.

John Burnette, 226 West Moira Street, told police that while passing through a Front Street parking lot a short heavy-set man of about 40 years asked him to assist him to his car, claiming he had hurt his foot.

He lent support to the man as he hobbled to his car, then a short time later discovered his wallet containing $6 was missing.

LADS FIND BUTTERFLY

"Coming events cast their shadows before," so said the Bard of Avon. This time the shadow of spring was by-passed and summer swung into view by the untimely advent of a full grown Monarch butterfly in all his glorious orange and black. He was found by two young lads, Perry and Norman Gerow, of Herchimer Avenue, just a short distance from the southern side of their home. It appeared as if the butterfly had just hatched from the chrysalis as the wings were still quite damp, but after drying out in a sunny window, it became quite restless and on Sunday was released into the warm sunshine outside. Mrs. Gerow said the butterfly was a good size, measuring between two and one-half to three inches from wing tip to wing tip.

Kingston Rink Wins Corby Trophy

Wearing victory smiles following their bonspiel win at the 1st Annual Quinte Curling Club Bonspiel held last week at Belleville, are the Kingston rink skipped by Andy McFie. Left to right are Jim Donaldson, lead; Bert Walsh, second; C. A. Millar, third, and Andy McFie, skip. The foursome were presented with the Corby trophy, held by the winners, as well as other prizes.

First Bonspiel of Quinte Club Unqualified Success, Corby Trophy Won by Kingston Rink

The first bonspiel sponsored by the Quinte Curling Club has passed into history but the memory of a most successful one will remain for many years with those who participated. It was a week of glorious fun, good comradeship and the resolve that next year the affair will be bigger and better. Already plans have been laid for next year's spiel by an active board of directors and loyal boosters of the club.

During the week the lounge room has been crowded to capacity with onlookers, interested spectators and relatives following the respective games in which some member of the family was taking part. Good natured banter flowed throughout the room and in the "If" room downstairs, many games were played over and over again. The visitors who took part in the spiel were loud in their praise of the accommodations of the new rink and the hospitality that was everywhere evident. The members of the club went out of their way to make the visiting curlers and their friends welcome and it augers well for the years that are ahead for a worthwhile project for entertainment, exercise and relaxation through the long winter season.

FINALS THRILLING

On Saturday the winners of three and two games throughout the previous four days of the spiel gathered to compete for the top honors in the event and some excellent curling resulted. So close were the games that in four instances an extra end was required to decide the winner. After the firing was completed a rink of Bert Walsh, lead, J. Donaldson, second, Charlie Millar, vice skip and Andy McFie as skip won the Corby trophy and the electric toasters, that accompanied the main prize. They defeated what amounted to a home town rink from Oshawa for all the members claimed this city as home. The rink was entered under the name of Army Armstrong, a resident here for many years, but A. J. Parkhill, vice-president of the Ontario Curling Association, and who married a Belleville girl, Miss Olive Tilley, was the skip. Gordon Myles, a native of this city and Alex Nathan, who made this city his home for many years were the other members of the rink. The rink won electric razors donated by Bill Cook, Dick Ellis, Ab. Wonnacott and Walker Hardware and presented by Ab Wonnacott. The Corby prize and the toasters were presented by Bob Farquharson.

The consolation event of the Corby trophy was won by an old Belleville boy, Earl G. Woodley, son of Russell Woodley of this city and in winning the event defeated his uncle, Gerald Woodley, who was born in this city and claimed it as home for many years. Incidentally the younger Woodley won this match in a thrilling finish with last rock by the skip J. Leishman making a sensational play. The E. G. Woodley rink of Ken Keyes, lead, Bill Burt, second, E. G. Woodley, vice skip and J. Leishman, skip, won the beautiful silver trays, donated by the Big "A" Company, while the runners-up in this event, G. Doxon, lead, C. McDonald, second, J. Guild, vice skip and Gerald Woodley, skip, won the four shirts, presented by the Deacon Brothers.

In the second event a Belleville rink of D. Coleman, lead, Steve Tripp second, Max White, vice skip and R. Walsh as skip won the electric clocks and ash trays donated by the O'Connor Jewel Box, while W. D. Cook, lead, Dick Beare, second, Max Moffatt, vice skip and Ross Booth, also a Belleville rink, won the ash trays, presented by the Percival Stores. In the consolation of this event another Kingston rink, S. Gray, lead, F. Hunsdale, second, J. Richardson, vice skip and Reg Morgan as skip was first and awarded electric clocks donated by the General Electric Company, while a rink of Hazen Stairs, lead, S. Hart, second, Claude D. Tice, vice skip and Ben Corke as skip won the leather wallets presented by the Georgia Salon.

The rink with the highest aggregate age from Oshawa, skipped by W. H. White, received motor rugs from Elliott Motors, while the best-sweeping rink won the four brooms donated by the Sports Centre and presented by Bruce Miller. This rink was skipped by J. Quackenbush from the Trenton RCAF. The rink with the toughest luck, Ross Burkholder of this city, won the four sport shirts, donated by Labatts.

PRESENTATION ON ICE

The presentation of the prizes was held from tables placed on the ice and the talks carried by a PA system to the crowd in the lounge room. William Gault, the president was the first introduced by "Pat" Houston, who was chairman of the bonspiel committee, and chairman of the program. Mr. Gault sincerely thanked all, who in any way, had made the spiel the success that it had been. "It has been a happy occasion to welcome the curlers to this first spiel and with the hope that many happy years are to follow" said the president.

Mr. Houston in his opening remarks covered a wide field in the preparation and handling of the spiel. He especially thanked the women's section of the Club for their work in arranging for the catering during the week "The ladies" said Mr. Houston, "have a project in mind, that of supplying a kitchen for the clubhouse, and their work this week has gone a long way in supplying the need." He thanked Jack Yanover, Bill Cook and Don McNevin for supplying the pounds of cheddar cheese, that were given to all participants, while the Ontario Cheese Producers supplied the cheese that was placed on the table every day for al to partake.

Again Mr. Houston thanked the Bonspiel Committee with special reference to Steve Flintoff, for the excellent ice, L. E. McLean in charge of the draw, Jack Yanover for his handling of the refreshments in the "IF" room and Don McNevin for his efforts in securing the valuable prizes and all the directors for their able assistance in any capacity they are asked to work. Jerry Jarrett, treasurer of the club, and one who contributed a great deal of effort and time, in arranging for the money to build the rink, outlined briefly the work that had been done in building this rink. "But it has been a labor of love and we are very happy in our new home," said the speaker.

The result of the draws on Saturday follow.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was irregular on index today in moderately slow morning trading but gains in most sections outnumbered losses by a fair-sized majority.

While industrials lost 12 decimal points on index, gains held a wide edge over losses in the section. Base metals had virtually no change and the declines and advances balanced. Golds were narrowly lower despite fractional gains by McIntyre and Hollinger and western oils were up one-half point on index.

The 11 a.m. volume of 431,000 shares was lighter than Friday's 449,000 at the same time but about average for most of the sessions in the last two weeks.

All industrial changes were fractional.

Coppers were strong, continuing the advance of late last week. Senior base metals were narrowly traded and showed no definite trend. Western oils moved in an extremely narrow range.

Tory Toronto gave Liberal Leader Pearson a lively night when a capacity crowd thronged Massey Hall with banners, bands and costumes. Local Liberal groups made a monster rally of it and went away saying that if they didn't collect more votes for the party they did have a lot of fun. Pearson, shown with a new Canadian delegation, said there would be a six-or-seven-week holiday from taxes if his party is elected.

OTTAWA (CP) — Housing starts in Canadian centres with a population of 5,000 or more rose sharply in February to 4,374 from 1,773, in the corresponding month last year, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation said today.

The federal agency said the February increase brought the number of starts in the first two monhs of tthe year to 8,319, up from 3,227 in 1957.

Red Lands Plan Invasion of Auto Market

LONDON (Reuters) — Iron Curtain countries are planning a drive on the international automobile market, a British newspaper reported Sunday.

The Sunday Dispatch says British car makers have sent "spies" behind the Iron Curtain to measure the threat to the British foreign market.

They discovered that the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia are mounting an "all-out export drive" which will open at the Brussels World Fair in Belgium next month, the newspaper reported.

"There can be no doubt that the Russians are planning to market the cars, all of which are subsidized by the state, at any price which will undercut our models."

Reuther Will Attend Negotiations With GM

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers union announced today its president, Walter P. Reuther, will attend the opening Tuesday of contract negotiations with General Motors Corporation.

In most previous bargaining with the auto industry, Reuther has joined negotiations only when they reached a climactic stage.

Reuther reiterated Sunday in a television program he would insist on a profit-sharing contract with the "big three" of the auto industry — G.M., Chrysler Corporation and Ford Motor Company.

UAW negotiations open with Ford next Monday and with Chrysler, the following day, April 1. Current three-year contracts with the big three all expire June 1.

CHARGED IN DEATH

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerard Cote, 28, a Montreal pastry cook, Friday was charged with murder in connection with the throat-slashing death of his wife. Preliminary hearing was set for March 28. The charge was laid after a coroner's jury found Cote criminally responsible for the death Wednesday of his wife, Marielle, 24-year-old mother of two small children.

Gasoline War Develops in City Over Weekend

A full scale gasoline price war developed in the city over the weekend with many service stations, representing most of the major oil firms, dropping prices for standard gas four to five cents a gallon to 39 9/10 cents.

The war started on Saturday morning with Sunoco stations first to post the new price. Other service stations representing Imperial, Shell, British American and Texaco, then rapidly followed suit.

Hastily painted cardboard signs made their appearance outside service stations letting motorists know of the new price. Previous price for standard gas ranged from 43.9 to 44.9 per gallon.

A local sales manager of one major oil company said he did not expect that price war would be very long drawn out.

"We don't like to see these things, but they seem to be inevitable when there is a bit of price variance," he said.

He noted that the motorist did not stand to gain as much as was indicated in the price drop as services otherwise given free would tend to fall off.

Vigor oil stations in the Belleville area have been selling gasoline for many months at 39.9 cents, while a "private" price war has been going on for years at Cannifton where as many as three vendors have sold at cut prices. Another station on No. 14 Highway, north of the city, has been charging 39.9, while a Trent Road station in past weeks has posted a sign for 40 cent gas.

Five Marching Soldiers Run Down by Car

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Five marching soldiers were run down from behind by a car Saturday night as they were on their way to relieve sentries at the main gate of Wolseley Barracks, throwing them in all directions.

In hospital are: Cpl. Vincent Dee, Barachois City, Que., fracture of the right leg, scalp lacerations; Pte. William R. Roberts, Brampton, fractured leg, neck injury which may include fractures, concussion; Pte. Robert A. Rose, Westmount North, N.S., possible fractured pelvis, concussion; Pte. Theodore Chamara, Sudbury, minor lacerations of the scalp and contusion of right buttock; Pte. Paul M. Russell, New Ross, N.S., multiple contusions, lacerations.

Pte. Lawrence Robert Zwicker, 34, of London, was charged with drunk driving. Members of the 2nd Battalion, the Royal Canadian Regiment, the men were part of the day's quarter guard and were within a few yards of the main gate when the accident occurred.

None of the injured men are reported in critical condition.

CLC Leader Gives Opinion About Charges

STE. AGATHE, Que. (CP) — President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress says there appears to be a concerted campaign by "certain" Canadian organizations to hold the labor movement responsible for economic conditions.

Addressing the closing banquet of the CLC's staff seminar in this Laurentian resort centre Saturday night, he said the CLC had issued a series of statements saying that management must share the responsibility for economic conditions.

On being asked by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to substantiate such charges, the CLC had written the chamber and the reply received, he said, was "evasive, innocuous and inconsequential."

The chamber, he said, disclaimed responsibility for its Ontario section's presentation to a special provincial government commission asking for enactment of "right-to-work" legislation.

Mr. Jodoin said the important thing is that a large section of organized management made demands of a government to enact legislation which is "antiquated, anti-labor and anti-social."

Police Assoc. Head Says No Offer Received From Commission or Town Council

TRENTON — "We did not reject any offer from town officials or the Police Commission because we did not receive any from them," Sgt. D. C. Bradshaw, president of the local Police Association said yesterday.

Commenting on the recent announcement that the policemen's organization will be asking arbitration in seeking several requests concerning their working conditions Sgt. Bradshaw stated, "We have no grievances with the town officials and what we are doing is letting things go through normal channels which are laid down for us in the provincial Police Act."

He said the policemen had made their requests to the Police Commission and the Mayor, who is a member on the Commission, asked the town council for their opinion on the matter and they had rejected any increase in pay at the last council meeting. The commission acting on the basis of this, sent a letter to the Police Association stating their requests have been refused and that there were no counter - proposals to be made.

"Now it will be necessary for us to go to arbitration, which is only normal procedure," the president said. "This committee will consist of one man chosen by us, another chosen by the town and one other person who will act as chairman and is selected by the two arbitrators already named. They will study the issues at hand and their decision will be binding on both parties. We do not know when this board will sit but it is expected to be in the near future."

What the policemen are asking the arbitrators to consider has not been released officially but information from reliable sources indicates they will be asking for a substantial raise in wages, a system of service pay and a 40-hour week as well as other minor fringe benefits.

The exact present scale of pay is not known but it is understood a sergeant on the Trenton Police Force receives less than a constable in other towns with which the police forces can be compared.

Glee Club Entertains Legionnaires

TRENTON — Following the last general meeting of the branch, several members of the Legion Glee Club entertained the approximately 200 Legionnaires present.

The selections were mostly Irish numbers, in honor of the occasion, and were extremely well received.

The vocal section consisted of Mrs. George L. Leeman, president of the branch Ladies' Auxiliary; Miss Juanita Wessel, and Comrades James Williamson, John F. Cote and I. B. McAfferty.

Comrade Stan Burrows played several selections on a musical saw and Mr. Claude Copeland accompanied the artists at the piano.

The emcee for the evening was Comrade Kenneth Craddock, the branch entertainment committee chairman, who announced that similar entertainment would be provided at the conclusion of each regular branch meeting in the future.

Following the Glee Club, Comrade Jack Goldberg showed a colored film of Legion activities over the past year and many of the members in attendance derived considerable amusement at seeing themselves "in the movies." The film of the Armistice Day parade, held November 11 of last year, was particularly well received and his Comrades in the branch hope that Mr. Goldberg will continue his hobby in the future.

Three Phone Offices to Be Closed Mar. 31

TRENTON — A more compact and efficient method of telephone service will be adopted by the Bell Telephone Company in this area, it was announced over the weeked.

The release from the Telephone company said that in the interest of greater economy and efficiency its offices in Frankford, Wellington and Wooler will be closed after Monday, March 31, and all business transactions between subscribers in those localities and the company will be handled from a centralized point in Trenton.

J. E. Parker, Bell Telephone manager, for this region, said this simplified business method is in keeping with the company's policy of providing the best telephone service at the lowest possible cost.

New payment locations will be opened in each of the above communities on April 1, for the convenience of their customers.

Other telephone business will be available to the customers by dialing their local operator and asking for ZEnith 60000 and they will be connected directly to the business office in Trenton.

Police, Fire Fighters Enjoy Quiet Weekend

TRENTON — Provincial police in Brighton and local police both reported "a wonderful weekend, there were no accidents.

They said the highways and town streets were not as congested with traffic as might have been expected because of the fine weather and bright sunshine yesterday, and those who did go out for a Sunday drive were not speeders.

They reported a few cases of speeding "but you get these fellows all the time," they said.

The Trenton fire department also had a quiet weekend with only one call and it turning out to be a "false alarm." They said a woman noted sparks shooting from her neighbor's chimney and she called the department to be sure. It turned out to be an oil burner burning a little too high, but of no serious nature.

The Trenton Memorial Hospital also reported a quiet weekend with no accident cases coming in. The hospital reports 78 patient are now being cared for which, in some departments of the hospital makes it necessary to have beds placed in the hallways.

Ice Was Hard, So Is Noggin

The Belleville harbor, still covered with ice saved a local inebriate from a ducking Saturday night but it didn't save him from receiving a shiner or save him from the arms of the law.

City patrol officers spotted the man walking on South Front St., "all covered with blood."

Investigation revealed the man had fallen from a boat dock and struck his face on the ice, skinning his forehead. He was lodged in the city cells, charged with drunkenness.

Police Blotter

Theft of two autos, a break-in which netted thieves approximately 30 cartons of cigarets and the disappearance of a pen of pigeons, were reported to city and provincial police over the weekend.

Both stolen cars were in the city; one owned by George Stinson, RR 1 Consecon, was said taken from McAnnany Street, while the other, owned by Bernard Welde, was taken from in front of the owner's house at 440 Bleecker Ave.

City police found both vehicles this morning in Belleville. The Stinson car was picked up at a service station on Dundas Street East, while the Welde auto was found ditched on Herchimer Ave.

Provincial police reported a break-in at Jury's Dine and Dance on the Kingston Road with 30 cartons of cigarets missing. Entry was gained through a window.

Report Canada's Population Now Nears 17 Million

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's population rose to an estimated 16,948,000 at March 1 and likely will pass the 17,000,000 mark by mid-April.

The bureaus of statistics said today that the population—estimated at 16,887,000 at the beginning of the year—increased by 61,000 in the first two months of 1957. The March 1 estimate is only 52,000 short of 17,000,000.

A bureau official said the forecast of 17,000,000 by mid-April is based almost entirely on the expected natural growth in population. He said the present rate of growth is about 30,000 a month.

The population growth during the 12-month period ended March 1 was a record 528,000, up 3.2 per cent over 448,000 in the preceding 12 months. Immigration was heavy during this period, especially in the summer of 1957.

The population at the time of June, 1956, census was 16,081,000. It rose to 16,308,000 at the end of 1956 and to 16,860,000 at the end of 1957.

DEFENCE COSTS AND RESEARCH

These days when Army, Navy and Air Force officials blithely talk about millions for this and a billion or so for that, it is easy to understand why the average man, and many an expert besides, should refer to the mushrooming costs of defence expenditures in this atomic age.

We are apt to forget that these expenditures may not represent a much higher proportion of our wealth than that which was required to fight wars centuries ago. Before the age of the machine, the withdrawal of manpower from the farms and workshops must have greatly reduced the productive capacity of the lands under the control of some baron, duke, prince or king. War has always been an expensive business.

That, though, does not alter the fact that the ever-mounting expenditures imperative today if a country wishes to be able to protect itself from the possibility of aggression may be placing a strain which our economy will prove unable to bear.

It is reported that the drain on the arms race on its resources is one reason why Russia is so eager for a summit conference which might bring about an agreement on a disarmament program.

It may be that Russia envisions such a program as a sort of two-edged sword, which will enable it to step up its own expenditures on consumer goods, thereby diminishing the possibility of any internal revolt in the lands under the Red Flag, and which at the same time will throw the western economy out of gear. For, though some western economists are alarmed over the proportion of the national income which is required for defence purposes, there is another school of thought which holds that these expenditures have buoyed up the economy and have prevented a severe depression. Even some western observers believe that this is true in part, for increased defence expenditures are regarded as one means of "priming the pump" when times are slack. Their effect is much the same as that of public works projects, with the exception that the nation does not actually benefit by these expenditures, aside from the fact that they protect it against its enemies. The Russians, from what one can read, in print in their newspapers and between the lines, are inclined to give these defence expenditures an even bigger role in the western economy than any of our own economists. Common sense should tell us, though, that, if some pump-priming is sometimes necessary, there must be more useful ways of using these funds than by competing in an arms race, always providing, of course, that the necessity for such defence expenditures were eliminated.

There is, however, another role played by defence expenditures which is important. From Ottawa the other day came a report that the defence department expects to spend a billion dollars in the next five years on military aircraft. It was noted that since the 1947-48 fiscal year A. V. Roe (Canada) Ltd. has earned more than $1,100,000,000 from its CF-100, "not including heavy government contributions to the firm for research and capital assistance." What is true of A. V. Roe Ltd. has also been true of other aircraft manufacturing concerns in other western countries. To a lesser extent, perhaps, the same holds true for the manufacturers of other military equipment. The important point is that much of the research carried out for military purposes has proven of great value in development of machines for peaceful uses. Few firms could afford to spend on research the amounts which governments have earmarked for this purpose. If the present reason for this government-financed research, the arms race, is eliminated, we must guard against the elimination of research expenditures also.

Even the most casual thought will suggest to all a hundred ways in which discoveries originally intended to help in fighting a war have later been put to useful purposes in peacetime.

JUST FOLKS

THE BUSY MAN

Where do you go when there's work to be done?
To the loafer who dreams in the shade,
To the idler who sits all day in the sun
And never has toiled with the spade?
Do you go to the man who has nothing to do
Or the man who is busy with deeds?
What sort of a man do you pick out when you
Have a task that ability needs?

Would you go to a man down in Indolence Vale
And ask him a mountain to climb?
Would you go to a fellow who's certain to fail,
Just because he has plenty of time?
Or go to the man who has done things, and still
Is busy with doing each day,
The man who has proved what he's worth and can fill
Any part that you ask him to play?

The man who's busy is the one you would choose,
The man shoulder-deep in his work;
The brother who isn't afraid of a bruise,
Not the fellow who's known as a shirk.
The man who has never a minute to spare
Is the one you'd select for your task,
The man who has proved what he's able to bear
Is the man you would certainly ask.

France Not Big Power

By Joseph C. Harsch in the Christian Science Monitor

Not until you stand back and look at it from a distance do you realize how drastic, in fact how radical, is the proposal Hugh Gaitskell has made to admit new faces to the forthcoming meeting at the summit.

He would be willing, he said, to allow the Soviets to bring along Poland and Czechoslovakia if they wanted a number of delegations equal with the West. And he added that India might be included as a representative of the non-committed areas.

France already has objected in strongest terms against any tampering with the established representation at any major international conference — and well it might, particularly when the proposal is put in Mr. Gaitskell's terms.

To admit Poland and Czechoslovakia as counterpoises to Britain and France is to equate them in terms of importance in the world of today.

More than that, any admission of a new face at such a meeting will be the milestone which will mark once and for all the end of an era.

• • •

In our generation the words summit and Big Four have a very specific meaning. They mean France, Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union — the countries which were allied on the winning side in World War II and undertook to make and keep the peace after it was over.

There is a further connotation to these words.

They imply that these are the four responsible and important countries of the world, that they possess among themselves the ability, both mental and physical, to manage the principal affairs of a world and that all others are lesser powers.

Ever since World War II a conference of foreign ministers or a meeting at the summit has meant automatically a meeting of these four. For the special occasion of the Indochina conference of 1954, India and Communist China were present, but this was a special exception which did not affect the basic habits of the times.

• • •

The implications go even further back into history.

The Napoleanic Wars were settled and policed a century and a half ago by a different grouping. The "concert of Europe" was in essence made up of Britain, France, Prussia, Austria, and Russia.

This "conference system" kept the peace anl managed the world from 1815 until 1859 when Napolean III tore it to pieces in Italy.

The continuing members of both post-Napoleonic and post-World War II settlements were Britain and France.

Few before have so graphically proposed to confirm Oswald's Spengler's "Decline of the West" theory as has Mr. Gaitskell with his suggestion that Poland and Czechoslovakia be admitted to equal Britain and France and proceeded to include India.

• • •

Of course there is realism as well as radicalism in the Gaitskell proposals. Which are the really great powers of today in terms of physical strength?

A Big Four in such terms could include any of the following five: Great Britain, the United States, the Soviet Union, India, and Communist China.

For Britain certainly qualifies for admission because of its still worldwide interests and influences and its technical ingenuity which continues to pioneer in many areas — radar, jet engines, thermonuclear energy, etc.

And Germany is a rising contender for readmission.

But what claim, many ask sadly and regretfully, has France any longer to be called a great power?

In starkly realistic terms, does a Big Four of the old traditional members any longer reflect the shape of our world? Certainly not.

• • •

The old Big Four did stabilize the world of today and produce what we call the status quo. It has lasted so far 13 years as against the 44 years of the post-Napoleonic conference system. How much longer can it last?

Sooner or later the composition of the committee which manages world affairs will change. Present realities are increasingly out of proportion with old patterns.

Once the old pattern is broken, it never will be formed again. To break the patterns is to take a radical and irrevocable step into the future.

Some day it will have to be taken. The only question is whether it is wise to move on into the unknown and unpredictable at this stage of events.

Furthermore, it is plain to all that in suggesting Poland and Czechoslovakia, Mr. Gaitskell was not pretending that they were great powers, for they are anything but. Rather, he was seeking to balance East and West around the conference table.

Tired Maxim Proves True

Chicago Daily Tribune

We have heard all our days that fish is brain food, and just as regularly we have dismissed it as an old wives tale. Now Dr. Cal C. Pheiffer of Emory university reports to the Brain Research Foundation that he has found a brain stimulant that makes normal people sharper and is effective in a wide range of mental disorders. Guess what it resembles: a chemical called choline found in fishy foods and fish egg preparations, such as caviar. Maybe the Russians got smart enough to produce sputnik by loading up on caviar, one of their traditional dishes.

Dr. Pheiffers research persuades us that it is a mistake to say there's no truth in old saws. By chemical reproduction of a substance found in fish, he has produced a brain food. What other tired maximums are lying around unexplored? The next scientific break through may be the outgrowth of investigation of some such theory as that a rolling stone gathers no moss, or that a bird in hand is worth two in the bush.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUTH ALIVE

I can see no harm resulting from a close contact with others. We keep young by clinging to youthful ideas and to those who never totally give up living alive and triumphant. Our mental attitude is what keeps us young, unafraid and adventurous.

So long as you keep interests alive within your brain, you will never become bored with life. It's this boredom, which attacks many people, that keeps their advancing years troubled rather than full of zest, hope and excitement. We really ought to enter our advancing years like conquerors!

Youth is so full of great little things that influence us to some extent at least.

Keep accumulating ideas and experiences. Making them serve you is the right way to keep mastering life and its problems. The world is full of materials awaiting their transformation into an endless variety of uses. We can do so many wonderful things with the tools that have been handed down to us. We can even better the tools themselves!

Youth is the time for dreaming, for the forming of useful habits, and for the careful selection of friends. The hours of youth are the most precious that ever come to us. They are like golden nuggets. Invest them intelligently and they will bless you to the very end of the trail! Look upon your friends as capital, for they surely are. But it is capital that is not for sale at any price. It's good to realize there are values in the world that even money dodges and will not offer to buy!

Strength for The Day

LIGHT — AND THE GATE BEYOND

"Light! More light!" cried the dying Goethe 125 years ago. This incident has been cited hundreds of times, signifying the passion of man for enlightenment. "More light! More light!" is the cry of your heart and mine, just as it was of the heart of the dying man of letters long ago.

Yet we can always be sure that God will give us as much light as we wish to have and are ready to use. Many people claim they want more light, when as a matter of fact, they would not use more light if it were accorded them. They don't want enlightenment. What they want is to be left alone to move along the groove to which they have become accustomed.

But there are many who really want more light. They are infinitely discouraged that they appear to be denied that light. But are they following the light they already have?

Centuries ago, in one of his allegories John Bunyan wrote: "Then said Evangelist, if this be thy condition why standest thou still? He answered, Because I do not know whither to go . . . Then said Evangelist pointing over a very wide field, Do you see yonder wicket gate? And the man said, No. Then said the other, Do you see yonder shining light? He said, I think I do . . . Then, said the Evangelist, Keep that light in your eyes, and go directly up thereto; so shalt thou see the gate."

Mr. Morley E. (Ted) Day, who has been engaged in the brokerage office of Biggar and Crawford for some time, has accepted a position with the Beattie Gold Mines Company near Rouyn, Quebec, and has left to assume his new duties.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Black of Lindsay spent the weekend here.

Mrs. D. Gannon, Catherine Street, has returned home after spending three months visiting relatives in Timmins, Kirkland Lake, Schumaker and Toronto.

Mrs. George Gray, Rednersville district, celebrated the 91st anniversary of her birth on Saturday and she is remarkably well and active for a woman of her age. Mrs. Gray received the congratulations and good wishes of many friends.

Dr. W. C. Morgan's automobile, which was stolen last Friday from the parking space at the Belleville General Hospital, has been found in Montreal. It was not damaged to any extent Maple syrup sold on the market today at 75 cents per quart, but the supply was not plentiful. Butter sold at 40 cents to 45 cents per pound, eggs brought 30 cents per dozen and chickens sold at 35 cents per pound.

Approximately $16,000 has been collected and $14,000 more will be required in order to assure the building of the arena here in time for next winter's use.

Mr. Donald Ketcheson was home from Queen's University in Kingston to spend the weekend.

Messrs. Ed Thomas, Harry Ketcheson and Gerald Lynch motored to Toronto to witness the Regina - Ottawa junior game at the arena there.

From our file copy at this time in 1898: Prof. Thomas W. Wilmot, an honor graduate of Trinity College, London, England, has been appointed organist and choir master at Christ Church.

The Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave, rector of Christ Church, has accepted the rectorship of St. Mark's Church, Parkdale, Toronto, and will leave here about the middle of April.

The flood waters are much lower today and traffic has been resumed on West Bridge Street. Water, however, is still flowing in considerable quantities over the lower part of Front Street much to the inconvenience of people living in that locality. In the yards and cellars in buildings along the west side of Front Street the water has lowered greatly. There is still a large field of ice piled high between the railway bridges and the lower bridge.

Dr. S. R. Moore of London, Ontario, is visiting his father, Mr. S. S. Moore, Charles St.

50 YEARS AGO

March 24th., 1908

The condition of the roadway on Front Street is in a terrible state. Can not something be done to remedy the condition?

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell and son, Percy, will leave shortly for Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. E. George Taylor of Weldon, North Carolina, are visiting relatives here. Belleville is Mr. Taylor's old home town.

The ice in the river broke up this morning and piled high between the two bridges causing the water to rise considerably. Owing to the ice being thin and rotten it is not likely that there will be a flood of any account.

Mrs. Daniel Foster of this city is observing today the 82nd anniversary of her birth and will entertain relatives and friends at her home this afternoon and evening in honor of the event. The good wishes of many friends will be extended to her.

TEACHER SHORTAGE

Education has come a long way since pioneer days.

Compare its present status with this account by a French visitor to the Quinte area in July, 1795:

"In this district there are some schools, but they are few in number. The children are instructed in reading and writing, and pay each a dollar a month. One of the masters taught Latin, but he has left without being succeeded by another instructor in the same language."

Certainly education has advanced since 1795 with respect to number of schools, variety of subjects offered, and cost. Unfortunately the shortage of first class teachers remains.

In pioneer days, the lack of suitable pedagogues could be attributed to several factors. Among these were the relatively low salaries, little opportunity for advancement, lack of training facilities, and government policy which was to exclude "schoolmasters from the States, lest they should instill republicanism into the tender minds of the youth of the Province." Furthermore, the idea "of setting apart for school teachers such members of the family as were physically incapable of doing hard manual labor, without any regard to their natural or acquired capabilities" did little to enhance the prestige of the pedagogue.

In this connection, historian William Canniff noted that he had studied under one teacher whose sole qualification to teach consisted of his lameness.

Nevertheless, education did advance in this pioneer district in the early 19th century, and the teachers came to enjoy a greater prestige.

Typical of the agreements by which parents of potential scholars hired teachers is one from Prince Edward County, dated 1819, which throws considerable light on the life and duties of the early teacher. It reads in part:

"R— L— doth engage to keep a regular school, for the term of seven months from the first day of November next, at the rate of two pounds ten shillings per month; and he further doth agree to teach reading, writing and arithmetic; to keep regular hours, keep good order in school, as far as his abilities will allow, see that the children go orderly from school to their respective homes.

"And we, the undersigned, doth agree to pay R— L— the sum above named of ten dollars per month for the time above mentioned; and furthur, doth agree to find a comfortable house for the school, and supply the same with wood fitted for the fire. And further, to wash, mend, lodge, and victual him."

The agreement was followed by the names of the subscribers and the number of scholars each was to send.

An earlier agreement (1796) appointed Colonel William Bell or Thurlow as the teacher of the Mohawk Indian children at Deseronto sheds additional light on teacher-employee relations, and it is with this that the next article will be concerned.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ISCHEMIA IS LOCAL DIMINUTION IN THE BLOOD SUPPLY

How the heart works is really very simple, basically. There are things we don't know, such as exactly what controls the rhythm of the beat. But in general, we know a lot about the mechanics of the pumping heart, and about its physiology.

As with a deck of only 52 cards, there are endless patterns that can be formed. There are words to be explained, questions to answer, like this one:

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have cardiac insufficiency and some complications I'd like to know more about. They are myocardial ischemia, and arteriosclerotic heart disease. These are things I learned before I left the hospital but I never understood these last two. I was supposed to have what I thought the doctor said was myocardial infection. Could this be the same myocardial infarct or infarction you explained recently? —F. R. M."

Yes, "infection" sounds so much like "infarction" that the words are misunderstood. I rather think we should use "infarct" instead of "infarction" just for that reason. You understand about that — so let's get on to ischemia.

Ischemia (pronounced iss-kee-me-uh) means, strictly speaking, a lack of blood. Blood carries oxygen, and you can reasonably say that ischemia, in the final analysis, could mean lack of oxygen.

The "myocardial" means "heart muscle". (Myo meaning muscle, cardio referrring to heart.) The myocardial infarct meant that the artery carrying blood, and oxygen, to the heart muscle, was partially plugged. Hence the infarct — a part of the muscle was killed, but the rest of it continues to do its work.

CIRCULATION VARIES

Ischemia in general would be shown by paleness, externally, or by pain if the ischemia is working inwardly. Circulation, you see, is not necessarily uniform all over the body. In a house, for instance, water pressure in the bathroom upstairs. The same with the body — you may have enough blood one place but not in another.

Myocardial ischemia, or an undersupply of oxygenated blood reaching the heart muscle, is usually due to arteriosclerosis — hardening or narrowing of the arteries leading there.

Thus your arteriosclerotic heart disease means these arteries aren't as wide open as they used to be; the "ischemia" part of it is another way of telling the result; not a big enough supply of oxygen-carrying blood goes to the heart muscle.

It's a situation we frequently encounter. The patient must learn to adjust his activity to the amount of work the heart muscle can do, in view of its reduced blood supply.

I mentioned earlier that "ischemia", when present inwardly can cause pain. In the heart muscle, the pain is called angina pectoris, the pain that comes when the muscle, deprived of enough blood, protests. Spasm of the artery, in that case, follows effort, emotional stress or sometimes eating a big meal.

Another common form of the same thing is cramps in the legs —a charley horse, if you please, after exertion. Or a similar cramp in older people after walking, or climbing stairs, or sometimes even when they are lying quiet at night. The cause, however, is the same ischemia. Ischemia of the brain causes fainting.

Man Drives As He Lives

Portland, Me., Press Herald

"A man drives as he lives", has become a cliche among the analyses of automobile accidents. In other words, the greatest single cause of highway mishaps is the personal equation, rather than the condition of the car, or the character of the road, or legal regulations.

So the driver most to be feared is the one who resents all controls in his life, or takes a chance in everything, or gives full rein to a sense of power whenever he feels it, or habitually loses his head even under slight strain . . .

Yet it has been proved also that many serious auto accidents are caused by drivers who only occasionally throw off restraints, or fall under the influence of alcohol, or nod at the wheel, or take chances.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In one of the restaurants where I have eaten fairly regularly for many years, there are men waiters. And my favorite waiter is a rather crusty old boy whom the years have not improved. But he has always understood the true function of the waiter, and that is to be advisor or dietetic guide to the customer.

"Agh!" he has said to me hundreds of times. "Don't order that."

He knows what I like almost as well as I do. And that is from having taken the trouble, all these years, to observe me, and my habits. He is much more than a mere carrier of plates.

Imagine my astonishment yesterday to behold this crabby old friend behaving like a fancy dancer. At the next table to me was a middle-aged man and a girl of about twelve or fourteen. And the way my cranky old friend carried on was beyond belief. He beamed, bowed, scraped, grinned, leaned down and made jokes, dusted the crumbs every three minutes, as though the young lady were the Princess Margaret. When it was all over, and the couple left, I winked him to me.

"What the Sam Hill was all that?" I demanded. "Who was it?"

"I dunno," he said, "but obviously a father and daughter; and I can always tell when it is the child's first lunch in a big restaurant. So I make a production of it. Something to remember."

Blessed are they who put a little imagination into their jobs.

Canadian UAW Calls on Govt. To Make Change

WINDSOR (CP) — The Canadian United Auto Workers Council has called on the Dominion government for a "made-in-Canada decision on the right of Canadian automobile companies to trade with China."

Union leaders demanded government action at a CCF meeting here during the weekend after a quarterly conference of the council which represents the union's 75,000 members. The 125-man council held closed sessions earlier to discuss contract demands and politics.

George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, said Friday the United States state department has prevented Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. car companies from shipping 1,000 cars to China. The council called for immediate "corrective action."

Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario leader of the CCF, told the meeting there has been "a political maturing" in the Canadian labor movement and "a period of positive opportunity has opened in Canada to build a genuine alternative to the two old parties."

TO AID NURSES

The UAW council asked for an "immediate and extensive campaign" to build hospitals and nursing schools; more medical scholarships, and increase in the "scandalous" pay nurses receive.

It asked that the Unemployment Insurance Act be amended "to enable qualified claimants to draw benefits for the whole period of unemployment, and asked "that such benefits enable the unemployed person to provide adequate food shelter and clothing for himself and family." It added: "If necessary all contributions to the unemployment insurance commission fund should be increased."

The council criticized the Ontario Workmen's Compensation act "for not relating long-standing benefits to today's inflation and standard of living."

Halt Navigation For 4 or 5 Days To Flood River

OTTAWA (CP)—The transport department today gave notice to shippers using the St. Lawrence route that all navigation will be halted for four or five days when the International Rapids section of the river will be flooded on or after July 1.

The flooding will mark completion of an important phase in construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The notice said the diversion section of the Cornwall Canal will be closed off and the power pool above the Barnhart power house will be raised. This raising will require four or five days and will interrupt navigation.

After the power pool has been raised, 14-foot navigation will be through the Wiley-Dondero Canal, including the Eisenhower and Snell Locks. The department said further notices on the changeover will be issued when dates are definitely known.

Prime Minister Makes Big Play For Quebec Vote

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has asked Quebec voters to get into the election fight on the Progressive Conservative side.

"You can't win the heavyweight championship of the world from the champion by sitting in a ringside seat and giving advice," he said here Saturday night to an audience of 1,200.

The Conservative leader whose party held nine of Quebec's 75 seats in the last Commons asked the province to elect Conservative MP's "equal to the representation from other provinces."

With election day one week off, Mr. Diefenbaker today begins a quick two-day swing through New Brunswick and Nova Scotia with speeches in the provincial capitals of Fredericton and Halifax.

He'll be back in Quebec Wednesday and Thursday, at Montreal and Quebec City before his 6½-week campaign winds up in the Ottawa area.

MAKES SAME APPEAL

The Conservative leader made the same appeal to Quebec voters in three speeches Saturday as he campaigned between Montreal and this main centre of the province's Eastern Townships.

Speaking in French at St. Hyacinthe to an afternoon audience of more than 2,000 he said his party had created and would preserve "the constitutional rights of minorities and provinces."

"Therefore our party is entitled to expect an active and effective representation from the province of Quebec in Parliament in order that it may continue to play its part, that of maintaining the essential principles of Confederation."

In Saturday's two major meetings, here and at Beloeil, Que., Mr. Diefenbaker received platform support from Daniel Johnson, deputy Speaker of the Quebec legislative assembly and a prominent figure in the Union Nationale party.

Mr. Johnson said that some people of Canada "are raising their eyebrows because some members of the Union Nationale stand with you on the same platform and talk the same language."

"A Union Nationale member, a provincial representative in any provincial legislature of this country is more at ease with John Diefenbaker and the Conservative party," than with the Liberals.

He asked Mr. Diefenbaker to "tell your friends across Canada that Quebec asks no favors" only the maintenance of its constitutional rights.

EAST OF MONTREAL

The prime minister's daytime campaigning Saturday was in three ridings east of Montreal including one in St. Hyacinthe-Bagot, which the Conservatives won last year.

Sherbrooke is the centre of seven other constituencies all held by Liberals in the last Commons.

At both St. Hyacinthe and here where textile factories are an important part of the region's economy, Mr. Diefenbaker promised "every consideration" by his government to the industry's claims of unfair competition from abroad. The tariff board now is making a study of the entire industry.

"We do not intend to see any of our industries or agriculture in Canada undermined as a result of the dumping of products into Canada."

Diefenbaker Not Telling Whole Truth--Pearson

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WELLAND (CP) — Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said Saturday Prime Minister Diefenbaker "did not seem to be telling the whole truth" in some of his national campaign speeches.

Mr. Pearson, winding up a day-long swing through the Niagara Peninsula under warm, sunny skies, spoke to 1,500 persons here Saturday night. Tonight he was due in Toronto for a CBC network television appearance at 10 p.m. EST.

The Liberal chieftain said he had collected statements put forward by the prime minister as the truth. He found them a "sad commentary" on the responsibility of men in high office.

He singled out for his audience a statement attributed to the prime minister during his stop here last Friday. In it, Mr. Diefenbaker quoted his Liberal rival as having said that uranium production had declined under the Progressive Conservative government.

Mr. Pearson said he made no such statement. On the contrary, last week at the big uranium mining centre of Elliot Lake in his riding of Algoma East, he said in a speech that uranium production had climbed to the point where 1957 output alone equalled the value of all Canadian mineral production in 1939.

A "STRANGE" ONE

He felt Mr. Diefenbaker's utterance was a "strange" one to come from a prime minister and it, coupled with others made during the campaign for the March 31 election, left him a "little discouraged" about the responsibility in such high places.

Altogether, Mr. Pearson made four stops Saturday, speaking to an estimated 2,500 persons. He managed to shake hands with 1,700 of them.

At Welland, he brought up the prime minister's oft-repeated "vision" for Canada and retorted "All of us have visions of the future; no country has a future greater than ours."

He wondered whether the frequent references to the vision might be an attempt to "conceal" the nation's current trade and job ills.

These problems were real, he said, and the Liberals proposed to counter them by means of substantial tax cuts including a six-week, tax-free period.

St. Michael's PTA Discusses 'Reading Habits'

The St. Michael's High School Parent Teacher Association held its monthly meeting on March 18th in the assembly room with Mr. E. Cook presiding.

A report was given on the film "Our Lady of Fatima," recently shown in St. Michael's auditorium which proved successful with over 300 people attending.

The highlight of the evening was a panel discussion by the Belleville Catholic Library. Mr. H. Brown introduced the moderator, Mr. D. T. Marrocco who in turn introduced the members of the panel: Dr. E. Peterkin: Mrs. L.M. Daley; Mr. Bernard Hurley, and Mr. Stafford McKenna. The subject was: "The Reading of Worthwhile Books for Both Parents and Children."

Some of the points put forward were: "The reason for reading: relaxation, mental developments. exercise of the mind, further knowledge. A steady diet of light reading is for the mind the same as a steady diet of cakes and pies for the body, it will become sluggish and lack vitality and strength. And how we, of the twentieth century are fortunate in the increased leisure hours, but how few of us find time for reading good books.'

Be better informed regarding our Faith by spiritual reading; to be united with God is to know God and to know God better we must read more about Him."

'Are you aware of what your child is reading?' Comic books give to children not the best, but the worst in paper, in language, in art, and in ideas. Some comic books glorify crime and criminals: some present a distorted unhealthy and immoral concept of sex and marriage. They are detrimental to good reading skills If children were trained to read other books than comics between the ages of seven and ten, they would discover what a great joy it is to read good books.

A member of the panel recommended two books for children: One called "Angel Food" by Father Brennan; and St. Patrick's Summer' by Marigold Hunt. Several books were also commented on for adults. One called "We and Our Children," by Mrs Mary Reid Newland; another called "Many Are One," by Father L. Trese. These books and many others are available now at the Belleville Catholic Library. Reading a few of these books will make one a better neighbor, a better Christian, and a better apostle of Christ.

The March meeting of Sidney Junior Farmers was held at the 4th line community centre, last Thursday, with Miss Frances Tucker, president, presiding.

The secretary, Miss Wanda Mallory read a letter of appreciation from a former agriculture representative and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Dalrymple, who left the county but a few short weeks ago.

The president informed that Junior Farmers will need birth certificates to participate in field day sports.

A sing-song was led by Mrs. Douglas Harry and Mrs. Robert Burkitt.

Sidney Juniors are honored by having one of their members, Mr. Griffen Ketcheson, as county president.

It was decided that a film on 'spring clean up' would be obtained for the meeting of April 10th.

Committees were elected to prepare for a dance which Sidney is sponsoring early in April at the Stirling Community Hall.

After the meeting adjourned, a social evening of games and dancing, under the direction of Mrs. Douglas Harry, concluded a fine evening.

Chanticleers, Quartet Of Great Versatility, Close Concert Season

By EUGENE LANG

Very few seats were turned up in the Collegiate auditorium on Saturday evening as the curtains parted for the last time on the 1957-58 series of musical presentations by the Belleville Community Concert Association. The final attraction for this series was the debut in Belleville of the Chanticleers, a male quartet of great versatility, that has been singing to sold-out audiences in their present record-breaking tour of 34 weeks. Their popularity with the music loving public seems to increase with each performance and now in their fifth year, their demand for concerts in both Canada and the U.S. is continually on the up-weep. Each of the four members is a soloist in his own right and has arrived at his present musical stature by long serious training.

The program selected for Saturday's concert was one of diversified appeal and could neither be tabbed as too high brow or too low brow. The opening group of numbers consisted of two examples of the early Italian school and three selections from the pens of Brahms and Richard Strauss in the realm of German Lieder. The rich tonal blending of the four voices was immediately apparent in the stately "Invocation" from Orfeo of Peri. In a trio of German art songs, familiar works of Brahms and Strauss were dressed up in four part harmony that added to the appeal of the singers but not of the songs.

A major item on the program was a pot-pourri of tunes from the Gilbert and Sullivan "HMS Pinafore" served up in concert version. This skit was handled in a nonchalant and humorous way that warmed the listeners up to the quartet to a degree that nearly equalled the way that the over zealous radiators warmed up the listeners. The informal stage mannerisms of the quartet in this vocal fantasy immeasurably enhanced the vocal sonorities that emanated from the four voices. Presentations such as this are bound to endear audiences to the Chanticleers.

Four unhackneyed Negro spirituals were sung with beautiful intonations, controlled feelings (that did not slide down into the category of schmalz, as so often happens in the singing of spirituals), and ~~separate~~ weavings that spun a closely knit web of song.

SOME SOLO OFFERINGS

Each member of the quartet was heard in a couple of solo offerings as an introduction to the timbres and tonalities of the individual voices. James Martindale, the basso gave a most acceptable interpretation of the Don Carlos Aria ("Her Love is Not For Me") as did tenor Richard Wright in his singing of the "Agnus Dei" of Bizet. William Diard renewed his charm to the hearers in his rendition of "La Donna e Mobile" from Verdi's Rigoletto. Raymond Keast showed the strong resonant qualities of his fine baritone voice in both of his offerings, with the latter "I Love Life" taking a small edge over the former "Drinking Song" by Thomas. In each of these numbers given all attested to their fine vocal qualities.

The closing group of four ditties came from popular Broadway productions of the last two decades. In each of these the quartet sang with vigor, suavity and sincerity. Numbers such as these always lend themselves to rehearings as popular demand increases for songs of this style and calibre.

Two encores were given to the hearty applause of the audience, one being an arrangement for four voices of the immortal "Erlking" of Schubert. In this version that was sung the effect was so striking that words fail us. Where do we go from here — the Hallelujah Chorus as a solo? It could happen—only time will tell.

All in all it was a very enjoyable evening of musical entertainment and one that sent many a listener home with a feeling of high anticipation for next season's series. So endeth the twenty-fourth year.

The executive directors and campaign committee entertained the Chanticleers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Gordon Robertson, William St., following the concert.

KHRUSHCHEV APPROVES

The controversial capitalistic sack style has caught on behind the Iron Curtain. Soviet women apparently have accepted the formless sack as the fashionable outfit to wear, according to a recent Russian publication, "Soviet Woman." This gray tweed sack can be drawn in with a belt for the "timid" women who feel shy about trying the baggy fashion. The pockets of the Soviet chemise imitate high Paris fashion by placing pockets below the hipline. The back of the dress hangs in traditional straight - loose line of the sack. Presumably the dress is approved by Communist party boss Khrushchev since the magazine announced it can be bought in the Soviet-owned "Gum" department store.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

HOW TO SILENCE GUESTS BEFORE SAYING GRACE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have a problem about saying grace at table. My husband always says grace, and our children are, of course, accustomed to this, and reverently wait for his words. But very often we invite to Sunday midday dinner two or three relatives with their children, and often, too often, the children (and sometimes the grown-ups also), after I have summoned them to the dining room, continue to talk so glibly at table they don't notice we are waiting for them to be silent for the grace. How do you suggest we meet this problem, without seeming stern and without embarrassing anyone, grown-up or child? — Reader.

This is a frequent problem, and can cause embarrassment to all concerned. I know some hostesses who solve it by having everyone stand at their places at table until and during the saying of grace . . . I have always particularly liked the idea of standing during grace, seems to me an especially reverential way to do. However, if you wish your family and guests to be seated before the Blessing is said, you should, when it is necessary, say immediately to your husband (so there will be no awkward time-lapse): "Peter, will you ask a Blessing?"

BEST MAN'S TOAST MAY BE "SHORT AND SNAPPY"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When is it more appropriate for the best man to propose a toast to the bride, at the beginning of the dinner at our reception or at the conclusion of the dinner?

2. Just what does the best man say when he toasts the bride, and what does the groom say in his reply? I have been to quite a few wedding receptions, and very few toasts have really appealed to me. — R.

1. The first toast, the toast to the bride . . . or, more usual nowadays, to the bride and groom . . . is made by the best man at the beginning of the dinner. When all the guests have been served champagne or punch or whatever-the-beverage, the best man rises, raises his glass to get the attention of the guests, and proposes the toast.

2. What the best man says as he proposes this first, and most important, toast, depends on the best man, his inclinations and how resourceful he is about proposing a toast. Today a best man usually prefers to make a short toast, as simple as possible . . . such as "I propose a toast to the bride," or "I propose a toast to the bride and groom" . . . rather than even trying to make the long, apt-to-be-flowery speeches that were yesterday's custom.

However, he may, if he wishes, add a few words to his toast, saying: "Let's rise and drink a toast to today's beautiful bride and handsome groom . . . every good wish to them for their happiness and health and welfare always. And here's hoping that we will all be drinking a toast to them at their golden wedding."

When this "toast" has been drunk, the groom rises and expresses the thanks of his bride and himself.

SHOULD YOUNG WOMAN RISE WHEN INTRODUCED TO YOUNGER WOMAN?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a teacher, and let's say I am invited to a small tea given by the girls in the Senior Class just before High School graduation. The girls are seated all around the room. One of the girls meets me, the teacher, at the door and offers me a chair. In a moment or two she enters the room with her mother, a woman younger than I. Would you rise to acknowledge this introduction? — Teacher

Yes, I would rise to acknowledge this introduction. Under the circumstances, it would certainly not be a "must" to rise, but I admit that it is my inclination to rise to accept an introduction to another woman, regardless of any difference in age. It just seems to me socially more graceful and more gracious to rise to say my "How do you do, Mrs. Blake." To rise and say a friendly greeting seems to me vastly more important than remaining seated and giving the appearance of figuring out a possible difference-in-age! However, I repeat that it is not necessary for you to rise to acknowledge an introduction to a woman younger than you.

THE Family COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. F. M. —Jim has been reading filthy literature.

Jim M. — I'll read what I like.

• • •

Mrs. F. M. — The other day I was cleaning out my son's room and came upon a mass of filthy literature and pictures that it literally made my hair stand on end.

Jim is 15 and has always been a very serious and well-behaved boy, so I never suspected he was up to anything like this when he spent hours in his room reading. I used to be proud of Jim's advanced reading, but now I realize that even in good quality books his taste runs to stories with heavy emphasis on sex.

I threw out all the really obscene stuff and took away the other books. I told Jim that from now on I think his father and I should do a little censoring of his reading. His reaction was violent and he used abusive language to his father and me.

• • •

Jim M. — How silly can you get? Don't my parents realize that I can do all my reading in the library, at school and other places where I won't have them sticking their noses into my business?

The stuff my mother threw out didn't belong to me and I wasn't even so interested in it because I've seen plenty of that kind of junk before. One of the guys made me take it in exchange for a book I lent him.

My parents don't recognize present-day realities. Everything shocks them. I am interested in real life and I want to read books that really say things. A lot of the books I've read are taught in college classes. I resent my mother's poking around in my private things and I won't give up my right to read what I like.

The Council — There are ways of controlling distribution of obscene material in any community, but that problem and the larger one of censorship on a broad level is outside the scope of this colum. We will limit our discussion to the family level, accepting two facts: that nearly every kind of literature is available to Jim and that he evidently does not accept the authority of his parents or anyone else in this matter.

Spying, prying and setting rules that can't be enforced won't work. By engaging in this kind of activity the F. M.'s destroy their strongest weapon — Jim's respect for them. When he loses this he loses respect for all the values they have tried to give him.

Many teen-age boys and girls gravitate toward books that deal with sex out of simple curiosity. The F.M.'s should try, through their church and library, to find acceptable books on the subject. If these books are accessible to Jim and if his interest is satisfied through open discussion with his parents, he will be less vulnerable to undesirable books.

Another factor in an adolescent's absorption in pornography could be that he is having far too few really engrossing and pleasurable experiences in his daily life. If he has many friends, many interests and happy relationship with his family, he is not likely to seek the fantasy experiences he finds in sex-slanted material. The F. M.'s should try to encourage Jim's outside interests and help him build up his strong points so that he finds some real-life success experiences.

Apart from all this, Jim may have a genuine interest in literature and much of the best of contemporary literature deals to some extent with sexual themes. The F. M.'s may be able to help Jim broaden his interest and refine his taste by making good books available at home, encouraging discussion of them and guiding him to clubs or community groups that afford the opportunity for open discussion of good books.

The F. M.'s should recognize that they can't protect their son from every possibility of a corrupting influence and should have a little faith that their teachings, their good example and his religious training will carry its weight with Jim..

Muffins For Husbands

By Mary Moore

The story is this: Bruce was away for the weekend for a regional company meeting. It was only for 2 days but to Eleanor it seemed like 2 weeks. So to welcome back the wanderer she made one of his favorites: blueberry muffins. They are her own creation, and when eaten about 5 or 10 minutes after being taken from the oven, are heavenly enough to make any wanderer return.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Breaded Shoulder Veal or Cutlet; Apple Jelly; Buttered Squash Squares; Frenched Green Beans; Shredded Cabbage, Olive and Pimiento Salad with Italian Frenched Dressing; Peach Shortcake; Coffee.

BLUEBERRY GEMS: (For a gem of a husband). Two and one-quarter cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3-4 cup sugar, 3-4 cup milk, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup frozen (unthawed) blueberries, 3-4 teaspoon salt, grated rind of 1 lemon, 3-8 cup (6 tablespoons) soft shortening, 2 small eggs (or 1 medium egg and 1 yolk). Put the measured, sifted flour in the sieve over the mixing bowl. Add the sugar, baking powder and salt and sift together into bowl. Add the shortening, milk, eggs and rind. Eleanor stirred this with rubber spatula only until ingredients were mixed. Carefully fold in blueberries. Do not overmix. Turn into greased muffin tins or into paper cups in muffin tins, filling them 2-3 full, and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 25-30 minutes. Makes 16 or 18. These are at their finest when served hot from the oven. (Confession at gunpoint: I was at the Miler's house when these tempters were taken from the oven. The devil reared his wicked head and I yielded to temptation and ate 2 slathered with butter — and I'm glad!)

HONEY-BRAN MUFFINS

One tablespoon butter, 1-2 cup honey, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups all-bran, 1-2 cup chopped dates (optional but recommended). Cream the butter and honey together until smooth. Add the well-beaten egg. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together. Combine with the bran and add to the honey mixture alternately with the milk. Fold in dates. Pour into greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven of 425 degs. Fahr., for 25 minutes. Makes 15 muffins.

WHEATGERM - RAISIN MUFFINS

One and two-thirds cups sifted all-purpose flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 2-3 cup of wheatgerm, 1-3 cup shortening, melted, 2 eggs, beaten, 1 cup milk, 1-2 to 1 cup raisins. Sift sifted flour, baking power, salt and sugar into mixing bowl. stir in wheatgerm Mix together all wet ingredients and pour into centre of flour mixture. Mix only enough to dampen all flour. Mixture should be lumpy. Mix quickly. Fold in raisins. Turn into 12 greased muffin tins, filling 2-3 full. Bake at 400 degs. Fahr. for 15-20 minutes. Serve warm.

She also asked that all conveners of standing committee please send in their reports by the next meeting.

Mrs. Harris reported on the Historical Association convention. Two invitations were received, one from Demorestville, to attend their meeting on April 9th and one from Hillier to attende a demonstration there in the afternoon of the same day.

Mrs. Moore and Mrs. B. Smith were appointed a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers. Mrs. N. Foster and Mrs. R. Wight replenished the birthday box. Mrs. William Callow and Miss Edith Ward were hostesses for the evening. They put on a program.

Current events were read by Mrs. Ben Bishop. Mrs. Alexander introduced her two girls from Hillier and they gave a demonstration on "Lets Make Tea Biscuits." which was very interesting. Mrs. Grover Smith, district economist, then spoke on economics and health. She gave a talk on economy of advertising and food for health. This proved very interesting. Mrs. Wood gave a humorous reading, which was enjoyed by all. Miss Ward thanked everyone who had taken part in the program. The "Queen" brought the meeting to a close.

Many items for the layette to be sent overseas were received. Anyone who has not donated to this please bring something to the next meeting. Mrs. H. Pettingill won a door prize that was given by the hostesses, and Mrs. Alexander of Hillier won a basket of canned goods.

Lunch was served by the committee, thus ending a very interesting meeting.

WELLINGTON WMS AUXILIARY

WELLINGTON — The afternoon auxiliary of the W.M.S. had their March meeting in the Sunday school room on Tuesday with the president, Mrs. Hamel, in the chair.

Mrs. Maybee played for the hymns and Mrs. Hicks acted as secretary. Quiet music introduced the meeting which opened in the usual manner.

A special feature of the day was the receiving of a dollar from all members present and several absent ones, accompanied by original poetry telling how the money was earned. A similar donation from any unable to be present will be gladly received next month.

Mrs. Harris read the correspondence; Mrs. Nash reported for Christian stewardship; Mrs. Tayler for literature; Mrs. Hamel conducted a short business session. She thanked all who assisted in the World Day of Prayer. She announced that the guest speaker for the Easter service on April 13th will be Mrs. Clarence Holmes of Belleville, president of the W.M.S. of Belleville Presbytery.

It was noted that there is a shortage of diapers for the layette. Plans are given forward to ship the bale of used clothing in May. Mrs. Nash had charge of the worship service, topic "Stewardship of Life." Mrs. Marvin gave a synopsis of the chapter of the study book dealing with "Youth of Japan." She was assisted by Mrs. Maybee and Mrs. Bishop. Mrs. Ross gave some excerpts of the Japanese of the congregation of the church of all Nations in Toronto.

An impressive memorial service for the late Mrs. Woodman Thomas was conducted by Mrs. Ross. Following the Hebrew benediction a social half hour was enjoyed.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

MADOC — The March meeting of St. Peter's W.M.S. was held at the home of the president, Miss Van Kleeck. The meeting opened with prayer by the president and Psalm 36, "I Waited On the Lord, My God."

Eighteen were present with one visitor.

At the conclusion of the business period, it was decided to invite Miss Craig, of Belleville, to be guest speaker at the Easter thankoffering meeting.

Miss E. Heali opened the devotional part of the service with General Booth's favorite hymn, "O For A Thousand Tongues to Sing, My Great Redeemer's Praise."

Mrs. A. Johnston gave the Scripture reading. The subject dealt with was the work among the Koreans in Japan. The Rev. Donald Powell and his wife, Dr. Marion Powell, are missionaries to those people.

"It is hard to believe that in a land of over 90 million people, there is less than one per cent of them Christian; yet today 97 per cent can read and write. Six years of primary education is compulsory. Now they have many high schools which means that nine years of tuition free schooling is available to Japanese children. There are many Protestant schools in Japan. Their emphasis is on character, building and training Christian leaders for the future. Japan is a land of magic lanterns, ancient temples and pretty gardens. It is also a busy land of factories and commerce. Japan needs Christ."

Mrs. Cecil Wood read a poem "The Church Walking With the World."

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, Mrs. F. Allen and Mrs. J. Donahue.

PREPARE FOR BLAST

Drillers are shown at work on one of the small side tunnels that will be packed with explosives for an April 5 blast designed to remove Ripple Rock, a twin-peaked underwater menace to navigation in Seymour Narrows 100 miles north of Vancouver. The main tunnel for the job extends about 2,000 feet from the shore to a point under the rock. Two vertical tunnels extend upward into the rock itself. The 1,400 tons of explosives for the blast—biggest man-made, non-atomic explosion on record—will be packed in tunnels such as the one shown in this DuPont of Canada photo. (CP Photo).

Dunlop Meets Board to Settle Wage Dispute

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario met representatives of suburban North York board of education and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation during the weekend in a bid to settle a salary dispute.

A further meeting is scheduled today.

Dr. Dunlop suggested the board increase its $400 across-the-board offer to $500. And he asked the OSSTF to lift its "pink listing"—a warning to teachers not to deal with the board.

The federation originally asked for an $800 increase, but its last request had been for a $600 increase. A $300 annual increment had been agreed on by both sides.

Board chairman Ronald Hastings said North York needs 125 more secondary teachers this year. He indicated if the federation was willing to lift the pink list, the board might be willing to settle.

LANZA ILL

LONDON (AP) — American singer Mario Lanza tonight called off his Birmingham concert Friday night for the second time, a few hours before it was scheduled to begin. Disappointed crowds were told this time that Lanza had an attack of bronchitis.

EXPLOSIVES PREPARED

A worker pushes a load of high explosives to the head of the 570-foot shaft that leads to a tunnel under Seymour Narrows. Small tunnels leading from this and two vertical shafts will be packed with 1,400 tons of explosives and detonated April 5 in an effort to remove Ripple Rock, a navigation hazard that has claimed more than 100 lives. Site of the blast is about 100 miles north of Vancouver. The explosive, one of the most powerful ever developed, is packed in the water-tight cans seen in this DuPont of Canada Limited photo. NEW TECHNIQUE

Networks of polythene tubing are taking over from the picturesque sap buckets in the maple sugar bush of Quebec. The faster, more productive method is an import from the New England states, where it was pioneered by such farmers as George M. Rear (right) of Stratford, N. H. Slender tubes attached to each tree feed into a main line, which carries the sap directly to the sugar cabin (left) to be boiled down. (CP Photo).

Personalities of Two Key Figures in Sharp Contrast

OTTAWA (CP) — A big feature of the campaign for the March 31 general election has been the sharp contrast between the personalities of the two key figures—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Lester B. Pearson.

Mr. Diefenbaker, the Progressive Conservative leader, has picked up where he left off last year when, with almost evengelical fervor, he led his party back to power after 22 years in the political wilderness.

He brings to the political platform a unique sense of the dramatic, honed to a sharp edge by many years of courtroom appearances during which he became known as one of Canada's top criminal lawyers.

The accusing finger, active eyebrow and Churchillian phrases and voice inflections are all part of his platform technique, lightened by a bagful of humorous ancedotes or, on some telling point, an expression of boyish glee.

While Mr. Diefenbaker, the crusader, is at his best with big audiences, Liberal party leader Pearson is more at home with smaller groups, although he also is attracting large crowds.

Two months of campaigning have seen the transition of Mr. Pearson from diplomat to politician. For the 60-year-old winner of the 1957 Nobel Peace Prize it has been a gradual transition from the art of quiet, reasoned compromise on the international scene to the mastery of roughing where compromise isn't a vote catcher.

Making no pretence at being an orator, he nevertheless has improved on his platform performance. Besides the fact his nine years as Canada's external affairs minister made his name a household word, one of his biggest assets is his ability to be informal and to project his boyish appearance.

The battle for the votes of some 9,000,000 Canadian electors has produced two electioneering techniques never before practised on a large scale by major party leaders — monster reception-like handshaking and informal question-and-answer periods.

Most of the handshaking has been done by Mr. Diefenbaker.

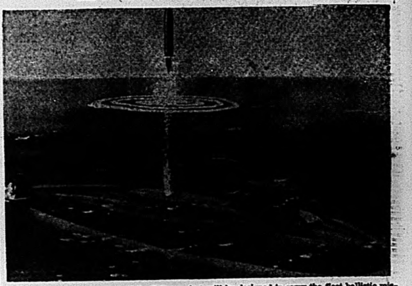
The biggest such receptions have been held in Toronto, where close to 10,000 persons have come to large halls, more than 1,000 actually shaking hands with the 62-year old Saskatchewan lawyer. Invariably, after his hand gives out, Mr. Diefenbaker delivers a short address.

Mr. Pearson, at one time a semi-professional baseball player, has been fielding the questions. After some speeches, particularly to university students, he has sat with his legs dangling over the side of a platform table and invited questions.

In stumping the hustings, the Conservatives have employed a scatter-gun attack with about a score of cabinet ministers criss-crossing the country and delivering an estimated 1,000 speeches. One top Diefenbaker lieutenant, Transport Minister George Hees, the party's former national president, has stumped all 10 provinces and spoken in 67 of Canada's 265 constituencies, spending only a few days in his home riding of Toronto Broadview in the two months.

Only a handful of Liberal big-names, the remnants of the former cabinet who personally survived the defeat of last June, are helping Mr. Pearson by campaigning outside their home areas. Eight of the nine ministers defeated last year are not among the total 832 candidates—lowest number since 1940—seeking election.

U.S. TO BUILD MISSILE-FIRING SUB IN 1959



Here's an artist's concept of the U.S. navy's new class of guided missile submarine, scheduled for construction as part of the 1959 shipbuilding program. The nuclear-powered sub will be designed to carry the fleet ballistic missile which can be fired from a submerged position. Range of the underwater missile may be in the thousands of miles.

Excessive Drinking Among U.S. Indians Constitutes Grievous Problem for Police

By ROBERT BARNES

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) Brakes squealed, tires screeched. Paying the cars no heed, the young Indian woman teetered in the intersection, giggling.

A man — equally intoxicated— started after her, and a game of tag developed before the eyes of gaping tourists.

The grim little performance was one of the visible signs of trouble among the 400,000 Indians in the United States.

For many of them—just how many isn't known — excessive drinking constitutes a grievous problem. This much nearly all informed sources concede, despite their many differences in evaluating it.

The situation has been troublesome for years in towns on the fringes of Indian reservations, but it has been underscored afresh since Congress lifted the legal ban on liquor sales to Indians in 1953.

The five years of free sales seem to have brought no substantial improvement over what was commonly recognized as sordid conditions in the bootlegging days.

Where's the root of the problem.

What some of the contributing factors might be was suggested by Dr. Karl Menninger of the Menninger Foundation, Topeka, Kan.:

"Excessive drinking is a reflection of unmanageable frustration and tension," the psychiatrist says. "The American Indians are frustrated by all the things that frustrate the rest of us, plus the special frustrations and discouragements resulting from our mistreatment of them."

Many informed persons are encouraged by what they say is considerable improvement in the last year. Among these is Maurice McCabe, secretary-treasurer of the biggest tribe of all, the Navajo.

"In the last 18 months I believe that those who make up the backbone of our people have sobered up," he says. "They are still the breadwinning, stable type of citizen with more meaningful things to think of. I see a definite tapering off."

This view is not shared by all. Judge Carl Hatch of Albuquerque is one of many who strongly feel the alcoholism among southwestern Indians is growing worse. Almost all crimes involving Indians that come before him, he says, contain the element of intoxication.

Liquor is still forbidden on virtually all of the 300 reservations and as a result tribesmen do much of their celebrating in public for all to see. This without question contributes to the crop of drunks which keep fringe town jails filled.

Another complicating factor is a holdover of the old gulp-it-down technique developed in the bootleg days.

Many Indian men learned to drink while in the military services. Stationed where there were no Indians, they became accustomed to being served along with everybody else in spite of the federal ban. Law officials say that, while no figures are available, the majority of these ex-servicemen seem to keep their drinking well under control.

Tough Little 'Monkey' of 12 And Brother, 10, Slay Grocer

WOODWARD, Okla. (AP) — A 12-year-old boy—termed a "tough little monkey"—and his 10-year-old brother were held in the county jail here overnight pending charges in the fatal shooting of a Woodward grocery store owner.

Sheriff Hank White said the youngsters had admitted the shooting spree which left two others wounded, one critically. The gunfire shattered the Sunday afternoon calm of this town of 6,000 in northwestern Oklahoma.

County Attorney H. B. King said he would file juvenile delinquency charges against Robert Smith, 12, and David Smith, 10, today. King said he would not file criminal charges because of their ages.

Killed was Floyd Blair, 49. Critically wounded was Adrian Wilson, 22, an employee at Blair's store where the shooting erupted. A customer, Ed Kinney, 47, received a flesh wound.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, were in Liberal, Kan., where Smith was working on a plumbing job. Attempts to locate the couple failed and they were not notified until they returned to Woodward about 10 p.m.

Smith said he had "no statement" to make and said he and his wife had not been to see the boys Sunday night.

King said the boys gave no reason for the shooting.

Sometime after they left Sunday school, White said, the boys broke into a store and stole four .22-calibre pistols. About 2.20 p.m. they entered Blair's open air market. Blair was working on a rifle. The boys asked him if it was a real gun and he said it was.

Then Robert said "this one's real to," drew out a pistol and started firing.

The brothers then shot out store lights and windows and fled. Robert ran to an old cotton gin about six blocks from the shooting.

After he shouted "I'll shoot the first one I can see," police lobbed tear gas shells into the building and then entered.

Sheriff White said he found Robert in a second floor loft, pistols in each hand and pointed toward him. White said

"I had to bluff him. I told him I didn't want to shoot him but I would. Then he dropped the guns and came to me.

"I asked the tough little monkey where his brother was and he told me, "I don't know where he is but I hope he shoots all of you when you find him.'"

David was found in the basement of the family home, unarmed.

Spring Weather Lures Motorists, 20 Meet Death

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fine spring weather drew many motorists on to the roads during the weekend and at least 20 Canadians were killed in traffic accidents.

Three deaths in fire and one drowning boosted the national accident toll to 24.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday found these provincial counts (traffic deaths in brackets): Ontario 10 (10), Alberta 6 (5), Quebec 4 (3), Manitoba 4 (2).

Ontario Deaths

Margaret Petrie of Toronto was killed Sunday in a three -car pileup on the Queen Elizabeth Way on Toronto's western outskirts.

Two of the three drivers were injured. Traffic was delayed for two miles in each direction.

Leonard Waugh, 20-year - old barn builder, was killed Sunday night when struck by a car while bicycling on Highway 8 near Niagara Falls. An inquest will be held.

At Toronto, Charles Jefferies, 39, was killed Sunday when his bicycle collided with a car at an intersection. Police said Mr. Jefferies was carried 250 feet on the hood of the car.

In another Toronto death George T. Smith, 75, was killed Saturday night when struck by a car while crossing a midtown street.

One man was killed and two others injured Saturday night when their car went out of control on a curve on Highway 3 near Dunnville, snapped off a telephone pole and overturned.

Dead is Gary Backus, 21, of Port Maitland, Ont. Jack Hicks, 19, also of Port Maitland is in hospital with a bruised chest and other injuries. Stan Dashwood of Dunnville was treated for minor injuries.

Wilfred Jacob Smith, 35, of Ganford district was killed Saturday when the transport truck he was driving collided with a Canadian National lailways train at Eastwood, five miles east of Woodstock.

Police said damage to the truck and the diesel locomotive was extensive. Traffic on Highway 2 and on the CNR line to Woodstock and London was blocked.

Kenneth Nelson, 13, of London, Ont., was killed Sunday when a car in which he was riding rolled over into a ditch just east of Arkona, 30 miles west of London.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nelson, was a passenger in a car driven by 19-year-old Robert Wegg of Byron.

Francois Leon Matton, 58, of Montreal died Saturday night when he was struck by one car then run over by another after alighting from a bus on the trans-Canada highway, 20 miles east of Ottawa.

CONDITION CRITICAL

Kingston hospital officials said Sunday the condition of student John David Forbes of Fredericton, N.B., was still critical following a car accident early Saturday in which his companion was killed.

Forbes, a fourth-year chemical engineering student at Queen's University, was seriously injured when the car in which he was travelling rammed into a tree here.

James Hickey, 22, also of Queen's, was killed when thrown from the car. Forbes had to be pried from the wreckage.

Both students had received their iron graduation rings at a dinner in a Kingston hotel Friday night.

Report Shows $10,000,000 Union Funds Usedby Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets investigating committee said in a majority report today that "some $10,000,000 in union funds have been either stolen, embezzled or misused" in 15 years by officials of five labor unions.

But a one-man minority report labelled the figures "phony."

The majority report said its total averaged out to "five dollars out of the pocket of every member of the unions covered in this report." Elsewhere it listed the unions as the Teamsters, Bakery Workers, United Textile Workers, Operating Engineers, and Allied Industrial Workers Unions.

The report was signed by seven members of the bipartisan Senate committee.

Senator Patrick McNamara (Dem. Mich.) appended a report of his own calling the money figures "phony" and assailing what he termed "anti-labor bias" in the majority findings. McNamara is former president of Detroit local No. 636 of the Pipefitters Union.

The committee singled out employers in seven states for what was described as "union busting" tactics.

The report said the operations "provide a shocking indictment of the activities of a number of employers."

The firms cited were Sears, Roebuck and Company of Chicago, Whirlpool Corporation of Marion, Ohio, and Clyde, Ohio; Morton Frozen Food Company of Webster City, Iowa; Mennen Company of Morristown, N.J.; J.V. Pilcher Company of Louisville; Seamprufe Company of McCalester, Okla.; All State Insurance Company A Sears affiliate of Sokoie, Ill.; Englander Company of Chicago, and H. P. Wasson Company of Indianpolis.

McNamara said he didn't think the committee went far enough in its probe of management misconduct.

NOT A NUCLEAR EXPLOSION, SAY RUSS

Seismographs throughout the world recently recorded an earthquake in Soviet Russia reaching an intensity of eight on international scale. According to Soviet scientists this was merely an explosion of 1,000 tons of explosives buried 130 feet under the earth. The man-made earthquake gushes skyward like a king-sized artichoke. The explosion, the Russians said, was for "peaceful purposes." The blast which caused a crater 660 feet in diameter was set off according to the Soviet explosives organization in order to see the way the soil flies when thrown up by various quantities of explosives.

N.E. Company Workers Strike To Get Demands

TORONTO (CP) — Workers of the Northern Electric Company went on strike Saturday to enforce wage demands and other benefits.

A spokesman for the union said the workers, members of Local C-4 of the Communications Workers of America, began picketing the company's repair shop and all five Toronto exchanges of the Bell Telephone Company.

He said picket lines also were to be set up at exchanges in Ontario and British Columbia and other areas in Canada "where the job is big enough to warrant it."

L. A. Bell, manager of Toronto Telephone Distributing House of Northern Electric, said the union failed its obligations to its members by not giving them a chance to vote on the company's offer made March 6.

He said the offer was based on a seven - cent hourly wage increase. The union had asked 15 cents, and other improvements.

Lord Beaverbrook Urges Summit Meet at Once

LONDON (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook Sunday urged Prime Minister Macmillan to meet at the summit with Soviet leaders at once, with or without President Eisenhower.

"The prime minister may persuade the American president to travel with him to a meeting place with the men of Moscow, but if the American government resists, then Mr. Macmillan should go east and speak for the British Empire," Beaverbrook says.

"If, as a result of negotiations with (Soviet Communist party secretary) Khrushchev Mr. Macmillan brings home the bacon, then he can ask President Eisenhower to sit down with him and take part in the feast."

Lord Beaverbrook sets forth his views in a signed article in his Sunday Express.

"Peace at almost any price must be the watchword in this office," writes the 78-year - old Canadian-born publisher.

The hustling minister of aircraft production in Sir Winston Churchill's wartime cabinet, Beaverbrook always has been one of the United States' staunchest friends in Britain.

HAS BEEN SUSPICIOUS

But he long has been suspicious of the policy of rearming Germany and was angry at Washington for opposing the British-French invasion of tht Suez Canal Zone in the fall of 1956.

Other observations of Beaverbrook in an article headline "This I Believe:

"The alliance between the United States and Western Germany is valued by the Americans above all other associations.

"The West Germans, however, are irreconcilably opposed to any conference which excludes from its discussions a reunion of East and West Germany. And the Russians will not take part in any summit meeting where this topic is raised . . .

"Remember the last war was fought to break up Germany. We succeeded. Now we are asked to risk war again so that Germany may be reunited. Certainly Germany's claim for reunion should not be a barrier to talks between Britain and Russia . . ."

Basic Reason for Unhappy Marriages Women Becoming Too Aggressive Says Doctor

NEW YORK (AP) — In many marriages, "people seem to be content if they're not too miserable," says Dr. Arthur Mandy, Baltimore psychiatrist.

One basic reason for unhappy marriage is that women are becoming too aggressive, too competitive with men, he declares.

The result is millions of women are frigid, and perhaps as many men impotent, he writes in the publication, State of Mind.

Family doctors could help many married couples understand their problems and compromise their bickerings somewhat to raise their marriages "from a level of horrible to not so horrible," Dr. Mandy says.

He is a psychiatrist at the Johns Hopkins hospital and medical school and director of the psychosomatic obstetric and gynecology clinic of Sinai Hospital.

He suggests the ultimate solution is educating future generations in better understanding of human behavior and sex because adults can only hear or understand "what their prejudice permits them to."

"Frigidity . . . is an outgrowth of woman's running away from her biological destiny, which is to be a wife, mother and homemaker," Dr. Mandy writes.

"It reflects her refusal to take the role of passive homemaker. Instead, she's seeking gratification elsewhere by competing with men."

Dr. Mandy says this is the final result of "the so - called feminine emancipation movement" when women decided their place no longer was in the home.

They first asked the right to vote, he says, then to attend universities, to enter politics, to compete with men in jobs, including being scientists, pilots, soldiers. They found they could be financially independent.

But few women can succeed in both holding a job and being wife and mother because "this is not the destiny of women" and because the job of caring for home and children takes 24 hours a day.

Men must help also if women are to concentrate on family life rather than upon careers, he declares.

"They must give the woman of the house more recognition. Women who are feminists tell you that they went in this direction because they were fed up with working in the house—cooking, cleaning, fixing the children's clothes, doing this and that — just to have their husbands come home night after night and grumble about the dinner."

The husband must show his wife he cares for her, and help her emotionally, Dr. Mandy advises.

Dr. Mandy thinks frigidity in women — an inability to reach sexual climax — is a symption of all this and that it arises from women's aggressive tendencies.

"Yet they are unwilling to become dependent upon their husbands. They themselves want to pursue the sex act. They want to feel as aggressive as the man."

This attitude is a threat to the man who then may not be able to react normally, and becomes impotent.

Blast Channel Through 6 Miles Of Chaudiere R.

BEAUCEVILLE, Que. (CP)— Army demolition crews reported Saturday a channel has been blasted through six miles of Chaudiere River ice—a move to prevent floods which often hit riverside towns during spring thaws.

The crews from Quebec City worked a day and a half breaking up the packed floes near this town, 50 miles south of Quebec, to lessen chances of an ice jam forming. Beauceville suffered $2,000,000 damage when a fast thaw and an ice jam just downriver combined last Dec. 21 to pour water and tons of ice into its streets.

About 500 pounds of explosives were used Saturday. A Royal Canadian Navy helicopter lowered crews and equipment to the river ice.

Federation of West Indies Ready to Vote

KINGSTON Jamaica (Reuters) Armed police were put on the alert today in an attempt to prevent outbreaks of violence between now and Wednesday when the Federation of the West Indies—in its first federal election—votes on a 45-man parliament.

Small arms were issued to police and patrols were doubled to prevent a reoccurrence of clashes which broke out last week between Jamaican's two rival political groups—the ruling People's National party and the opposition Jamaican Labor party.

In one clash, a man was bludgeoned and stabbed to death.

The incidents highlighted an otherwise apathetic campaign for control of the new Parliament. With 1,200,000 persons out of a total West Indian population of about 3,000,000 eligible to vote, it is feared that considerably less than half will cast ballots.

Jamaica with about half the population of the new federation, will exert tremendous influence on the results.

TWO MAJOR PARTIES

Contesting the federal election are two major parties—the Federal Labor party headed by Socialist Jamaica chief minister Norman Manley, and the Democratic Labor party, headed by Manley's cousin, Conservative Sir Alexander Bustamanate.

Neither party leader is running for federation office. Each says he prefers to remain in Jamaican politics.

Most political observers expect Manley's group to win a majority of seats. If so, Barbados Premier Sir Grantley Adams will be named the federation's first prime minister.

The election also is expected to decide whether the West Indies will qualify for Dominion status in five years.

The new government, with a life of five years, will have its seat at Port of Spain, Trinidad.

A total of 10 West Indies islands will make up the new federation. Each now has the status of a British Crown colony.

Although federated, the territorial governments will retain most of their power to make laws, except in such fields as defence and immigration.

Fourteen Independents are included in the 99 candidates nominated for the 45 seats. Distribution is as follows Jamaica 17 seats; Trinidad and Tobago 10, Barbados five, Dominica, Grenada, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla and Antigua two each, and Montserrat one.

Pressure Grows For Quick U.S. Slash in Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressure for a quick tax cut built up today. But the Eisenhower administration deferred any decision at least until it can tell whether economic conditions have improved this month.

Vice-President Richard Nixon said Saturday President Eisenhower is withholding any decision on such additional anti-recession measures as tax cuts or increased public works spending until statistics for March are available.

Official figures on unemployment, production and other economic factors are being compiled now, but won't be in final form until some time in April.

Nixon indicated the administration is concerned that ill-timed tax reduction or increased federal spending might be inflationary.

Boosting personal income tax exemptions was advocated by several senators. There also were proposals for cutting corporate income taxes and excise levies.

Outside the government, the Committee for Economic Development suggested a temporary 20 per cent slash in all personal income taxes if the economy this month and next sags below February levels.

The CED, a privately supported research organization, said such a slash, possibly starting around mid-year and lasting for nine months, would pump about $7,500,000,000 into the economy. And the organization recommended short-term public works and accelerated federal spending.

Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union, reiterated his proposal for a temporary moratorium on withholding income taxes. He also proposed extending unemployment benefits and speeding up public works projects. In a television interview, Reuther called for fast action and said the recession "is going to get worse" unless this is done.

LONDON (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip left Buckingham Palace this morning on the first stage of their three-day state visit to The Netherlands.

A crowd of about 500 waved and cheered as the royal couple drove from the palace to London's Liverpool Street railroad station.

From Liverpool Street, the Queen and Prince Philip travelled by train to pay brief visits to three Essex towns before boarding the royal yacht Britannia at Harwich tonight.

The yacht will be escorted to Amsterdam by three Royal Navy frigates and will reach the Dutch capital Tuesday morning.

Crucifixion In Modern Dress Shown on TV

LONDON (AP)— Jesus Christ was depicted in blue jeans and sweat shirt in a television modern-dress version of His crucifixion Sunday night.

Played by an anonymous actor, he was beaten up by two interrogators wearing derbies and trench coats and looking like movie detectives. The soldiers who carried out the crucifixion wore British Army battle dress. Pontius Pilate whipped out a lighter and lit a cigaret as he signed Christ's death warrant.

The play, entirely in mime, was written by Father Hugh Bishop, principal of the Anglican College of the Resurrection at Mirfield. He read an accompanying commentary.

The "Porkies" are here tonight!

"Porkies" is a short verbal and headlines cut to South Porcupine, spawning ground of a number of topflight puck-chasers, and whose representatives won the Porcupine Mines League championship.

They are here to do a two-game joust with the McFarlands in the all-Ontario senior "A" semi-finals. The teams clash in the first tilt in Memorial Arena tonight, with the second slated for tomorrow.

On Wednesday the Macs take the long 500-mile trek to the home of the Porkies, where they will play Thursday, Friday and Saturday if five games are necessary to decide which club will meet either Kitchener or Windsor for the provincial senior "A" title and the right to travel down the Allan Cup trail.

It looks like a miniature "old home week" for the Macs with the "Porkies" here.

"Red" Doran's sorrel-tinged quills stood up like totem poles atop his red-thatched noggin' on Saturday morning when he heard the old home town club would be here. He was born and learned hockey fundamentals up thataway.

The word also brought nostalgic memories to Bep Guidolin and Minnie Menard since both first saw the light of day in the South Porcupine district.

Bart Bradley will get a chance to renew an old family tie on the return trip. He has a grandmother in Timmins he has not seen in a couple of decades.

Manager Drury Denyes said today the McFarlands would make the long hike to South Porcupine by train. It was rumored at first the Macs might take to the air, but this was washed out later due to the uncertainty of the weather. They leave here Wednesday at 2.30 p.m., and arrive at their destination 9 a.m. Thursday. They should be fully rested before taking the ice that night.

The McFarlands got a well-deserved rest after the three long junkets to Pembroke and at that they have acquired more mileage than a pensioned Model T. However four days' respite from the hockey wars sees them in good shape and rarin' to go in tonight's opening battle.

Manager Denyes said the team is in fine physical condition with no injuries. Eddie Marineau, who was forced to watch the Pembroke series from the sidelines, with an injured ankle, will see action tonight and his appearance will make a difference to Ike Hildebrand's shock troops.

Whichever club wins this series will see action in the all-Ontario finals starting the first of next week since the OHA-NOHA division has been ordered to have a winner by March 29.

At the moment it looks like the Kitchener Dutchmen touted by the Western Ontario "experts" as the best club to wear a Kitchener uniform. The Windsor Bulldogs, their finals foemen, who weren't given much of a chance, tossed a goshalmighty scare into the Ernie Gomen crew when they held them to a six-all tie in the first game in the city of sauerkraut, pigs tails and spare ribs. However, the Dutchies came back in the second game ot win 6-3, while Saturday they repeated with a 6-0 victory.

But mind you there is no "game-a-night" for the western finalists. They take a day between games. That, no doubt, was arranged last August when the OHA senior "A" Council, a two union body consisting of the OHA and the western division, figured they would let the Eastern Georges do it—and play the northern champions. It was strictly sub-rosa, top secret. A little while ago they decided to make it legal so the two "unions" got together and "ratified" their midsummer night's dream, and made it public. And since the Eastern senior brass is apparently not part of the "council," who was to say them nay?

The outcome was the game-a-night for seven nights if necessary between Belleville and Pembroke, a mere matter of 190 miles each way. As it so happened the Macs wrapped up the Pembroke series in six games and got their four-day respite.

The get-together gets under way at eight o'clock.

Team Repeats In Florida Grand Prix

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Peter Collins and Phil Hill were the hottest sports car driving team on the world's race courses today after their smashing victory in Saturday's 12-hour Florida Grand Prix of Endurance.

Collins, 26, an Englishman, and Hill, 30, an American from Santa Monica, Calif., travelled a record 1,040 miles in pushing their red Italian Ferrari to victory in the Sebring race.

It was the same sleek racer in which they won the 1,000 - kilometre race in Buenos Aires Jan. 26, the first of eight races in which points can be earned toward the world sports car championship. Sebring was the second.

Twenty-four of the starting 65 cars broke down under the strain of the race around the twisting Sebring course.

Stirling Moss, the world's No. 2 driver, drove at blistering speed before his green British Aston-Martin went out with a broken axle in the fifth hour. The little Englishman set a lap record of three minutes, 20 seconds. That was 4.5 seconds faster than the mark held by Jean Behra of France.

Luigi Musso of Rome and Oliver Gendebrien of Belgium finished second in another factory Ferrari, about six miles behind the leaders.

Harry Schell of France and Wolfgang Seibel of Germany were third in a little German Porsche.

BREAKS OWN MARK

SEATTLE (AP) — Sylvia Ruuska, slender 15-year-old from Berkeley, Calif., eclipsed her own world record in the 400 yard individual medley Saturday at an all-star women's swimming meet. Sylvia went the distance in five minutes, 5.2 seconds. Her recognized mark is 5:0.1.

Broadway Blues End Second With Detroit Taking Third; Beantowners Trail by Point

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League's rigged 70-game schedule wound up Sunday night with Montreal Canadiens—to no one's surprise—taking the league championship won last year by Detroit Red Wings.

Detroit finished third, its worst showing in 10 years, and Chicago Black Hawks finally climbed out of the cellar, turning it over to Toronto Maple Leafs, who finished with their worst showing in 30 years.

New York Rangers finished second with 77 points, far behind Montreal who turned the league into a run-a-way to finish with 96 points, only five points off a league record set by Detroit in 1950-51.

Detroit had 70 points and Boston Bruins finished in fourth and last playoff spot with 69.

START TUESDAY

Montreal and New York will play host to the opening best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi - final games Tuesday, with Canadiens facing Detroit and New York against Boston.

Rangers finished out their schedule with 7-0 and 3-2 victories over Toronto. Canadiens lost 8-5 to Boston Saturday and 4-2 to Detroit Sunday.

Boston had two weekend wins, taking Chicago 7-5 Sunday. Chicago edged Detroit 6-4 Saturday.

In Saturday afternoon's televised game Chicago grabbed a quick three-goal lead against Detroit with Bobby Hull scoring two and Glen Skov one. Detroit cut into their lead with goals by Alex Delvecchio and Norm Ullman.

Eric Nesterenko, Bill Dineen and Elmer Vasko added the other Chicago goals. A second goal by Ullman and one by Nick Mickoski were the best Detroit could come up with.

HAD 4-0 LEAD

Goals by Red Kelly, Forbes Kennedy, Gordie Howe and Marcel Pronovost gave Detroit a 4-0 edge against Canadiens who got two back when Phil Goyette and Dick Moore scored.

Moore's goal clinched the league scoring title with his 36th goal and 48 assists ending with 84 points.

Fleming Mackell and Don McKenney sparked Boston's win Saturday with two goals and singles went to Buddy Boone, Vic Stasiuk, Larry Regan and Larry Hillman.

The Montreal marksmen were Claude Provost with two and Doug Harvey, Jean Beliveau and Henri Richard.

The Bruins scored five first-period goals against Chicago Sunday night and coasted home. The game marked the return of Boston's Jerry Toppazzini who has been out of action with an eye injury.

PINPOINT PASSING

He rapped in one goal and Boston's other tallies were by McKenney, Bronco Horvath, Johnny Bucyk, Hillman, Norm Johnson and Regan. Ed Litzenberger and Earl Reibel had two goals apiece for Chicago and Lorne Ferguson a single.

Toronto couldn't cope with New York's pinpoint passing Saturday night and goalie Ed Chadwick was showered from all directions.

Dean Prentice led the Ranger assault with two goals and Hank Ciesla, Andy Hebenton, Larry Popein, Parker MacDonald and Dave Creighton got singles.

Sunday in New York, Leafs came close but little Guy Gendron broke a 2-2 tie with a goal in the final two minutes to give Rangers a 3-2 edge.

Dick Duff and Jim Morrison scored for Toronto and Creighton and Bill Gadsby were the other New York marksmen.

London Wins Bowls Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — London Majors with a total 6,032 Saturday night carried off top honors in the five-pin bowling tournament at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show.

Majors' 6,000-plus total rolled Friday night successfully withstood challenges Saturday.

The win carries a $1,000 cash award, trophy and the right to represent the east in the Canadian five-pin championships at Toronto April 8 and 9.

Waterloo Majors finished second with 5,906; Guelph Majors third 5,822; Galt Majors 5,809; Hamilton Crowns 5,773 and Ottawa Majors 5,697.

In Saturday's matches Ottawa rolled 5,697, Kingston 5,599, Windsor 5,552 and Sudbury 5,465.

Toronto Lakeviews with a 3,437 score carried the ladies division and the men's open division was won by Toronto Cira's with a 4,676 score.

Dale Lane of Kirkland Lake, in the open division, rolled the men's high single of 337.

G. McKee of Algonquin High in North Bay captured third place in the 50-yard dash for boys 18 and under. The race was won by J. Gregg of Ann Arbor, Mich., in a time of 5.6 seconds.

Dutchies Whip Bulldogs 6-0 In Third Game

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen took a commanding lead in the OHA-NOHA Senior A hockey finals Saturday night by thumping Windsor Bulldogs 6 - 0. Dutchies now lead the best-of-seven series 2 - 0 with one game tied. The fourth game will be played tonight in Windsor.

Dutchies scored their most decisive victory of the series before a crowd of 5,826 and without the services of their high-scoring centre Wiggle Wylie, sidelined with a leg injury.

They went to the bench for strength and dressed utility player Charley Brooker for duty with wingers Don Rope and Jim Uniac. Centre Paul Knox made his season's debut. He played with Dutchmen two seasons ago.

Knox was used sparingly, but Brooker connected for a first period goal along with Butch Martin

Art Hurst, Kenny Laufman and Billy Graham each scored once for Kitchener in the second period and right winger Billy Flick converted Laufman's pass for the only goal of the final session.

Goalie Boat Hurley was called upon to make only 19 stops in registering his first shutout of the playoffs.

Grand Jury Ordered to Probe Boxing

NEW YORK (AP) — The man who broke the 1951 basketball scandals has turned his searchlight on boxing in what ring circles say is a new attempt to establish underworld links with the sport.

District-attorney Frank S. Hogan has ordered a grand jury hearing at Manhattan Criminal Court April 7. A dozen summonses have been issued — to fighters, managers, promoters.

A spokesman for Hogan's office said the investigation was not the direct result of Friday night's fight at Madison Square Garden in which Virgil Akins, a 2-to-1 underdog, scored a surprise sixth round knockout over Isaac Logart. But there was a tie-in.

The odds favoring Logart shifted from 7 to 5 to 2 to 1 shortly before fight time.

"The subpoenas may have had something to do with the betting on last night's fight but that would be secondary," the spokesman said. "This investigation has been going on for some time."

The New York Journal American reported the investigation dealt with "underworld tieups" and "queer changes in betting odds" during the recent months. The paper said telephones in the garden lobby were tapped Friday night and conversations were heard concerning last - minute changes in odds.

Leafs Cancel Maritime Trip

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Bill Reay of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League said Saturday a proposed post-season tour of the Maritimes by the club is off.

"Apparently there is some NHL regulation forbidding such tours," he said.

Leafs had made plans for an exhibition trip of 14 to 17 games.

Baby Habs Lose Chevrier But Get Goalie

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has ruled defenceman Wally Chevrier of Guelph Biltmores ineligible to play for Ottawa - Hull Canadiens in the Memorial Cup playoffs.

The CAHA, in a telegraphic vote, upheld a protest by the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A council against the Canadiens getting Chevrier on loan as a replacement for Claude Ruel, who lost the sight of an eye in a hockey injury this season.

The association voted down a second Junior A council protest lodged against Guelph goaltender Bruce Gamble going to the Canadiens with Chevrier. Gamble was ruled eligible.

Chevrier had been approved by the CAHA officers as a replacement for Ruel, but OHA teams protested Chevrier was ineligible because he hadn't joined the Ottawa team before the Jan. 15 deadline.

Gamble will replace Eric Reid, who became ill during the season. Ottawa used Junior B goalie Claude Cyr in Laurier Cup games.

Moore Wins Scoring Crown Plante 3-Time Vezina Winner

By MARVEN MOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Digging Dickie Moore, a brittle but determined Montreal Canadien, has won the National Hockey League scoring crown for the first time, even though he played the last five weeks of the season with a cast on his left wrist.

Unofficial statistics give the hard-working left winger 36 goals and 48 assists for 84 points, four more than his smooth - skating linemate, Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard.

Moore's 36 goals are tops in that department for the season while Henri tops the league in playmaking with 52 assists four short of the all-time record for a season set by teammate Bert Olmstead in 1955-56.

TROPHY AND $1,000

Moore, who played for three weeks before a fracture was discovered and the cast afixed, gets the Art Ross Trophy for his coring feat and the $1,000 award from the league that goes with it. Young Richard receives $500 as runner-up.

For the third consecutive year, the Vezina Trophy—also carrying a $1,000 bonus—goes to Montreal goaltender Jacques Plante. The trophy is awarded to the goalie of the team least scored on. Montreal, with 158 goals against, had 30 less than New York Rangers, the second-best defensive club.

The Montreal trio can look forward to additional money, too, since the club traditionally matches monetary awards by the league.

Andy Bathgate, New York's fine stick-handling right winger, closed the season in third place in the scoring with 30 goals and 48 assists.

CLOSE BEHIND

He was followed closely by Gordie Howe, the big, slope-shouldered ace with Detroit Red Wings. Howe had 33 goals and 44 assists. Winner of the Art Ross Trophy in five of the last eight seasons, including last year, he holds the all - time record for points in a season—95 in 1952-53.

Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins was fifth with 65 points and rangy Eddie Litzenberger of Chicago Black Hawks, sixth, with 62. Fleming Mackell of Boston, who bagged two goals and six assists in the last two games of the season, rounds out the top seven with 60.

Moore, 27, has been plagued at various times with trick knees and a shoulder bone that sometimes slipped out of its socket, since joining the league in the 1951-52 season.

Last year, he collected 29 goals and 29 assists to finish eighth in the scoring. The Pocket Rocket was ninth, two points back:

Minor Hockey

The Bruins and Canadiens will meet in a double-header for the bantam city hockey championship next Saturday morning after eliminating Rangers and Maple Leafs in the semi-finals.

Canadiens downed the Maple Leafs 4-1 Saturday to take their series 8-3. Bruins blanked the Rangers 2-0 and captured their set by a 6-1 total.

In Saturday's action Bill Meens turned in the whitewash job for Bruins, while Jack Andrews and Wayne Williams scored the goals and added one assist each. Blakely also drew one assist.

Gary Duvall sparked the Canadiens to victory with a pair of goals and one helper. Cliff McGrimmon and Billy Sutton each had one and one, while Rutherford drew two assists and Jones one. Stu Malloy fired the lone Leaf counter, with Soden assisting.

Next Saturday morning will wind up the minor hockey here for the season. The Rangers and Canadiens will meet in their final game for the peewee title at 8.00 a.m. That series is tied at two goals each.

Canadiens and Bruins meet for the bantam honors in a twin bill, with the first game slated for 9.30 and the second at 10.30. Both will be forty-minute games with a rest period between.

Squirts and midgets will declare their champions on Wednesday, providing there is no senior game here that night. Barons lead the squirt finals five goals to six over Red Wings, while T.P.T.'s hold a 7-5 lead over Booth's in the midget division finals.

Basilio Rated 8-5 Favorite Over Robinson in Big Battle

CHICAGO (AP) — Carmen Basilio and Sugar Ray Robinson both having reached a fine edge for their middleweight championship battle, are eagerly awaiting Tuesday night's opening bell.

Basilio, who dethroned Robinson in New York last fall, appeared tense but confident. The champion concluded his sparring sessions Thursday and has been doing little except for loosening up exercises.

Basilio, still an 8-to-5 favorite, is expected to weigh around 153½, far below the 160-pound limit.

Robinson boxed three rounds Sunday, ending his heavy workouts. Sugar Ray, who is seeking to win the middleweight title a fifth time, cut short rumors that he might have trouble making the weight.

NO TROUBLE

"I won't have any trouble making the weight," said Robinson with an apologetic smile.

"No trouble at all," retorted manager George Gainford. "He was just a little over 161 before today's (Sunday) workout and he knocks off about a pound and a half in a heavy workout. He'll loosen up tomorrow, eat a heavy meal at about four o'clock and that will be it until he weighs in Tuesday. He'll make it easy."

After making the weight, it is possible that he can put on a couple of pounds with a good meal and this could give Robinson nearly a nine-pound edge.

Basilio, however, has youth in his favor. The champion at 30 is seven years younger than the challenger.

The scheduled 15-round bout in Chicago Stadium will begin at 11 p.m. EST and will be scored on a five-point must system. The winner of a round gets five points and the loser any lesser number.

The fight will be broadcast by CBS and will be seen on closed circuit television in 140 cities and 38 states, Canada and the District of Columbia. Chicago and a 100-mile radius will be blacked out on television but will be included in the radio broadcast.

The promoting International Boxing Club expects a crowd of about 20,000 and a record indoor gate of about $450,000. Television will bring in $300,000 and radio receipts will be an additional $30,000.

Robinson and Basilio will each get 30 per cent of the net total.

The expected gate of $450,000 would break the indoor mark of $422,918 set by Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano in Chicago Stadium in 1947. That fight drew 18,547 customers.

Palmer Wins Florida Golf; Canadians Tie

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—After Arnold Palmer's tingling stretch drive victory in the St. Petersburg Open, golf touring professionals invade the Florida east coast today for two pro-amateur events starting with an 18-hole contest in Fort Lauderdale.

Palmer, 28-year-old consistent money winner from Latrobe, Pa., had to shoot a six-under-par 65—the best round of the tournament to nail down top prize of $2,000 Sunday. And he had to birdie the final hole to get the 65 and avoid a sudden death playoff with Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Texas.

Palmer's chart for four rounds over the 6,265-yard Pasadena club course read 70-69-72-65—276. Par is 36-35—71. Finsterwald had 70-70-67-70—277, Hawkins 72-72-67-66 277. They got $1,350 each.

Bob Wylie, young Calgary professional who had been among the top 12 until Sunday, zoomed to a seven-over-par 78 and a total of 290. Toronto's Al Balding counted a final-round 71 to tie with Wylie.

The other Canadian left in the play, Ottawa's Johnny Henrick, was well back with 299.

Hershey Led American League Barons Second

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Hockey League decided all playoff positions Saturday night, played out the schedule Sunday and now swings into the Calder Cup post-season series. Providence visits Hershey and Springfield is at Cleveland in the opening best-of - seven playoff games Wednesday.

Hershey Bears made sure of first place by defeating Buffalo Bisons 4-2 Saturday. They lost their finale 5-4 Sunday to the second - place Cleveland Barons, who dropped a 3-2 overtime decision to Rochester on Saturday.

Providence already had third place wrapped up going into the weekend games but Springfield Indians needed the 4-3 decision over Providence Saturday for the fourth and last playoff spot. In Sunday night's return engagement Providence won 6-1.

Rochester Americans battling to the end in a vain trip for a playoff split tripped Buffalo 6-4 Sunday night after its previous night's triumph over Cleveland.

Arnie Kullman, Dunc Fisher, Willie Marshall and Len Haley scored as Hershey clinched the league title at home Saturday. Larry Wilson and Lou Jankowski tallied for the last-place Buffalo Club.

COUNTS TWICE

Bob Barlow was Cleveland's star in their decision over Hershey Sunday night, scoring two goals with his second the winner with 68 seconds left to play. Fred Glover, Dan McLelland and Bill Shvetz fired the Barons' other tallies with Fisher supplying three of Hershey's goals and Marshall getting the other. Marshall also earned three assists and won the league scoring title with 104 points.

Ab McDonald's goal after about eight minutes of overtime gave Rochester their victory over Cleveland Saturday. Skippy Burchell and Mike Nykoluk scored earlier for the Americans and Don Hogan and Bo Elik tallied for the Barons.

McDonald was busy again Sunday night, counting two goals and an assist, as Rochester downed Buffalo for their eighth victory in nine starts but they missed the playoffs by two points. The other Rochester counters were by Claude Laforge, Ron Hurst, Stan Smrke and Burchell with Larry Wilson, with two goals, Ken Wharram and Norm Corcoran registering for Buffalo.

Harry Pidhirny's goal late in the game against Providence Saturday clinched Springfield's playoff berth. Gerry Ehman scored two goals earlier and Jack Caffery one for the Indians with Bruce Cline, Bill Sweeney and Ted Hampson getting singles for the Reds.

In the return engagement Sweeney counted three times with Paul Larivee, Camille Bedard and Zellio Toppazzini rounding out the Providence goal-getting. Al Nicholson scored the Springfield goal.

Quebec Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Quebec Hockey League playoff picture, a cloudy one right from the season's opening game, came into focus Sunday on the last day of regular -scheduled play.

Quebec Aces downed league-leading Chicoutimi Sagueneens 4-2 and Montreal Royals trounced Shawinigan Cataracts 5-1 in what was a playoff preview since the same clubs clash again in the semi-finals opening on both fronts Wednesday.

At Chicoutimi, the Aces overcame a two-goal deficit to end the season in fourth spot, a point behind Royals. Royals built up a three-goal lead against the second - place Cataracts and coasted to an easy triumph.

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec Hockey League said Sunday it was waiting to hear if the Western Hockey League plans to challenge for the Edinburgh Trophy this year.

Quebec Aces of the QHL won the trophy last year, downing Brandon Regals 5-1 in a best-of-nine series.

In Seattle, a spokesman for the Western Hockey League said the league does not intend to compete for the Edinburgh Trophy.

Marlies Hammer Kitts 11-2 To Enter Junior 'A' Finals

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Marlboros, playing a rough and tough game, hammered their way into the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A finals Sunday with an 11-2 win over St. Catharines Teepees.

Marlboros took the best-of-seven semi-final series 4-3, with one game tied. A crowd of 11,006 watched the final contest.

Teepees finished the game without Matt Ravlich, who was taken to hospital with a suspected broken collar bone.

Jack McMaster of Marlboros set up Wally Boyer for Marlies' first goal and was bounced into the goal post and carried off on a stretcher. But he came back in the same period and collected three goals and four assists as Marlies led 4-0 in the first period and 6-1 in the second.

Other Marlboro goal getters were Boyer and Bob Nevin, with two apiece, and Jim Murchie, Doug Riseley, Carl Brewer and Ross Morrison with singles. St. Catharines scorers were Ed Hoekstra and Terry McGuire.

Officials handed out a total of 143 minutes in penalties.

About half of these came in the last nine minutes. Teepees' Ted Wright and Jim Cosburn tangled with Bob Davidson and Don Curry of Marlboros at 11:21 and collected 40 minutes between them.

At 15:16 Stan Mikita and Reno Robazze of St. Catharines and Boyer and Ian Anderson of the Toronto team started a four-way scrap and collected another 30 minutes.

WIN WATER POLO FINAL

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Hungaria won the Canadian senior water polo championships Saturday night, beating Montreal Davis YMHA 14-9 to take the two-game total-points series 27-23.

Goalie Sparks Cubs to Victory Over Irish 4-1

TORONTO (CP) — A sensational performance by netminder Carl Wetzel enabled Hamilton Tiger Cubs to defeat St. Michael's College Majors 4-1 Saturday.

The victory gave Cubs a two-to-one stranglehold with one game tied, on the best-of-five Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi final series. Cubs need only another tie to advance into the league final against Toronto Marlboros.

Wetzel baffled St. Michael's forwards time and again. He blocked a total of 37 drives—16 of them in a torrid second period.

Brian Smith set the pace with a pair of goals. Gerry Sullivan and Don Blackburn counted the others.

The only mar on Wetzel's record was a first-period marker by Toronto's Jim Sonoski.

The Majors, whose defeat could largely be attributed to stiff Hamilton body-checking, were tagged with eight of the 14 minor penalties.

Chisox Buy Don Mueller

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — San Francisco Giants Saturday sold veteran left - hand - hitting outfielder Don Mueller to Chicago White Sox in a cash deal.

Terms were not revealed, but the Giants said the American League team paid more than the waiver price of $20,000.

On the Tracks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Kerr Stable's Round Table won the $110,900 Gulfstream Park Handicap as expected Saturday, running the 1¼ miles in 1:59 4-5 to equal the track record set in 1949 by Coaltown.

The biggest crowd in Gulfstream Park in two years—25,389 made Round Table an odds-on favorite. Under jockey Willie Shoemaker, the big colt won easily by four lengths.

Tartan Stable's Meeting was second, a neck in front of Brookmeade Stable's Oligarchy.

Round Table earned $69,800 and boosted his lifetime earnings to $973,964. He now is just behind Nashua and Citation in earnings.

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Five Kentucky Derby nominees were beaten Saturday by the unheralded Deack Duncan who ran away with the $34,450 Governor's Gold Cup to the delight of the long-shot bettors at Bowie.

Deack Duncan, owned by John S. Kelly, returned $44.80, $11.20 and $7.40.

Two races earlier, a handful of the plungers gleefully collected $464 for each $2 to win on a horse named Whisk Tru that was winning for the first time in 27 races.

Deack Duncan, a $6,000 claimer last year by his owner and trainer who is a Washington lumber company operator, took to the sloppy going like a duck to beat the eight other three-year-olds.

He tore around the seven-eighths of a mile in the good time of 1:25 2-5 and finished 3½ lengths ahead of the favored Washington owned by Mill River Stable. W. H. Bishop's Pemberton was another 1½ lengths back in third.

Jackson, Batting Beanpole, Looms Big in Chisox Plans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ron Jackson of the Chicago White Sox—all six feet, seven inches of him—is a big boy now.

He's big in height and looms big in the plans of manager Al Lopez, who is hoping the Sox finally will get some dividends on the $25,000 they invested in 1954.

That year the Sox snapped Jackson off the Western Michigan campus. They've been sitting back waiting for something to happen since.

In 1955, he got in 40 games and hit a paltry .203. In 1956 he appeared in 22 games and hit .214, not much progress. He spent last year with Indianapolis of the American Association and hit .310 with 21 home runs and 102 runs batted in. He also struck out 110 times, high for the league.

KNOCKS IN SIX

Sunday, the Sox licked Cincinnati Redlegs 14-5 at Tampa, Fla., and Jackson clouted two home runs. Tito Francona also drove in six runs on four singles.

All told, the Sox got only nine hits. The big blow for the Redlegs was Bob Thurman's home run off Bill Fischer in the eighth. It snapped Fischer's streak of not permitting a home run in 108 2-3 consecutive innings.

Both Lew Burdette, who won three games from the Yankees in last year's world series, and Bob Lemon, who had not been to the mound since last August, tested their arms Sunday.

Burdette, in his first stint since the series, went three innings for Milwaukee in the Braves' 4-0 shutout over Pittsburgh Pirates and didn't permit a batter to reach first base. For good measure.

Lemon, who underwent an elbow operation last November, went two innings for the Cleveland Indians B team which turned back the Chicago Cubs' B squad 10-1. He was nicked for an unearned run on three hits and reported his arm felt fine after tossing an assortment of sliders and curves.

In other action, the Cubs' regulars defeated the Indians 10-8; San Francisco Giants toppled the Baltimore Orioles 7-5; New York Yankees overpowered the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-6; Kansas City Athletics whipped the Washington Senators 7-1; Detroit Tigers blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 and Boston Red Sox nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 5-3.

Schmidt Sees Long Series With Rangers

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins coach Milt Schmidt foresees a long series with New York Rangers in their semi-final Stanley Cup playoff which opens Tuesday night in New York.

Schmidt made his comments following Sunday night's 7-5 triumph over Chicago Black Hawks which left Boston just short of third place.

"Of course, I don't say we will not win it but I don't think either team will win it quickly," Schmidt said.

"After the first two games in New York, the remainder will be played here. But throughout the season the Rangers have played as well here—if not better—than in New York against us."

Hull Ousts New Glasgow

NEW GLASGOW, N. S. (CP)—Hull Legion trimmed New Glasgow Rangers 5-2 Saturday night to win their best - of - five Allan Cup quarter-final series and advance to the Dominion semi-finals.

Richer scored twice for Hull while singles went to coach Marcel Legris, Andrew Prevost and Ron Limoges. New Glasgow marksmen were Cameron and Bert Dalling.

Toronto Marlies Win Midget Round With 6-2 Victory Over Belleville

Toronto Marlboros handed Belleville a 6-2 setback in Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday morning to capture their Ontario Minor Hockey Association Midget "A" third round series 8-3.

The Marlies will clash with Hamilton in the semi - finals with that winner meeting Owen Sound or Chatham for the provincial championship.

Belleville midgets put up a good fight against their bigger, more experienced opponents before bowing out. They were a little stage struck in the Gardens and trailed 2-0 before they found their skating legs.

Toronto led 2-0 at the end of the first period and 4-1 after the second. Belleville had their share of the play in the final two periods but as in the first game here which they lost 2-1 they had trouble around the Marlie net.

Marlboros received seven of the ten minor penalties but the contest was cleanly played with both clubs sticking strictly to hockey.

Gord Parker in the Belleville nets and Perani of Toronto both came through with excellent games. Perani was outstanding when attackers worked through to his doorstep.

Weeks and Gillies gave the winners a 2-0 lead in the first but D'Arcy Lawrence, one of the Belleville stars throughout his club's six OMHA games, cut the margin to 2-1 at 1.24 of the second. Marlies then added a pair by Ridley and Weeks before the period's end. Marlies' Stewart got one in the first minute of the third while Billy McGuire got that one back at 1.45: Ridley closed the scoring at 18.24.

T. Ridley topped the Toronto marksmen with two goals and one assist while Jon Weeks also scored twice. Gillies and Stewart had a goal and assist each while McKnight and Screen picked up single helpers.

Lawrence and McGuire accounted for all four Belleville points each with a goal and assist.

Point Anne Wins Industrial Loop Finals Opener

The Point Anne Cementmen took a one-game lead in their best-of-five Industrial Hockey League finals at Memorial Arena over the weekend by whipping Don's Delivery 11-3.

The second game is slated for next weekend.

The Pointers completely outplayed their opponents from the opening whistle in yesterday's lop-sided affair. They led 2-0 at the end of the first and 6-1 after forty minutes of play.

Don's could not get a sustained attack organized and they failed to check the hungry Oxpointers. Only a number of fine saves by goalie Chuck Kingston of Don's kept the winners from adding to their total.

Billy Strachan paced the Point Anne snipers with three goals while Lorne Maracle, Mort Bradshaw and Tommy Schrieder each collected two. Doug Lucas and Pat Maracle had the other goals.

Cameron Buskard, Bob Hughes and Cameron McKenna were the Don's Delivery marksmen.

Julie Harris Will Appear In TV Play Written for Her

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Julie Harris makes one of her rare television appearances tonight playing the leading role in Little Moon of Alban on Hall of Fame (NBC-TV).

The 90-minute drama by James Costigan is the first play written originally for television which Hall of Fame has presented in its history. Costigan is said to have had Miss Harris in mind for the role when he wrote it. Canadian actor Christopher Plummer will be co-starred with Miss Harris.

"I play a daughter of charity in Dublin," Miss Harris said in a rich Irish brogue the other day during a rehearsal break. "I'm not a nun. I play the part of a religious young woman whose faith is shaken by the deaths of her father, brother and lover. I decide to become a daughter of charity—but for the wrong reasons at first.

VERY FINE DRAMA

"Basically Little Moon of Alban is an examination of the nature of true spirituality. I think that Mr. Costigan has written a very fine drama."

Miss Harris, by the way, is not Irish. But from the moment she entered the rehearsal hall until she left it during three weeks of rehearsals she refused to speak without a braque. In fact, she does it so well and has enjoyed it so much that she says she'll regret losing it.

The religious Order of the Daughters of Charity was founded in 1633 by St. Vincent de Paul, a French priest, Miss Harris explained. "He did not want his daughters of charity to be nuns and live a cloistered life. He wanted them to live and work with the poor and distressed. They renew their vows every year and are free to leave the religious community every March 25th. Few ever do leave."

Miss Harris plays in only about one television drama a year because she has had steady commitments on the stage and in the movies.

Little Moon of Alban is the third Hall of Fame production in which she has appeared under the direction of George Schaefer.

AT THE PARK — Sophia Loren, the world's most exciting woman, is starred in Columbia Pictures "Woman of the River", in color by Technicolor, also co-stars Rik Battaglia, who is also pictured in the above scene. Launched with an important role that sees him in some pretty sizzling love scenes with the sultry Sophia. And on the same program for your added enjoyment, one of the most unusual love stories ever filmed, "The Story of Esther Costello" (the Golden Virgin) with Joan Crawford and Rossano Brazzi and also features lovely British newcomer Heather Sears in the title role. Both the above pictures start tonight at the Park theatre.

AT THE BELLE — Rock Hudson and Jennifer Jones are seen in a key scene from the David O. Selznick production of Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms", one of the great love stories of all times. The new Twentieth Century-Fox production is continuing tonight through Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre. Italian actor Vittorio De Sica also stars in the film.

MAY MAN MOON

MOSCOW (AP) — The belief is growing in Moscow that the Russians are preparing a bold new venture into space. Soviet officials, including Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev and foreign ministry spokesman Leonid F. Ilyichev, have told Western correspondents recently — only half jokingly — that space surprises will be forthcoming. There also has been renewed press comment on the prospect of manned space flights. These articles emphasize the desirability of more unmanned flights first.

Hollywood Has Known Other Panic Periods and Survived

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Panic? We've had them before in Hollywood — and worse ones, too. Things looked much worse when sound was coming in. The movie industry will survive. It will make fewer pictures and better pictures."

This is the view of Ricardo Cortez, and he is a man who should know. He started in movies 40 years ago, and has witnessed the golden days and black days of the business since then.

Now 58, after an eight-year absence, he is returning to the screen. I asked him why he stayed away so long.

"Because I was tired of playing gangsters," he replied. "That's all they would offer me, and I refused to do any more of those parts."

STARRED WITH GARBO

John Ford brought Ricardo back to pictures. The producer-director cast him as the only non-Irishman in The Last Hurrah. Ricardo plays the Jewish financial adviser to political boss Spencer Tracy.

Born Jack Krantz in Vienna, Cortez started in films in the east, came to Hollywood in 1922 and cashed in on the craze for Latin lovers, along with Valentino, Ramon Novarro and Antonio Moreno. In 1927 he starred with Greta Garbo in her first American film, The Torrent. He is the only actor who was ever billed above Garbo.

"She was a very lovely girl," he recalled, "but very shy. She was a real introvert."

TRAVELLED A LOT

He started another picture her, Anna Karenina, but after six weeks Garbo fell ill and the filming halted. Cortez waited as long as he could, then took another assignment. The film was made with John Gilbert as co-star and re-titled Love.

I asked if Ricardo has seen Garbo in recent years.

"Yes, in Paris about eight years," he said. "We were passing on the street, and she nodded and continued on."

Travel has occupied much of his recent years. He has done a little television work and also developed stories for film properties. I hinted that he must have saved his money.

"I pay my bills," he grinned.

WANTS SCHOOL CHANGE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rear-Admiral H. G. Rickover, father of the U.S. atomic submarine, Sunday loosed a verbal broadside at "progressive" education and called for a complete overhaul of the public school system in the United States. He said "The chronic shortage of good scientists, engineers and other professionals which plagues us is the result . . . of time wasted in public school which must be made up later on."

ROSLIN — On Wednesday, Mrs. E. Geen opened her home for a "pot luck" dinner and quilting sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary with proceeds going to St. Paul's choir who are hoping to have a robed choir for Easter.

Around sixty adults and children were present for the dinner. During the afternoon some of the ladies worked on the quilt for the bales and others were cutting and sewing surplices.

Crokinole prizes to Mrs. B. [illegible] and Mrs. W. Farrell, Mr. [illegible] Farrell and Mr. Lorne McKenzie. The door prize was won by Mrs. William Bates.

Refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed.

SURVEY DECORATIONS

AMSTERDAM (CP) — Thousands of Dutch families turned out in the streets Sunday for a preview of the decorations being put up for the three-day visit of the Queen and Prince Philip this week. One of the most spectacular creations is The Hague's huge modernistic creation called the Tribolium, a series of three thin towers. The townspeople jokingly compared it to an American rocket missile base.

HUGE DISPOSAL SALE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defence department said Saturday details now are being arranged for disposing of multi-million-dollar surplus of foreign military aid equipment overseas. The bulk of the equipment, a spokesman said, is in the United Kingdom.

ONE MAN MISSING,

'The building was filled with dense smoke in three minutes and there was barely enough time to get out', said Mrs. Bannon.

CAR IN PARKING LOT

For some time it was not certain that Evangelatos had been trapped in the building as he had planned to be out of town but his car was discovered on a parking lot and later Mrs. Daoussis said that he had been in the building and had gone to the wash room just before the tremendous explosion occurred. When walls collapsed, a mountain of debris made search for the body impossible until some of the rubble could be drawn away. This work is continuing. Evangelatos was unmarried.

Both the restaurant and ladies' wear stores were comparatively new establishments and modern in every respect. Mr. Abramsky also carried a stock of stoves in the basement of the block.

Force of the blast and flying glass cut a heavy telephone cable apart. Many wires across the street were ripped in pieces when the front wall collapsed on the street. Hundreds of spectators who has crowded close were lucky that power had been cut off.

The homeless were given shelter at the Royal hotel until accommodation is found.

Fortunately only two people, Mrs. Daoussis and Evangelatos were in the restaurant at the time. They were preparing to leave at 2.15 a.m. when the explosion occurred.

CAUSE NOT KNOWN

Cause of the explosion which caused the outbreak is not known. Gas was used for cooking and the theory is advanced that there might have been a leak in the line and that the explosion occurred when a cigaret was lighted.

Much praise is heard for the excellent manner in which the two fire departments worked and the efforts of phone and hydro crews who worked through the night and all day to repair the damage. Town workmen with trucks were also on the job to haul away rubble so that traffic on a large section of Main street could be resumed.

While the fire alarm sounds, firemen are alerted by phone as well but due to some of the lines being out, Chief George Pitt notified them personally. Constable Herb Bolster and members of the Provincial Police detachments gave assistance in handling the thousands of people who flocked to the scene during the night and day.

The burned block leaves a large vacant section in the main area of the town. No plans for rebuilding have been announced. Loss will be partially covered by insurance.

UNDERGROUND LAKE

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press reported Sunday the discovery of a 75,000 - square-mile underground fresh water lake in Kazakhstan. It stretches from southern Kustanai in northern Kazakhstan to the shore of the Aral Sea in Central Asia. Investigations will be made to see if the lake can be tapped to irrigate the arid steppes under which the lake was discovered.

Future of CCF Leader Awaits Vote and Reports

TORONTO (CP)—M. J. Coldwell said today his future as head of the CCF party will be decided after the election campaign and the decision will depend on doctors' reports.

Visibly tired, Mr. Coldwell faced television cameras and reporters during a pre-breakfast press conference following his arrival here from Ottawa.

"I will be guided by the doctors' opinions," he said in an answer to questions on whether he would stay in politics after the campaign for next Monday's federal election.

"It remains to be seen," he said when asked whether he would head the CCF in the next House. "I will do exactly as I am advised to do."

Mr. Coldwell was in Ottawa last week for a rest. He speaks here tonight in Massey Hall.

ILL DURING CAMPAIGN

Mr. Coldwell suffered a mild heart attack last year and, earlier in this campaign, came close to collapse on a political platform out west. Doctors sent him to bed a week ago when complications developed from "a heavy cold" which the 69-year-old former school teacher caught last

He said there was "an ugly name" for Liberal Leader Pearson's offer of reduced income taxes and voiced a complaint about the Gallup poll.

He called Mr. Pearson's proposal for six weeks free from income taxes "a wholesale attempt to get votes by offering people money, and there's an ugly name for that sort of thing. I was very surprised at Mr. Pearson doing a thing like that."

CAPITAL GAINS TAX

It was also bad economics, Mr. Coldwell said, to offer tax cuts at a time when increased revenue was needed. He suggested "the time has come for us to look for new sources of revenue and one good place would be a tax on capital gains."

He mentioned specifically "the boys" who made "$6,000,000 in profits in three or four years" on speculation in pipeline stocks.

The CCF leader criticized the Gallup poll, a public opinion survey, for making election predictions and said "I believe in the freedom of the press but I believe the poll should be brought within the confines of the Election Act."

The Act should ban predictions between the time of issuance of the election writ and the voting, he said.

Some people were influenced by a bandwagon. Mr. Coldwell said the poll, "which claims to be national and authoritative," is unchallenged by other polls.

"I would like to know who is asking the questions and what questions are asked." Mr. Coldwell said he was not suggesting the Gallup poll was rigged but that such a thing could happen. "I want to know some more about it."

Mr. Coldwell said he had criticized the poll on the floor of the House in the past and would do so again "if the opportunity arises." It predicted a Liberal win in 1957 and a Conservative victory this year.

Tweed

TWEED — Jeffrey, the ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Graham Mouck, of Stirling, formerly of Tweed, who has been ill all winter, was operated on in Belleville General Hospital on Friday. It was learned that he had a twisted appendix. The Moucks resided on R. R. No. 1, Tweed for many years and only recently purchased a business in Stirling.

Mrs. Charles Jeffrey, of Tweed, a grandmother of Jeffrey, suffered a heart attack two weeks ago ,and is much improved, and is being moved from the Belleville General Hospital, to the home of her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Jeffrey, of Napanee for a short while until she is well enough to return to her own home, here. Her wide host of friends were happy to learn of her improvement in health.

It is regrettable that Mrs. B. Black found it necessary to again be hospitalized on Thursday, in the Belleville General Hospital.

The chief of police states that not one Tweed motorist was sighted with a 1957 licence plate after the deadline was set last Wednesday.

The Red Cross Campaign under the chairman for local canvass, Wallis Moffat, will start after Easter. It was thought best to postpone it until April for a better co-operation from all.

The local Chamber of Commerce met on Thursday night at the municipal hall. Mr. R. F. Richardson, a representative of Canadian Chamber of Commerce, was in attendance, to review some of the services provided by the national organization. The members feel that the Chambers has been greatly strengthened and its efficiency increased and an extension in its doings and usefulness as a whole, as a result of these offical visits. Mr. S. J. "Andy" Anderson, president of the local Chamber presided over the meeting with the representative and the local directors.

Congratulations are in order to Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Cole, of Toronto, on the birth of a daughter on March 17th, in Toronto. Mrs. Thomas Lynn, of R. R. No. 2, Tweed is in Toronto for a while at the home of her daughter. The Cole's have two other children, both boys.

Mrs. Ethel Varty, Metcalfe Street, who has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for some two weeks, has been transferred to a Kingston Hospital this past week.

A number of ladies, from Tweed attended a mammoth W. A. meeting of the United Church at Madoc on March 20th. The ladies state that there was a good crowd, the cooking and apron tables soon disposed of their wares. It was a successful social event as well as attending to important business matters.

Miss Ann Rayburn of the local Rayburn Insurance Office, of Tweed, visited with her aunt, Mrs. Urena Pinner, who is Hastings County Home's eldest resident, on the occasion of her 104th birthday. Mrs. Pinner, a former resident of Marmora, is in splendid health considering her age, but is confined to the County Home infirmary. Miss Rayburn visits the elderly lady frequently.

Word has been received here that Mrs. Currie Irvine, of R. R. No. 1, Cloyne, has suffered a stroke, but that her condition is much improved the last few days. Mrs. Irvine visited Mr. and Mrs. Archie Godfrey of town last week.

Queen And Philip Reach Holland For State Visit

Elizabeth and Juliana Embrace With Kisses

AMSTERDAM (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth and Queen Juliana, Europe's only two women sovereigns, kissed each other on both cheeks today when the British monarch arrived on a three-day state visit to The Netherlands.

The two queens embraced with broad smiles as Elizabeth, accompanied by Prince Philip, set foot on the landing stage here from the royal yacht Britannia.

It was a cold, damp day, but Queen Elizabeth was gay in a coat of scarab blue wool, covering a dress of the same color with black spots. Her matching hat was of fine straw.

FIRST IN 300 YEARS

Tens of thousands of cheering citizens were on the streets to greet the first British royal visitors to Holland in three centuries.

Union Jacks fluttered everywhere as the royal couple drove in open landaus through the capital. People hung precariously from windows and sloping roofs high above the streets to wave as the royal procession passed.

Queen Juliana, dressed in a sand-colored woollen dress with a matching three-quarter-length coat, rode in the first landau with Elizabeth and Princess Irene, Juliana's 18-year-old second daughter.

BERNHARD HAS THE FLU

Philip rode in the second carriage with 20-year-old Princess Beatrix, heiress to the Dutch throne who deputized for her father, Prince Bernhard, confined indoors with a severe attack of influenza.

Escorted by cavalry troops the two carriages reached the palace, where the two queens appeared on a balcony to receive a roar of acclamation from the crowd in the square below.

Queen Elizabeth and the prince had reached Amsterdam in the royal yacht after a 12-mile journey along a canal from the port of Ijmuiden.

Armed Service Men and Women Start Voting

OTTAWA (CP) — Voting in the March 31 general election started Monday for armed service men and women serving abroad and at home. On four continents their vote closes Saturday. The results are to be announced April 5.

In Asia, Africa, Europe and North America a total 116,767 members of the Canadian armed forces, together with 7,225 wives abroad with their servicemen husbands, and 6,563 veterans in hospitals throughout Canada are eligible to vote this week. They add up to 130,555 eligible voters.

In last year's June 10 general election a total 74,437 ballots were cast when eligibles totalled 131,578.

Some servicemen have a choice of two polls—service this week or civilian next week.

A serviceman may vote at either a civilian or service poll if he lives in the electoral district which is his place of ordinary residence—his residence on enlistment or the one he designated the previous December. If he lives outside his home electoral district, he must vote at a service poll.

AT FOUR POINTS

The service vote is to be pooled at four points for counting—London, England, Halifax, Ottawa and Edmonton. The London count will take in votes from Egypt, Germany, France, Indochina and elsewhere. The Ottawa count take in Ontario, Quebec and the United States.

Votes from the Far East go into the Western Canada count at Edmonton.

Service voters outside of Canada are the only ones entitled to see at their polling stations a list of candidates identified with political affiliation. That is because they are far from their home constituency and may not know the name of their party's candidate there.

Results of the four original counts are messaged to chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay in Ottawa, from where they are passed on to the constituency returning officers, who add them April 5 to the March 31 civilian totals.

The service vote sometimes has spelled victory or defeat. In 1945 it resulted in the defeat of former Liberal prime minister Mackenzie King in Prince Albert, which was represented in the last Parliament by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Special returning officers have been named to conduct the balloting, along with civilian scrutineers representing the four major political parties. The scrutineers, in teams of two representing two different political faiths, do the actual counting of the service ballots.

Kingfish Gets Out of Real Jam

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Kingfish got out of a real jam Monday, just as he often does in the Amos 'n' Andy television show.

The judge fined the Kingfish, actor Harry R. (Tim) Moore, 70, $100 for a threatening display of a firearm, but then suspended the fine.

The charge against Moore went back to a beef over a roast.

His story was that he and his wife, Vivian, 39, returned home and he went hunting for a snack. But Moore said he found her son, Paul Hubbard, 22, and her son-in-law and daughter, Earl and Eve Brown, had eaten the roast.

This made him so angry that he got a gun and fired a shot. It didn't hit anything except some china.

ACTRESS HAS MEASLES

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) Actress Susan Hayward has the measles. A studio spokesman said she became ill Monday and is confined to her hotel. Miss Hayward came here last week from her home at Carrollton, Ga., on a movie assignment.

HOUSE MEMBERS HEAR PLEA FOR HIGHER SALARIES

Wren Wants Same Pay as in Quebec

TORONTO (CP) — A Liberal-Labor of the legislature has called upon the provincial government to prevent American auto companies from blocking sale of Canadian cars to Red China.

Albert Wren (L-Lab—Kenora), speaking in the House in budget debate said "The time has arrived for Ontario to take decisive action against the domination of Ontario industry in particular and Canadian industry in general by people in other nations."

Mr. Wren also called for an increase in salaries for members of the legislature, now paid $3,600 a year with an $1,800 tax-free allowance.

Mr. Wren said Quebec legislators received $7,000 along with a pension plan. He said "I think we're just as good as Quebec."

The member also suggested that the Queen, during her visit to Canada to open the St. Lawrence seaway, be asked to appoint a governor-general for the United Kingdom.

FEELS ENVIOUS

"I feel envious that the people of the United Kingdom should demand so much of her time," he said.

An amendment to the Liquor Control Act was given second reading as Arthur Reaume (L—Essex North) demanded that bunkhouses be included in a new provision permitting drinking in residences such as tents, boats and hotel rooms.

"Miners and loggers should have the same rights as people in the Royal York Hotel," he said.

Provincial Secretary Dunber replied that "The people of Ontario wouldn't stand for such a move.

"No one could suggest that 50 men in a bunkhouse should have 50 bottles of liquor in there with men going to work the next day."

Opposition members voiced disapproval of the governments bill permitting charging of tolls not only on international bridges but on several other spans.

LIBERAL CRITICIZES

The bill, given second reading, was criticized by Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver who said: "Somehow I was hoping we could avoid this charge on the motorist."

CCF Leader Donald MacDonald said the government was being inconsistent with the bill. He said he favored tolls on international bridges but he criticized such a measure on crossings of the kind being planned for the Welland Canal.

Walter Reuther Faces Crucial Test On His Demand for Profit Sharing

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president, faced a crucial test today with the opening of negotiations with the world's largest manufacturing firm on a new labor contract.

General Motors Corporation already has made clear that it will give a firm no to Reuther's demand that workers be given a 25-per-cent slice of profits.

Management at GM, Ford and Chrysler, however, do not underrate Reuther's power of persuasion.

A Ford executive has called Reuther "a tireless worker, a talented debater and orator, a skillful strategist and tactician, a powerful labor leader and a most influential politician—but he is not a very good economist."

Reuther in return says you don't need a college degree to understand that the United States economy is, as he says, "cock-eyed" with unemployment and over-production.

Reuther sums up his beliefs by saying: "If I weren't concerned about the welfare of human beings, about working people and their families, I wouldn't be in this movement. I wouldn't be taking the abuse from every reactionary in the world."

Reuther's critics say he is a dangerous man. They claim that he has built up a powerful political machine and has a captive party among more than a million dues-paying UAW unionists. Some say he has ambitions to be president, and that he is at heart a socialist.

Reuther denies this.

"The public records," he says, "clearly show that I have no political ambitions, and that I have repeatedly repudiated the doctrines of socialism."

INTERNATIONAL ORPHANS

Two of four brothers who are subjects of international discussion are Richard and Peter Kozmin, now living in Chicago as wards of the U.S. They and their two brothers are the children of Mr. and Mrs. George Kozmin who went to the U.S. as displaced persons, were sent to hospital for mental disorders, then returned to Russia. Soviet ambassador Mikhail Menshikov appealed to U.S. Secretary of State Dulles to have the children returned to Russia.

Old Hands Kick Up Dust In New Drive for Voters

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two old hands in vote roundups have raised new dust in the drive for the March 31 federal election.

Former prime minister St. Laurent tossed a larist for the Liberals Monday night with an open letter urging support for Lester B. Pearson to restore "the stability and growth that the Diefenbaker government has not been able to maintain."

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell, after a week of enforced idleness because of a bad cold, spurred back onto the election range with a speech in Toronto accusing the Progressive Conservatives of "the greatest betrayal of the Canadian people since Confederation."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, meantime, toiled amid noisy reception scenes in two provincial capitals—Fredericton, N.B., and Halifax.

Liberal Leader Pearson, at work in Toronto, said in a television speech the Conservatives are appealing for votes with passion and personality while the Liberals are offering policies and programs.

In a Halifax television speech, exports have risen and its trade deficit has been reduced under his government.

"In the first two months of this year the unfavorable trade balance built up by the Liberal government has been reduced by a further $100,000,000," he said.

Mr. Coldwell, addressing 2,500 people—200 below capacity — in Massey Hall, said Mr. Diefenbaker and his followers, by their failure to correct "what the prime minister himself called a 'nefarious deal'" in the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline arrangement, have betrayed the Canadian people.

Huge speculative profits had been made on the pipeline and eastern consumers of the gas would be "paying through the nose on the inflated price of that gas."

At a press conference earlier, Mr. Coldwell said there is "an ugly name" for Mr. Pearson's promise of $400,000,000 in tax cuts should a Liberal government be elected. Mr. Pearson's offer to declare an income tax holiday for most Canadians for six weeks was "a wholesale attempt to get votes by offering people money."

The Liberals and Conservatives, "yes and some newspapers," were deceiving the public. An end must be put to the "facade of two parties pretending to be different when they have the same financial masters."

But he said that while some Canadian newspapers "continue to serve powerful interests" on the editorial pages, "We of the CCF have had a fair break on the news pages of the country."

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Coldwell referred to the report that a Canadian automobile manufacturer was unable to fill a Communist China order for 1,000 cars because the parent U.S. company vetoed the sale to comply with American foreign policy.

Mr. Coldwell said it was time the U.S. ceased to control what Canadian companies did. He mentioned Ford of Canada, which he said was recently blocked by U.S. interests from selling 1,000 cars to Communist China, and the Britannia mine in British Columbia, recently closed.

He suggested Canada "relieve Britannia Mines and Ford of Canada of their responsibilities to the U.S. and place the companies—temporarily at least—under an administrator."

Mr. Diefenbaker also made an apparent reference to the dispute. He said parent companies of Canadian subsidiaries "should not deny to their Canadian plants a fair share of export business wherever and whenever it develops."

Long, Costly Guerrilla War Seen as Possible in Sumatra

MEDAN, Sumatra (AP)—Government troops fanning out from this North Sumatra town appear to have checked the spread of Indonesia's civil war in North Sumatra. The rebels threaten to counterattack, but they face a tough road back to Medan.

Their initial advantage lost, the insurgents' best hope now seems to be to extend guerrilla action which could tie up Jakarta forces in a long costly action.

Those are the conclusions reached after a four-day trip—by bus, car, speedboat and foot—from the rebel capital of Bukittinggi back and forth across "battle" lines three times.

Both sides have apparently been disappointed by developments in Medan, which went over to the rebels nine days ago after the town garrison mutinied, then was recaptured by the loyalists.

The outbreak in Medan cost Jakarta money, time and troops which could have been used to invade rebel hotbeds in central Sumatra. Many of the loyalists are still tied up at Medan.

As the situation now stands, the front lines extend beyond the resort town of Prapat on Lake Toba south of Medan. The loyalists took over that rebel stronghold last week and moved in with artillery.

Rebel informants said the leader of the Medan mutiny, Maj. Boyke Nainn Golan, had headed for the hills southeast of here with remnants of his force.

Monday thieves broke into the homes of her brothers while they were attending the funeral of a brother, Dr. Abraham Koven, of Detroit.

PANAMA-BOUND PLANE CRASHES IN MIAMI SWAMP

9 Die, 15 Survive Explosion and Fire

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Braniff Airlines plane crashed moments after its takeoff for Panama early today with a mighty explosion visible for miles. Nine were killed and 15 survived, many of them badly injured.

Among the dead were several pilots for the airline flying as passengers to take out flights in South America. Passenger casualties included both United States and South American residents. There were no Canadians on the passenger list.

The four-engined DC-7C had been airborne less than a minute before watchers on the ground saw fire spurt from an engine.

A night watchman on duty at a city dump near the swampy scene of the crash saw the plane go down "like a rock." It fell 4½ miles north of Miami International Airport.

IN MUD, WATER

The dead, dying and injured lay in the wreckage or in ankle-deep mud and water. Rescuers had to push their way through dense brush which kept fire-trucks and ambulances away from the scene.

Helicopters were used to carry the injured to a hospital. where a parking lot was pressed into service as a landing port.

The plane, which would have gone to Lima, Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro from Panama, broke in two.

Flames still were roaring into the sky hours after the crash.

R. H. Sands, the dump watchman who summoned help, said it was about 20 minutes before rescue crews arrived.

"Those were the longest 20 minutes I ever spent," he said. "I could hear the passengers yelling for help and there was nothing I could do."

Sir Winston Postpones Visit To America

ROQUEBRUNE CAP MARTIN, France (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill has postponed his scheduled April visit to North America because of a recurrence of his pneumonia attack.

A member of the 83-year-old said Monday night that Churchill still hopes to make the trip later this year. His doctors said his temperature is back to normal but he needs a long rest.

This morning his private secretary reported Sir Winston "very well indeed" and said a general statement on his condition would be issued this afternoon.

The secretary, Anthony Montague Browne declined to answer any questions about Churchill's proposed trip. Original plans were for visits to Toronto and Washington.

DIANA LEAVES RIVIERA

She told reporters she was leaving the Riviera resort now that Churchill is "getting on well."

Diana, Mrs. Duncan Sandys, interrupted a tour of the Continent on Sunday to come here. She did not say where she was going next.

Meanwhile, Churchill's youngest daughter, Mary, wife of War Minister Christopher Soames, is staying on at Churchill's villa.

Jet Interceptor Makes Maiden Flight At Malton

CF-105 Arrow Airborne At Cost of $200,000,000

TORONTO (CP) — A huge white jet interceptor which could become Canada's chief defence weapon against enemy attack darted through blue skies over nearby Malton airport today on its maiden flight.

The CF-105 Arrow, costliest aircraft ever built in Canada, took off at 9:53 a.m. EST with a thunderous roar that shook buildings and landed 35 minutes later on schedule.

Veteran test pilot Jan Zurakowski took the delta-winged Arrow to 8,000 feet while two "chase planes" photographed its flight characteristics.

Hundreds of people lined roads around the airport to watch the flight. Many were workers from the nearby Avro Aircraft Limited plant where the Arrow was designed and built in three years at a cost of $200,000,000.

Although the Arrow has been planned for speeds up to 1,200 miles an hour it did not try for its maximum in today's tests. Zurakowski, Polish-born Second World War pilot who spent 18 months preparing for the flight, was under instructions to keep the Arrow under 400 miles an hour.

For its first flight the Arrow was powered by twin J-75 jet engines produced in the United States. Later they will be replaced by new Iroquois engines developed by Avro's sister company, Orenda Engines Limited.

Avro engineers developed the Arrow as an interceptor capable of stopping the most modern bombers. They say its operational ceiling will be 60,000 feet. It will be armed with rockets.

Today's flight relieved months of tension for Avro designers and engineers. The Arrow snapped a hydraulic line Saturday minutes before it was scheduled to take off. It took most of Monday to repair and inspect the plane.

New West Indies Federation Holds First Election

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP)—The new West Indies federation held its first federal elections today, with about half its 3,000,000 people eligible to vote for 45 representatives.

The new House of Representatives and an appointed 19-member Senate will be opened April 22 by Princess Margaret. The federation is scheduled to receive full independence from Britain after an indefinite period of parliamentary self-government.

The federation joins up 10 British colonies, including Jamaica, Trinidad, Tobago, Barbados, the Leeward Islands of Antigua, Montserrat, St. Kitts, Nevis and Anguilla, and the Windward Islands of Dominica, Grenada, St. Lucia and St. Vincent.

It was formed Jan. 3 when Lord Hailes became governor-general. He will continue to wield executive authority with advice from a council of state. The council will be headed by a prime minister elected by the House of Representatives from its membership.

Election battle lines were drawn roughly between the Federals, a grouping of Labor parties in each of the colonies, and the Democrats, with affiliates in only six colonies.

Witnesses Tell Of Threats Made In Union Drive

TORONTO (CP) — Witnesses appearing before a royal commission investigating organizing methods used by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters' (CLC) during a sand and gravel pit strike in 1956, have told stories of threats, violence and sabotage which forced them into the union.

Six truck drivers Monday told the commission, set up as the result of allegations made before the Ontario legislature's select committee on labor relations Jan. 30, that they were scared into joining the union and going on strike.

John Robert Watson of nearby Newmarket and John Williams and Ronald Connor, both of nearby Stouffville, said they were approached by men who threatened them with personal violence or damage" to their trucks and Lorne Dickinson testified his truck was sabotaged. Ray Toffelmire of Toronto and Donald Anderson of Stouffville gave similar testimony.

John Williams said he paid $5 to join the union and agreed to pay another $20 after Edwin C. (Ted) Brown, a trucker, "told me to sign up or else they would fix it so we couldn't work. He didn't say how."

DOESN'T REMEMBER

Asked by Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, head of the commission, if he was afraid to tell the truth, Mr. Williams replied: "No, I just don't remember."

Mr. Watson, whose brief to the select committee led to the inquiry, said he joined the union Oct. 29, 1956, after "a gang of 35 or 40 men" stopped him on a concession road while he was hauling from a pit owned by Stouffville Sand and Gravel Company at Hope, and told him "to take my load back to the pit and dump it" or he "wouldn't get home that night."

Mr. Williams said he did not want to join but "I was scared. You get a mob like that and anyone would be scared." When he returned to work before the strike ended, his truck radiator was punctured and its brake lines cut.

Teacher Beaten By Negro Youths

NEW YORK (AP) — A small group of Negro youths invaded an outdoor class of private school pupils Monday and began terrorizing them. A teach who intervened was beaten with his own baseball bat and his pockets rifled.

Police said the five or six attackers fled with $16 after attacking the teacher, Arthur Santos, 28, who needed eight stitches to close a scalp wound and five stitches in a torn lip.

Santos said the youths took his empty wallet and the $16 in his pockets.

Santos and his pupils, ranging in age from nine to 15 years, are white.

Navy Spent 73 Million to Modernize 21 Frigates Which Cost $42 Million

OTTAWA (CP) — The navy has spent $73,500,000 to modernize 21 frigates which originally cost $42,000,000, it is learned authoritatively.

The modernization program was completed several weeks ago. Eleven of the frigates are in commission. Five are in the reserve fleet, two are undergoing refit and three are on loan to the Norwegian Navy.

The frigates were purchased at about $2,000,000 apiece during the Second World War when the navy, at it peak strength in late 1944, had 70 of them in commission.

Equipment and other costs have risen so sharply since the war that modernization of a single frigate cost approximately $3,500,000. The renovation program has been going on for the last seven years.

Main renovation in the frigates was to equip them with new triple-barrelled anti-submarine mortars and the associated detection gear. The mortars are fired automatically by the tracking devices.

The original bridge structure of the frigates was completely removed and rebuilt in aluminum, providing space for an operations room and action control radar rooms.

The forecastle deck was extended to the stern, providing space for a galley, messing for the ship's company, an anti-submarine mortar position and mortar bomb magazines, a laundry and storerooms. Bunks and new kit lockers were fitted throughout and all-metal furniture installed.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

PLENTY OF SNOW STILL IN NORTH

Absence of snow and the appearance of open water in the Bay of Quinte and in the rivers and creeks has given a spring-like appearance to the countryside in the immediate Belleville district.

But further north about the only indication that spring is on the way is the appearance of a few crows.

North of No. 7 highway the snow still lies evenly on the open fields and days of sun and warmer weather will be necessary before the annual spring thaw is on.

TWO GRASS FIRES GIVE FIREMEN RUN

Two grass fires and a complaint of bonfires being set ushered in spring officially for city firemen on Monday.

One of the grass blazes was on Herchimer Ave. near the Graham Dried Food Plant and the other was along the C.P.R. right-of-way at the rear of 199 West Dundas Street. Firemen were also called to MacDonald Ave. where children were said setting bonfires.

Also during the afternoon firemen were called to a residence on the 2nd concession of Thurlow for an over-heated stove.

Police Step up Highway Checks

With the coming of spring provincial police are stepping up their highway checks, the monthly highways satistical report shows.

In the No. 9 O.P.P. district taking in the counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac a total of 2,507 highway checks were made during February. Two hundred and fifty four charges were preferred, including 157 for speeding and 15 for careless driving.

In the district there were 129 accidents reported with 48 persons injured and two persons killed.

New Phone Book Here Next Week

Thousands of Belleville residents will find their names in print in a new book which will come to them through the mail next week.

The book, a perennial favorite, is the 1958 issue of the telephone directory for Belleville, Trenton and the surrounding territory, and telephone subscribers are advised by G. W. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager for this region, to start using it as soon as it reaches their homes, stores and offices.

"There are hundreds of new and changed listings in this 1958 issue, and the best way to avoid confusion and unnecessary calls to Information is to discard the 1957 book as soon as the new one arrives," the manager stated today.

One particularly significant change is the inclusion in the new book of the names, addresses and telephone numbers of customers served by the Brighton exchange. Previously, these were listed in the Oshawa - Cobourg directory, but beginning April 1, the exchange will come under the supervision of the manager for Trenton and vacinity.

Initial distribution of this year's telephone "who's who" will total 31,560 copies in the area covered by the new book. This is an increase of some 2,000 copies over last year's total. In Belleville alone, there will be an initial distribution of 13,500 copies, or 600 more than last year.

Jack Yanover New President Of Rotary Club

The annual election of officers of the Belleville Rotary club for the 1958-59 season was held Monday at the regular meeting of the club.

At the helm is the new president, Jack Yanover. He succeeds past president Joe Demeza. Other officers include, vice-president, Fred Wilson, secretary, Don MacKinnon, and treasurer, Frank Ruggles. New directors are Harold Parker and Bill Hurst.

The election was under the direction of Perc McGuire, while new president, Jack Yanover, presided over the general meeting in the absence of Joe Demeza.

A minute of silence was observed in honor of former Rotarian and past-president, Fred H. Deacon, who died Tuesday in Miami Florida. Mr. Deacon was president of Belleville Rotary club for the 1949-50 Rotary year.

The club was addressed by Rev. Dr. Arthur Packman, pastor of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling. Dr. Packman spoke on the topic, "The Problem of Industrial Relations."

The speaker traced this problem, which is "really the problem of human relations," back to the 15th century with the collapse of the mediaeval Guilds, the forerunners of today's trade unions.

Dr. Packman stated there is a continuing crisis going on in the western world which few people believe to be serious — this is the increasing amount of power being acquired by trade unions and the danger this power will come under Communist control.

"The result, as I see it is this: the ultimate control of human life and the means of organizing it is passing out of the hands of its traditional representatives and into the hands of technicians and specialists who are themselves to be controlled by politicians, party bosses, or secret police," he said.

FAIL TO SEE DANGER

He warned that people fail to see the inherent danger in our economic system — the danger that the economic bosses of today may become the political bosses of the future; or in accordance with Marxist philosophy, "the economically unfree may become the State itself and so establish a dictatorship over all other classes."

Dr. Packman feels the real danger today is in the bid for power among Communists and non-communists in the trade unions.

He warned politicians of today are making a mistake in failing to realize Communists are seeking economic, rather than political power. "They want power over and within unions," he said.

This is in accordance with Marxist theory which states the economic order is the basis of the social order and the legal and political structure of society, he explained.

"Communists can be beaten in industry only by use of their own methods," he stated. "There must be developed within the unions a hard core of responsible men and women, determined and prepared to operate over a period of years as a challenge to this small Communist minority."

The speaker also advocated as little outside government interference as possible in industrial disputes, and urged management to abolish its restrictive practices.

Dr. Packman, a native of Kent, England, came to Canada in 1919. He served in both the first and second world wars.

Following World War II he lectured on psychology at the London Union of British Psychologists, and is a fellow of the British Society of Psychologists.

While living in London, he built the Deptford Social Service Centre to aid the unemployed and their families, and ran it for four years under the direction of the London County Council.

The speaker was introduced by Court Miller and thanked by O. A. "Pink" Pinkston. He was presented with a token of the club's appreciation by vice-president Jack Yanover.

ELMER'S THEATRE PARTY

Pictured above are the winners of the first ten "Elmer Safety Campaign" matinees prizes being given weekly at the Belle Theatre. The matinees will be held every Saturday for the next nine weeks when ten lucky kiddies will be the recipients of valuable awards. Front row from left to right are: Keith Robertson, Don Hawley, Doreen Hubble, John Kaiser and Linda Hedger. Back row left to right: Marlene Joslyn, Jo Anne Bowers, Douglas Elliott, Wayne Dawkins, Ruth Francis, Donald Weed and Sharon Lott.

Elmer The Safety Elephant Symbol Of Campaign by Belle Theatre Here

"Elmer" the safety elephant who never forgets, is making his influence felt in the city.

The symbol of child safety is starting a campaign here, and his pennants will probably flutter from public school flagstaffs in the near future.

Inaugurating the campaign is Mr. George Forhan of the Belle Theatre who began a ten-week period of child safety activity last Saturday.

The slogan of the campaign is that brought up by a son of Police Chief Walter Probert: "Look up the street, and down the street, before you go across the street."

Ten special matinées are being offered by Mr. Forhan in his drive for child interest in the safety campaign. These were started last Saturday Handsome prizes are given away to ten of the children at each show.

Each child is presented with a card as he or she enters the theatre and each show attended is marked with a punch-hole. After the fifth show the child is asked the five important safety questions printed on the card and, if he or she can answer, is presented with a crest.

Elmer the Safety Elephant was born in Canada and because elephants never forget he was created the symbol to prevent children from forgetting their safety rules.

Elmer's campaigns have been tremendously successful in other cities. As long as children remember his rules, accident rates keep dropping.

The rules are: Look both ways before you cross the street; keep out from between parked cars; ride your bike safely and obey all signs and signals; play your games in a safe place away from the street, and walk . . . don't run . . . when you leave the curb.

Mr. Forhan inaugurated Elmer's safety campaign because he is intensely interested in the welfare of children. The prizes awarded at the matinees are valuable ones and will be greatly appreciated by their youthful winners.

The second "safety matinee" of the series of ten will be presented on Saturday next, commencing at 12.30 p.m. There are prizes and fun for all.

Police Blotter

A local hockey fan who parked his car at the rear of the Big-A was a bit worried last night when after the hockey game he found his car missing.

Apparently a joyrider was responsible for the disappearance of the auto as police later found it on James Street. The car was owned by Llye Thompson, 142 Bridge Street West.

Otherwise police reported a quiet night with only routine matters coming to the attention of the deparment. Provincial police also reported a quiet night watch.

Campaign Lively In Diefenbaker Constituency

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) The campaign for the March 31 federal election is lively in Prince Albert constituency despite the absence of its leading character—Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The prime minister, who won the seat with a margin of 6,500 votes in the June 10, 1957 election, has spent most of his time seeking votes elsewhere in Canada. While he's been away the Liberal and CCF candidates have been waging an intensive battle to unseat him.

Mr. Diefenbaker has held the Prince Albert seat for the Progressive Conservatives since 1953, having represented Lake Centre from 1942 until the redistribution of 1952.

He is opposed by two candidates—Mrs. Thora Wiggens CCF, and Liberal Ernie Unruh.

Mrs. Wiggens, a 41-year-old farmer's wife from nearby Spruce Home, and Mr. Unruh, 31, are travelling extensively through one of Canada's largest constituencies in search of votes.

SPENT THREE DAYS

Mr. Diefenbaker, so far has spent only three days in his constituency, in mid-February.

Russia Calls Latest U.S. Note Disappointing

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia says the latest United States note on a summit conference "cannot but disappoint everyone who regards the summit talks as a dependable means of relaxing international tensions and terminating the cold war."

In a reply to the American note, the Soviet government says the U.S. "is actually trying to take the entire problem of the summit conference back to the starting point."

The Russian aide memoire says Russia could not agree "with the allegation" in the American note that the Soviet government "claims the right to veto in determining the range of issues for summit discussion as well as special privileges and powers at the conference itself."

ORGANIZATION ONLY

The note adds any preliminary foreign ministers' conference should discuss only the organizational side of the summit meeting. "A discussion of the questions advanced . . . should be left to the summit meeting. . . ."

Russia believes that "settlement of the questions it has proposed for summit discussion would be in complete accord with the desires of the peoples and would be an important start in radically changing the international situation and terminating the cold war."

It agrees that it would be difficult for any summit conference to "reach agreement on all pressing international problems."

GERMAN QUESTION OFF

One thing Russia could not discuss was the reunification of Germany "because this matter is entirely within the competence of the two German states themselves." Nor would she discuss the problem of the situation in Eastern Europe.

FILES SUIT

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Leon Azoulay has filed a Superior Court action to recover $12,832 in cash and government bonds she claims was lost when a branch of the Bank of Montreal was looted last January. The action says the cash and bonds were in a rented safety-deposit box and alleges the management had not carried out an obligation to "keep the box and contents safely."

Lake Hazen May Become Mecca Of Rich Anglers

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Lake Hazen, 450 miles from the North Pole, may one day become a mecca for wealthy hunters and anglers.

A mass of facts concerning weather and wildlife in the Lake Hazen area of northern Ellesmere Island is contained in the preliminary report of an eight-man Canadian scientific expedition which spent 3½ months there last year.

The expedition was carried out in conjunction with the International Geophysical Year and was a continuation of two years' previous research on the Ellesmere ice shelf. Four men remained at Lake Hazen throughout the winter and will be joined next month by 17 more Canadian scientists who will make further observations.

Object of the expedition was not, of course, to collect information which might interest tourists.

SCENERY OUTSTANDING

But in their reports some of the scientists — glaciologists, meteorologists, geologists and geophysicists — can hardly contain themselves in describing the beauties of northern Ellesmere Island, Canada's most northerly land mass.

Geologist R. E. Deane of Toronto begins his report: "The scenery and climate at Lake Hazen in summer are outstanding."

Between April and August, total rainfall was only 1½ inches and only intermittent cloudiness marred an "otherwise perfect climate." There was an almost complete lack of wind. Lowest temperature recorded in the period was five degrees below zero May 2 and the maximum was 62 above July 3.

The four - man team now at Lake Hazen has reported there was rain one day in January and that the lowest temperature recorded in the month was 45 below. However, winter temperatures range down to 70 below normally.

ARCTIC POPPIES

Dr. Geoffrey Hattersley-Smith, Defence Research Board glaciologist and leader of the expedition reports that he found Arctic poppies at 5,000 feet above sea level.

There was an abundance of wildlife, including muskox, wolf, fox, hare, lemming, weasel, snow goose, owl, eider duck, ptarmigan tern, red-throated loon—and mosquitoes.

Hattersley-Smith, who has also worked in the Antarctic, reports that a dozen fish up to 18 inches long were caught in the lake, which became completely free of ice in early August. Hundreds of fish six to 12 inches long could be seen feeding at the surface at the mouths of small streams.

Hattersley-Smith indicates that the climate may be turning more temperate because glaciers are slowly retreating.

BRITAIN'S FIRST

LONDON (Reuters) — Work was begun Monday on the final 70-mile stretch of Britain's first big super-highway, a 100-mile, four - lane thoroughfare between London and Birmingham.

Saud's Brother, Pro-Egyptian, Gets Wide Power

CAIRO (CP)—The brother of King Saud of Saudi Arabia appears to be emerging as a power in that absolute monarchy, with indications that his influence may bring it and Egypt closer together.

Cairo press reports Monday said King Saud has turned over to pro-Egyptian Crown Prince Feisal full control of the oil-rich Middle East kingdom's foreign, financial and internal affairs, although the monarch intends to remain as head of state.

The Saudi Arabian delegation at the United Nations confirmed the transfer of power and said King Saud intends to remain as head of state.

FEISAL STRONG MAN

Egyptian reports said Feisal presented his elder brother with a list of strong demands which, if authentic, might indicate his emergence as a strong man. Saud has been feuding recently with Egypt's President Nasser, head of the new United Arab Republic, and Feisal's known pro-Egyptian leanings give rise to speculation that Saudi Arabia now may draw closer to the Nasser group.

At the least, say Cairo observers, Feisal's increased influence seems to guarantee that Saudi Arabia will not join the rival Arab union of Iraq and Jordan. At the most, from the Egyptian point of view, Feisal's influence could give Nasser more strength in connection with the flow of Middle East oil to Europe.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) —The stock market was higher on index today in heavier morning trading.

Prices in most sections opened strong but an hour later the majority of winners had moved down from their highs. Coppers were easier as profit-taking appeared following three straight sessions of advancing prices.

Industrials were a half point higher on index but changes were narrow and losses held an edge over gains. Golds and western oils each added less than a quarter of a point and base metals lost as much in the other sections.

The 11 a.m. volume of 533,000 shares was the heaviest in more than two weeks as low-priced speculative mines turned over fairly heavy volumes. Monday's sales at the same time were 431,000 shares.

Opemiska climbed 10 cents to a new high of $7.90 in the first few minutes but later retreated to $7.55 as investors cashed in for profits.

Senior base metals had a majority of issues on the downside. Steep Rock lost 40 cents at $9.60 and International Nickel was off ½ point to 74¼. Falconbridge and Noranda added minor fractions.

Many Stations Selling Gas at Reduced Prices

TRENTON — Although some service station operators in town said the gasoline price war has ended many of the places of business still have the signs up displaying the reduced price.

In a tour around the town and outskirts it was revealed that most of the stations were selling gasoline for 39.9 cents per gallon, some had the price back up to the normal 43.9 cents and one was selling for as low as 34.9 cents.

The lowest, at 34.9 cents, was being sold by the Walter Richards Imperial station on the east side of Trenton. His station was lined with cars all day yesterday and up until his tanks ran dry. Then he was forced to close down for the evening.

However, most service station operators are sitting tight with their prices still at 39.9 cents and others will have to await word from their respective companies before they can make any change in price.

One operator questioned about the price war last night seemed to have little interest in what was going on around him. All he knew was his price had been set at 39.9 cents and he had been unaware the next service station to him — about 200 feet away — had put the price back up to 43.9 cents.

It was reported today that a meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward Garage Operators Association is scheduled for tonight to consider the entire problem.

The entire price war was mostly conducted by service stations situated on the outskirts of Trenton, with most town stations sitting firm on regular prices.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

TRENTON — The committee meetings held by members of the School Board in the North Trenton School last night brought in their budget which was presented to the town council today. Although no figures were released members indicated they will be asking considerably less money this year than they did last. The board will also hold a special meeting tomorrow night to consider the tenders for the new addition to the Trenton High School.

COUNCIL TO MEET

Town council will hold a meeting, in camera tomorrow afternoon to draw up the new budget for the year and to strike a tax rate for the coming year. It is expected the meeting, which will begin in the early afternoon, may continue on into the night. Several issues are expected to be decided and among them could be the proposed police station, fire halls, aerial ladder truck and various other costly expenditures.

ICE GONE

Were it not for the abutments on the bridges across the Trent River it would be free of ice. During the last few days of warmer weather the ice has been fast to go. However, some has caught and backed up on the abutments of the bridges. Two fishing shanties which were gradually floating out into the bay disappeared over the night as the ice floes they were on either melted or tipped.

WRESTLING MAY COME

Recreation officials at No. 6 Repair Depot of the RCAF are making tentative plans to bring in a wrestling match in the near future. It is expected the card will consist of midgets along with two or three bouts of heavyweights. It will be staged in the 6 R.D. drill hall when, and if, negotiations are completed.

TRUMAN TO VISIT

CORNWALL (CP) — Harry S. Truman, former United States president, is to visit here April 26 during an inspection tour of the St. Lawrence seaway and power projects, it was announced Monday.

Firemen Called To First Grass Fire of Season

TRENTON — Local firemen were called out yesterday to the area of the Central Bridge Company to fight a grass fire which could be considered the first of the season.

The firemen however had fought one in January of this year during a spell when there was no snow on the ground, but with the frost in the ground then it had not been difficult to control.

The fire yesterday was considered more on the serious nature but did not at any time endanger any property in the form of buildings. Some heavy timber piled near the plant's fence did cause some worry and was the main reason the firemen were called to the scene.

They reported about 30 men including workers from the plant assisted in putting the fire out by using old brooms and shovels.

The fire, believed started by children playing with matches, began at what is known as Bunker's Hill and ran along the line fence of the Company. Firemen used water from their pumper to help quell the fire.

A second call came in yesterday when Allore's lumber yard asked the firemen to spray water on a smouldering sawdust pile which was on their property. It was not dangerous at the time and firemen had the pile dampened in short order.

In the police department there have been no accidents reported for the past two days and with no serious accidents in the past week.

Fire Fund Aided For Extra Care At House Fire

TRENTON — Fire Chief Clarence Orser and his men were rewarded for their extra care in a recent house fire when they received a cheque for $25 and a congratulatory letter from a local citizen.

The cheque and letter came from Mrs. Sutcliffe, mother of Mrs. Charles Kidd, 160 Queen Street, whose home suffered fire and water damage when a blaze broke out in an upstairs bedroom and spread up the rafters into the attic.

In the letter Mrs. Sutcliffe said the money, which will be put into the Firemen's fund, was for "the amazing way in which the fire was controlled" and "for the outstanding way every consideration was given for their property."

The letter also praised the firemen "for the prompt manner in which you and your men had taken care of everything and it has been remarked upon several times since the fire.

During the fire it had been noted, and commented on by many onlookers, how the firemen had taken time to place tarpaulins over the furniture in the downstairs rooms to protect them from the water dripping from the ceiling. This action saved the home owners considerable money in replacing what would have been damaged or ruined furniture.

Khrushchev Pours Wrath On West, U.S. in Particular

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The postman knocked twice, and Nikita Khrushchev gave the world an unforgettable glimpse of an alien mind at work.

In two open letters, forming part of a unique diplomatic exchange, Russia's top man poured wrath on the West in general and the United States in particular. Only in the Soviet Union, he said, is utopia at hand.

The correspondence, published in The New Statesman, arose from a plea addressed to Khrushchev and President Eisenhower by British philosopher Bertrand Russell, urging the "most potent sirs" to renounce nuclear weapons and let the world live in a "noonday brightness of hope."

Khrushchev replied first, vowing Russian good intentions. State Secretary Dulles answered for Eisenhower, putting the U.S. case in black - and - white terms and castigating Russia, which he exhorted to uphold moral law. Wherever communism is in power, he said, it stays only by force.

Mr. K couldn't let that pass. The man whose penchant for cocktail - party pronouncements results in what has been called the "meandering small talk of a convivial goon" reared back and wrote a second letter, a crisp 5,000 words, telling Dulles where to get off.

It is a fascinating document, free from the opaque evasions of conventional diplomacy. It has an earthy, cracker - barrel quality; the style is masculine and marches straight ahead. Posterity—if any—should be grateful for a striking anatomy of the cold war, in whose composition the "missing" British diplomats, Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean, may have had a hand.

British writers view it with a blend of admiration and dismay. Edward Crankshaw, Russian specialist of The Observer, finds in it a "mingling of truth, speciousness, special pleading, mis-statements born of ignorance and conscious lies."

The 9,000 words cover a lot of ground, ranging through the Crusades, the American Civil War, the War of the Roses, the siege of Sebastopol and the Negro problem in the southern U.S. The letter ridicules Dulles' claim that the U.S. never in history sought to spread its creed by arms.

"Enough of appealing to history, Mr. Dulles. Surely you know that the territory of your country was inhabited by numerous brave Indian tribes, valiant hunters and peaceful farmers?

"Where today are the native inhabitants of America? Can you name just one who represents his people in Congress? Can you name just one Indian who has become a millionaire or billionaire?

"And where are these tribes themselves? It is said they have been driven into reservations, and in some amusement parks, by paying a fee, one can see the descendants of these native inhabitants of of North America."

Touching all the bases, Khrushchev also notes that "no festive peal of bells" greeted the Russian revolution in 1917; defends the Russian action in suppressing the Hungarian revolt; and predicts that the spotless Soviets are sure to triumph eventually over the capitalistic, imperialistic West.

The New Statesman, brooding editorially on its Red-letter day, sees Dulles and Khrushchev equally and tragically committed to a world "polarized between good and evil." Both are so sure, both so rigid, both so diametrically opposed, that the greatest danger to a meeting of minds is that they have so much in common.

Yet it sees a glimmer of hope. Neither leader rules out a pilot experiment in disarmament that would leave the military balance unchanged, and in which neither Russia nor the U.S. would be deeply involved. Surely, concludes the magazine, some formula for disengagement in Europe should be negotiable.

That'll Teach Him

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—When city council discussed appointing one of its members to the civil defence committee Monday night, Alderman Ross Dobbin looked around and said "there's only one that isn't here — I move he be appointed."

The absentee was Alderman R. E. Knox, on vacation in Florida.

"That'll teach him," said Alderman Dobbin.

'Loves to Kill,' Bandit Robs Brewers' Store

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A nervious gunman who said he "loved to kill" held up a brewers retail store Monday night and escaped with $300.

The man had a taxi called for him and forced the cab driver to take him to the outskirts of town.

He had walked into the store at closing time, put two of the employees into the store's large refrigerator and told a third to give him the money in the cash drawer. He then asked for a taxi and departed. At the edge of town he fled on foot.

ONE-PARTY "ELECTION"

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Yugoslav citizens gave President Tito's Communist regime a more vigorous nod of approval in one-party elections Sunday than they did five years ago, early returns indicated today. More than 90 per cent of 11,000,000 eligible voters cast ballots.

Workmen Still Probing Debris For Man's Body

PICTON (Special) — Workmen today were still probing the wreckage of the Town and Country Restaurant and Sobies Ladies Wear Store here searching for the body of Danny Evangelatos, 27, Picton restaurant employee who lost his life when fire swept through the restaurant early Sunday morning razing the structure and leaving 12 persons homeless.

The man's body is believed buried beneath tons of brick and other wreckage which fell into the basement of the structure. Rendering the job more difficult is the fact that two or three feet of water is still in the basement.

The fire started shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning as Mr. Evangelatos, and Mrs. William Daoussis, wife of the restaurant owner, were closing the place for the night. An explosion ripped out the front glass and Mrs. Daoussis ran screaming from the building. She suffered burns to her hands and face. She told police that Evangelatos was in the washroom when the fire started.

WHEN DOES THE MUSE VISIT EDITORIAL WRITERS?

We like to believe that among the most interesting articles in any day's issue of The Ontario Intelligencer are the editorials clipped from other newspapers and reprinted on this page.

It may seem strange to take pride in another man's work, but we suspect that this is a foible which we share with many in other occupations. Country doctors, laboring long hours treating patients with chickenpox and strained backs, straighten their tired shoulders and get a lift to their step when they learn that some other doctor, in some distant city, has discovered a new antibiotic or developed some new operative technique. The kindergarten teacher, listening to the drone of ABC's, basks in the reflected glory of a degree conferred on a revered and learned professor. Like them, we feel better whenever we come across an editorial which appears to us to display the spark of genius.

In our case, though, there is a second factor added. To be sure, we had nothing to do with the writing of the original editorial, but at least we were the person who made certain that, to mix a metaphor, it was not born to blush unseen by Belleville readers.

This task of separating the wheat from the chaff is at once one of the most rewarding and most frustrating in the daily routine. In the first place, there are certain rules which must be borne in mind. The clipped editorial does not have to coincide with our own personal beliefs - - indeed in many instances it is assured of an even warmer welcome if it presents a totally different viewpoint - - but generally speaking it must not be at variance with verifiable facts. We would not, for instance, clip an editorial defending Communism, unless it was for the express purpose of showing how Communist propaganda ignores facts. Yet, while we do not hesitate to reprint editorials presenting opinions with which we do not agree, we like to keep the general tone of the page in harmony with the editorial policy of The Ontario Intelligencer itself. We might, for instance, print an editorial giving the socialist viewpoint on politics, in Canada or elsewhere, but we should be careful to make certain that this did not occur frequently enough to give any regular reader the impression that The Ontario Intelligencer was supporting the socialist cause.

These rules, rather than narrowing the field in which an editor's scissors can operate, broaden it to cover many more opinions than those which come off his typewriter.

But the field is sharply narrowed again by a second requirement. The editorial, to justify reproduction, must be interesting. Here a difficulty arises. It is not enough that it interest the person clipping it, but it must be of the type that the man wielding the scissors believes would interest other people - - not all of the people that read this page but a goodly number of them. This means that sometimes there are clipped editorials which do not interest the editor at all. The aim is to eliminate the personal touch from the selection. This, of course, is an impossibility. Personalities are revealed almost as much by what we think will interest other people as by what interests us, ourselves. And then, of course, there are occasions when an editorial is clipped not so much in the belief that it will interest many readers as in the conviction that it ought to do so.

It is in the task of discovering editorials and articles which are interesting that we have recently run into a strange phenomenon. On a Monday there are the editorial pages from two days' papers to be scanned. When the clip is heavy, it is not surprising. But lately it has been light. And later in the week, with fewer pages to be read, a multitude of editorials worthy of reprinting have been discovered.

Our first reaction was to wonder whether this revealed anything about the visitations of the muse to other editorial offices throughout the country. The papers clipped on Monday were those published Friday and Saturday. Their editorials were probably written towards the end of the week. Many of them were dull. Did it follow that editorials written in The Ontario Intelligencer office at the same time of the week were also dull? We suspected that it did. It was all very reasonable. Inspiration came easiest after a weekend's rest.

Then we realized that many of the articles we clip in mid-week had themselves been clipped and reprinted in the paper in which we read them. There was certainly no guarantee that they were the product of end-of-the-week writing. The explanation as to why the mid-week clip was more interesting than the Monday clip was more likely to lie in the mood of the man with the scissors than the man at the typewriter. Apparently by mid-week he had recovered from the ennui born of a weekend away from the office. He was in better shape, more prepared to be interested, as the week drew towards its close.

It is all very confusing. If any reader would like to make his own guess as to the true cause for the apparent wide variation in the quality of editorials on different days of the week, we might assist him by stating that this editorial was written on a Thursday, a day the clip seemed of amazingly high calibre.

Any comments?

East, West--Twain Meet

By Daniel Behrman in Unesco Features

East and West have been taking a new look at each other over a conference table at Unesco House in Paris. They have been studying the ideas that each has held off the other, noting that the two pictures have often been incomplete, sometimes out of focus to the point of distortion; and drawing the conclusion that both must make an effort to know each other better.

This confrontation of ideas of Orient and Occident took place at the recent meeting of the 21 members of the international committee which is advising on the carrying out of Unesco's "major project" to build better mutual appreciation of the cultures of East and West.

The men around the table came from Argentina, Ceylon, Egypt, France, the Federal Republic of Germany, India, Indonesia, Iran, Italy, Japan, Lebanon, Mexico, Morocco, the Netherlands, Pakistan, Poland, Spain, the United Kingdom, the United States, the USSR and Viet-Nam.

Their discussions were in themselves an example of how misunderstandings between East and West can be dissipated. Platitudes and hackneyed phrases were avoided. Instead, there was a frank exchange of views between men who, for the most part, have spent lifetimes of scholarship in exploring the history and culture of other civilizations.

• •

East and West alike, for example, were taken to task by Mr. Charles D. Ammoun, Lebanon's permanent delegate to Unesco, who pleaded for a new viewpoint in their relations with each other — a viewpoint in which the West should forget the past and the East should remember it.

Turning to the West, he stated:

One must forget that one has occupied a country, that one was forced to govern it by force, that one humiliated it through discrimination, that one swallowed up its culture and its language, and that this country is emerging from these pages of history still bruised in its flesh, in its dignity and in its pride.

"There is no reconquest other than cultural reconquest. What must be forgotten above all is the idea of a superior race and all those pink, green and blue patches on the atlases and maps of yesterday — illustrations of relations between lords and serfs or even slaves."

Then Mr. Ammoun turned to the East:

"We ask the West to forget. We ask the East to remember. We ask it to remember all the benefits of hygiene, science and education; the benefits of roads, harbors, hospitals and modern technology. We also ask it to remember the dedication of educators, doctors and missionaries—or even of military men who were all three at once. Above all, we must not forget the language, for it is through the language that we have made contact with the new century Personally, I cannot use the term 'foreign influence' to speak of a language which has brought us into contact with new and magnificent branches of learning and has enabled us to assimilate the heritage of mankind and to blend it with our own."

Mr. Ammoun's statement opened a discussion of the ideas which the Orient and Occident have formed of each other throughout history. Here are some of the other viewpoints of East and West which were heard at this meeting.

"Unesco should draw up a list of ready-made phrases used in the East and in the West so that these prejudices may be combatted the world over. At present, Western history textbooks continually speak of 'Christian charity' and 'Oriental despotism' to associate the West with justice and progress and the East with backwardness and superstition. In the same way, the textbooks of the East talk of 'Western materialism'." —Mr. K. M. Panikkar, Indian Ambassador to France.

"We want the Egyptian general public to form a new idea of the European West. We want the Egyptians to know the West not only of the colonizers, but also the West of the great scientists, scholars and laboratory research workers. Even if I am aware of what such-and-such a country may have done to my own, this does not prevent me from loving its great writers, its great artists and its philosophers who are the true representatives of its people." — Dr. Taha Hussein, former Egyptian Minister of Education and president of the Cultural Commission of the Arab League.

"The sense of nationality, which was the glory of the 19th Century, is now degenerating into narrow nationalism with terrible consequences for the world. Public opinion must be made aware of this degeneration". — Professor Francesco Gabrieli of the University of Rome.

• • •

"Many misunderstandings would be cleared up by a generous, poetized interpretation of history. Look at the Iliad: when a child reads the Iliad, he has a better impression of the Trojans than of the Greeks — yet the Ilaid was written by a Greek". — Professor Emilio Garcia Gomez of the University of Madrid, chairman of the meeting.

"We are now in a period of change . . . We must decide whether it is to be a period of decadence or of rebirth in cultural relationships. We all, of East and of West, have much to learn. We do not wish to see cultural differences disappear—we wish to see the cultures of the world in relation to the common culture." — Mr. Basil Gray, Keeper of Oriental Antiquities at the British Museum.

"We must not make world history better or worse than it is. The differences between East and West exist but they are not permanent. Our main task is to bridge Oriental and Occidental cultures. We must teach that the cultural values of the East are part of the culture of all mankind". — Professor E. M. Zhukov of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences.

"During our struggle for independence, the deplorable aspects of the West were emphasized in Ceylon and its lofty cultural aspects were deliberately lost sight of. Today, we must eradicate this prejudice from the minds of our younger generation". — Dr. A.W.P. Guruge, Assistant Secretary, Ministry of Education, Ceylon.

"We have an asset in the innocence of children. The next generation is an unwritten slate and we must underline the importance of education in carrying out Unesco's major project." — Dr. Paul Judson Braisted, president of The Hazen Foundation in the United States.

Elisseeff, curator of the Musee

"History must be truthful and carried all the way in its studies. Someone once said: 'A man adores the wart on the forehead of his beloved'. History should not hide warts. Colonization is a mechanism of history, not a shameful disease. Today, in our schools, we talk of the Viking invasions of Normandy and of the destruction of Paris, but no French schoolboy thinks of the Scandinavians as barbarians. We too, have been colonized: bearers of culture once came from the region of what is now Syria and the Lebanon to invade Brittany. It was long ago, true, but it could not have been very pleasant." — Mr. Vadime Elisseeff, curator of the Mus ee Cernuschi, Paris.

The spirit of the whole session was summed up by Dr. Luther H. Evans, Director-General of Unesco: 'Around this table — as around few in the world — we have confronted ideas in amity."

THE SLEEPING BABY

Say, was there ever a prettier sight
Than a baby asleep in his bed?
Did ever a picture give more delight
Than a slumbering curly head?
For over his head are his chubby arms
And his plump little legs are bare.
Oh, this is the best of a thousand charms
You think as you see him there.

Then over the crib his mother bends
And marshals the soldiers there,
And tenderly gathers his playtime friends
In a heap, with a mother's care.
Then over the plump little sleeping form
The covers she draws once more,
And tucks them in so that he'll be warm,
And smiles when her task is o'er.

And you, you grizzled and scarred old dad,
You stand at the foot, the while,
And your battered old heart is oh so glad;
I can tell from the way you smile.
The worries and cares of the day all end
In comfort and peace and bliss
As over the little white crib you bend
Your slumbering babe to kiss.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

UNHARNESSED EFFORT

Effort is necessary. First, it is necessary for health, and then it is necessary for results. If you don't start anything you don't finish anything. But a great deal of effort is expended daily that amounts to worse than no effort at all — simply because it is wasted effort — unharnessed effort.

You and the rest of the world are offered time on exactly the same basis. The minute that is offered to the President of the United States contains the same sixty seconds offered to the humblest worker at his bench or on the farm, no matter where. You have but to go to any library to read the story of many a worker who used his sixty seconds so well that later he was called into high estate, and for no reason other than that he fully harnessed and used in the most efficient fashion the seconds that filled each flying minute, when they didn't seem to mean so much.

Before you start a thing be sure that it is worth doing. If it is, do it better than you think anyone else could. And when you discover someone else who has done that job better than you — then go ahead again and improve on what he has done. It is the harnessing of minutes for work, for service, for happiness that counts both for you and for the whole world. None of us knows the full span of his years. It is a good plan to live each minute as though it were your last.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

I have not seen a new United States postage stamp to commemorate what my small grandson aptly calls the "geofizzle" year. But the new Canadian five center recently issued to commemorate that occasion is one more example of the Canadian stamp you have to stare intently at to perceive what its design intends. In this case, it is a microscope posed in front of a terrestrial globe or perhaps a map.

The feeling grows, with succeeding issues of stamps, that there must be philatelists in some way associated with the decision as to the design and colour of our stamps. The last people in the world to have anything to do with our stamps are the philatelists. There are millions of Canadians who know nothing whatever about stamps except that they see them and perhaps handle them every day. This affords an opportunity for instruction or promotion that exceeds all the advertising agencies and media put together, including newspapers, magazines, radio and TV. No philatelists, no experts, no engravers, nobody in any way qualified to design or produce stamps should be on the committee that decides the subject and design of the stamps. All the experts come second. They are told what is wanted, and then go ahead, without intruding on the plan.

And a committee of historians, novelists, stage producers and others conscious of the story, past and present, of Canada, should be the authority to whom to entrust this priceless medium of Canadian promotion.

Who but a philatelist or an engraver wants to look at stamps through a magnifying glass?

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ANTICOAGULANTS MUST BE USED WITH CARE

Blood clots, if they clog a blood vessel, obviously are dangerous. If the artery serving the heart muscle is clogged, a portion of the heart muscle is destroyed and the result is a heart attack. In the brain, if an artery is clogged, the result is a stroke, or apoplexy. (There can, of course, be strokes from other causes, too.) A clot may lodge somewhere in the body. Inflammation of a vein in the leg, for example, can lead to formation of a clot, and we label this "thrombo-phlebitis."

Not too many years ago there was little we could do about any of these things, except give the patient rest and nursing care, and hope that another clot wouldn't form.

Gradually the research laboratories have been giving us more and more information about how blood behaves, what things make it clot, and which things prevent clotting. While we still have a great deal to learn, we now have some concrete things we can employ.

We can administer anticoagulant drugs—drugs which retard the rate at which blood can coagulate, or clot. On the surface, this would seem to be the whole answer — if you can prevent clotting, then no more trouble from blood clots!

It is not quite that simple, however, and I think it may help it patients (or people in general) have an understanding of the factors involved. You can't simply dump unlimited amounts of the drugs into the system to be sure of having enough. Because, clearly, you can go too far in the other direction!

CHECKS AND BALANCES

You dare not tinker too violently or thoughtlessly with the workings of the human system. The body, like the government, is a structure of checks and balances. Too drastic a change in one direction is countered by a reaction the other way.

The anticoagulant drugs are used primarily in cases involving coronary thrombosis (heart attack), clots involving the lung and phlebitis.

If not used in proper quantity, they will not prevent clots. Periodic tests (a test known as the prothrombin time, or clotting time) are a necessity.

At the same time a doctor must not go too far the other way. For instance, if yau are being treated to retard clotting, what happens when you cut your finger with a kitchen knife, or nick yourself while shaving? The cut bleeds for a much longer time before clotting starts and the wound begins to heal.

Internal bleeding from ulceration of the stomach or bowel may occur if the action of the drug is too intense. Nosebleeds may occur too. Vitamin K (which hastens clotting) or blood transfusions may be used to offset the anticoagulant in such cases.

It takes, in a word, care and watchfulness and good judgment, so don't be upset or irked when your doctor seems to be pretty fussy about repeating the necessary tests. He has good reason. He isn't tackling a problem that can be solved by giving a dose of the drug and calling you cured. No, his problem is to keep you at the correct balance, and see that you don't shift too much either way.

The result of this careful sort of work, however, is encouraging, and statistics show the value of judicious use of the anticoagulants, as well as the dangers, and the best way of guarding against trouble.

"Dear Dr. Molner — Is it OK or advisable to drink water that goes through a water softener? — M. B."

It's OK, although in some occasional instances a patient may be on a low-salt diet and find that it is best to avoid softened water because it may have a heavier sodium content. Generally speaking, the only consideration is a matter of which tastes best to you.

Note to P. A.: To be safe, I have been recommending that boric acid not be used directly on the body. Boric acid, in small proportion, is included in some products, and to that small proportion I cannot object.

Count your calories the easy way! To recieve a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Gloves Shine In Darkness

France Actuelle

For drivers who want to be sure to be seen at night, Etablissments Pernet-Ferson is on the market with luminous gloves.

The model for drivers of two-wheeled vehicles is in sheepskin, the outer surface made of a catadioptric material whose finely grained gray top becomes luminous when any light strikes it. The model for those in four-wheel vehicles is made of pescary. Under a headlight's gleam, these gloves on a car driver clearly appear from distances up to about 200 feet; on a bicyclist, they can be seen from over 1300 feet away.

The gloves are useful to the motorist putting out his hand to signal a turn, to warn motorists of bicyclists or anyone making a car repair along the road, to signal a car for help or a lift. The gloves can be washed with ordinary soap and water, and are resistant to rain, gas, grease and alcohol.

TRUSTING OUR FELLOWMEN

We speak a great deal about trusting people.

Examine what you have been in the habit of saying on this subject and you will probably discover that what you mean by trusting people is that we should trust people who are trustworthy.

Yet the whole teachings of the Bible, and particularly the teachings of Jesus, make it plain that we are never really trusting our fellowmen until we are willing to trust the untrustworthy. To trust the worthy is prudence. It is good policy and furthermore something that we enjoy doing. But to trust the unworthy is something else again. If we can do this, then we are really showing ourselves capable of putting spiritual principles into operation. We show ourselves to be children of God only when we trust those who are untrustworthy.

Now all this is said with the full realization that we have to protect ourselves against imposters and frauds. For there are such people in the world, and sometimes within the circle of our everyday lives. Firmness is required when dealing with such people. It is not un-Christian to be firm with them.

But amid such circumstances let us always remember that God's trust of us is trust of the unworthy.

Pearson Says Liberals Reject Personality Cult

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Lester B. Pearson says that unlike the Progressive Conservatives, the Liberals have rejected the "cult of personality, whether expressed in terms of dictatorship or demagoguery."

The Liberals, instead of depending on "oracular fervor and circus crusades," appealed to voters' "essential goodwill and intelligence," the party leader said Monday night in a national television broadcast.

Earlier, at an afternoon reception, he said he didn't want to go "overboard with optimism," but his campaign was rolling into high gear and he was sure of a Liberal victory March 31. Even so, he felt that Liberals ought to take a sober view of the future. These were difficult times and once the Liberals took over the government, the job ahead would not be "an easy one."

Comparing the two major parties in his night address, Mr. Pearson suggested that a political leader had to do more than "rhapsodize about a vision of the future." He had to state clearly his ideas on policy and legislation touching on the lives of all Canadians.

LIBERAL PROGRAM

The Liberals had put before the public an election program based on the alleviation of financial suffering among the lower-income families: on bringing tax-sharing equality and justice to the provinces; on increasing aid for education and expanded social security for all Canadians.

"Behind all of these particular policies is an attitude of mind toward people, toward resources, toward government itself."

And even in an age when governments tend to spread their activities over men's affairs, "it is the Liberal attitude which will draw a line and say—so far and no further can you go without endangering a free society itself."

That, said Mr. Pearson, was the only kind of Liberalism that appealed to him and the only kind he would follow. He didn't want to sound pompous, but he believed politics should be the "noblest of professions." That was the kind of politics he wanted to follow.

"It may be a handicap for me in a smoke-filled room or in the cut and thrust of electoral or parliamentary combat and around the hustings. But only—I think—in the eyes of people who think of politics primarily in terms of passion and partisanship.

"Passion is, I admit, within reason an aid to conviction, and partisanship is perhaps a necessary and legitimate requirement for healthy and vigorous democracy.

"But they must never, surely, obscure the primary aim of politics, the furthering of the national interest and the welfare and freedom of the individual. If they do, democratic parliamentary government even in Canada will before long be replaced by some other and less desirable form of rule."

Diefenbaker Says Trade Picture Is Brightening

By ALAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker says Canada's trade and employment picture is brightening under his Progressive Conservative government.

He emphasized that theme in two speeches last night, one over a national television network and the other to a capacity audience of nearly 2,200 in a downtown theatre.

He said the Liberal "doctrine of gloom and doom" is that Canada's export trade is declining.

"Why don't they tell the Canadian people that Canada's export trade last year was the largest in history?"

In the first two months of this year the trade deficit—excess of imports over exports—had been cut by $100,000,000. Mr. Diefenbaker gave no details. The two-month trade deficit a year ago was $140,200,000.

EXPORTS INCREASE

"We have increased our export trade in the face of great international difficulties and of a business recession in the United States, where there are over 5,000,000 unemployed."

He said Canadian unemployment "arose directly as a result of the tight-money policy of the last government, carried on too long."

"We're over the peak of unemployment as a result of our policies and I can see light ahead—employment reasonable and complete in the next few months."

And he reiterated the statement he has made in almost every election speech:

"As long as I am prime minister of this country, deficit or no deficit no man or woman is going to be allowed to suffer as a result of unemployment."

CUT TAXES

The government had cut taxes and increased social security payments to stimulate the economy, extended by eight weeks the payment period for special winter unemployment insurance benefits, and had launched "the greatest public works program this country has ever seen."

His travels Monday spanned two provinces. He flew here from Fredericton where he shook some 350 hands at a noon-hour reception and spoke briefly to an audience of 600.

Here he made a new promise: To extend the new program of federal aid for provincial northern development roads to include assistance to Maritime provinces' roads to tourist and resort areas.

Coldwell Returns To Active Work In Campaign

TORONTO (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell returned to active campaigning Monday night with charges of deception and betrayal against the Progressive Conservative government.

An estimated 2,500 persons packed Massey Hall nearly to capacity for the last major CCF rally in this area before the March 31 federal election.

They cheered the 69-year-old former school teacher when he said:

"My chest is cleared up. My heart is in good shape."

For Mr. Coldwell, it was his first platform appearance since he returned to Ottawa from Western Canada March 14 for a rest. He suffered a heart attack last year and earlier in this year's campaign was forced to cancel engagements due to a chest ailment.

He spoke forcefully for more than an hour, mainly on unemployment and the government's failure to correct "the nefarious deal" in pipeline speculation which was criticized by the Conservatives while they were in opposition in 1956.

"GREATEST BETRAYAL"

Mr. Coldwell said Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his party "in the last nine months have been guilty of the greatest betrayal of the Canadian people since Confederation."

He cited what he said were huge profits made by a Ralph Harris of Vancouver and Frank McMahon of Calgary and said that Toronto tax-payers would find the profits reflected in inflated gas rates when the pipeline reaches here from the West.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's claim that the government has launched a $1,000,000,000 public works program to beat unemployment is "outright deception to achieve a political end."

He said "The total expected increase in capital expenditures by the federal government and the provincial governments together is less than 10 per cent of what Mr. Diefenbaker has implied is the new federal public works program."

Madoc Blues Nip Millionaires 3-1 To Win Int. C Group Title, Trophy

MARMORA (Special)—Madoc Blue-and-Whites roared back from a 1-0 first period deficit to defeat Marmora Millionaires 3-1 here last night and capture their OHA intermediate "C" group championship.

Madoc took the series and the Rutherford trophy four games to two. They now advance into the OHA provincial intermediate "C" playdowns and will meet either Minden or Huntsville in the opening round.

Reeve Fred Rutherford, of Campbellford, presented the Rutherford trophy to Madoc after the game. Reeve Rutherford donated the trophy recently for annual competition to this group winner.

The home town Millionaires took a 1-0 lead in the opening stanza on a disputed goal by R. Darrah at the 14.05 mark. 1200 fans watched as Madoc battled back and finally knotted the score at 5.23 of the second period on a goal by Harry Brown.

Bob Taylor, Madoc's scoring ace, fired home the winning goal at 11.39 of the second on a passing play with Harry Brown and "Shaker" Baker.

Marmora battled grimly to tie the score all through the third beat but they could not beat Bob Beare in the Madoc nets. Finally Marmora goalie Al Killian was lifted in favor of an extra forward in the dying minutes of the game. But the move backfired and "Nobber" Day clinched the Madoc victory with his club's third goal into the open net with just five seconds left to play.

Referees Art Casterton and Stan Scrutton, both of Kingston, handed out eight minor penalties, each club drawing four. Five of the sentences came in the second period.

Harry Brown with a goal and assist topped the Madoc scorers, while Bob Taylor and "Nobber" Day also scored. Palmer, Baker and Semark earned single assists. R. Darrah tallied Marmora's goal on a solo effort.

Bantams Lose To Stouffville; By 3-2 Score

CAMPBELLFORD—A fourth game is necessary in the Eastern Ontario semi-final round in bantam OMHA competition between Campbellford and Stouffville, after Campbellford dropped a hard-fought game to the Stouffville boys by the score of 3 to 2 in the Trenton arena on Friday night.

Campbellford was leading 2-1 in the third period, played before a crowd of more than 500, but the visitors slapped in two fast goals to win the game.

Lack of ice in the Campbellford arena made it necessary for the local boys to play their home games in Trenton. The first game in Stouffville ended in a 4-4 tie. Campbellford won the second game in Trenton 2-1 and lost on Friday 3-2, again creating a tie in the goals-to-count round. The next game will be played in Stouffville on Monday night.

Kerr and Wilks were the marksmen for Campbellford while Hendricks, Forsythe and Hamilton scored for the visitors.

Wedding

CUCULUZZI — FOX

Holy Rosary Church, Belleville, was the setting recently for a late winter wedding when Shirley Veronica Fox, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Fox, became the bride of Lawrence Joseph Cuculuzzi, of Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cuculuzzi. The Reverend Michael Simson officiated before a background of red and white carnations, interspersed with ferns.

Mrs. William Grant presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Harold Gaffney, who sang, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," "Ave Maria" and "Mother, at Your Feet Is Kneeling".

The radiant bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Kenneth J. Fox, was charmingly attired in a bridal gown of white net and lace over satin, featuring a fitted bodice of satin with Chantilly lace bolero jacket having a round neckline and long, sheathlike sleeves "V"-pointed over the wrists. She wore a matching lace bandeau dotted with seed pearls, with elbow-length veil of fine nylon net, and carried a bouquet of red Talisman roses.

Mrs. Leo Finnegan, of Point Anne, as matron of honor; Mrs. Robert Ward, of Scarboro, and Miss Adelaide Cuculuzzi, of Montreal, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids, were all gowned in red velvet dresses, with white feathered headdresses, red shoes, and carried bouquets of red and white carnations.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Wayne Fox, of Belleville, while Mr. Gerald Giltnan, of Montreal, and Mr. Carl Reid, of Trenton, ushered the guests.

The reception and wedding breakfast was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake.

The bride's mother received, wearing blue lace with matching blue hat, and corsage of pink rosebuds. She was assisted by the bridegroom's aunt, who was gowned in black with black and white hat, and pink rosebud corsage.

Following the breakfast and reception, the happy couple left for Kingston, the bride travelling in dusty rose with matching hat and gloves and airforce blue top coat.

Guests were present from Montreal, Trenton, Scarboro, Sarnia, Campbellford, Oakville, Kingston, and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained by Mrs. W. Foley and Mrs. Shaughnessy, to a pantry shower; by Mrs. J. Howe to a cup and saucer shower; by the office girls of the Stephens - Adamson Company; at a miscellaneous shower by Miss Wilma Graham and Miss Frances Thompson as co-hostesses, and at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Leo Finnegan.

Mr. and Mrs. Cuculuzzi are residing at 132 George St., Belleville.

St. Julien Chapter Holds Dessert Bridge

Last evening a most successful "Dessert Bridge" was held in the Odd Fellows hall, Front Street, under the auspices of the St. Julien Chapter of I.O.D.E. with approximately 150 in attendance.

The two tables of tempting desserts were attractively arranged and centred with lovely spring flowers; that of the upper tea room was composed of rose-tinted tulips, mauve sweetpeas, carnations, and sprays of asparagus fern, while that of the lower tea room was of red and white carnations in a blue container, emblematic colors of the chapter. Tall candles of red and white in crystal holders added a colorful complement, while yellow candes in silver holders enhanced the springlike theme of that of the former.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. L. B. Fonger and Mrs. G. Vince, while in control of traffic were Mrs. K. Putnam and Mrs. E. Rutherford, who guided the guests to the tables of delicious desserts consisting of everything one had missed in childhood when told to "eat the vegetables first."

Mrs. H. Thompson, Mrs. C. C. French; Mrs. R. M. Patterson and Mrs. F. A. Hitchon were in charge of the food, while Mesdames R. Fonger, E. Rutherford, G. Watkin, H. McKay, J. L. Lambert, E. Sandercock, D. L. Storey and Miss M. Sherman were busily engaged in serving.

In charge of the bridge were Mesdames K. Putnam, L. Irvine, M. Sherman, L. B. Fonger, G. Vince and E. Rutherford, and of the euchre, Mesdames F. E. Roluf and J. Parrott, while the telephone contact committee consisted of Mrs. F. Marchand, Mrs. D. L. Storey, Mrs. N. Pinder and Mrs. F. E. Roluf.

Mrs. W. Gilbert and Mrs. G. Watkin convened the tickets.

Appreciation is extended to the convener, Mrs. K. M. Putnam, and to Mrs. H. McKay for a delightful evening and the pretty decorative effect of the tables.

The prize winners were as follows: bridge high, Mrs. G. Wright and Mrs. F. Cotton; lucky, Mrs. Lillian Hinchey; low, Mrs. C. French. Euchre, high, Mrs. J. Browning; low hand, Mrs. R. Fonger; door prize, Mrs. Linton Read; hidden prize, Miss Marjory Sherman. The draw went to Mrs. R. H. Wray.

Bay of Quinte Full Executive W.M.S. Meets in Smiths Falls

The full executive meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada, was held in Trinity United Church, Smiths Falls, Ontario, on March 18th and 19th. It was attended by 33 members, representing the seven Presbyterials of Oshawa, Cobourg, Peterborough, Lindsay, Belleville, Kingston and Renfrew.

A warm welcome was extended to them at the supper hour by Dr. Pue-Gilchrist, pastor; Mrs. W. McGrath, W.M.S. president, and Mrs. H. M. Parsons, W.A. president, with a response by Mrs. G. H. Hewitt, Peterborough.

Mrs. H. Langley introduced several new books on devotional topics and on Japan. She had a fine display of books in the church on missionary work for auxiliaries, C.G.I.T., Explorers and Mission Bands.

The Canadian Girls in Training of Trinity United Church conducted a fine worship service with the theme, "What Doth the Lord Require of Us?" They also formed a fine choir of 40 voices, singing the hymn "He Lives."

The Rev. Hilda Johnson, B.A., B.D., Th.M., a missionary on furlough from Central India, was introduced by Mrs. Ronald Davis of Peterborough, secretary for Mission Circles of the Conference branch. Miss Johnson was one of the first women to be ordained in the United Church of Canada. Her work is educational and evangelistic in Indore, Central India.

In her talk at the evening session, she gave a resume of the missionary work of the church of Canada in India, which began some 80 years ago. In the beginning missionaries had many difficulties to contend with, such as language and even the opposition of the British government at one time. Their first achievement was the setting up of a printing press, then they established schools, medical centres and churches. By 1897 a firm foundation had been laid for Christianity in Central India. During the famine around 1900, the mission schools became places of refuge as well as sources of food for many children. Today their children and grandchildren are the leaders of the people. By 1924 much progress had been made. This in turn suffered a setback in the 1930's when due to recession in world economics, they threatened to close the hospitals and schools due to a lack of funds. After the war, in 1945, 1946 and 1947, more money, new missionaries and a new zeal has caused a revival in the work of the Christian church in India, and now the Church of India has full responsibility of its own church. All missionaries work with and under the Board of the Church of Christ in India. India still asks for more missionaries from Canada and they look to us for understanding and friendship.

Mrs. A. Scriver, treasurer, presented a fine report, showing that $129,335 has been sent to the Dominion Board treasurer. The allocation of the Conference branch was exceeded by every Presbyterial, making a total over the allocation of $8,245, which is sent for gifts for building advance. This money will be used for a school for Korea, scholarship fund, Rene's Mill Camp in Hong Kong, Burns Lake Hospital, Canada, and a new hospital in Korea. Bequests from donors in the Bay of Quinte Conference branch for missionary work amounted to $10,050.99. The allocation for 1958 was presented by Mrs. W. A. Scott, Renfrew, Christian stewardship secretary. It will be $138,000 or an increase over 1957 of $8,830.

Reports of the various departments showed that there was an increase in givings but a decrease in membership. This is a challenge to all members to be more alert to their stewardships in giving an invitation to all members of the church to join in this great work. While the number of periodicals used was down, there certainly was an advance in all the other departments.

The study of Japan has been of great assistance to the many groups in their understanding of the people of Japan. Much satisfaction was felt when the report was made that the Government of Japan has passed a law to become effective April 1st, 1958, whereby prostitution becomes illegal in Japan. This new law in Japan is considered comparable to the abolition of the carte system in India.

Mrs. B. H. Soper, Smiths Falls, Dean of the School for Leaders, announced that the School for Leaders will be held at the Ladies College, Whitby, Ontario, on August 18th to 23rd inclusive, 1958 with Mrs. Harbach, Ottawa, and Mrs. W. A. Scott, Pakenham, in charge of the Bible study. It is hoped that Miss Dorothy Young and Miss Nancy Edwards will be in charge of the Study groups and visual aids. Rev. J. Birch will be a speaker. He will be remembered with pleasure from last year's school.

Crowns Presented to BCIVS Students

A scene of mounting mystery and anticipation took place recently at the assembly sponsored by the Beta Sigma Chi and Beta Kappa Hi Y making a grand finale to the previous week of speeches.

Margaret Arnott was the popular decision of the students having been represented in every phase of the extracuricular events during her stay at B.C.I.V.S. This past year Marg had the leading role in the "Mikado" as the beautiful "Yum Yum."

"Chuck" Rowbotham, Mr. Floor Hockey, who, for two years had been busy in the drafting department, was given an outstanding ovation as he took his place on the throne. Chuck was crowned by last year's Mr. B.C.I.V.S., Dick Hurst who presented the winner with a boutonniere and engrayed trophy.

Marg Sue Brant, last year's Miss B.C.I.V.S., presented Marg with a beautiful bouquet of roses and the trophy.

Mr. and Miss B.C.I.V.S. will receive many gifts, including travelling alarm clocks, school bracelets, record certificates, high bulk orlon sweaters and finally a "night on the town"

Congratulations are definitely in hand for Marg and Chuck for making a most deserving and attractive Mr. and Miss B.C.I.V.S.

A Harbinger of Spring

I heard a robin sing today
With notes both strong and bold,
Though snow still lies about my door,
The wind still bleak and cold.

How can the robin be so brave
To face the winter's chill?
He's gathering straw and string and such
Upon the window sill.

He's gone for such a little while
And yet I miss him so,
Now I can see him standing there
On one foot in the snow.

A nest is in the offing,
He 'twines the straw and string,
A robin's nest upon the sill
Oh, now I know it's spring!

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Eileen S. — He holds me up to ridicule in front of others.

John S. — It's just a harmless bit of fun.

• • •

Eileen S. — My husband and I have been happily married for 13 years and we have five wonderful children. John has been a fine husband in every way, except that he has one fault that gets my goat. He says I'm too sensitive, but I can't help it. This bothers me very much.

John likes to hold me up to ridicule in front of people — especially his own family. He happens to be a very good storyteller and he really holds people's attention, making me the butt of all his jokes. Sometimes he brings up events that are ancient history to point out some error of mine.

I really resent this when he does it in front of his family. We don't see them often and they only know me through these silly stories of his.

• • •

John S. — Eileen doesn't know when she is well off. I know many a man who is lovey-dovey with his wife in public and really takes things out on her in private. Eileen admits that I always treat her with love and respect when we are at home.

The fact is that I enjoy telling a good story. I don't mean any harm by it. Everyone gets a good laugh out of it — everyone, that is, except Eileen. She really fumes. It's so silly to make an issue of it.

Eileen especially resents my ribbing her in front of my family because they objected to our marriage. But that was a long, long time ago and they have completely accepted her and bear her no ill will. I don't see any reason to get upset about this harmless bit of fun.

The Council: No, we don't think Eileen is being oversensitive. Nobody likes to be the butt of jokes and any wife would have good cause to be particularly resentful of this kind of treatment in front of her husband's family.

Psychologists believe that the kind of storytelling Eileen describes is really "masked hostility." That is, John has found a way of psychologically attacking his wife and claiming innocence at the same time. Eileen is deprived of the right to even defend herself because, after all, "It's only a joke."

The men John describes who are nice to their wives in public but nasty in private have other problems, but their behavior does not justify John's actions.

No, we don't suggest that John turn nasty at home. But we do think it would be a good idea for him to get into the habit of expressing some of his irritations and disagreements with his wife when he feels them. Eileen should be willing to accept this kind of criticism when she feels it to be warranted and should be honest enough to argue the question out when she feels her husband is being unfair.

If the marriage is soundly rooted, as this one appears to be, the husband and wife should not fear the occasional tiffs that arise between persons living in any intimate relationship.

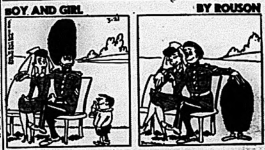
BOY AND GIRL BY ROUSON



Marianne's Meanderings

By Mary Moore

The time has come when I have to give you the overdue news of Marianne and company. I left you up in the air — or I should say at sea — when I left her at Saint John.

In the first place, all is well — but she sure had adventures with those two infants in tow.

The Empress of France left Saint John at midnight at high tide, and the first two days at sea all was smooth sailing. Gary loved the nursery and the nanny in charge. Davey thrived on his walks in his carry-cot over Marianne's arm on the open deck regardless of wind and mist in his face.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Miniature Meat Balls in Mushroom Sauce (see Mar. 17); Brussels Sprouts; Fried Parsnip Rings; Shredded Carrot and Cucumber Salad on Lettuce; Applesauce; Blueberry Gems (see Monday); Coffee.

Then the blow fell Marianne came down with the 'flu. Gary was completely baffled. Why were those doctors and nurses and officers wheeling his mummy in a wheel chair to the hospital? Marianne said he hollered so loud you could have heard him in the engine room — and it was decided he had to be put up in the ship's hospital too to restore his security. So there they were — the whole family of three — for of course Davey being breast fed had to go along. They all had the 'flu before long, but praise be, by the time land and Liverpool were sighted, they were all well, for they had royal care.

After disembarking at Liverpool they transferred to a ship-train bound for Harwich at the mouth of the Thames. Next change was to a Dutch ship to the Hook of Holland.

That of course meant crossing the English Channel which by all reports was to be rough. Marianne said it was as calm as glass, and once Gary was asleep she hauled Davey, in carry-cot, on deck and peacefully strolled, or when she was resting her arm, leaned on the rail and gloried in the wonder of it all. A little lament was that it was frustrating to have to share this timeless beauty and rare experience with two sleeping infants.

Next change was from ship to train at 6 a.m. When she had her little people collected and was down the gangplank there was not a soul in sight. The whole party had just that minute disappeared into the customs shed! "After going through the passport rigmarole for the umpteenth time, we boarded the train for Soest — our last change — hand out the flag." To quote Marianne again, "We had one of those European train compartments all to ourselves — so I could nurse Davey in peace except there were glass windows on both sides! Gary and I were in the diner ten minutes before the train pulled into Soest, and we all were swept into Daddy's arms — including carry-cot."

They have a P.M.Q. apartment, a railed porch for Davey's outdoor nap, a nearby playground for Gary, Maple Leaf markets for shopping, Imgart to wash, iron, clean; Frau Maynor to baby sit, and letters now begin Dear Mutter!

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

HOW TO SIGN YOUR EASTER-GREETING CARDS . . NO TITLE BEFORE YOUR NAME

1. When you sign your Easter-greeting cards, be sure to sign your informal name. Mary or Mary Field. Never sign your formal name; that is, your name with a title. Never sign "Mrs. John Smith" . . . never sign "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith" . . . never sign "Miss Jean Smith."

2. When, as is customary, a wife signs the Easter cards that she and her husband are sending, she should . . . politely! . . . sign her name last: John and Mary, or, when further identification is necessary, John and Mary Hill. If the husband is signing the cards, he should . . . politely! . . . sign his name last: Mary and John or Mary and John Hill.

3. When a child's name is to be included in the signature, the father's name is written first: John and Mary Harrison, and Dorothy and Tommy. Or, also correct and pleasantly informal: The Harrisons — John and Mary, and Dorothy and Tommy. Or: Easter greetings from the Four Harrisons, John and Mary, and Dorothy and Tommy.

4. A widow should sign her cards either Virginia or Virginia Allen. Never should she sign her formal name to a greeting card: never "Mrs. David Allen," and never "Mrs. Virginia Allen."

5. A divorcee should sign her cards Janet or Janet Baker or, when necessary for further name-identification, Janet Smith Baker. But never should she sign her formal name: never "Mrs. Smith Baker," and never "Mrs. Janet Baker."

6. An unmarried girl or woman signs her Easter-greeting cards Pamela or Pam or Pamela Lane. Never should she sign "Miss Pamela Lane."

7. Here's the basic idea: When you sign your name to a message (printed or hand-written) on a greeting card, your name is your signature . . . and your signature should be your informal name.

THIS EASTER SHOP IN THE "Friendly City" BELLEVILLE

There are many reasons why it's smart to shop in Belleville . . .
Most important, of course, are the "DIVIDENDS" you earn when you patronize your local merchants . . . .
By shopping at home you are saving in dollars and time and helping to establish a better community . . . .

1 Yes, you are actually doing your part in building and bettering your own home community . . . BECAUSE . . . a part of every dollar you spend with your local merchants goes toward the improvements necessary in any community. The taxes your local merchant must pay go into the building of better parks, schools, employment and enjoyment centres . . . so do your civic duty . . . and do yourself a favor . . . by buying in Belleville . . .

2 "A ROLLING STONE GATHERS NO MOSS" . . . and a travelling shopper actually takes a loss . . . when counting up the money spent on gas or bus fare . . . the time lost in looking in a strange and far-away shopping place . . . and the inconveniences when shopping away from home. The stores in your own community are devoting their time and effort toward making your buying more beneficial. Shopping with your local merchants is "visiting with your neighbors" . . . DON'T ROAM! SHOP AT HOME!"

3 FAIR PRICES . . . . GOOD SERVICE . . . . COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE AWAIT YOU . . . . RIGHT IN YOUR OWN BACK-YARD!

A "Low, Low price you pay . . . many miles away does not necessarily make for bargains! The real value-wise shopper knows that a bargain means top quality, recognized brands and above all, the reputation of a reliable dealer to back it up." And that's exactly what you get when you shop with your local merchant . . . They have displayed their trust in you by locating in your neighborhood . . . they are the first to recognize your needs, your taste and the limitations of your budget. Your local merchants want your business and welcome your patronage, with the friendly helpful service of the neighborhood! . . . So for the best buy always shop in BELLEVILLE!

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Tonight in Chicago a man once the darling of Paris, a sleek, debonair song-and-dance hit of the night clubs, thrice the middleweight champion of the world, and a guy with a magnificent ego, faces a tough little onion-grower in an attempt to wrest back the crown he lost the last time the pair met.

Sugar Ray Robinson, one of the master boxers of ringcraft, who wants but one thing more than the title, and that is the lettuce you do not get with salads, meets the stout-hearted Carmen Basilio in his fourth attempt to retake the crown.

CARMEN BASILIO

The Harlem dandy is nearing the 38th milestone on the age trail. He has more than two decades of boxing, amateur and pro, behind him. He has twinkling toes and dynamite-laden fists. He also has a higher regard for his own ability than anyone in the boxing rack - - oops - - business.

However, there are those experts, strictly Robinson - tinged, who believe the former middleweight king has laid aside his ego temporarily and will concentrate on fighting this time.

"I promise you I'll make this the fight of my life," he told one boxing writer. "I now know Basilio well enough to know that he won't give up the title without a battle and you can put it down that this will be the bloodiest and most exciting fight I've had since Randy Turpin."

However, it must be said of Robinson that in the past whenever he lost the title it was by a decision, and when he regained it, it was via the knockout route.

Another Robinson writer, in an apparent effort to excuse former defeats, says Sugar, when sitting on top of the world gets delusions of grandeur. He thinks he can do no wrong.

"In this high-and-mighty mood," he writes, "Robinson also is fiercely sensitive to criticism. In his zeal to show up his critics he gets so lathered up he loses sight of really important issues."

The writer claims that when Robinson came back in 1955 after two years' retirement the big story was his legs. The boys in the know said Sugar could not go the 15-round trail. He couldn't do it against Joey Maxim in 1952, how could he do it now. He had knocked out Olsen twice in two round and then four. Then someone said Olsen would have won had the fights gone the 15-round limit.

That fired the Robinson fury. This was his attitude when he met Fullmer. The writer claims Robinson went into training with one idea and it wasn't whipping Fullmer, but to show the critics he could stay in there for 15 rounds. He gave Fullmer no credit. Robinson claimed he could have ended it in the ninth round when he had Fullmer with knees buckled. He backed off.

Robinson won the argument he could stay the limit—but he lost the fight. However, in fairness, it must be said the next time they met Robinson polished off Fullmer in five rounds.

Sugar Ray's arrogance returned when the Basilio fight was made. He was again the king. He was going to show the experts that he could not only whip Basilio but he would take 15 rounds to do it. The only thing wrong with that, he didn't reckon with Basilio.

His plan was to hold Basilio off with a left jab with his longer reach, then tuck him away in the 15th. Basilio had other ideas. He took the Robinson punishment for six rounds, then stormed in with short hooks to the body and head. He won the next four rounds. Robinson sensing something took the next three, but Carmen closed strong in the 15th.

The cocky Robinson stood in his corner after the fight awaiting the decision. Then he got the shock of his life. Basilio was the new middleweight champion. He became violently angry. His later excuse was "I tried to play possum in the eleventh (Basilio swarmed all over him on the ropes) but it didn't work." Then he added, "Don't worry, I'll come up with something new. I have relied on my wits all through my career. I'll find some way to catch him off guard so as to put across a punch that won't leave it up to a decision."

So that's the picture tonight. Robinson will go for the knockout early. But he hadn't better sell the Syracuse onion-grower short. Basilio has a long memory and in it lingers the time Robinson directly snubbed him.

So tonight we'll take onions—and the stout-hearted ring warrior who used to grow them. The fight is not being televised but you can pick it up via radio over CJBQ starting eleven o'clock Eastern Standard Time.

Habs, Red Wings Crucial Games To Be Televised

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC said Monday its English-language television network will carry crucial and deciding games in the best-of-seven Montreal - Detroit Stanley Cup semi-final.

Only one game of the Boston-New York series will be televised, Saturday night's game at Boston.

Facilities have been cleared to enable televising the deciding games of the series, starting after one team has won three games.

Bruins Meet Broadway Blues Habs Tangle With Red Wings Boom-Boom Back in Action

MONTREAL (CP) — Detroit Red Wings go into tonight's Stanley Cup semi-final against Montreal Canadiens not the slightest bit awed at taking on the National Hockey League champions.

"We're not coming in scared," said coach Sid Abel with a snap of his jaws. "We're going to give it all we've got. We haven't an injury on the club. We're in the best shape we've been all season."

Abel brought his Red Wings to Montreal Monday by chartered plane, a two-hour flight. Canadiens arrived several hours later by train.

The teams met Sunday in Detroit in the final game of the regular NHL schedule, and the Wings won 4-2.

"That game didn't do us any harm," said Abel. "It proved we're ready."

The Red Wings got away to a wobbly start early in the season and were something of pushovers for Canadiens in the first half. It was different in the second half, the Wings finishing in third place and splitting four games with Montreal along with three ties.

"I think we played better the last half because we had fewer injuries," said Abel. "I know Canadiens had a string of injuries all season, but they had more first-class help to fall back on.

"We're going into this series with our regular club. We haven't called up a single farm - club player. Actually, with 16 men in addition to the goalie, we are one under the number we could use in a game."

Abel said he is using one set line—Norm Ullman at centre, Gordie Howe on right wing and Johnny Wilson on left. Otherwise he mixes up his forward combinations as he thinks best.

Abel thought it unlikely he would use against Canadiens the fancy defensive formation he spring on Boston recently. Under this plan he moves his defencemen closer to the blue line and puts his centre in front of the goalie.

"Canadiens don't strike me as a team against which it would be successful," said Abel.

Canadiens, who all but ran away from the league despite the string of injuries, will still be shorthanded two defencemen tonight—Dollard St. Laurent and Tom Johnson.

But Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, high-scoring right winger, will be back for the first time since Jan. 28 when he underwent an emergency operation for a ruptured bowel.

Albert (Junior) Langlois, called up from Rochester Americans of the—American Hockey League, will work on defence. He was used in the Sunday game in Detroit.

"Langlois wasn't our worst defenceman," said coach Toe Blake, who is already worrying whether he can maintain his perfect record by winning three cup championships since taking over the club.

"I'm not too happy about the attitude of some of the players, but it's always been that way with this club. The team lets down when a game seems unimportant, although I suppose a letdown was natural after we had won the league title.

"Just the same, the way the team is now—we lost our last two games—we've got to do something about lifting it up. If we don't we could lose this series.

"I noticed on the train trip home from Detroit the fellows were quiet. I could sense they were thinking about this game. That's a good sign. Anyway, we're going to be confident about this series—not cocky."

Blake said he was highly pleased with the work Sunday of goalie Jacques Plante, back after an injury March 13 in Boston when he suffered a concussion.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers tonight enter Stanley Cup competition for the third straight season, going against Boston Bruins. The best-of-seven semi-final series starts on Madison Square Garden ice at 7:30 p.m. EST.

For the Rangers their second-place finish was their highest position in the regular season race since they won the championship in 1941-42.

Yet the Bruins beat them in the regular schedule. The Bruins had six victories, the Rangers five, and three others ended in ties.

The Rangers and Bruins both expected to be at full strength for the series opener.

SIMMONS LIKELY GOALIE

The Bruins have been switching between goalies Don Simmons and Harry Lumley but it is likely Simmons regular goalie until he injured his shoulder, will get the call.

New York goes in with 12 forwards broken into four units. They've got Dave Creighton centring for Andy Bathgate and Camille Henry; Red Sullivan for Andy Hebenton and Parker MacDonald; Hank Ciesla and Gerry Foley and Dean Prentice, and Larry Popein for Danny Lewicki and Guy Gendron.

Ciesla is the lone Ranger without Stanley Cup experience.

Gump Worsley, who went up against the Bruins nine times in the 14-game series, shows an excellent record in goals against them. Gump allowed 19 goals in nine games, two of them shutout performances. The Rangers won four, lost three and tied two with Worsley.

After tonight, the Rangers and Bruins will meet again at the garden Thursday. Then the series transfers to the Boston Garden for three games.

GAMBLE TO NEW YORK

Meanwhile the Rangers ordered Bruce Gamble, formerly with Guelph Biltmores of the OHA Junior A series, to report in New York as standby goalie in case anything happens to Worsley.

Gamble had been scheduled to play for Ottawa - Hull Junior Canadiens in Memorial Cup playoffs. The loan had been approved by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

General manager Muzz Patrick of the Rangers, who own Gamble's professional rights, said Gamble would go to Ottawa only if New York is provided with "proper protection."

"We still haven't picked up a standby replacement goalie," Patrick said. "If we do get one we'll send Gamble to Ottawa, otherwise he'll remain with Rangers. But at the moment I'm not sure where he'll wind up."

The award of Gamble, an all-star with Guelph, was protested by OHA officials. Wally Chevrier, Guelph defenceman, also was awarded Ottawa but was subsequently ruled ineligible.

Bulldogs Nip Dutchmen 2-1 For First Win

WINDSOR (CP) — Bob Brown scored with a 60-foot shot with five seconds remaining to give Windsor Bulldogs a dramatic 2-1 victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Monday night in an OHA - NOHA Senior A playoff battle before a crowd of 3,343.

It was Bulldog's first triumph in the best-of-seven title series. The Dutchmen still are in command with five points on two wins and a tie. The fifth game will be played at Kitchener Wednesday, the sixth at Windsor Friday.

Monday's was the finest game of the series so far, a hard-hitting struggle that was decided when Brown fired one last blast from the blue line. Netminder Harold Hurley, who had been sensational previously, gloved the puck but couldn't hold on and it spilled over his shoulder into the net

MARTIN OPENS SCORING

The Dutchmen scored at 8:00 of the first period while they had a two-man advantage. Butch Martin connected from 20 feet. Bulldogs tied it up at 1:12 of the second when Wally Pawlyshyn deflected home a shot by Joe Klukay.

Bulldogs played with their regular lineup although it had earlier been announced they would receive the help of six players from the St. Catharines Teepees who were eliminated Sunday from OHA Junior A playoffs. It was learned that the Bulldogs-Teepees affiliation was not properly registered, precluding any chance of the juniors moving up.

Marshall Wins American League Scoring Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Marshall of the American Hockey League's champion Hershey Bears won his first league scoring title, official statistics revealed today.

Marshall, who finished second the past two years, scored 104 points on 40 goals and 64 assists to win the John B. Sellenberger Trophy and a $300 league bonus.

His 64 assists led the league, while teammate Dunc Fisher, second in scoring with 88 points, caged the most goals, 41.

Cleveland's Johnny Bower topped the goalies with a 2.19 average in 64 games, and also had the most shutouts, 8. Bower won the Hap Holmes Memorial Trophy and a $300 league bonus.

Jimmy Moore of Cleveland, with 83 points, was third in scoring and Cal Gardner of Springfield fourth with 81. Gerry Ehman of Springfield and Larry Wilson of Buffalo tied for fifth, each with 79 points.

Chicubs Lace Tribe Hurlers, Redlegs Nudge Phillies 4-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The return of Roy Sievers to action can't come too soon for Cookie Lavagetto.

With the Senators held idle by rain Monday, the manager had time for thought and used it to line up his outfield for the season. He said Sievers, who hasn't played in nine days, will be posted in left field when he returns to action. Rookie Albie Pearson has virtually clinched centre field and Jim Lemon will hold down right.

Sievers, the American League's home run and runs-batted-in king, was hit in the leg by a batted ball March 12, suffering a bruise. The Senators' big gun, who rapped 42 homers and knocked in 114 runs last season, has been taking a regular turn in the batting cage, but has been cautioned not to risk competition for another three or four days.

Meanwhile Lavagetto has been trying out other outfield possibilities including third baseman Harmon Killebrew.

ONLY TWO GAMES

A host of other teams also were rained out Monday but two games escaped the weather.

Chicago Cubs laced Cleveland pitching for a 13-8 victory and Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 4-3.

Cub shortstop Ernie Banks drove in five runs with a homer, his seventh this spring, and a pair of doubles.

Sixteen men batted around in the first inning as Chicago stormed to 12 runs against starter Don Mossi and successors Don Schaeffer and Hal Woo[illegible]ick. Glen Hobbie picked up the victory although the Indians came up with five runs against him in the sixth inning.

The Redlegs bunched four of their nine hits in the sixth inning and tallied three times for the victory.

San Francisco Giants completed another transaction — for cash—when they sold infielder Orioles for "something in excess of the $20,000 waiver price."

McFarlands Blank Porkies 4-0 In Opening Game All-Ontario Series

Four Goals in Third Period Break 2-Frame Stalemate; Second Game Here Tonight

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

It took two periods for the McFarlands to find the chinks in a stubborn South Porcupine "Porkies" defensive armor here last night, then they exploded for four unanswered goals to take a game lead in the all-Ontario senior "A" semi-finals.

For forty minutes the Hildebranders were held at bay by the northern champions mainly through the outstanding work of Doug Kobe in the nets. They fired 32 shots at the Porkies' goalie with Gordie Bell turning back 17 for the shutout.

Ike Hildebrand fired the first goal after a minute of play in the third period and from then on it was all McFarlands. They added three more before period end, outshooting the "Porkies" 12-6.

The second game of the best-of-five series is slated for Memorial Arena tonight, with the rest of the series scheduled for South Porcupine starting Thursday night.

STARTED THE FIRE

The Brown - Hildebrand - Bradley line stole the scoring spotlight with the elusive "Wiener" scoring twice and assisting in another while Hildebrand had one and two and Bradley one assist. Bep Guidolin scored the fourth marker with linemates Minnie Menard and Paul Payette in on the kill.

WIENER BROWN

JOE LEPINE
Two-Way Stalwart

Joe Lepine, who played one of his best, if not the best game since wearing a Macs uniform, drew an assist as did Floyd Crawford.

Brown was a fleeting will-o'-the wisp both ways. Besides his two goals he did an outstanding job with Barton Bradley in penalty-killing roles.

Referees Jack Shropshire and Larry Lewin had no trouble, handing out ten penalties with the teams splitting the sentences. One was a misconduct to Guidolin.

The Porkies started off at a [illegible] pace and in the early minutes of the period held the Macs at bay with hard checking.

The Macs drew the first penalty when Guidolin got the gate for cross-checking. No damage was done and back at full strength they appeared unable to get organized.

They had the manpower advantage twice in the first ten minutes but their power plays were not clicking. Then they came to some sort of life and started to fire rubber at Doug Kobe in the Porkies net. Kobe pulled off some sparkling saves as the Macs took over the play in the latter part of the period.

He was exceptionally good when McNeill was heaved for tripping with three minutes to go when they were in on top of the doorstep but were stopped cold there. They outshot the Porkies 14-5 in the period.

Play speeded in the second period with both teams unable to capitalize on two penalties each.

Marineau went off but Bradley and Brown did an outstanding job of penalty-killing. Hunter got the gate later but again the Macs power-play failed to accomplish anything.

Kulik sent Adams into the clear down the left wing and he raced in alone with Bell at his mercy but the Macs goalie came up with two sensational stops.

Kowalchuk and Pirie went off within seconds of each other and again Bradley and Brown put on a driving show but the Porkies defence and Kobe kicked back everything.

The third period was scarcely a minute old when Hildebrand sent the Macs away on their [illegible]dirt splurge. The puck lay loose behing Kobe when Ike pushed it over the line for the first score of the game. It was the spark the Macs needed and they ripped to the attack with Guidolin and Lepine missing at close range.

Five minutes later Bradley tipped a perfect pass to Brown parked in front of the Porkies net and the Wiener made no mistake. The Porkies made sporadic forays, firing six shots at Bell during the period but the suddenness of the Belleville attack seemed to take the spark out of them.

Minnie Menard slipped through the Porkies' defence, was knocked flat but passed the puck to Guidolin out front and Bep put the Macs three goals up.

Then Joe Lepine still gunning for his first McFarland goal surged through the Porkies squad, flipped a perfect pass to Brown who raced in, deked Kobe out of position and fired the fourth marker of the game. That was it for the evening.

Guidolin drew a minor penalty at 15.29 and Referee Lewin tacked a misconduct on the McFarland winger for reasons best known to the pair.

The Porkies brought at least one supporter with them. He was Roly Richer, former hockey player who clowned on the ice between periods garbed in a miner's helmet complete with electric light, a porcupine adorning its top. He played with a six-inch puck, miner's hammer and dinner bucket. On his back was the slogan "Go, Porkies, Go."

BRITISH CONTENDER

LONDON (CP) — The British yacht Sceptre, to enter the America's Cup races against the United States in September, will be launched on the Clyde April 2, it was announced Monday. Hugh Goodson, chairman of the millionaire syndicate behind the building of the yacht, said the Sceptre will be equipped "with everything the genius of British enterprise can furnish."

World middleweight champion Carmen Basilio (left) and former champion and now challenger Sugar Ray Robinson square off in fight pose after they underwent the required pre-fight physical exam at the Illinois Athletic commission offices in Chicago. Both were pronounced fit to fight. The fifteen-rounder for the crown is scheduled for tonight in Chicago.

Basilio Still 8-5 Favorite Despite Fantastic Reports

CHICAGO (AP) — After a week of rather unusual pre-fight shenanigans, Carmen Basilio risks his middleweight title against the veteran but still artistic Sugar Ray Robinson tonight in Chicago Stadium.

The rematch, six months after the 30-year-old Basilio gained a split 15-round decision over Robinson in New York, will be on closed circuit television in 38 states and parts of Canada and on radio. Fight time is 11 p.m. EST.

Robinson, 37, who will be attempting to regain the 160-pound crown for the fourth time, never has been beaten twice by the same fighter. Whereas the Harlem dandy has found Chicago Stadium to his liking in the past, Basilio has found it a jinx.

Robinson first won the title in the big arena, successfully defended it there and twice recaptured it there.

Basilio lost to Chuck Davey, Billy Graham and Johnny Saxton in the only fights he has had in Chicago and has claimed unfair decisions in all but the Graham bout.

Robinson's record: 140 wins, 6 defeats, 2 draws. He won 91 of his fights by knockouts.

Basilio's record: Won 52; lost 7; 7 draws; 25 wins by knockouts.

The scheduled 15-round encore will be scored under the five-point-must system instead of a round basis used in New York. The gate is expected to be about $400,000 with attendance near 19,000 although ticket sales did not hit the level of earlier estimates by the International Boxing Club.

The champion remained a solid 8-to-5 betting choice after odds last week were reported to have gone as high as 11-to-5 in his favor.

Different reports on the odds, George Gainford's charges of chloroform in Basilio's cut lotion in the last bout, Robinson's reported but denied weight battle, Basilio's cocoon-like retreat from the public in training—all these have added up to considerable tomfoolery for a fight of this stature.

Taking them one at a time:

Odds — They have remained close to 8-to-5 for Basilio despite the reports.

Chloroform—Gainford said this or "some other kind of stuff" was used by Basilio's handlers in a cut lotion and got into Robinson's eyes the last time. The champ's co-managers, Joe Netro and John de John, denied it and called Gainford a crybaby.

Robinson's weight battle — He was reported to have gone to a bathhouse "to seat off weight or have treatment for a sore back." He was reported working in heavy sweat suits to boil down to the 160-pound limit. Actually Robinson looked as lithe as ever in drills, never showed signs of a sore back, and flashed contrasting signs of rustiness and vicious artistry in workouts.

Basilio's retreat — From the first time he arrived in Chicago, his managers announced the public would be barred from workouts and only close friends and the press would be permitted. They left the impression that Carmen was trying to work up something new and that Robinson's spies would not have a chance to find out. But Joe Louis, a close friend of Sugar Ray's, watched Basilio work out at least once.

One fight expert summed up the rematch this way:

"Robinson still has class and punch but has lost much of his speed. But he can lick Basilio three or four ways—outbox him, knock him out with a left, knock him out with a right, and mess him up with a left jab. Basilio has strength and heart. But he can fight only one way. He can't be a mystery."

Little Moon of Alban Wins High Praise From Critics

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — A drama of religious faith came to the home screen Monday night when NYC-TV's Hall of Fame presented Julie Harris and Canada's Christopher Plummer in Little Moon of Alban by James Costigan.

Superbly acted and produced, the play concerned a religious young woman, played by Miss Harris, whose faith was badly shaken by the killing of her lover in the Irish rebellion of 40 years ago.

As a devout Roman Catholic, she sought to restore her faith by joining the Daughters of Charity, a religious order whose members do not take vows as nuns but each year renew their wish to work with those in need of help.

While nursing in a hospital for British soldiers—the enemy who had killed her lover—her strong will saved the life of an English lieutenant, who fell in love with her. Restored to health, the lieutenant asked her to marry him. She refused, saying that she realized what it meant "to be doing God's work out of love and not out of fear."

GOOD PERFORMANCE

Miss Harris gave a memorable performance as Brigid Mary, the Daughter of Charity. Plummer, the former Montreal actor who has made his mark on Broadway and at the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival, was excellent as the British lieutenant who loved her.

Little Moon of Alban, a technically faultless production, must have been especially moving to those of the Roman Catholic faith. It was also moving to one outside that faith, but it failed to transcend sectarianism in the tradition of the greatest religious drama.

In all respect for Costigan's excellent script, he failed to convince one viewer that Brigid Mary's life as a Daughter of Charity, morally worthy though it was, resulted in a more emotionally satisfying life than it might have been as the wife of the English lieutenant. No one holds such a reservation with a Joan of Arc.

Insurance Firm Faces Suit by Lions, Eskimos

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions and Edmonton Eskimos football clubs issued B.C. Supreme Court writs Monday against A. Forbes Crawford of Vancouver and the General Insurance Company of America seeking $38,000 in a suit alleging failure to fulfil contracts.

The action was reported to concern pre-season games played by the two teams during the summer of 1957 in Oregon and California.

The Lions are seeking $21,000 and the Eskimos $17,000 under contracts which they say provided for certain sums to be paid on fulfillment by the teams of certain conditions. They say they fulfilled these conditions as required.

The money is claimed from the insurance company as guarantor.

Quebec Hockey

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Paul Denis, right winger for Shawinigan Cataracts, captured the Quebec Hockey League's individual scoring championship.

Denis, 34, had led since Christmas and ran away from the pack as the season waned. In 64 games he notched 39 goals and 50 assists for 89 points.

Second with 77 was Greig Hicks, Chicoutimi centre. Shawinigan rookie Gene Mekilok closed with 76 points — 24 goals and 52 assists. Hicks' 58 assists topped the league, while leading goal getter was veteran Jacques Locas, also of Chicoutimi, with 40. He finished 14th.

The league's goaltending trophy will go to Chicoutimi's Gilles Boisvert.

It's Official

Dickie Moore Scoring Champ 'Pocket, Andy' Runners Up

MONTREAL (CP) — It' became official today — Dickie Moore is the National Hockey League scoring championship for 1957 - 58 and teammate Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens is the runner-up.

Moore compiled 36 goals — highestin t he league—ane 48 assists for a total of 84 points, fifth highest in the league — and 48 as-top is 95, made by Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings in the 1952-53 season.

The Little Rocket finished with 28 goals and 52 assists, most assists for any player, and 80 points.

Moore succeeds Howe, last season's winner with 89 points, who finished fourth this season with 77.

Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers, who made a great drive in the stretch, finished third with 78 points. Bathgate had 30 goals and 48 assists.

MOORE'S BEST BY FAR

The season was by far Moore's best. Last season he had 58 points, his previous high.

Little more than a month ago he suffered fracture of a wrist bone but had a special cast made for it and continued playing.

Moore is the third member of the Canadiens to win the championship in the last four seasons. Jean Beliveau won in 1955-56 and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion in 1954-55. Beliveau won with 88 points and Geoffrion with 75.

Bronco Horvath of Boston Bruins, grabbed from the Montreal farm system in the draft last summer, finished fifth with 65 points, made up of 30 goals and 35 assists.

Eddie Litzenberger, tall siege-gun of the fifth-place Chicago Black Hawks, was sixth with 32 goals and 30 assists for 62 points, followed by Fleming Mackell of Boston who had a 20-40—60 mark.

TIE FOR EIGHTH

Beliveau, who missed 15 games because of injuries, and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit were next, bracketed at 59 points. Beliveau scored 27 goals to Delvecchio's 21.

In 10th place alone was Don McKenney of Boston, with 28 goals and 30 assists.

Goalie Jacques Plante of Montreal retained the goal - tending honors he won the previous two seasons—the Vezina Trophy.

Plante missed 13 games through illness and injury. His personal goals-against average was 2.09 a game; the team average was 2.26.

Has to Be Told to Be A Gentleman?

TORONTO (CP) — Goaltender Jacques Marcotte may stay with Toronto Maple Leafs even though Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, quashed the club's original deal with New York Rangers.

Marcotte, a member of the Rangers' farm system, was "loaned" to Leafs last month for possible use as a replacement for regular Ed Chadwick. But he was injured in practice and never saw action.

Campbell said the sale was conditional and therefore improper under NHL regulations, but it could be reworded to become valid. By this time, however, Leafs had decided they didn't want Marcotte.

Stafford Smythe, head of the Committee of Seven which guides the Leafs, said Monday night he still doesn't want Marcotte but "the other members of our committee tell me I should be a gentleman."

Rangers now agree to give up Marcotte in exchange for professional rights to Bill Kennedy, a Junior A star with Toronto Marlboros, $5,000, and an unnamed player.

Originally Leafs were to try the netminder out until the end of the season in exchange for Kennedy and $5,000. If they wanted to keep him Rangers were to get Leaf defenceman Marc Reaume also.

Smythe now says he may agree to some variation of the revised plan.

Odds Shorter On Favorite in Grand National

LONDON (AP) — Odds shortened to 17 to 2 Monday night on the Wilkinson's family sheep horse Wyndburgh for the Grand National Steeplechase Saturday.

The trim Scots horse, standing just over 16 hands, has been the steady favorite for several weeks for the classic's 112th running. Most London bookmakers have called him a 10-to-1 bet. More than $42,000 went on his nose Monday and down went the odds.

Hart Roy, Mr. What and Springsilver were called at 18 to 1 for the 4½-mile steeplechase over the famed Aintree course.

The first Irish Hospitals sweepstake of the year will be determined by Grand National results.

OTHER ODDS

Five entries were callee to 20 to 1 at the VictoriaC lub, oL-n to, 1 at the Victoria Club, London's leading bookmaking establishment. They were Eagle Lodge Goosander, Valiant Spark, Pippykin, Sentina.

Other odds included at 25 to 1 Athenian, E.S.B., Glorious Twelfth, Green Drill; 33 to 1 Colledge Master, Bremontier, Brookling and Longmead.

At 40 to 1 were Rendezvous III, Sydney Jones, Tiberetta, Ace of Trumps and Wise Child. Other horses among the 35 entries were 50 to 1, 100 to 1, or even 200 to 1.

DUBLIN (AP) — Drawings opened Monday in the 92nd Irish Hospitals sweepstakes. The prize fund totalled $7,540,000. This was a record for the series drawings which were launched in 1930.

The way the race finishes will decide the allocation of 22 first prizes of $140,000; 22 second prizes of $56,000; and 22 third prizes of $28,000. Holders of tickets on horses that fail to place and also on non-runners will collect $1,584.80. Other awards range down to consolation prizes of $56.

NEW SWIMMING COACH

TORONTO (CP) — Tommy Walker, coach of the 1956 Canadian Olympic swimming team, is to coach the University of Toronto team next season. Walker succeeds Cressy McCatty, who coached the team to five senior Intercollegiate titles in the last seven years and who is retiring because of pressure of other business.

Hamilton Cubs Oust Irish; Meet Marlies

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Cubs earned the right Monday night to meet Toronto Marlboros in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A final by holding Toronto St. Michael's College Majors to a 5-5 tie after trailing 5-1 going into the last period.

The Cubs ousted the Majors with two wins and two ties in their best-of-five series.

Don Wilcox with two goals, Ray Preston, Don Blackburn and Gerry Sullivan were the marksmen for Hamilton.

Majors, scoring three goals only 34 seconds apart in the second period, held a 5-1 lead with less than 17 minutes to play. Hank Marczak with two goals, Daryl Sly, Jim Sonoski and Lou Angotti scored for the collegians.

The crowd was estimated at 3,900.

At the final buzzer many of the fans swarmed on to the ice and others littered its surface with programs in tribute to the Gerry Brown-coached Cubs, who now go against Toronto Marlboros. This best-of-seven final series starts here Thursday night. It is the first time the Cubs have reached the finals.

The club said Sharkady has been on Alouette coach Doug Walker's "sleeper list" since last year. Sharkady is 21 years old, weighs 225 pounds and is six feet, one inch tall.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Stanley Cup playoffs open tonight, but they really aren't the same. Old Scarface is missing.

Just in case you hadn't noticed it, Ted (Scarface) Lindsay, one of the great all-time left-wingers, will be watching from the sidelines when the first four clubs in the National Hockey League go out for the playoff melon. It's the first time since Ted hit the National Hockey League in 1945 that he hasn't participated in the post-season fun and games.

That 14-year span probably constitutes a record of some kind, but before people start sending expressions of sympathy to Ted, pause to ponder what hockey has done for him, apart from Detroit Red Wings selling him down the river to the perennial last-place Chicago Black Hawks this season.

BANK BALANCE FINE

That is something akin to being sentenced to solitary confinement, but Ted's feelings probably are soothed when he takes a look at his bank balance. Financially, he's done okay.

The authority for the above is general manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings who told Ted (Toronto Star) Burnett that he is becoming tired of hearing stories of how badly Lindsay was treated. Let Adams tell it:

"The last two seasons he was with the Wings he made $45,043.69 in salary, club and playoff bonuses. Since Lindsay joined the Detroit club as a kid of 18 for the 1944-45 season, he has averaged $14,014.05 in salary and bonuses. I hear that he got $22,000 with the Hawks this season which would boost his average per season."

Burnett used Adams' figures as a yardstick and calculated that Lindsay has picked up $204,182.65 for 14 NHL seasons.

"And," writes Burnett, "with the exception of this term, terrible Ted was worth every penny of it. He rates as one of the greatest left-wingers of all time and a fellow who helped sell tickets in every rink in the league."

MAY BE FINAL YEAR

Some observers feel that this is Lindsay's final year in the big time. If that is true, he'll bow out with an impressive Stanley Cup record, something that only one-time team-mate Gordie Howe can match.

While with the Wings Ted hit the playoffs 13 straight years since he jumped from Toronto St. Michael's juniors in the Ontario Hockey Association to the Wings at the start of the 1944 season.

Howe is one year short of Lindsay's record going into the current playoffs. The flashy Detroit right-winger joined the Wings one year after Lindsay and this season will be competing in his 13th straight playoffs.

The incomparable Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens, in the NHL since 1942, has twice missed the playoffs — in 1948 when Canadiens placed fifth and in 1956 when he was suspended for the tag part of the regular season and the playoffs after a rumpus at Boston. The Rocket attacked Bruin defenceman Hal Laycoe and slugged linesman Cliff Thompson in a regular season game at Boston and NHL President Clarence Campbell slapped the suspension on him.

Mike Todd at One Time Was $1,105,616 in Debt

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I've been broke but I've never been poor. Being poor is a state of mind; being broke is a temporary situation."

This explains as well as anything the career of Mike Todd, a fabulous gambler whose luck ran out when his plane crashed Saturday in the New Mexico badlands.

Todd was considered an enormously lucky man. Certainly luck—another word for good timing—plays an important role in the lives of all successful people.

But Todd didn't wait for luck to tap him on the shoulder. He went crashing ahead on projects which his critics scoffed at as foolhardy. Sometimes they proved to be right.

At one time, following a string of stage fiascos, Todd was $1,105,616 in debt.

THE OTHER SIDE

But more often Todd proved the scoffers to be visionless dolts. At his death, his earnings from Around the World in 80 Days were piling up in such millions that even he was amazed.

What was it, aside from luck, that propelled Todd on a roller-coast life during his furious 50 years?

The answer may be in his early years as the son of a Polish rabbi in Minneapolis. His name was Avrom Hirsch Goldbogen, and he was nicknamed Toad.

Avrom was a hustler—he had to be. He jerked sodas, sold the Minneapolis Journal, peddled fruit, played the cornet, sold shoes, shilled for a carnival, worked for a pharmacist. At he headed a construction company and was a married man.

CHANGES NAME

Goldbogen realized the best place for a man of his drive was show business. But he needed a new name. He borrowed Michael from his own son and evolved the Todd from his nickname.

Gamble followed gamble, from The Flame Dance at the Chicago World's Fair to sumptuous Broadway productions. Some of the theatre crowd considered him a carnival guy when he scored with burlesque-type shows like Star and Garter and Streets of Paris. But he proved he was no bum by offering Maurice Evans in Hamlet and Moliere's The Would-Be Gentleman.

Gambling finally turned sour for Todd—too many flop plays and too many slow horses. His debts mounted and the Broadway crowd counted him out.

But they underestimated the hustling kid from Minneapolis.

(Tomorrow: How Mike Todd shook up Hollywood.)

Labor Group Assails Cape Breton Paper

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — The Cape Breton Labor Council Sunday accused the Sydney Cape Breton Post of "flagrant misuse of press responsibility" and threatened a boycott unless the paper took "remedial measures."

More than 100 delegates representing 33 unions affiliated with the council and several non-affiliates attended. The meeting was requested by the [illegible]-member Sydney Local [illegible], United Steelworkers of America (CLC).

A statement released after the meeting said the newspaper wrote "biased editorials in favor of the Tory party . . . and deliberately tried to play down the unemployment situation so that . . . Tory candidates will not be too seriously embarrassed . . ." The statement said that unless "remedial measures" are taken "our members' numerous calls for a boycott will be given serious consideration."

"And we do not intend to wait indefinitely," the statement added.

IMPORT MORE RICE

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Ceylon's housewives, protesting that Egyptian rice doled out in their food ration is lumpy, are forcing the government to increase its imports from Red China. A reliable source said Peiping has offered to add 100,000 tons of rice to the 200,000 tons it already is supplying Ceylon in exchange for rubber.

Transport Board To Investigate Freight Rate Cut

OTTAWA (CP) — The Board of Transport Commissioners announced today it will investigate heavily-slashed freight rates put into effect by the railways in the four Western provinces in the spring of 1957.

The board, ruling on whether truckers can apply to it for disallowance of the low rail rates, found against the truckers but said it will conduct its own investigation.

Meanwhile, it said it will allow the truckers' national organizaness without appearing as an applicant party.

6,000 TRUCKING FIRMS

The national organization of the highway carriers is Canadian Trucking Associations, representing about 6,000 local and long distance haulage firms.

CTA applied to the board last year to disallow railway freight rate slashes in the four western provinces starting last April 1, most of them running to 40-per-cent reductions.

The truckers' organization claimed the railways were trying to eliminate truck competition, contrary to the public interest, and asked the railway-regulating board to order the railways to rule out the abnormal rate cuts.

HOUSE MEMBERS

The government was also inconsistent — the committee had recommended against tolls on the Rainy River causeway but this was included in bills providing for tolls.

Reg Gisborn (CCF—Wentworth East) said tolls on the Burlington Skyway would be discriminatory. Many workers in the Hamilton area were employed in Toronto but only part of them would have to cross the skyway to get to work.

SAYS MOST FAVOR IT

Arthur Child (PC—Wentworth) replied that most Hamilton residents are in favor of tolls because this was the only way they were likely to get a north-west entrance built on the other side of the city.

Government unemployment policies were hit as the House voted $30,961,000 for the municipal affairs department, compared with $33,844,000 a year ago.

Mr. MacDonald wanted to know how many municipalities—and how many men—have been affected by the government's plan to boost employment by paying 70 per cent of labor costs in special municipal works projects using workers from relief rolls up to May 31.

Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender said 76 municipalities have entered the plan, with incomplete figures showing $1,329,756 in projects and jobs for 2,346 men.

Mr. MacDonald said there are 45,000 men in Ontario not drawing unemployment insurance and the government's much - publicized" plan was supplying work for only about five per cent of them.

Premier Frost replied that about 8,500 jobs have been provided so far "and this might go up to 15,000 by May 1."

T. D. Thomas (CCF—Oshawa) said that in his city it would cost $4,500 to take advantage of the plan to provide jobs for 20 men, whereas Oshawa's share of relief for these men would be only $540.

WINDSOR JOBLESS

Mr. Reaume said 21,000 men are jobless in Windsor, a city with a population of 140,000.

Public Works Minister Griesinger, who sits for Windsor-Sandwich, rose to say that as a former mayor of Windsor Mr. Reaume was partly responsible for the situation.

"Back when the first Ford strike was on we had to maintain law and order in your city because you wouldn't do it. You said certain industrialists should be run out of town on a rail—how can you expect co-operation?"

Mr. Reaume turned the debate into a hot argument by replying: "I'm glad to see you standing up for a change—you are about the only person I know who has to buy five pairs of pants with every suit."

As for the strike referred to, "said Mr. Reaume, the government had "sent police in there for the purpose of hitting workers on the head with sticks."

Mr. Griesinger retorted, "It wasn't so long ago that there was a 'for sale' sign on the seat of your pants because you didn't attend one day of the session.'

"You tried to buy this seat," answered Mr. Reaume in a reference to the 1955 provincial elections, "but with all the pork you dumped around Essex you still couldn't do it.

"You organized an election meeting for four cabinet ministers and only 47 people showed up—27 of them looking for liquor licences. There were more flies than people at that meeting."

"Just you run against me," challenged Mr. Griesinger.

Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) suggested the province's equalized assessment program be made mandatory after he learned 24 assessors work for the municipal affairs department while 36 are employed by the counties.

"You have inspectors inspecting inspectors," he said.

"It isn't our wish—or that of the government—to push these municipalities around," said Mr. Warrender.

WOULDN'T STAND FOR IT

Added Premier Frost: "The demands of municipal autonomy are such that the municipalities or their residents wouldn't stand for it."

Mr. Whicher said uniform assessment will be a reality in Ontario in five to 10 years.

"This simplest way to do that is to have your own assessors."

A. Robert Herbert (PC—Temiskaming praised government agriculture policies for encouraging proper use of land, efficient farm management and good marketing methods.

Mr. Herbert said he is undaunted by a 3.5 per cent decrease in the net income of farmers last year, dropping to $391,404,000 from $405,560,000.

"As the next few years pass agriculture will assume an even greater importance in the economy of the province and the country as a whole," he declared.

Queen Salote, Tonga, Shows That Monarchy Can Survive And Still Maintain Dignity

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — For four months Auckland, New Zealand, has been host to a ruling queen. Yet she lives with so little show that her presence has brought scarcely any publicity.

Now departed for her island kingdom, Queen Salote of Tonga has established a second home in Auckland. On medical advice she spends several months there during the height of the summer, when the heat in tropical Tonga is especially oppressive.

Queen Salote, who stands over six feet tall, was a popular visitor to London during the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. She captured the hearts of the crowds along the route when she refused to have the roof of her carriage raised, but sat smiling in the rain.

Every inch a queen, and of fine regal carriage, Queen Salote nevertheless lives simply and in close contact with her people.

HAPPY REIGN

The Tongans are brown - skinned Polynesians, a happy, carefree, intelligent people. In their South Pacific island group they are managing with a good deal of success the transition from the Stone Age to the 20th century.

For 30 years Queen Salote has guided their destiny with wisdom and discretion, with the advice of a British Resident, but largely on her own responsibility.

Now 57, she has established a small part of Tonga in the Auckland suburb of Epsom. Here at 183 St. Andrews Road, a quiet suburban street, is the Tongan royal summer residence.

Large numbers of Tongans come to Auckland, for higher education, or in search of fame or money. All of them go to the house in St. Andrews Road for encouragement or advice, just as they go to the palace in Nukualofa, Tonga, when in trouble at home.

BOXER SERVANT

At one time it was not unusual to find Kitione Lave, Tongan heavyweight boxer who was the biggest draw in the Pacific, doing odd jobs about the palace. He declared cutting firewood for his queen was good training. The queen in turn kept an eye on his career and gave him much sound advice

The house is decorated with Tongan decorative tapa cloth, handicrafts and shells. Girls in the kitchens prepare typical Tongan delicacies. Island songs hummed or played on guitars at all times of the day and evening bring a breath of home to exiles from the Friendly Islands, which is Tonga's other name. Everyone, including the queen, goes barefoot about the house.

The queen makes visits to friends about the city and usually attends one of the Methodist churches on Sunday, but she moves about with so little fuss that few people in Auckland are aware of her presence among them.

TWO QUEENS VISIT

When Queen Elizabeth the Queen Mother visited Auckland last month she spent one evening dining with Queen Salote by candlelight in the open air. They renewed a warm friendship formed when Queen Salote visited London for the coronation. Reports of the meeting between the two queens were the first mention of the Tongan ruler's movements since her arrival in Auckland several months earlier.

Children in several Auckland schools, however, are becoming used to having princes and princesses as classmates. The queen loves to have young people with her, and usually brings one or more of her grandchildren with her to attend school in Auckland.

One, nine-year-old Prince Taufa'ahau Manumataongo, son of the crown prince and hence in the direct line of succession, is attending King's School, a private school in Auckland.

Two young princesses, however, have been at an ordinary state public school near the queen's summer residence in Epsom.

MIX FREELY

One of them, Princess Salote Pilolevu, six- year -old sister of Prince Taufa'ahau, will shortly follow her grandmother home to Tonga. She has been popular with her classmates and has promised to send them souvenirs from her island home.

Her 10 - year - old cousin, Princess Siulikutapu, will remain at the public school and live at the summer residence, where a Tongan staff is maintained the year round.

This royal family from the Pacific is giving a fine demonstration of how monarchy can be maintained with a minimum of fuss and bother, mix freely with ordinary people, and yet preserve dignity.

Harry Cubitt, as team captain, received the Skitch Trophy from Al Thompson, Deputy District Governor of Region 11.

In the singles competition, Peter Golobic of the Campbellford club took first place with 97 points out of a possible 100. He won the O'Keefe Trophy, presented to him by James Williamson of Trenton.

VALUABLE EXPORT

CAMPBELLFORD

Two Miles Ties Torn Up by Derailed Freight

CAMPBELLFORD — A loose wheel on the front axle of the leading trucks on a freight car jumped the rails on a curve on the C.N.R. line near Hoard's Station about nine miles east of here about 3:30 a.m. Sunday, tearing up almost two miles of ties, before the train was stopped.

Section men from Campbellford and Stirling, working under Roadmaster A. Martin of Peterborough began replacing a few dozen ties, just enough to make the track passable, on Sunday morning. Later in the week, work crews will begin the task of replacing more than 1,500 broken ties and repairing several hundred damaged ones over the two-mile stretch of track.

The eastbound freight, made up of 63 cars, continued on to Belleville after work crews put the derailed car back on the rails. There were no injuries.

Eisenhower Asks UN Observers To See Atomic Tests

U.S. Officials Say Reds May Stop Their Tests

WASHINGTON (AP). — President Eisenhower said today he is asking the United Nations to send foreign observers — probably Russian as well as Western—to U.S. atomic tests scheduled for the Pacific this summer.

Eisenhower made the announcement at a press conference. He read a statement which said:

"In line with what I said to the press on July 3, 1957, the United States will demonstrate the progress our scientists are achieving in reducing radioactive fallout from nuclear explosions.

"To this end, for the first time at any test, we are planning to invite the United Nations to select a group of qualified scientific observers to witness at the Pacific proving ground this summer a large nuclear explosion in which radioactive fallout will be drastically reduced."

H-BOMB INDICATED

This would indicate planned detonation of a hydrogen bomb since it is only with the H-bomb that fallout can be materially reduced.

Asked whether the UN delegation would include representatives from Russia and other Communist countries, Eisenhower replied that he hopes the UN will designate the members of its scientific committee on the effects of radiation to attend the Pacific tests.

He noted that members of that committee include Russia and Czechoslovakia in the Communist bloc, as well as the United States, the United Kingdom and The other 10 are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Egypt, France, India, Japan, Mexico and Sweden.

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials say privately that the Soviet government may make a spectacular move on disarmament soon by announcing—without waiting for U.S. agreement — that it is suspending nuclear tests.

These officials also consider possible a Moscow declaration of intent to stop manufacturing nuclear weapons.

The purpose of either announcement, as Washington sees it, would be pure propaganda — a way of capitalizing on world-wide interest in bringing the nuclear weapons race under control without actually having to accept within Russia an international inspection system.

Without question, the outside world would not know whether or not the Russians were halting nuclear bomb production, but millions of people might believe their claim.

The U.S. has detected and announced numerous Russian nuclear tests, and thus would have some check of any Soviet claim of suspending tests.

The Supreme Soviet, Russia's Parliament, will open a new session in Moscow Thursday. Meetings of this body have often provided the forum for major policy statements.

The issue of East-West disarmament negotiations, like that of a summit conference, is deadlocked at the moment. Whether and when the deadlock may be broken no one here can say.

NO GOVERNMENT CHANGES

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Russia's Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan has told Western correspondents "You are wrong if you expect" any government changes when the Supreme Soviet meets Thursday.

Mikoyan, at an embassy reception Tuesday night, told the reporters "You will be there yourselves and you will see."

Under constitutional procedure President Klementi Voroshilov, Premier Bulganin and other government leaders will submit their formal resignations to the Supreme Soviet.

But the positions of Nikita Khrushchev and other party leaders are not affected during Supreme Soviet sessions. Their posts are decided at party conclaves.
